YOUR HAT
May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.
A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.
Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.
When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.
There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 17.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—What our denomination stands for.—I Tim. iii, 14-16; I Pet. ii, 9.

Christian Endeavor has always been interdenominational in character, yet it has always emphasized loyalty to one's own denomination. At the origin of the movement one of the most frequent criticisms against it was that it would lead the young people from their denominational bearings, but history has proved how baseless these charges were. Denominational loyalty has increased among the young people of our churches in the last twenty-five years. The young people have become more thoroughly informed concerning their denominations and more directly interested in their work, and the fact that the best of interdenominational co-operation along many lines of work has not shaken our faith in our denominations is a splendid proof that denominations are a good thing, and they are. Organic denominational union is an impossible thing, and hence we all need to know what our denominations believe and to be interested in their activities.

The ignorance of many people concerning their denominations is inexcusable. We should be ashamed to belong to an organization and not know what it stands for in belief, in government, in worship and what it has stood for in history. If there was a more thorough investigation upon the part of church members as to what their denominations stand for, there would be more denominational loyalty and a more widespread interest in denominational work. But thousands of people unite with Christian denominations who never think or care about what they stand for and have no interest in their work. They are fairly loyal to the local church to which they belong, but pay no attention to the wider interests of the denomination to which the local church belongs. But this is a mistake. Every great Christian denomination has its work, and every member of that denomination should be interested in it. He is a poor soldier, indeed, who does not know the principles of the government for which he fights. American soldiers owe their supremacy largely to their intelligent understanding of the principles of our government. They fight well because they know what their country stands for and what a calamity it would be if government "of the people, by the people and for the people" were to perish from off the earth. Christian soldiers will do their best under similar circumstances. Ignorance undermines interest and activity, while knowledge promotes them. "Knowledge is power," not only in the world, but also in the church.

While there were no distinctive denominations in Paul's day, such as in ours, yet the apostle emphasized the importance of knowledge of the church of God. To Timothy he says, "These things I write unto thee * * * that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth." If Timothy needed to know these things, so do we. Let us therefore know what our denomination stands for that we may love it more and serve it better and thereby do more for the extension of Christ's kingdom on the earth.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. i, 1; Ps. cxix, 105; John xiv, 1-3; xvii, 17-26; Acts iv, 11, 12; xvi, 25-31; I Cor. xv, 58; Gal. v, 1; vi, 1-10; Rev. xxii, 17.

Baltimore's Last Word.

In the absence by sickness of Dr. Clark the "last word" of the Baltimore convention was spoken by the former and much loved secretary of the movement, John Willis Baer. The Christian Endeavor World gives the thrilling message thus:

"Alongside Dr. Clark's message to you and to me," he began, "will you please put this other sentence from President Roosevelt, 'The one thing supremely worth having is the opportunity coupled with the capacity to do a thing worthily and well, the doing of which in its final import touches all humankind?' While this convention will technically adjourn it will only have begun as you carry its spirit out in your own lives. Let us take with us in our hearts these four purposes of Dr. Clark's. A chain is only as strong as its weakest link, and this chain of purpose belting the globe will be strong as you are strong or will break with your lack of purpose. A million new Endeavorers for our societies! Can you say, 'We will?'"

"We will!" the Endeavorers shouted.

"A million new church members for our home churches!"

"We will!"

"A million new churchgoers for our churches!"

"We will!"

"We will!"

"And now as we leave these doors to go from the best convention that Christian Endeavor has ever had let us remember that the power of it will largely depend upon our work and our spirit. Let us wait before God in silence for His benediction, and let the last word be His."

A German Wish.

The wishes of the German Christian Endeavor union for some of the great conventions of this year:

Baltimore (the same Master) Birmingham (the same Holy Ghost) Berlin (the same principles, the same pledge, the same goals, the same victory) Upward! Inward! Onward!

REV. FRIEDRICH BLECHER.
Secretary of the German Christian Endeavor union.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The new Richard Harding Davis' play which provides Raymond Hitchcock with a straight farce will have its premier at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The comedy is called "The Galloper" and gets its title from an expression used by army officers and newspaper men to describe a dispatch bearer who first gets to the wire. The action takes place during the Graeco-Turkish war and deals with the experience of a number of Americans. In offering "The Galloper" Manager Henry W. Savage is carrying out his policy of producing American plays by American authors and he has engaged a notable cast to present the comedy. Edgar Davenport has been released from the eastern "College Widow" company to create the part of Kirke Warren, a famous war correspondent; Nanette Comstock, an actress of unusual talent, formerly with Otis Skinner, has an important part as has also May Buckley, a comedian of ability whose work with James O'Neill and others is well remembered, Scott Cooper and Helen Lackaye, the latter a sister of Wilton Lackaye. All of the parts are in capable hands and included in the cast are Harry Stone, L. Rogers Lytton, Harold Vizard, Herbert Corthell, T. Daniel Frawley, E. B. Tilton, M. W. Rale, Howard Potter, and May Helmuth.

The problems of today in the popular priced theatres is to furnish strong plays that will excite and interest and at the same time to avoid the over sensational and vulgar features that are far too common in plays of this type. This problem has been solved in the production of "The Burglar's Daughter," a play of intense heart interest and rapid action, and one that tells a strong and true story in a refined and high-class manner. The pitiful story of Meg, the daughter of a New York crook who is cast out on the streets to starve is one that must make a direct appeal to the sympathies of every human being with a heart that can respond to emotion of love and pity. As in all of Owen Davis' plays comedy scenes and humorous characters play an important part and throughout the play laughter and tears follow one another in close succession. It will be at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night.

The coming of Theodore Kremer's greatest effort, "A Desperate Chance," to the New Plainfield theatre Christmas afternoon and night, is indeed a treat for the patrons for that popular theatre and the local management is to be congratulated on the securing of this highly successful attraction, which is in its fourth year and playing to crowded houses everywhere. The company engaged for this season's tour is a capable one in every respect while the staging is conceded by theatregoers to be the most elaborate ever given in melodrama of this kind. The characters are all interesting, while the dialogue is crisp and entertaining, containing as it does plenty of love and comedy of the proper tenor. The scenic investment is complete in every detail, consisting of four acts, for the transportation of which two large baggage cars are required.

"The Lightning Conductor," in which Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre on December 26, is in three acts and a prologue. The prologue takes place on a road between Dieppe and Paris. In this scene an automobile will be shown going at the rate of sixty miles an hour. The second scene shows the court yard of an inn in France; the third takes place in the Tower of Tours and the fourth scene is enacted in a hotel on the Riviere. The scenes are all elaborate and have required a lot of study and research as well as the expenditure of a great deal of money.

Fowler's Good Send-off.

It is to be noticed that the three Congressmen from New Jersey who are threatened with retirement at the end of their present terms—Loudenslager, Gardner and Fowler—are faring well at Washington. Mr. Fowler retains the chairmanship of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, Mr. Gardner remains as head of the Committee on Labor, and Mr. Loudenslager will preside over the Committee on Pensions. If they are to quit their jobs, Speaker Cannon is certainly giving the ma good send-off.—Newark News.

Bar Association to Make Fight.

The Hudson County Bar Association will renew at the coming session of the Legislature its fight of last winter for a jury commission bill. This was decided at a meeting of the association held at the Court House at Jersey City yesterday, when a resolution condemning the present jury system in the county and declaring that under it justice has been improperly administered was adopted.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

WHY JAP GIRLS ARE PRETTY.

It is said of the dainty little Japanese woman that she is past mistress of all the arts of beauty and the culture of prettiness, health, and freshness is quite a rite with her.

One of her secrets of beauty and one which endows her with that attractive air of exquisite neatness is the marvelous care she bestows on her garments. She may wear a silk gown that is ages old, but it is so beautifully kept that it appears ever fresh and uncreased.

One rarely sees stout Japanese girls or matrons; they are very careful of their slender forms, and this is how they keep them slim: They never eat rich foods and many confections. They are up at sunrise and the daily hot bath is a religion, for of all women in the world the Japanese are devotees of the tub. An hour is devoted every day to a very careful toilet by the humblest little woman in Japan, and for the art of an innocently "making up" she has a perfect genius. The care she bestows on her hair is remarkable, and it is brushed and dressed with infinite care, scented and rolled off her white, wide forehead—a typical Japanese beauty—in softest, smoothest rolls, guiltless of curls and kinks. The Japanese girl's hair always grows low on the forehead, and this is one of the reasons why it lends itself so charmingly to the quaintly becoming national coiffure. Her complexion is more of a rich olive than anything else, but her skin is very clear and soft, and the contrast afforded by the dusky hair, kept purposely dark by applications of scented oil, and the flashing teeth, bleached to snowy whiteness, makes the Japanese woman a decided and piquant little beauty.

Conan Doyle, the Famous Creator of "Sherlock Holmes," Receives the Highest Price Ever Paid in America for Any Serial Story.

When the most successful novelist of our time, at the zenith of his fame, writes his undoubted masterpiece, the literary event calls for more than passing comment. The eyes of all the world who write, and of all the world who read, become fixed upon the career of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Knight by grace of King Edward, and by grace of the people the first story-teller in the world today.

No author is better qualified to put forth a volume that will endure as long as English literature is extant than Conan Doyle, and no work will come nearer being the greatest story that the world has ever read than "Sir Nigel" far which the astounding price of $25,000 has been paid, not only for just the American magazine rights, but for the rights for just this publication.

All the critics say that Conan Doyle's fame rests not upon his "Sherlock Holmes" stories, but upon his "White Company," a tale of the middle ages. And another "White Company" this thrilling new romance is to be, in which Conan Doyle takes up "Sir Nigel" at the age of twenty-two, just as he is setting forth in life to mend with his sword the fallen fortunes of his noble house and family.

Critics and editors who have been favored with early readings of it say it is unquestionably the greatest historical romance ever written, and will without doubt be the literary sensation of the year. The first installmnt begins in the Sunday magazine of "The Philadelphia Press," beginning Sunday, December 3. Nowhere else can it be procured in book or other form; therefore it behooves you to leave your order with your newsdealer or carrier to serve you with "The Sunday Press" of that date, December 3.

NATURE PUTS AN END TO LIKELIHOOD OF A LEGAL BATTLE AT COKESBURY

High Bridge, Dec. 14.—What might have been a long and costly legal battle between two neighbors at Cokesbury, three miles east of this place, was practically settled by nature the other day.

Recently James Apgar purchased the Amos A. Apgar property in the village, on which there was a never-failing spring of water. By permission of the former owner and for several years, Frederick H. Apgar, a neighbor, it is said, obtained his supply of water from the spring. When the new owner took possession of the place he rescinded the permission, and further notified Mr. Apgar not to trespass on his property. Accordingly Frederick H. Apgar dug a well on the adjoining property near the spring, and as a consequence the supply of the spring was temporarily cut off. The new owner claimed Mr. Apgar had no legal right to dig a well, and thus rob him of his water, while Mr. Apgar claimed he had a perfect right to dig the well on his property. The question of damages has been discussed by the solons of the village and various opinions have been expressed as to the rights, etc. The principals concerned were, it is said, about to take legal advice in the matter, but before doing so Mr. Apgar went to his pring and found it overflowing with water. As soon as the well became filled with water the spring also filled up, and there is sufficient water to supply the whole village. No action will follow.

WHERE CHRISTMAS TOYS COME FROM

MOSTLY MADE IN GERMANY, FRANCE AND SWITZERLAND.

In parts of Germany, France and Switzerland every humble householder takes more interest in Christmas than the average American boy. This seems like a strong statement, for Christmas is pretty thoroughly appreciated by the young of America. But, great as the festival is to them, it is not essential to their existence. They could get along without Christmas, but the toymakers in Switzerland, the Tyrol and south Germany would starve without this midwinter holiday which makes a market for their goods. There are wood carvers, doll dressers and toymakers in every hamlet and home of the Tyrol. They depend upon the small wages they make from these toys to put bread and butter in their mouths.

All through the winter season every boy and man carves out wood animals and toys for the factories. Everything is handmade. A Noah's ark of twenty or thirty wooden animals that retails for a quarter in this country does not pay the carver more than a few pennies.

The boys are taught to handle the knife early, and they learn to cut out wooden ducks, hens, horses, cows and other toys before they have reached their teens. Working all through the early winter days and nights in their little homes, they make the wooden toys that delight so many children throughout the world.

The value of German toys exported to foreign countries last year was close to $13,700,000, of which the United States, as the principal customer, took about $4,000,000 worth. Sonneberg is the chief center of the industry. The annual report of the Chamber of Commerce of the Sonneberg district gives the following cale of daily wages paid to persons working on dolls and doll heads, the hours of labor being ten to ten and one-half: Male adults, 54 to 60 cents; female adults, 36 to 48 cents; male youths, 36 to 48 cents; girls, 24 to 37 cents. Most of the hands are paid by the piece, the men earning from $3.60 to $6, the women from $1.92 to $3.60, and the youths from $1.10 to $2.40 per week. An piece-work some skilled males earn as high as $7.20 and expert women up to $4.32 per week.

Members of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital were acquainted with the fact this morning that two men were calling at West End homes soliciting subscriptions for the institution. The scheme is purely a "fake" that is resorted to by swindlers every little while as no one is authorized to ask for aid for the hospital in this way. The police were informed of the dodge and are making an effort to locate the solicitors.

NEW STATE BUILDING FINISHED AT SEA GIRT

MODEL OF WASHINGTON'S HEADQUARTERS READY FOR USE.

Work on the new State building at the Sea Girt camp grounds, which is an exact reproduction of Washington's headquarters at Morristown, was completed yesterday and will in future be the headquarters of the Governor during the summer encampments.

The structure was originally erected by the State at the St. Louis Exposition as the New Jersey building. By act of the last Legislature, approved March 30 last, the removal of the building to Sea Girt and its reconstruction there was authorized.

The expense of the removal was to be met out of the balance of the State appropriation made for the St. Louis Exposition, which remained in the hands of the New Jersey Exposition Commissioners. The total expenditure was not to exceed $15,000.

The work of rebuilding the structure and making the necessary additions cost $10,000. The expense of transporting the material from St. Louis to Sea Girt was $600.

The building stands about 100 feet west of the sit of the "Little White House," with its front facing the parade ground. The location is much better than that of the old building, because the front veranda will command a complete view of the camp ground to the rifle butts.

One of the additions is a kitchen, completely equipped. All the furniture that was in the building at St. Louis will be installed at Sea Girt.

In order to give the unobstructed view to the ocean, the old building has been moved about 150 feet south of its former site.

ALUMNI RECEPTION OFF.

Not to Be Held Until Some Time in February.

In response to a communication from the Board of Education, the Plainfield High School alumni, at a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. last night put itself on record as never having presumed to make arrangements for the new High School's dedication. Its sole purpose has been to hold a general reception on January 1, but now that function has been postponed until after the dedicatory exercises in February.

A committee comprising Andrew McClean Parker and Walter McGee was appointed to confer with the Board of Education with a view to arrange a date for the reception. If the dedication is held in the afternoon, it may be arranged to have the alumni reunion the same night. As soon as the date for the dedication is definitely fixed the time for the reunion can be settled upon. Responses have been received from a number of out-of-town graduates, signifying a desire to attend the affair.

ZELAYA STILL FAITHFUL.

Young Nicaraguan on His Way Home Telegraphs Fiancee.

Alfonso Zelaya, son of the president of Nicaragua, and a former student here, who was kidnapped from his fiancee's side by the Washington police, to prevent his marriage, is in New Orleans on his way to Central America. He is unshaken in his devotion to Miss Stella Baker, the Washington girl to whom he was engaged, and is sending her messages and telegrams assuring her of his undying affection and of his intention to return and marry her when he is twenty-one.

Considerable mystery surrounds the affair, particularly as to the objection which President Zelaya might have made to Miss Baker as his daughter-in-law. No explanation of this is made by the friends of the young people or at the Nicafaguan Legation.

"Neglect of duty from the first day of February, 1905, to the first day of May, 1905, in that he failed during all that time to take proceedings against John J. Kiely, had been notified by the chairman of the board of police of said city that numerous complaints of such unlawful sales had been made to such chairman.

Ignored Tyler's Notification.

"Neglect of duty from the first day of May, 1905, to the third day of September, 1905, in that he failed during all that time to take proceedings against John J. "Wilful disobedience of the order of the board of police given to said Patrick S. Kiely at the meeting of said board held at police headquarters on the thirtieth day of June, 1905, that said Patrick S. Goff, an offender against the law of this State within the city of Plainfield, namely, eSction 66 of the Act of the Legislature entitled "An Act for the Punishment of Crimes," of the violation of which law said John J. Goff was guilty in this, that the said John J. Goff, on the first day of January, 1905, and on divers other days and times between that day and the taking of an inquisition by the Union County Grand Jury on the first of day of November of said year, with force and arms, for his own lucre and gain, in and at a certain house of his, the said John J. Goff, unlawfully and habitually, did sell by retail and cause and knowingly permit to be sold, by less measure than one quart, certain vinous, spirituous and malt liquors, to wit, brandy, rum, whiskey, gin, strong beer, larger beer, porter, wine and ale, to Patrick Wallace, William Wenzel, John Flynn, James Burke, Benjamin La Rue, Henry Roman and to divers other persons, to the Grand Jury of said county unknown, without a license for that purpose first had and obtained.

"Conduct subversive of good order and the discipline of the police force of said city, in this, that the said Patrick S. Kiely from the first day of January, 1905, to September 3, 1905, connived at and permitted to take place in the house of said John J. Kiely to detect and stop such violations.

Drank at Windham's.

"Entering heretofore, to wit, on the first day of January, 1904, and habitually on divers other days and times between that day and the first day of November, in 1904 (not in the immediate performance of his duty) the front room on the second floor of the inn and tavern kept by Henry Windham, and known as Hotel Waldorf, on East Front street, in Plainfield, in which room intoxicating drinks were sold and furnished to said Patrick S. Kiely and divers other persons unknown to the subscribers on each of said occasions.

"Neglect in paying just debts for necessaries contracted while in the service, that is to say (a) a series of debts contracted by said Patrick S. Kiely with Frank Linke, beginning April 16, 1898, and ending November 5, 1900, aggregating $68.77 (less $8.50 paid on account), for lager beer and wihskey, which said neglect continued for more than four years and nine months, viz.: down to August 30, 1905; (b) a debt contracted by said Patrick S. Kiely with Matthew J. Cashin heretofore, to wit, December 19, 1901, for balance due for one pair of trousers, which said neglect continued from last mentioned date to date hereof.

Some Sulphurous Language.

"That the said Patrick S. Kiely, on the twenty-fifth day of March, 1904, was guilty of conduct not becoming an officer and a gentleman in a public place in this State, to wit, in the terminal station of the Central Railroad of New Jersey in that, that the said Patrick S. Kiely then and there publicly used profane and indecent language addressed by him to Cornelius H. Vanderveer, the stationmaster of said terminal station, to wit, 'I'll be —— —— (complaint gives exact language) if I'll get out. You don't know who I am. I'll have you broke, you —— —— —— —— ——.' Then and there repeating the last four words.

"That the said Patrick S. Kiely, on his return in the month of June, 194, from attendance at the St. Louis convention of the Chiefs of Police, was intoxicated in a public conveyance, to wit, a trolley passenger car on East Fifth street in said city of Plainfield."

Received in Silence.

There was no comment on the list of accusations when the clerk finished reading them. Chairman Tyler moved, one after another, resolutions fixing the date of the trial; authorizing the corporation counsel to prepare and issue subpoenas; fixing the form of subpoena to be used and the mode of issuance; and authorizing the corporation counsel to secure a stenographer for service at the hearing. The resolutions were passed unanimously, without observation by the members.

The regular order of business was voted back, and a recess immediately followed. Senator Reed went inside the railing and went from Mr. Tyler, Mr. Bullock and President Daniel in hurried consultation over the trial arrangements. He left before the Council reconvened. The gallery followed him out. When the councilmen settled down to regular business only two of the spectators remained.

FOR N. J. ARTILLERY COAST DEFENSE ARM

JERSEY CAPTAIN IN REGULAR ARMY URGES SUCH A DEPARTMENT.

Trenton, Dec. 14.—Captain Harry Cloke, son of Riparian Commissioner William Cloke, who is stationed at Fort Totten, N. Y., with a detachment of the United States Artillery Corps, has written to Governor Stokes recommending that a department for instruction in artillery coast defense be established in the National Guard of New Jersey.

Captain Cloke's suggestion is in line with recent agitation for greater coast defense. In his letter he points out that if New Jersey wants to prepare her men to defend her coast in time of war, an arrangement for the necessary instruction can likely be made with the United States authorities.

He suggests that necessary coast defense instructions can be given at the United States stations on the Jersey coast, at Fort Hancock, at Sandy Hook and at Fort Mott, on Delaware Bay. There are facilities at these places for target practise, with heavy guns and other coast defense maneuvers.

At this time the New Jersey coast is practically open to attack from a hostile fleet. The property along the shore is mostly of great value, because of the many summer resorts. This letter by Captain Cloke is prompted by him because he was a former member of the New Jersey National Guard, a native of the State and continues to claim his residence here.

The letter leaves the impression that co-operation of the Federal Government in the instruction of the State troops in coast defense can undoubtedly be had.

EASY ON CONTRACTOR

Mrs. Carl Pfender asked for a remission of a poll tax against her husband; the latter died on November 3. It was ruled that the Council had no authority to remove the tax. F. W. Hopple, of Westfield, claimed an error in a sewer assessment, but the finance committee reported the error as one that did not affect the amount due.

E. P. Williams and others filed a petition for lights on Darrow avenue between Fourth and Seventh streets. The petition was referred to commit tee without comment.

ORGAN RECITAL A SUCCESS.

F. Faxington Harker Plays to a Large and Appreciative Audience.

The organ recital of F. Flaxington Harker, of Jersey City, at Grace P. E. church last night was a marked success. The audience was large and very appreciative.

Mr. Harker played a long programme with perfect technique. He is an organist of the conservative English school, who abjures the fantastic and indulges in none of the so-called popular adaptations. He merited, without question, the warm reception accorded him. After the programme he played another number by special request.

The vocal solos were noticeably good. Arthur Chamberlain, of this city, a baritone of unusual power, and Miss Mary E. Cook, of Brooklyn, a soprano, were the singers.

DENIES LEHIGH REPORT.

Mr. Burt Says L. V. Is Not to Use Central Tracks.

C. M. Burt, general passenger agent of the Jersey Central, denies the report that the Lehigh Valley will use the former road's tracks through this city from Bound Brook to New York. He says that the only knowledge he has of such a change has been brought to his attention through the newspapers.

"You would know of it, were it proposed for the Lehigh to use the Central's tracks?" asked a reporter last night.

"I certainly would," the general passenger agent replied.

"Such a proposition has never been brought to me officially; there is nothing in it."

NEW DAVIS PLAY A HIT

NOTABLES PRESENT

Before a cultured audience that included a large part of the Green Room Club membership and many of New York's best known theatrical folk, Manager Henry W. Savage presented Raymond Hitchcock in the premier of "The Gallopee" from the pen of Richard Harding Davis at the New Plainfield theatre last night. Both play and star scored an instantaneous success and the enthusiasm of the spectators culminated in an ovation for Mr. Hitchcock and the author at the close of the second act. When the curtain descended after a series of delightful dramatic situations, calls of "Mr. Davis" resounded through the auditorium.

The creator of "VanBibber," "Gallagher", and other lovable fiction characters, was in the wings at the time, but though he has faced "shot and shell" as a war correspondent, he quailed at meeting the gaze of more than a thousand pairs of eyes that wished to look upon him and to pay him a tribute. Mr. Hitchcock was pressed into service and half pulled, half dragged the shrinking author before the footlights but his courage, or what was left of it, departed and left him speechless. Quick to grasp the situation, the comedian on his behalf rattled off a characteristic Francis Wilson salutation that satisfied and pleased. No one was positive at just what point it started or where it left off, but as both men withdrew there was an impression that a speech had been made.

"The Galloper" is a farcical comedy in three acts and deals with the experiences of a number of Americans during the Graeco-Turkish war, the title being an expression used by war correspondents to describe a despatch bearer who first gets his "story" on the "wire." Mr. Hitchcock is cast as Copeland Schuyler, a New York clubman in love with a young woman who has gone to the front as a Red Cross nurse. In order to follow and be near her, he assumes the guise of Kirk Warren, a famous war correspondent, and goes to the scene of the conflict. He is practically ignorant of corresponding methods and the many complications that follow when he tries to report a battle lead to a series of comic situations, especially when Warren appears. To further enhance the fun, there is a music hall performer, known as the "Human Fly," who is the divorced wife of the genuine Kirk Warren and a Newark widow who is also in pursuit of the journalist. A coterie of correspondents on hand to describe the conflict between the Cross and the Crescent and a variety of army types are among the other characters. There is a genuine love and dramatic element in the comedy and the exciting incidents which actually befall newspapermen in the field and on the fighting line are told in an inimitable way, actually sketched from Mr. Davis' own experiences in this campaign.

The role of "Copeland Schuyler" gives Mr. Hitchcock excellent opportunity for the refined droll methods that stamped his work in "The Yankee Consul" and he appears even to better advantage than he did in the musical comedy. In this new effort he is sure to score a tremendous success when he reaches Broadway, from which he was forced to depart because of the flimsiness of "Easy Dawson." He is in perfect accord with the first two acts but there is a noticeable flatness in the third and last due to Mr. Davis' failure to introduce his climax at the proper moment. This will probably be remedied in the pruning process that will follow the next few performances.

Hardly less enthusiastic than the star's reception, was the one accorded Miss May Buckley, as "Blanche Bailey." She is an actress of no mean ability and has a winning way about her that captures everyone. Her part is directly opposite to the one she had as Wright Lorimer's leading woman in "The Shepherd King," and fits her far better. Others in the cast who won deserved applause were Edgar L. Davenport, Herbert Cothell, Nannette Comstock and Helen Lackaye. The play is heavily, almost sumptuously mounted, and was staged by George Marion, general director for Mr. Savage.

Included in the distinguished gathering that witnessed the production were Miss Ethel Barrymore, the actress; Ralph Stuart, the star of

PARK CLUB HOLIDAY EVENTS.

Some Social Features of the Christmastide.

The entertainment committee from the Park Club announces that the Christmas dance will be held at the club on Thursday night, December 28, and on the following Saturday night there will be an informal dance which is not on the list of entertainments for the season.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the New Year's Day reception to be held in the afternoon of January 1. Invitations for this will soon be issued by the Board of Governors. In addition to the regular afternoon reception, there will be a one-act play, entitled "Sunset," by Jerome K. Jerome. This will be presented by members of the club and rehearsals for it are now being held regularly.

On the night of January 1, there will be the junior dance, the patronesses for the affair being the members of the entertainment committee. For the holidays the clubhouse will be appropriately decorated with greens and seasonable colors and the entertainment committee hopes to provide a pleasant entertainment for the members and their friends during the season.

MAJOR ANDERSON DEAD.

Former Comptroller Passes Away at Somerville.

Major Edward J. Anderson, State prison supervisor and former comptroller of the State of New Jersey, died last night at 11 o'clock at his home at Somerville from diabetes, after an illness of three weeks. He had been unconscious for several days.

Major Anderson leaves a widow and two children, Paul and Miss Louise Anderson. John A. Anderson, of Lambertville, who is connected with the Pennsylvania Railroad, and William L. Anderson, of Belvidere, are brothers, and Mrs. Kochsperger, of Philadelphia, a sister of the deceased.

Major Anderson was surrounded by his family when he passed away. No arrangements have been made for the funeral, but the interment will be made at Lambertville.

Whist Club Contest.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Townsend, of Kensington avenue, entertained the whist club, of which they are members, last night. The first and second prizes for the women were won by Mrs. Arthur T. Gallup and Mrs. Charles L. Clarke. Dr. W. Kempton Browning won the first prize for the men, while Mrs. W. C. Startup, who substituted for one of the men, who was ill, won the second prize. After the play refreshments were served during a social time. Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Clarke will entertain the club on Thursday night, January 4, the club adjourning until after the holidays.

Another Pack of Hounds.

Dr. M. O'M. Knott, of the Watchung Hunt Club, who has been negotiating for a valuable pack of hounds in County Sligo, Ireland, received a cablegram last night informing him that the club could have the animals at the offer made. Mr. Knott immediately cabled a return message closing the deal and giving instructions as to shipment. In the pack there are thirty-one hounds, and they are considered exceptionally fine. The pack is expected to reach here about January 1. Some in the present pack of sixteen now will be sold. The useful life of a hound is from one to six years.

Mrs. Tomlinson a Speaker.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, county president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, addressed a parlor meeting held at the home of Mrs. C. W. Scott, in Elizabeth, Wednesday afternoon. She gave an encouraging report of the recent national convention held at Los Angeles and said that New Jersey was prominently mentioned among the States where much interest was manifested in W. C. T. U. affairs. Mrs. Tomlinson's report of the convention was listened to with much interest.

Bar Association Meeting.

The Union County Bar Association will meet in the law library room in the county courthouse at Elizabeth, Tuesday, January 2. The arrangements for the annual dinner will then be made. The association now has about $2,000 cash on hand and it is proposed to expend about $500 of this for new books.

GOLDSTEIN FAILS TO RECOVER DAMAGES

BROUGHT SUIT AGAINST PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATION FOR $300.

Harry Goldstein, of this city, who brought suit for $300 against the Public Service Corporation and Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company, for damages sustained through his horse and wagon being run down by a trolley car in this city, November 13, 1903, failed to get a verdict in the District Court, Elizabeth, yesterday. The jury returned a verdict of no cause for action.

In the accident, which occurred on Richmond street near Fifth street, the plaintiff claimed that his horse was severely injured and his wagon completely wrecked. He was unable to prove his contention in court, for disinterested witnesses called by the defendants proved that Goldstein's wagon was merely shoved off the track, was not damaged, neither was the horse injured.

Sidney W. Eldridge, Esq., represented the plaintiff and J. A. Bernhard, Esq., the defendant companies.

MISS LE MATTY A BRIDE.

Married Quietly to Ernest Peters, of Dunellen, Yesterday Afternoon.

Miss Rose Le Matty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Le Matty, of East Fifth street, and Ernest Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. L. Peters, of Dunellen, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride. The marriage was simple, but pretty.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Elsie Peters, a sister of the bridegroom, and the best man was Charles Le Matty, a brother of the bride. A reception followed the ceremony.

The wedding was a pink and white affair, with subtones of green from palms and ferns. The bride was attractively gowned in a grey travelling suit. She carried pink and white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters will enjoy a short honeymoon trip. They will live for a time in this city but make their permanent home in Dunellen.

The groom is one of the best known young men in Dunellen, and has a large circle of acquaintance in this city. He is an expert electrician on the staff of the P. S. C. He was a member of the old Alis eleven. His father is the assessor of Dunellen and a member of the Middlesex Democratic County Committee.

MISS PETRIE LECTURES.

Missionary Worker Tells of Domestic Fields.

Picturesque peoples to be found in the home mission fields, as well as in Cuba, were portrayed in an allustrated lecture given at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last night by Miss Josephine Petrie, Young People's society secretary for the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions.

The pictures shown depicted the mountain people of the South, the Indians scattered through the Western States, the Mexicans in the Southwest and the Alaskians, and Miss Petrie had something interesting to tell about each. She also showed the various mission stations in these parts of the country and told of the work being done by the Presbyterian missions. The manner of living, the customs followed for years before the missionaries reached these peoples, contrasted with the modern methods introduced a helpful lesson to all.

WHIRLED AROUND SHAFT

Morris Arroe Has a Narrow Escape From Fearful Death.

CAUGHT BY MACHINERY

Revolved About Shaft at the Speed of An Express Train In New Brunswick Factory, Twenty Times.

Morris Arroe, of Metuchen, a former resident here as an employe of the Pond Tool Works and well known to a large number of Plainfielders, had a narrow escape from death Wednesday afternoon while stringing an electric light wire at the Empire Foundry, New Brunswick. He received several ugly wounds, but had no bones broken.

Arroe was adjusting an electric light wire to a strip of planking, and was standing near a piece of shafting, which was suspended about two feet from the ceiling, and about five feet from a wooden partition.

As he leaned over, part of his jumper was caught in the shafting and one of his arms was pulled across the shafting, but his weight pulled down his body until he was hanging to the shafting by his arm pit and part of the jumper, which had become fastened to the shafting.

In this position he was whirled around twenty times with the speed of an express train. At the first revolution his feet hit against the partition with such terrific force that it knocked out two planks of the partition and tore the soles off of his shoes, cutting his toes very badly.

The machinery was stopped by some one who had presence of mind enough to throw off the belting which was connected with the driving wheel of the shafting.

A doctor was summoned at once and dressed his wounds, among which was a gash about two inches in diameter under his armpit. He had several bad cuts about his head and had it not been that his weight pulled his body down even with the shafting he would no doubt have met instant death.

Arroe remained at the foundry all Wednesday night upon a cot. He spent a comparatively comfortable night and yesterday he was removed to his home.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION FOR MISS CRUIKSHANK

AFFAIR IS BEING HELD AT THE CASINO THIS AFTERNOON.

Following the recent announcement of the engagement of Miss Leila Cruikshank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon A. Cruikshank, of Netherwood, and H. Reeves Stockton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Stockton, of Central avenue, a brilliant reception and luncheon was given at the Casino this afternoon by Mrs. Stockton for the bride-elect.

Mrs. Stockton, Mrs. Cruikshank and Miss Cruikshank received, assisted by a number of well known society women. The reception room at the Casino was lavishly decorated, as was also the table in the dining room.

Both Miss Cruikshank and Mr. Stockton are favorites in the younger society set. They are members of the Watchung Hunt Club and the Plainfield Country Club, being very fond of golf and horseback riding, as well as other out-of-door sports.

A large number of invitations were issued for this afternoon's affair and among those present are those socially prominent here, while many guests attended from New York.

Silver Suit Nearly Ended.

The International Silver Company suit against William H. Rogers, of this city, which was begun in the Court of Chancery, Newark, on Wednesday, is still on today, but it is believed that it will be concluded this afternoon. This is the second suit brought by the plaintiffs and is against Mr. Rogers personally.

FREIGHT CONDUCTOR STRUCK BY EXPRESS

DIES FROM BROKEN NECK AFTER REACHING MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL.

William A. Thomas, for many years a freight conductor on the P. & R. Railroad was struck by a train west of Bound Brook early this morning and received fatal injuries. He was hurled a great distance and when picked up was found to have sustained a broken neck. He was placed aboard a passenger train and brought to this city, but died soon after reaching Muhlenberg Hospital.

Thomas was forty-six years old and was one of the best known conductors in the company's employ. His home was at 247 East Oak street, Norristown, Pa., where he leaves a wife and nine children, the eldest but twenty-four years old. He was standing near his train, which had entered a siding, and stepping around from the caboose, was struck by a fast express which he had not noticed.

The body was taken to Cole's undertaking rooms and will be removed to Norristown this afternoon.

DOG CAME BACK.

A clean looking pointer dog, with good points and a thoroughbred air, was picked up by Patrolman Overbaugh on West Front street Wednesday afternoon. The dog was hunting around with the anxious air peculiar to lost canines and Overbaugh, who is a veteran sportsman, and knows a good dog when he sees one, promptly corraled the stray and took it to headquarters.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Sidney Williams, of 240 East Ninth street, claimed the dog. She said Overbaugh's judgment of dogs was good. The pointer is a thoroughbred with a long pedigree, and very valuable.

Yesterday afternoon an insistent bark sounded outside police headquarters' door. When Doorman McCue looked out to see what it meant the Williams pointer walked in wagegd its tail, licked McCue's hand and lay down in front of the city judge's desk with a contented sigh. Mrs. Williams was notified and sent for the dog again. It didn't want to go, and the cops expect that Mrs. Williams will have trouble in keeping it from returning to headquarters. It appears to be a case of love at first sight between the dog and Overbaugh.

AUDITING CITY'S BOOKS.

Westfield Accountant Busy As Local Auditor.

Expert Accountant Collins, of Westfield, is now engaged in the preliminary work prior to auditing the books of this city. He does not expect to have his complete report ready for the Common Council much before the February meeting. His greatest task is on the books of the tax collector. All taxes not paid on or before December 20 will be delinquent, and consequently Mr. Collins will not be able to do much with Mr. Lee's books until after that date.

The auditing includes the books of the tax collector, city judge, city treasurer and all other accounts where there is an expenditure or receipt of money.

The Moral Value of the Telephone.

A recent article in a New York paper described the use of telephones in a church in Orange. The transmitter was placed in the pulpit directly in line with the clergyman's voice, lines from this were carried to the back of the church so that occupants of the pews in the farthermost distance by holding a receiver to their ear can hear distinctly every word of the service. This is only a germ of an idea that will probably be extensively elaborated. Already in numerous cases has telephone connection been established between the church and the bedside of invalids living at a distance of several miles. In Paterson a woman too ill to leave her bed listens every Sunday to the service at her church, which comes to her by telephone.

Heavenly Rest Nets $100.

The second and last night of the fair at the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Wednesday night, was even more successful than the first night. There was a good attendance and nearly everything was disposed of at satisfactory prices. The same members of the Women's Guild were in charge of the booths. The profits, about $100, will go into the guild treasury to be used for church purposes.

Boys' Gymnastic Exhibition.

The boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a gymnastic exhibition on New Year's Day at 10 o'clock in the morning. Physical Director Boardman is training the class for the event.

TRINITY CONSISTORY'S WORK.

H. W. Van Arsdale Takes H. P. Seader's Place as Janitor.

Considerable business of importance was transacted at the regular monthly meeting of the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church, last night. Henry P. Seader, sextion of the church for the past eight years, tendered his resignation on account of ill health. In accepting it the clerk was authorized to convey to Mr. Seader the regrets of the consistory at parting with so faithful an employe. H. W. Van Arsdale, of West Fifth street, was elected to take Mr. Seader's position.

The resignation of Mrs. J. W. Schenck, assistant superintendent of Marcounier chapel, was not acted upon, but was laid on the table, with the view of ascertaining whether the best interests of the chapel would not be best served by asking Mrs. Schenck to withdraw her resignation.

Another matter of importance receiving the attention of the consistory was the ordering of double storm sash on the dormer windows on the north side of the building, thus making the edifice warmer in windy weather.

ST. STEPHEN'S SERVICE.

Christmastide Celebrations Announced by Rector.

The rector, Rev. A. S. Peck, announces the programme for the Christmas service at St. Stephen's church. On December 24, Christmas eve, there will be public preparation for the Holy Communion. On December 25, Christmas day, there will be low celebration at 7:30, matins at 10:30 and high celebration at 11 o'clock in the morning.

The administration of confirmation will be held in the evening of St. Stephen's Day, Tuesday, December 26, and on Wednesday, December 27, St. John's Day, there will be low celebration at 7:30 o'clock in the morning. A children's festival has been arranged for Holy Innocents' Day, December 28, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Reiter for Football Reform.

Howard R. Reiter, well-known here, who has charge of the athletics at Wesleyan University, expresses himself in favor of the proposed change in the football rules of ten yards in four downs. He says that it would call for more punting and less rushing, and that it would also result in less scoring, and would give an advantage to the lighter teams. He does not think, however, that it would lessen the number of injuries in a game. "Bosey" also advocate the compulsory use of the pneumatic headpiece to prevent injury to the head in rush or close formations.

Setter Killed in Fight.

The half-bred setter that has made itself familiar about town by following the telephone repair wagon was killed in a fight with a powerful airedale terrier in the alley back of the Cab Company stable Tuesday night. The dogs had a tremendous battle and the airedale suffered as much as the setter. The terrier has not been seen at the stable, where he usually stayed, since the night of the fight. It is supposed that he went off somewhere to die.

Another One-story Shop.

Charles P. Sebring is preparing plans for the erection of a one-story building on West Front street, adjoining the Babcock building. It is his intention to add one or two stories to the building later on. The property is owned by the Sebring estate and the old building standing thereon was destroyed at the time of the fire in the Babcock structure.

Watchung Hunt Club Chase.

The Watchung Hunt Club will meet at Mt. Pleasant Saturday afternoon for a short run. The members will chase the hounds to the Colonia Country Club, near Rahway, returning to Oak Tree for the finish. No entertainment will be provided after this week's run. The club has in preparation several social events for the winter season.

Chinese Guinea Fowl.

Frank Hedden, of East Fourth street, who is one of the best known amateur chicken fanciers in this section of the county, has added three white Chinese guinea fowl to his hennery. Chinese guineas of pure white are rare. Hedden's new acquisition are two hens and a cock. He intends to breed them.

The children's Christmas services will be held at the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Thursday night, December 28. In addition interesting exercises will be held after the service with the usual distribution of gifts.

SERVING THE SUBPOENAS

DEFENSE IS HUSTLING

Chief and His Friends Think Time Is Short But Are Not Less Sanguine Because of That.

The serving of subpoenas in the Kiely case was begun yesterday by the corporation counsel. Officer Vanderweg took out a big batch and distributed them among the men who are supposed to know something of the circumstances surrounding the acts with which the police chief is accused.

Most of the witnesses served are not happy over the chance to go on the stand. Some people who haven't got subpoenas yet are worried over the possibility that they are coming their way. A big percentage of the worried ones are the victims of huworried ones are the victims of hutical joke with the man on the street nowadays is to assure everybody he meets that a subpoena is headed his way.

The defense is working night and day to get its case in shape for the hearing. The chief and his friends think the time in which they have to prepare is very short, but they are confident for all that that his case will rebut that of the prosecution.

One of the important witnesses for the prosecution, Station Agent Vanderveer, whom Kiely is charged with profanely abusing and threatening at the Jersey City terminal of the Central Railroad, was in the city yesterday afternoon, presumably in reference to the trial. He was accompanied by Trainmaster Charles English. It was not known that Mr. English has any connection with the case, but it is possible he has testimony corroborative of the station agent's story to offer.

Arrangements for the hearing, so far as the Council is concerned, are practically completed. The case will be opened Tuesday night, promptly at 8 o'clock. There is good authority for the statement that Councilmen Bullock and Tyler, who made the charges on which the chief will be tried, will not sit at the trial. The charges, as formulated, makes them the accusers, and not the police board, and through that the municipality.

The hearing will be public. As many spectators as can find room in the "gallery" will be admitted, and special facilities will be afforded newspaper men. It is hoped to finish up the hearing in one night, but it is not likely that the hope will be realized. Those who are in a position to figure on the matter are of the opinion that the hearing will not terminate within three nights.

Rev. Mr. Walker's Farewell Sermon.

Rev. Robert Walker, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, who recently accepted a call as curate of Christ church, New Brunswick, will hold his last service at the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, when there will be the celebration of holy communion. Mr. Walker will enter upon his new duties a week from Sunday. Mr. Walker will be succeeded by Mr. Dupee from the Mission House, of the diocese at Trenton. He will conduct his first service at the church on Sunday morning, December 24.

Xmas Exercises in Public Schools.

The public schools of the city will close on Friday, December 22, for the holidays, and in most of them special Christmas exercises will be held on that day. At the Irving School elaborate programmes are in preparation. One will be given in the morning by the smaller children and in the afternoon the older pupils will take part. The affair is in charge of Miss Petrie, principal of the school, assisted by the teachers.

A Musical Programme.

Elmer D. Cutting, Sidney R. Titsworth, E. Maxwell Honeyman and Howard Lewis, formerly comprising the quartette at the First Presbyterian church, will render a special musical programme at the service Sunday morning. Clifford A. Braider, organist, will have charge of the programme.

Returns from Scotland.

The Watson-made Paddocks is a model of manly style with its gracefully fitting back and flowing skirt. It's just about the most distinguished looking coat you've ever seen. Along other lines,—for different figures and differing tastes—Watson-made 52 inch and medium length overcoats are just as well cut and made.

The Watson-made suits show the same exclusive styles and tailoring. The style you find in them at the first try-on will be retained till the final days of wear.

Suits $10 to $25.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

University of Chicago man's strength prevented his death. Isn't this a strong argument in favor of the game?

Iowa man's wedding rehearsal is stopped by his first wife. Wife-to-have-been probably knows to whom she owes a Christmas present.

Man out in Grand Forks claims to have brought down thirty-five ducks in one shot. Wonderful what a spectacular effect a little Jersey lightning will produce sometimes.

Exchange says that miners will insist on a full share in the rise when coal prices go up. The coal barons only know of one kind of "rise" so far as their employes are concerned.

Roosevelt is accused of being the greatest suppressor of news of any President in a quarter of a century. Of course this doesn't apply when he is on a hunting trip, speech-making tour or other continuous performance.

Will Reformer Bullock please be so kind as to tell us what has become of that proposed anti-spite house ordinance? Many, many moons ago it was related that "there is hope," but the promise like the moon appears to be made of cheese.

Just now it looks as if the Jersey City Journal and the Elizabeth Times are making a dire attempt to occupy the same relations towards each other that have characterized the Trenton papers. Cut it out, brothers. The public doesn't care a picayune for newspaper scraps; they're out of fashion.

And now the afflicted public will have to read all about the "Princess Alice's" presents, gowns, habits, hobbies, accomplishments and what not until she becomes Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. About the only things she has escaped is having her testimonial of a cleansing establishment exhibited in the "L" cars and her name on a favorite face powder.

THE FORUM.

Mr. Moffett Not a Delinquent.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In the notice of sale by the Collector of Taxes of lands on which taxes for 1904 remain unpaid, my name appears as the owner of 22 lots. This notice places me in a false and unpleasant position, as while I owned said lots when the assessment of taxes for 1904 was made, I sold and conveyed all of said lots before said taxes became a lien thereon, and the purchaser assumed payment of said taxes when he took deed for said lots; and I have not now, and I have not had any interest whatever in said lots since September 1, 1904. I make this public announcement because I have been asked a number of times why I have allowed my lots to be advertised for sale for taxes.

Yours respectfully,
CHARLES L. MOFFETT.

The White Star line steamship Majestic arrived Wednesday night in New York from Liverpool and Queenstown, after a rough passage. She made the trip, however, in good time, 6 days, 12 hours and 35 minutes. The Majestic brought 3,397 sacks of Christmas mail, said to be the record transatlantic mail. Among the passengers were Prince and Princess Cantacuzene, two of Gen. Grant's great-grandchildren; William Gillette, the actor; Gerald Lawrence, formerly with Sir Henry Irving; Mrs. Potter Palmer, Miss Marie Doro and Miss Adelaide Prince.

CUPID CAN'T USE HOSPITAL 'PHONE

FLIRTING OVER WIRE BARRED BY EDICT OF HEAD NURSE IN HARLEM.

"No more flirting over the 'phone," is the latest edict in Harlem Hospital. It was conveyed to the thirty fair nurses on the staff by Miss Sara Gainsforth in the following simple but heart rending order:

"Hereafter nurses will not be permitted the use of the telephone except for official business.

"S. GAINSFORTH,
"Supervising Nurse."

Simple, but sufficient, for it has gone to the very hearts of the nurses, and Cupid, caught at the wires, is fluttering his helpless wings.

There are two telephones in the hospital. One is used only by department officials and the police, the other for ordinary service. Citizens of late have complained, it is said, of an inability to call up the hospital. Miss Gainsforth made an investigation, and found that while one wire was comparatively idle, the other was extremely "busy." George Huyler, night clerk of the hospital, admitted that he had taken numerous calls from outside wires, oftener for "Miss So-andSo" than on hospital business. He thought Cupid was playing pranks.

Hence the order, and hence a merry war. What the nurses are going to do about it is not yet determined. If Huyler's guess is right, it is probable that "love will find a way."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

(By Merry Tom)

The attraction at the New Plainfield tomorrow afternoon and night will be Vance & Sullivan's big scenic production of "The Burglar's Daughter." It is one of the most elaborately mounted dramas under the direction of this well known firm and is sure to please. The house will be dark the early part of next week, as is customary just previous to Christmas, but will open in a "blaze of glory" Friday night to welcome John Drew.

"Little dabs of Powder
A touch or two of paint
Make the chorus lady
Look like what she aint."
—Channing Pollock.

We have had Grace George and Raymond Hitchcock, John Drew is coming and now Manager Counihan proposes to introduce Maude Adams. He has been in correspondence with Charles Frohman for the past week and there is every prospect of the clever creator of "Lady Babbie" in "The Little Minister," coming to Plainfield with "Peter Pan" at the close of her present successful run at the New Empire, New York.

Paul Barnett, of "The Life That Kills" company, who broke his leg during a performance at the local theatre, will leave Muhlenberg Hospital next week. He will start at once for his home in Cincinnati to spend Christmas but will return to Plainfield later to personally thank all who have aided him during his trouble. "Honestly," said he to a Daily Press man a few days ago, "I have travelled from one end of the country to the other but never in my life have I experienced such kindness as that accorded me here."

Hi Henry's minstrel troupe, which was seen in Plainfield at Music Hall in days agone, is booked for the New Plainfield, one week from tomorrow night. It will be the first show of its kind at the new theatre and it is needless to say will have a big matinee and night.

Manager Henry W. Savage, who produced "The Galloper" at the New Plainfield last night, came to town early yesterday. Half an hour afterward when talking to a Daily Press representative he said, "My, what a pretty place Plainfield is; I shall have to see it in the summer time." When you consider that half an hour and in the winter, too, can you imagine how he will express himself when he looks us over; say in the spring or the month of roses?

If the tournament is decided upon teams will enter from New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Long Island.

DENTAL WORK TO BE DONE AT STATE HOUSE

AFTER TEN YEARS' EFFORTS STATE BOARD GETS QUARTERS.

After ten years' persistent effort the State Board of Dentistry has secured from the State House Commission an appropriation for the maintenance of permanent quarters in Trenton wherein, at the semi-annual examinations, the applicants for State licenses may be tested in practical dental work as well as quizzed on theory.

Dr. Meeker, secretary and treasurer of the board, stated yesterday that the new quarters would be thoroughly equipped for prosthetic and operative dental work. Light power will be put in for the operation of the necessary machinery. With the State House already over crowded, Mr. Weseman, the custodian, has not yet decided where to place the board. It is likely that rooms will be found outside the capitol. The next examination will be July 9 and 10, when about sixty applicants are expected. The new quarters will then be ready and all will be given a thorough tryout on the practical work.

Governor Stokes has appointed H. S. Sutphin, of Newark, a member of the board, vice Charles S. Stockton, Newark, term expired. The board elected officers for 1906 at the State House yesterday. Dr. B. F. Luckey, Paterson, was chosen president, and Dr. Charles A. Meeker, Newark, was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

The December examination for licenses was completed yesterday. There were only nine applicants.

I'M STUNG, B'GOSH!

Tried a New Trick on New Jersey Easy Marks.

A clever swindling trick was worked last Thursday at Bordentown by a man giving his name as William Johnson, and alleging that he lived on a farm a few miles from that place. The dupes selected were men occupying prominent positions.

The swindler said he just had been left $6,000 by an aunt in Danbury, Conn. He produced a letter signed by one "Lawrence," in which he was told that one legacy was ready for him, and that he was to go to Danbury to get it and sign a release. "Lawrence" signed the letter as one of the executors of the will.

Johnson asked the person he approached what he best had do with the $6,000, saying that he knew very little about business, as he had worked on a farm all his life and could hardly write his name.

Johnson added that he had been advised to come to the proposed victim by farmers, and then asked the person addressed if he would be willing to take charge of the money for him, helping to invest it where it would bring interest.

When told by the person he would be glad to invest for him, Johnson continued to ask questions as to signing releases, etc., and ended his story by asking for enough money to get to Danbury to get the $6,000. In two or more cases he got from $8 to $10.

Johnson is described as a man of medium height and dark complexion. When he obtained money from his dupes he left, saying he would be back in town Saturday or Monday with the $6,000. As yet Mr. Johnson has not come back, and his dupes now are satisfied they will not see him or their money again.

CLEARS WOMAN'S NAME.

Vice Chancellor Stevens has filed an opinion advising against a decree of divorce to John Benjamin Beatty, an architect, of Elizabeth, from his wife, Mrs. Clara May Beatty. The opinion holds Mrs. Beatty to have been innocent of misconduct with Samuel Carne, who was named as corespondent. The opinion also exonerates Carne.

The Vice Chancellor holds that Beatty's neglect to his wife for two months preceding the date of the incident in the house of George Turk, on which Beatty's suit was based, was not satisfactorily explained. The denial by Beatty that he ever saw the letters his wife claimed to have found in his office desk, although addressed and mailed to him, and whose genuineness, the Court said, was hard to doubt, weakened to some extent the value of the petitioner's testimony.

The opinion holds that Carne's conduct in bringing his own wife to Mrs. Beatty's apartments immediately after his alleged discovery with Mrs. Beatty was an evidence of innocence on his part.

"Mrs. Beatty's letter," the Court said, "written to her husband within a few days after the occurrence, contains no statement that is necessarily an admission of guilt. Her expression, 'If you want a divorce, why don't you get it?' may, under the circumstances, of destitution in which she was placed, have been merely an outburst of impatience. On the whole, I cannot bring myself to the conclusion that the weight of evidence was against her."

Former Gov. Foster M. Voorhees, of New Jersey, was Mrs. Beatty's counsel. Carne was represented by former Prosecutor William R. Wilson.

VAIL SILVERWARE FOR CHRISTMAS

CHAMPAGNE FOR N. J. STATE SCHOOL BOARD

AGREEMENT MADE THAT ONLY MOST EXPENSIVE WINE WAS SERVED.

The State Board of Education will conduct its adjourned December meeting at Lakewood next Monday. It is likely that the appointment of county superintendents for Cape May, Ocean and Passaic counties, which was laid over some months ago, will be acted upon.

The annual reports for 1905 will also be passed upon. These will include the reports of the State Superintendent, the State schools, the school for the deaf and dumb and the Bordentown manual training and industrial school. After the reports are acted upon they will be presented to Governor Stokes and through him to the Legislature.

Following the criticism of the board for the flying automobile trip made last summer by its examining committee for the examination of candidates for the office of county superintendent, comes the finding of fault because at a recent banquet the most expensive champagne was served. It is alleged that the banquet was paid for by the State and that one member insisted that nothing but champagne be served. Other members objected at the extravagance, but the champagne idea carried the day, and the expensive wine was provided liberally. Considerable criticism is being heard in several quarters at the action.

—Around the holidays Neuman Brothers make a feature of fancy fruits. They now have their new consignments of oranges, grape fruit, figs, grapes and apples.

A DOLL THREE FOOT TALL

This doll is as large as many children at two years of age and wears clothes made for the average child of that age. Her hair is "real hair" and can be combed and brushed. Her big brown eyes are amazingly expressive and close in sleep in the most life-like manner.

But the most interesting fact about this doll is the manner in which she will enter and gladden some home this Christmas time.

We offer to give this doll absolutely free to the customer who makes the greatest number of purchases at this store between now and December 21.

To determine this, the customer who presents the greatest number of "duplicate checks" (regardless of the amount of the purchase) at this store on Thursday, December 21, will be entitled to the doll and will receive same by calling at the store Saturday evening, December 23, at 10 o'clock.

THE DOLL FAMILY

have again made their headquarters with us for another Holiday season. This year there is an unusual number of them and all seem brighter and happier than ever.

If you wish to see most of them you had better come soon, for they are fast separating to their new homes.

WIFE STOPS HIS WEDDING REHEARSAL

MOCK CEREMONY INTERRUPTED BY TELEGRAM FROM DESERTED WOMAN.

Mount Ayr, Dec. 15.—The rehearsal of the marriage ceremony which yesterday was to unite Bertha Schrimplin, the beautiful eighteen-year-old daughter of A. R. Schrimplin, one of the wealthiest men in Iowa, to Don Amando De Cespedes, of San Jose, Costa Rica, was abruptly ended here by the Don's wife entering objections.

The musicians, the minister, the principals, bridesmaids and groomsmen, with flower girls and all, were going through the mock ceremony, which was to insure the event being the social success of the season, when the father rushed into the room with a telegram and stopped the rehearsal, saying he had decided the marriage would not take place. No further announcement was made to the friends and relatives who were planing the event and the entire town was soon in commotion.

The message was from Chicago, and was signed "Mrs. Amando De Cespedes." She stated that the Don was her husband and had deserted her a year ago, taking her little son and leaving a daughter with her. Through a newspaper she had learned of the coming nuptials, she said, and would have appeared here personally, but that her salary as a telephone operator would not permit it.

When shown the message the Don admitted it was true, but did not see why it cut any figure. He said that the laws of Costa Rica did not require any divorce, and that his marriage to Miss Edna Gilliland, whose home is at Effingham, Ill., did not count, as he was a Catholic and the ceremony was performed by a Protestant minister. He said he intended to make his marriage to Miss Shrimplin legal by having it blessed by a priest when he returned to Costa Rica.

Miss Gilliland was an orphan, but wealthy, the Don having met her while a student in a school near her home.

Don Cespedes is about thirty years old and claims to be very wealthy. He first met Miss Shrimplin at St. Louis, where he had charge of his country's exhibit at the exposition. He deserted his other wife soon afterward. He came here about a week ago to arrange for the wedding.

TO IMPORT SERVANTS.

Special Ships Will Take 10,000 Volunteer Domestics.

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 15.—Commissioner Coombs, commander of the Salvation Army in Canada, announces that the Salvation Army intends to bring 10,000 servant girls from England, to enter families at Vancouver, Victoria and elsewhere through Western Canada.

Part of them would be brought to Pacific Coast States if the Contract Labor law did not prevent. In Western Canada Chinese and Japanese are largely employed as servants.

Three ships have been chartered, the first of which will sail from London in March. They will bring ten thousand immigrants to settle in Western Canada. The servant girls will come in the second cabin.

The Salvation Army in England has listed seventy thousand applications of girls and families wishing to come west.

Throughout the present dramatic season, replete with offerings never before so varied and attractive, nothing brought forward by a New York manager has proved such a great success as "Man and Superman," staged and acted at the pretty Hudson theatre by Robert Loraine. For months crowded houses have been the rule and still the star and play are as popular as ever and there are indications that they will remain until spring. "Man and Superman" in manuscript appealed to Mr. Loraine, but try as he would, he could get no manager to put it on the boards. He was so confident of its strength that he decided to do it himself and the wisdom of his plan is known, not only along Broadway, but to the entire managerial world. It has now passed beyond the patronage of the Bernard Shaw cult and to miss seeing it means to forego a distinctive treat. Mr. Loraine has the part of his life and night after night is accorded an enthusiastic reception. His supporting company is one of the strongest to be seen in the metropolis.

Over in New Brunswick there is a natural born critic wasting his talents. Here's a sample from the Home News: "New York is mad over Bernhardt. The marvellous young old lady merits the acclaim she is wallowing in. You need not even understand French to be impressed with the fact that this woman is the greatest actress that ever breathed vitality into a playwright's words."

Trained Raccoons.

Hugo Maul, keeper of the hotel in the Notch, Watchung, has received two trained raccoons from an acquaintance who lives in Warren county. The coons are highly accomplished, doing a score of tricks at command. They are on exhibition at the hotel.

Mrs. John Grierson, of Crescent avenue, entertained friends from South Orange yesterday.

Mrs. T. O. Bullock, of the New Madison flats, is spending the holidays at Succasunna Plains.

NO INTENTIONAL WRONG.

Alleged Solicitors for Local Hospital Explain in Court.

A. E. Schmitt, E. L. McKean and others who have been soliciting funds to procure literature under false pretenses for hospitals and other institutions, were dismissed in the police court yesterday, the complainants refusing to press any charge. These men have been soliciting aid for hospitals and a number of subscribers, it is alleged, contributed with the idea that they were helping Muhlenberg Hospital.

When members of the Board of Governors of the hospital received word of what was going on, a complaint was made to the police and the men were taken to headquarters. There they explained that they are engaged in general missionary work and their undertaking was confined to no particular institution. The idea of intentionally wrong doing was scouted and the men pleaded that a misunderstanding caused the whole trouble.

Cardinals Received.

Rome, Dec. 15.—A public consistory was held yesterday. The multitude greeted the Pope enthusiastically. The four new Cardinals, after the Pontiff's prayer, knelt at the throne, where the Pope accepted their homage and embraced them. Subsequently he received all the Cardinals. After this ceremony a secret conclave was held.

First—The lease of the Kwantung Peninsula will expire in 1923.

Second—The railway south of Changchung will be handed over to Japan. China, however, will have the right to repurchase it in 1906 or earlier, should the Russians relinquish the northern section of the road. Japan will not construct any branch lines.

Third—Japan will be allowed to maintain railway garrisons.

Fourth—Japan will evacuate Manchuria within eighteen months.

Fifth—The military telegraphs will be treated in the same manner as the railway.

The sixth, seventh and eighth clauses provide for garrisoned consulates at Newchwang, Mukden, Antung, Kirin, Changchung and other places. The residences of Japanese and banking shall be restricted to those places.

Ninth—The Custom House will be maintained at Newchwang. The customs hitherto collected by the Japanese shall be restored to China.

Tenth—Coal mining shall be restricted to Mujun and Yentai.

LONGEST BOARD WALK FOR ATLANTIC CITY

Atlantic City, Dec. 15.—By the time the people from all parts of the country come to this resort next summer a boardwalk, extending from the inlet to the Elephant hotel, in South Atlantic City, will be ready for them to promenade.

At the meeting of the South Atlantic City Council, early this week, that body decided to float bonds and build a boardwalk that would join the Ventnor City walk and extend thence to the Elephant hotel in South Atlantic City. This will give this resort a boardwalk about ten miles in length, and those who desire a long walk in the mornings immediately following their breakfast will have the best opportunity in the world.

COULDN'T STOP HOUSE LEADER.

Perkins, of Union, Was Not to Be Kept Away from Assembly Caucus.

Randolph Perkins, the Union county man who landed the majority leadership of the House of Assembly last Tuesday, stopped the Washington express that morning in order to be at Trenton in time to attend the caucus.

He was speeding from Westfield to Metuchen for a train that was scheduled in stop both in Metuchen and Trenton, when his automobile broke down three miles from the station. Perkins was not to be kept from the caucus, and while his chafeur worked, he tramped ahead. The machine did not put in an appearance and Perrkins reached the station in time to see his train moving out.

A few minutes afterwards he was flagging the Washington express, which does not stop either in Metuchen or in Trenton.

The conductor declared that he would not stop in Trenton, but Perkins would not stand for "any of that kind of nonsense." He said that his pass read in New Jersey, and he wanted an opportunity to get off in the State.

The conductor said that he would have to ride through to Philadelphia, but Perkins said that he would do nothing of the kind, that the Republican House caucus demanded his attendance and the conductor would have to stop for him.

It ended as Perkins, not the conductor, wished, and Perkins was in time for the caucus and to be agreed upon as majority leader of the House of Assembly.

The story just leaked out yesterday.

OPTION ON 200 ENGINES.

Following a custom that has become very popular of late with the railroads, President Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania, anticipating any possible further needs for motive power in 1906 has secured an option with the Baldwin Company for two hundred engines, in addition to the space already reserved with that firm for two hundred and fifty locomotives, for fifty of which the specifications have been furnished.

The conditions are such on the Pennsy that an unusually large amount of motive power is necessary to move the rush of freight that comes over that road, and it was having this knowledge in hand that prompted President Cassatt to ask for the option, although it is the opinion that it will not be needed. Should it be necessary to exercise it the Baldwins will turn out four hundred and fifty for the Pennsylvania Railroad alone during 1906. They turned out five hundred and twenty-five so far this year.

The Norfolk and Western, which is controlled by the Pennsy, has placed an order with the Baldwins for fifty locomotives. Engines such as the Pennsy orders are worth not less than $15,000 each, so that four hundred and fifty would cost $6,750,000.

WISHES TO STOP USELESS WRITS

JUDGE LANNING DECIDES TO PREVENT NEEDLESS HABEAS CORPUS ACTIONS.

In the United States Circuit Court at Trenton Wednesday Judge Lanning refused the application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Guiseppe Marmo, the Newark wife murderer, under sentence of death in Essex county yesterday. The refusal of the writ gave counsel ground for an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, which appeal was taken. The result is that Marmo was not hanged yesterday.

Before counsel made argument for the writ of habeas corpus on constitutional grounds that Marmo had not been allowed to go on the stand and tell his own story, and for the reason that his writ of error was dismissed by the Court of Errors and Appeals for lack of prosecution, Judge Lanning had entered on the minutes of the court the following statement in an effort to stop the se of the United States courts for the mere purposes of delaying the execution of sentences of the State courts:

"In an effort," said the judge, "to keep the United States court from being resorted to in this district for the mere purpose of delaying the execution of sentences of the State courts, I put on record now that hereafter I will carefully examine every application for a writ of habeas corpus in a homicide case, and if I find that there is no merit in the application, that it was brought for the purposes of delaying the execution of a State court sentence, I will immediately consult with my associate (United States Judge Cross) for the purpose of determining whether or not the name of the counselor so bringing before us the application for the writ shall be stricken from the rolls of this court."

Ever since counsel for Clifford, the Hudson county man who killed a railroad employe, set the practice of applying to the United States court at Trenton for a writ of habeas corpus, almost every murderer has had the benefit of this practice. Nothing comes of the practice, and it is the aim of Judge Lanning to abolish it unless there is a genuine merit in the applications.

GOES TO JERSEYMAN'S WIFE.

$285,000 House in Fifth Avenue Ready for Xmas Gift.

Every man in New York who possesses the price of a $285,000 residence in Fifth avenue and doesn't live in one now was in trouble after his wife had read yesterday morning that such a house, No. 826, near Sixty-fourth street, had been sold by the builders, W. W. & T. M. Hall, and a rich man's wife will find the title deed for it in her Christmas stocking.

Many a dutiful wife, who now entertains with difficulty in a dwelling worth only $150,000, or perhaps in a $10,000-a-year apartment, was filled with curiosity, and many a husband was made to feel that he ought to have dropped in at the builders' on the way home the night before and bought a Fifth avenue house.

The secret of the identity of the buyer of No. 826 is being well kept. It was said yesterday, however, that the anxiety among matrons in society in New York may cease, because the lucky woman now lives across the Hudson River—indeed, one man who pretends to know who she is even went so far as to intimate that her home now is in Paterson.

SILVER CASE ENDING

Testimony in Suit Against William H, Rogers Concluded Last Evening.

RIGHT TO A NAME

Craig A. Marsh, Defendant's Counsel, Makes Strong Argument—Decision in a Month.

The taking of testimony in the suit of the International Silver Company against William H. Rogers, of this city, to prevent him using the name "Rogers" in the manufacture of silver plated ware, was concluded before Chancellor Stevens in the Chancery chambers at Newark, last evening. The court sat late in order that all the evidence might be secured. The decision will be rendered inside of a month, but judging from the way in which both sides are contesting every point, the case will not stop short of the Supreme Court of the United States.

In closing yesterday, Edward A. Day, of Newark, made the opening address for the plaintiff company and was followed by Craig A. Marsh, of this city, for Mr. Rogers. Mr. Bartlett, of New York, made the closing address for the silver firm and Mr. Mills, of the Connecticut bar, joined in the briefs for the plaintiffs. The court evinced great interest in the questions of law involved and counsel on both sides were freely questioned, while every knotty problem in the case was discussed in all its bearings. The real issue of the matter seems to be this:

"Does the fact that for half a century or more this firm and corporation of Connecticut, originated by three brothers of the name of Rogers and their successors who have made their name famous all over the world as applied to silver plated ware, prevent any newcomer of the name of Rogers from stamping his name on silver plated wares?"

Mr. Marsh frankly conceded that for the newcomer to stamp nothing but the name "Rogers" on such wares should not be permitted by the court, but added that no man can make a trade mark or trade name of his surname and thereby acquire a monopoly of the use of that name; for when such a trade mark or trade name is originally selected, it is done at the risk of the natural consequences of such selection. He insisted that if the legitimate use of a man's name operates to injure the business of another, such injury must be borne.

"What the law requires and all it requires," said Mr. Marsh, "is that the newcomer shall not resort to any trick or artifice or misrepresentation, so as to palm off his goods as the goods of the old concern."

He declared that every act of William H. Rogers proved an honest purpose on his part to so differentiate his goods from the goods of the plaintiff company as to make confusion impossible. This was shown by the stamp on the goods, viz., "W. H. Rogers, of Plainfield, N. J.," and by printing on the boxes and catalogues, etc., the words in large capital letters, "Not connected with any other Rogers."

Mr. Day and Mr. Barlett contended that it was the words "Rogers" that sold the goods and that the words "Of Plainfield, N. J.," do not and cannot prevent confusion on the part of the ordinary purchaser. The former insisted there should be an injunction to prevent the defendant from stamping "Rogers" on any silver plated goods, and the latter contended that if Mr. Rogers were allowed to use his name at all he should be required to say that he was not an original Rogers. In answering Mr. Marsh insisted that the court would never degrade an honest man merely because his name was Rogers.

During the course of the trial, a large number of witnesses were brought forward by both sides and the ground was covered even more thoroughly than the suit instituted by the silver company some time ago against the William H. Rogers Corporation.

"Resolved, That we, the rectors of the Catholic churches of our city, and, by our office and principals of our schools, respectfully petition your honorable body to extend to our parochial school children graduating the right to enter High Schools on our approval."

The petition was referred to the board's committee on teachers and the High School committee, with instructions to report to committee of the whole.

Jacob Abrams Conducts Service Preparatory to Confirmation.

Jacob Abrams, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Abrams, of Grove street, led the regular services of the Children of Israel at the synagogue last night, under the direction of Rev. D. Kantravitch. It was done as a preparatory form to his confirmation, which took place at 9 o'clock this morning, but was an unusual proceeding for one of his years. Following his religious service today a reception was conducted at the home of his parents and another will be given tomorrow.

One of the guests at the confirmation was Jacob Cantus, a wealthy New York manufacturer, who is one of Mr. Abrams' intimate friends. He will also attend the reception tomorrow.

MR. ACKERMAN LECTURES

A LARGE AUDIENCE

Musical Programme In Connection With His Talk—Proceeds for Benefit of Church Work.

For the laudable purpose of assisting the poor of St. Mary's parish, State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman gave his interesting illustrated lecture, "Between the Magic Circles," at the Casino last night. The auditorium was filled with members of St. Mary's church and their friends, and all spent a most profitable evening.

The programme opened with a vocal selection, "The Bells," by a quartette from St. Mary's church, comprising Miss Anna Daley, soprano; Miss Elizabeth Day, contralto; Albert E. Matthews, tenor, and Joseph F. O'Keefe, bass. This was followed with a soprano solo by Miss Daley and a baritone solo by William Holmes. Each number was well given and heartily applauded.

As has been stated, Mr. Ackerman's trips have extended over a period of several years and the last journey, which was illustrated last night, practically covered the globe. The beautiful views displayed by Mr. Ackerman were nearly all taken by himself and are therefore of exceptional value. He took his large audience from New York across the Atlantic to Norway, thence to Turkey, where he showed them a number of interesting pictures and exlained the peculiar customs of that place. Leaving Turkey, Mr. Ackerman visited Egypt and in his trip along the Nile he took a number of handsome views which held the close attention of his hearers.

From Turkey the lecturer went to India, displaying the beauties of this country and describing scenes and incidents connected with his travels there. Perhaps the most interesting portion of the trip was that in Japan and China, where Mr. Ackerman has visited several times. He was in Japan when peace between that country and Russia was declared and his views of the many celebrations arranged were not only amusing but very instructive. The speaker brought his audience home from Japan by the way of the Yellowstone Park and Florida.

Frequently throughout the lecture the audience showed its appreciation by hearty applause and at the conclusion Mr. Ackerman received the congratulations and thanks of many for the entertaining evening afforded.

The lecture was arranged by a large committee, comprising representatives from the various societies in St. Mary's church, and a substantial sum will be realized as profit to be devoted to the poor of the parish.

WHITTIERS WON.

Girls' Basketball Teams Play an Interesting Game.

The girls' basketball team from the Whittier School defeated the P. H. S. 2d girls' team at the Hope Y. M. A. gymnasium yesterday afternoon by a score of 9 to 4. It was the first game of the season for the teams and the game was an exciting and interesting one from start to finish. The Whittier team feels so confident in its ability to play the game that it expects to meet the first team from the High School soon.

At the end of the first half the score was 9 to 3 in favor of Whittier, and while the victors did not score again, they succeeded in holding their opponents down to a score of four. The play was snappy and the girls showed that they can play the game almost as well as the boys. Miss Pope, one of the school teachers, was the referee. The teams lined up as follows:

Whittier School—B. Fleming, M. Durar, forwards; H. Knox, center; B. Alpaugh, N. Snyder, guards; Mahaffey, sub. center.

P. H. S. 2d—E. VanTuyl, H. Winn, forwards; M. Line, center; M. Jimmerson, M. Ramsay, guards; Moody, guard, second half.

SENTENCES IMPOSED BY JUDGE SCHENCK

COURT DEALS LENIENTLY WITH THE GUILTY ONES IN MOST CASES.

It was sentence day in the Somerset county court at Somerville yesterday and those found guilty or had pleaded guilty to minor offenses were meted out punishments by Judge Schenck.

Flora Navotney, one of the women convicted of receiving stolen goods from the "Dutch" Ides gang at her home at Gateville, was released by the Court under a suspension of sentence, providing she presents herself before the probation officer once a month and pays $3 each time to help defray the expense of her trial.

Judge Schenck, in passing sentence, said he would be lenient with her because she had a family of small children depending on her for a living and that she had not been connected in the crime as deeply as her mother-in-law, Julia Navotney, whom he would deal with more rigidly next Friday, when she comes up for sentence.

James Collins and Timothy Sullivan, of Bound Brook, convicted of chicken stealing, received two months in the county jail.

The other people who were up were either let off with a suspension of sentence, or small fine, for petty offenses.

Argument was heard in the case of the Township of Franklin against Irving Mershon, of Princeton, for a new trial, requested by the defendant, and further action in the matter was deferred until next Friday.

DIFFERENCE IN TWO LISTS OF ACCUSATIONS

FIVE COUNTS DROPPED AND ONE ELABORATED IN THE KIELY CASE.

There is considerable difference between the charges against Chief Kiely as presented by Councilmen Tyler and Bullock Wednesday night and the original list of accusations. Five counts have been dropped and one has been elaborated.

In the first set of charges there were counts on the alleged collection of political assessments; the use of patrolmen for the distribution of political ballots; permitting violations of the hack ordinance; the withholding of reward money due Patrolman Vanderweg; and the permitting of loungers to use police headquarters as a hangout. These have all been dropped.

In their place appears a strong insistence in Kiely's alleged connection with the supposed protection of John Goff's speakeasy. It is presumed that the chief's accusers could not find sufficient evidence to support the abandoned charges. The charge referring to the appropriation of reward money occasioned a good deal of comment. It is understood now that the money was never due Vanderweg, because all of the rewards were offered for the return of the stolen horses and not for the capture of the chief. Vanderweg did undoubtedly capture the thief, but he did not secure the return of the horses. As for the actual collection of the money Chief Kiely says only a percentage of it has been secured, and that percentage was actually exceeded by the expense to which he was put in recovering the stolen property.

$450 FOR WOOD DEFENSE.

Supreme Court Makes Order Allowing That to Lawyer Swackhamer.

Counsellor S. S. Swackhamer is to receive a fee of $450 for defending George H. Wood, the man who murdered George Williams on the Coonton road. The Supreme Court has just made the order fixing the compensation for the originator of the "Little Black Man" defense. The Somerset Freeholders will pay the fee.

The trial lasted five days, so the fee is not to be sniffed at for its smallness, even though a good deal of work attended the preparation for the defense. In any event, the case was worth the effort for itself. It gave Mr. Swackhamer prominence in the newspapers all over the country. Big murder trials always help the business of legal firms connected with them, and Codington & Swackhamer have not suffered from any exception to the rule.

McAll Auxiliary Tea.

The McAll Auxiliary will hold a birthday tea Thursday afternoon, January 4, at the home of Mrs. Frank O. Herring, 1111 Park avenue, at 3 o'clock.

MR. WIGHTMAN NAILS LIE

Everything is Harmonious in Altoona School Affairs He Declares.

HUNTING UP AUTHOR

Allegations that the teaching corps of the Altoona, Pa., schools are in open revolt against Superintendent Homer J. Wightman, formerly supervising principal of the North Plainfield schols, are branded by him as being without the slightest foundation. For a week past Mr. Wightman has been endeavoring to hunt up the author of the malicious dispatch, but has gotten no further than tracing it to Pittsburg, where it was sent out by a news agency.

According to the dispatch in question, which was published in these columns on Saturday last, Mr. Wightman was accused by the teachers of Altoona at an institute then in session of being haughty and domineering in manner, too severe a disciplinarian, delegating to himself the duty of punishing pupils, and refusing to allow the teachers to sit down in the school room. These alleged charges were reported as having been framed in shape of resolutions.

This is what Mr. Wightman has to say about the matter:

"I have ben trying without results to ascertain where the newspaper dispatches printed in Plainfield could have originated. The allegations in every particular are pure fabrications. There is not even a trace of a shadow on the educational horizon here. Everything is most harmonious. The Board of Education are unanimous in their actions. The community in general, as far as any of us are able to learn, are in hearty sympathy with the plan of educational work now being carried out in this city.

"The institute session referred to was a most pleasant one, to my mind one of the best I have ever attended. There is absolutely no ground for the statement that there is any spirit of disloyalty on the part of any teacher or principal in this city. It would be, I believe, next to impossible to find a more earnest body of teachers and principals than we have here.

"Personally I have never enjoyed my work as much as at the present time, and the future looks very bright and promising."

WHO IS THE YOUNG MAN?

Police Anxious to Learn Who Miss Jacques Knows Here.

Although not directly interested in the case of Edith Jacques, the Somerville domestic who was found in an exhausted condition on the street by Patrolman Kelly Tuesday night and put aboard a train, the police here are keeping a general lookout for clues leading to the identity of the young man whom the girl referred to when the officer found her. She refused to give his full name when Kelly question her, and has shielded his identity since. She is in a very weak condition, although discharged from the Somerville hospital, to where she was taken in a stupified state Tuesday night, and if her death should result the police would want to know the name of that young man very much.

When the Jacques girl was questioned by Kelly she let out the fact that the young man's first name was Harry, but tenaciously withheld all other information regarding him.

Lloyd Harris Operated On.

Lloyd Harris, son of Mrs. Ida Harris, of South Plainfield, who has been a great sufferer with rheumatism for several months, underwent an operation in a Brooklyn hospital on Thursday. It is believed that this will eventually result in complete recovery and the physicians in charge are quite hopeful. While the boy is at the hospital his mother is staying in Jersey City, visiting the institution every day.

A Christmas Tree.

Miss Sara Curry, of the Little Missionary Day Nursery, 93 St. Marks place, New York, gives the children their Christmas tree Thursday evening, December 21, at 8 o'clock at the Seventh Street church, 22 East Seventh street, New York. All friends of the work have been invited. A feature of the evening will be the burning of the second mortgage, which has been paid, $5,000 dollars.

Minstrel Committee to Meet.

The Elks' minstrel committee will meet at the New Plainfield theatre tonight to discuss plans for the coming show. It is hoped to make a report to the lodge at the next meeting in order to begin rehearsals with a week.

WIFE HOMELESS; HUSBAND DRUNK, WITH $12 ON HIM

BUT COP REVERSED THINGS IN THE FAMILY OF ADOLPH CORNELIUS.

Mrs. Adolph Cornelius telephoned to police headquarters yesterday afternoon that her husband, drunk and disorderly, was making life too miserable for her to bear. Officer Kelly rattled to the house in West Third street, where the Corneliuses were staying, and found that things were exactly as Mrs. Cornelius said, and worse.

Cornelius was lying about helplessly drunk. His wife said she did not care how soon the officer took him away. He had given them no money for days, and she had no money to buy food for her children and herself. They had been put out of their home early in the week and were sheltered only through the kindness of a neighbor.

Kelly bundled the sodden Cornelius, hatless and overcoatless, into the wagon and hustled him to the station house. When the prisoner was searched $12.50 was found in his pocket.

"Why, you miserable pup!" observed Kelly when he saw the money, and put Mr. Cornelius behind the cell door without any great regard to gentleness. Then the cop carried the $12.50 very swiftly to the penniless wife.

Judge Runyon looked disgustedly at Cornelius when he heard the story in the city court this morning.

"What have you got to say?" he asked.

Cornelius gnawed his streaky mustache nervously. "I was never here before—I was never drunk before," he said in a small, shaky voice.

"You're doing well for such a late start," said the magistrate sharply. "Your wife isn't here to press the complaint against you, so I suppose I'll have to let you go. You understand where your money is? Your wife has it."

"Well, I was going to give it to her, anyway," said Cornelius, "but she was saucy."

He left court in a hat borrowed from Doorman McCue, looking very subdued.

FREE OF DEBT.

Anonymous Gift of $3,000 Clears Children's Home Completely.

Every cost of debt has been lifted from the new building of the Children's Home. A Christmas gift in the form of a $3,000 check has been made to the institution. The gift will just cover the amount remaining on the new structure.

The donation is made anonymously by two generous friends of the Home. It is their special request that no clue to their identity be given. Not even their sex is known outside the official circles of the Home.

Closing Up Year's Business.

From now until the first of the year the Common Council will probably hold several sessions in closing up the year's business and the several accounts. According to the city ordinance the new Common Council is obliged to hold its first session on New Year's night, if only to organize. And this is usually all that is done, it being a holiday and the members are anxious to get through as soon as possible. The new president will be elected that night, the committees and other appointments announced.

To Sing Famous Hymn.

At the evangelistic services to be held at Monroe Avenue M. E. church tomorrow night the now famous hymn, "The King's Business," will be sung. J. Wilbur Chapman, the evangelist, calls this hymn the keynote of the simultaneous evangelistic campaigns now being held in Newark, Elizabeth, Paterson and Rahway.

Mr. Parker to Lecture.

Early in January Andrew McClean Parker will give his interesting illustrated lecture on "The Panama Canal," under the auspices of the Men's Club of Grace church. All of the men's clubs of the city have received invitations to be present. The lecture will be given in the parish house.

Installing Bowling Alleys.

A New York company is installing four bowling alleys in the former Crescent Club house on East Second street for William McLaughlin. He has leased the building and will conduct it as a "home" for bowlers.

Postoffice Inspector Here.

Postoffice Inspector Meharey was in the city today. He called on Postmaster Bird, but both of them assured a reporter that the visit had to do only with private business.

E. G. POPE DIES SUDDENLY

A DOUBLE SURPRISE

Word of His Death Accompanied by the News that He Had Been Married—Body to Be Brought Here.

Edward G. Pope, son of the late Elias R. Pope, and widely known throughout the city, died suddenly at his home on Hillside avenue, Newark, at 6 o'clock last night. He had just finished his supper and was lying on a couch when he was stricken with heart trouble. Medical aid was summoned, but he passed away before it reached him.

Simultaneous with the report of his death, came the news by telephone that he had been married, a fact that caused great surprise, as it was always supposed he was a confirmed bachelor. His brother, F. A. Pope, of East Fifth street, and Chief Kiely at once went to Newark and established the fact that he is survived by a wife. Details of the marriage have not been made known, as newspapermen were denied information at the Pope home in this city.

Mr. Pope was born in Plainfield forty-two years ago and lived in Plainfield practically all his life. For many years he was attached to the staff at the Dime Savings Bank, but retired some time ago to live quietly on the income from property willed him by his father. He was quiet and unassuming in his manner and the picture of health, consequently the word of his death came as a great surprise and chock to everyone.

In town he was popular with a large circle of friends and was widely identified with secret orders. He was a member of Elizabeth Lodge, No. 289, B. P. O. E., having joined before the local lodge was organized; Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F.; Noah Dove Encampment, Plainfield Aerie, No. 866, F. O. E., and the Timbo Social Club, of which he was treasurer.

At the death of his mother a little more than a year ago, Mr. Pope told his friends that he was going to reside in Newark for a while, as he liked the place. No one had any idea that he was going to get married, and he had kept the fact a secret, though coming to Plainfield several days each week. He was here all last Thursday and spent the afternoon and evening at the Timbo Social Club room. Besides his widow, he is survived only by one brother, F. A. Pope, of East Fifth street.

The body is still at Newark, but is to be brought to this city. The funeral is to be held Tuesday, but arrangements have not been made as yet.

MORE ELECTION INDICTMENTS.

New Brunswick Still Working on the 1905 Case.

New Brunswick, Dec. 16.—The acquittal of the four members of the election board of the First district of the Sixth ward on the indictments for wilfully preventing an election in November, 1905, probably disposes of the case, although a number of other indictments were found as a result of the affair. The other indictments will, it is said, be nolle prossed later in the term. Prosecutor Berdine stated yesterday that further action on other indictments was up to the court.

Justice Fort had selected the indictments to be first tried, and the court could order trial of the other indictments if it saw fit. There is one indictment remaining against the four members of the election board. This charges them with failing or refusing to receive the ballots of Willard P. Voorhees and Benjamin F. Howell. There are twenty other indictments. Five are against H. H. Brown, of the county board of registry, four for failing to register Rutgers College men and one for absenting himself from the meeting of the board and breaking the quorum.

Four more indictments are against Oliver Kelly and H. H. Brown for refusing to certify to the right of Rutgers students to vote. Indictments were also found against John E. Elmendorf and J. W. Suydam, the Republican members of the election board, on technical violations of the election law.

Killed by an Auto.

George Merklinger, of Newark, a nephew of J. W. A. Bauersacks, of North Plainfield, was run down by an automobile in that city yesterday morning and died from his injuries last night. He never recovered consciousness after the accident. Merklinger, who was riding a bicycle, collided with the automobile. The police are investigating the matter. The victim's funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Charles A. Morris, the diphtheria patient, is almost entirely recovered from his attack. But for the danger of contagion, he might leave the house now. If none of the family show symptoms of disease up to then, the quarantine on the Meseroll house will be lifted Monday. Mr. Meseroll and Miss Emma Space will then resume their work at the schools.

Nellie, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Vail, Dunellen avenue, is ill with scarlet fever. As soon as the case was reported to the health board by Dr. Brakeley the house was quarantined and the other four children in the family withdrawn from school.

James Benson has brought a suit in tort against Daniel Knuter. The complainant alleges that Knuter has chickens belonging to him in his possession. Justive Von Minden will hear the case December 26.

Court Dunellen will hold its next meeting on Wednesday, December 27, two nights later than the regular date. The postponement is made because the 25th is Christmas.

The hog-killing season is in full swing in the township. Hogs are fat and prime this year, and winter pork and sausage will be better than the average.

SEAT ON' CHANGE $88,000.

If Present Boom Continues, Price May Reach $100,000.

A New York Stock Exchange seat Wednesday sold for $88,000, the highest price on record. A previous high price was $85,000. The secretary of the Exchange declined to disclose the name of the purchaser, as he has not yet been elected a member of the Exchange.

Stock Exchange seats are usually regarded in Wall street as barometers of speculation. During booms they command high prices and in periods of depression they decline. Within a year they have sold as low as $65,000.

Brokers were predicting Wednesday that they would sell at $100,000 if the present boom continues. This prediction was made Wednesday by Henry Clews, who paid only $500 for his seat more than forty years ago.

AUTOISTS HOLD MEETING.

In Session at Trenton, Elect Secretary and Chairman.

Trenton, Dec. 16.—The Association of Automobile Clubs of New Jersey held a well attended meeting Tuesday afternoon in the office of W. F. Sadler, Jr., in East State street. The main purpose was to elect a chairman of the committee on legislation and a State secretary, both offices being allotted to Mercer county. The election resulted in choosing W. F. Sadler, Jr., chairman and J. E. Gill, secretary.

Another purpose is to arouse the automobilists in New Jersey to the need of opposing any change in the present automobile law in this State.

The association has a membership of 1,400 and expects to increase this number to 4,000 by March.

—Within a few weeks the enlisted term of service of several members of Co. K will expire, but it is believed that every one will re-enlist again. The company's annual fair will be held for one week in February and the committee is now arranging details.

Fight Over Singer Stock.

Trenton, Dec. 16.—Suit was instituted in the Court of Chancery yesterday to determine the ownership of 5,574 shares of stock of the Singer Manufacturing Company, whose plant is at Elizabethport. The suit was brought by Paul Charles William Schege, of Paris, and John I. Ryan, of Jersey City. Schege claims the stock as the heir of his deceased wife, formerly Mrs. Isaac M. Singer. Vice-Chancellor Pitney appointed Douglass Alexander, president of the Singer Company, and Frank P. McDermott, of Jersey City, receivers of the stock pending the litigation. He restrained the company from transferring the stock. Ryan had transferred to him one-twentieth part of Schege's claim.

FLAT FOR BABIES.

Mother and Daughter Will Spend $1,000,000 on Structure.

New York children are going to be coaxed over to Brooklyn to live. There they are to enjoy large, airy apartments, with plenty of sunshine and rents attractively low.

The new paradise for children is going to be built on nineteen lots in St. John's place, between Bedford and Rogers avenue. The projectors of the plan are a mother and daughter, prominent in New York society, who are going to invest $1,000,000 in the house which shall afford children the opportunity to grow properly. The title will pass on Jan. 2. James S. Fonner, of New York, is the architect who will design the model apartments.

The mother and daughter do not intend to let their names be made public until the apartments are in successful operation. They do not deny that they expect to make a profit on their enterprise, but their chief object is to provides places wherein babies can grow up to full, normal health and strength so far as these can be nourished by spacious and hygienic surroundings.

The two women have visited scores of the finest new apartments in New York, but although in these they found ample accommodations for children, the lowest rents were $1,500 a year. They paid only $100,000 for the St. John's place property, and they think they can supply in their new building large apartments for half the rents demanded in Manhattan.

BIBLE ON DIVORCE.

What is the Scriptural restriction as to divorce? Is it limited to infidelity, or does it also include desertion?

The Interchurch Conference on Marriage and Divorce met recently at the Church Mission House and wrestled several hours with the problem. It was finally agreed to leave the question to be solved by the forthcoming Interstate Conference at Washington, which is to consider uniform legislation on divorce.

Some of the delegates to the conference, which was presided over by Bishop Doane, of Albany, thought infidelity alone should be a cause for divorce, and some who were not Episcopalians or Presbyterians thought desertion ought to be included.

After a discussion lasting several hours a committee was appointed to appear before the Interstate Conference and present the various resolutions adopted by the Interchurch Conference at its last meeting in Washington last January. These include a resolution forbidding the remarriage of the guilty party in a divorce proceeding and withholding from the innocent party the privilege of remarrying within a year of the decree.

Otherwise the Interchurch Conference approves the "act concerning divorce" prepared by the Conference of State Commissions and indorsed by the Bar Association.

The committee to attend the Interstate Conference will be headed by Bishop Doane and will include Francis Lynde Stetson, John E. Parsons, Judge W. M. Lanning, of Trenton, and the Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, of the Presbyterian church.

BERNHARDT TO ACT IN TENT.

Trust Drives French Star to Tour Under Canvas.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, "the divine," playing "Camille" under canvas on the Texas plains; travelling in her private car at the head of a train of real circus-cars, and performing on a portable stage not much different from those used in side-shows!

That is the proposed programme, unless the theatrical syndicate gives in and removes the ban from Henry Greenwall, who owns, but does not control, the Texas theatre.

"It is fine," said the "divine" Sarah when seen in the dressing-room at the Lyric theatre. "Voila! I have great managers. They will not be balked, and I shall aid them by appearing in a tent—yes, in a circus tent, and on a stage of pine boards. Probably I shall enjoy it; maybe not."

Mr. Shubert stands on one side of the theatrical fence, Klaw & Erlanger on the other, and Connor in the middle. The latter has never opposed Klaw & Erlanger's syndicate and thought he would have no difficulty in booking New Orleans and Texas through Henry Greenwall, who owns the Greenwall circuit, which is affiliated with the syndicate, so far as bookings are concerned.

Mme. Bernhardt will not show every night in a tent. Once in a while she will be able to get into one of the Shubert theatres, but in Texas these are few and far between. She will, of course, travel in her private car, Iolanthe.

LAWYER IN HOT ARGUMENT IN COURT WHEN HIS COAT SUDDENLY CATCHES FIRE

Elizabeth, Dec. 16.—Samuel Schleimer is perhaps the only lawyer in New Jersey who has tried a case before a court in his shirt sleeves, yet this actually occurred in the District Court here before Judge Edward S. Atwater. Mr. Schleimer was trying a case for Oakley & Son, architects, against John P. Clark, of Westfield, for $7.50. The lawyer was fighting for a principle more than the mere amount involved and during a heated part of his argument he leaned over the railing which separates the lawyers' tables and the bench and accidentally struck a pocket containing some loose matches. He continued arguing his case and as he progressed his words grew fiery as well as his pocket and in a few moments his heated discussion of the case came to an abrupt close with several attendants and fellow lawyers tugging at his coat. This was the first he was aware of his coat being afire, and, withdrawing his arms therefrom, he allowed Court Constable Oliver Conlon to remove the piece of apparel to the corridor, while the lawyer, under a special indulgence of the court, proceeded with the case and won it.

"The Burglar's Daughter," which Vance and Sullivan will present at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight, tells a story of modern New York life. The leading character of the play, "Meg of Mulberry Bend," is an ignorant and neglected little waif who is, at the death of her mother, thrown out in the streets to shift for herself. Meg in her life long association with thieves and outcasts has retained her sweetness and purity, but is a sadly ignorant and rather tough little character. She finds refuge in the home of a wealthy clergyman, who tries to help her, and she, touched by his kindness and gentle manner, tries her best to gain refinement. During the action of the play each act finds Meg gaining in polish and losing her slang and roughness, until at the end she has grown from a child of the streets and the daughter of a burglar to the respected wife of a famous and fashionable clergyman. Meg's character is a most unusual stage heroine and her gradual development from the tough child to the cultured lady is a character study of the keenest interest. The sensational features so dear to modern theatregoers have not been forgotten and at the end of the third act the race between a trolley car and a powerful automobile is a scenic and mechanical marvel. The production calls for seven large sets and aside from the race presents many novel features, among which a beautiful moving panorama of New York Harbor and a ship at sea during a heavy storm may be selected for mention.

John Drew comes to this city on Friday, December 22, at the New Plainfield tneatre, in a typical Drew part this year. It is the latest play from the pen of the gifted Augustus Thomas, "De Lancey," a three act comedy that touches lightly and humorously upon the divorce question, even to the extent of making something of a hero of the divorced man, points out the folly of attempting to sacrifice oneself in behalf of one' friend, and pictures with delightful scenery and fine local color typical aspects of New York's swell set. Of Mr. Drew in "De Lancey" the surprising assertion can be made that he scarcely acts at all. As Jim De Lancey he is simply himself, the part fitting him, as the New York Herald said, "so snugly" that the hero might just as well be printed on the program as John Drew.

John Bunny is to appear as the Liverpool brewer, John Barrow, in "The Lightning Conductor," which is now in rehearsal and will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Tuesday, December 26. Edward E. Rose, the well known playwright and producer, is the stage manager.

"A Desperate Chance," in four acts, founded on the notorious Biddle brothers' case, to be seen here Christmas afternoon and night, at the New Plainfield theatre, is considered by Theodore Kremer, the author, as his greatest success. It is hardly necessary to more than announce its appearance, as the story of the play has attracted a world-wide reputation. The first act opens with the murder of the Pittsburg grocer by the Biddle boys, their conviction and sentence. The second act shows the boys in jail, where they use their hypnotic power over the warden's wife, their sensational escape from the jail, their thrilling fight in the snow with the detectives, their capture and finally their pathetic death in the county jail. Mr. Kremer considers this his greatest effort, which is saying a great deal when one considers his successes, "The Road to Ruin," "The Fatal Wedding," "The Power Behind the Throne," and others too numerous to mention. While the play abounds with many thrilling situations, the author has not forgotten to put plenty of heart interest in it. A big scenic production is promised with many new and startling mechanical effects and with a cast of unusual excellence, a performance is promised to satisfy the most exacting.

Howard Kyle, a most estimable actor, who has ever been associated with the higher order of dramatic ventures, will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, December 30, in the title role of "Mozart," the poetic play, with the scenes and incidents laid around the life of the truly great composer, whose venerated name serves to arouse the keenest possible musical interest. Maurice Campbell, who has found a deserving reward for the production of this drama, has surrounded his star with a company of special excellence, and feels satisfied that in the play written by Mrs. Ivy Ashton Root, Mr. Kyle has found a lasting success.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

One of the most talked about plays now before the New York public is Alfred Sutro's great drama, "The Walls of Jericho," the play in which James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering are now appearing in a limited co-star engagement at the Savoy theatre to audiences that continue to pack that playhouse at every performance. "The Walls of Jericho" has given to both Mr. Hackett and Miss Mannering the best medium for great success that either of these two brilliant stars have enjoyed since they first began their starring tours. Aside from the success that the popularity of Mr. Hackett and Miss Mannering lend to this drama, "The Walls of Jericho," as a play, must command attention, for it is evident that its author, Alfred Sutro, was tremendously in earnest when he wrote it, for there is an atmosphere of sincerity about it which gives it a charm that merits the public recognition which is now being accorded it. Matinees during the Hackett-Mannering season occur on Thursday of each week.

A new star and a new play scored one of the most emphatic successes of the entire theatrical season in New York Monday night, when Thomas W. Ross made his first appearance at the Liberty theatre in Henry Blossom's new comedy of New York life, "A Fair Exchange." The scenes of the play are laid in New York and at Larchmont, and the plot concerns a poker game, a yacht race, and the efforts of a gentlemanly villain to get wrongful possession of Wall street securities. Mr. Ross appears as Cliffs Austin, a breezy Westerner taking his first dip into Eastern society. The part fits him perfectly. The nonchalant ease and sparkling good nature of the actor is perfectly blended with an attractive and magnetic role. Mr. Ross may confidently count himself henceforth a permanent factor in New York theatrical affairs. In "Checkers" he won a melodramatic triumph. In "A Fair Exchange" he has achieved success in a brilliant society comedy. The lines of the new piece include some of the brightest sallies and wittiest epigrams heard this season, and the audience Monday night expressed its hearty approval by enthusiastic applause and several curtain calls at the end of each act. The strong company provided by Charles Dillingham aided in what was undoubtedly a great success. Mr. Ross and "A Fair Exchange" will stay indefinitely at the Liberty theatre. There could not be a fairer exchange than the entertainment offered here for the price of admission.

GENERAL ELECTRIC WINS.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has awarded the contract for equipping for electric traction its road between Camden and Atlantic City. The price is well under $2,000,000, and the General Electric Company of New York will do the work, it having outbid the Westinghouse Electrical Company, the only other competitor. It is said that the fight for the contract was bitter and there was one report circulated that the General Electric lost money on the job in order to beat its rival.

The Westinghouse Company in explaining the loss of the contract cited the fact that they are so filled up with orders that they could not see their way clear to bid lower than a comfortable margin price. It is thought that both companies bid to the very last notch to gain the prize, and that the General Electric simply beat the Westinghouse people in its own territory.

The new line will be sixty-three miles long. There will be one station. The trains will occupy one hour and ten minutes for the trip. The railroad will itself put in the third rail and the car equipment.

To Prevent Tuberculosis.

Elizabeth, Dec. 16.—The Board of Education of this city has issued an order excluding from attendance all children suffering from tuberculosis, and putting that disease on the same footing with scarlet fever, diphtheria and other contagious diseases. Dr. Joseph Funk, of the board, questioned the power of the board to do this, but the board decided to go ahead and to recall the action only if beaten in court.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?

If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Cantharides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots.

It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

QUARREL CAUSED SUICIDE?

Will of H. Frank Weed Reveals Family Disagreement.

Stamford, Conn., Dec. 16.—The will of H. Frank Weed, a member of the firm of Weed Bros., commission merchants, of No. 39 White street, New York, who killed himself here Nov. 15, divides $600,000 in personal and $10,000 in real property between his widow, children, brothers and other relatives.

One-third of the personal estate is left in trust for his only son, Walton F., with directions to pay him $100 a month while he lives, or, after sixty years, the whole income and any part of the principal in the discretion of the trustee.

John Weed, a brother, who is ill, has refused to act as executor. Friends say the brothers disagreed over Walton, and worry on this subject may have led to the suicide in an insane moment.

IRELAND WILL BE FREE.

Irish Leader Says Independent Parliament Will Be Established.

London, Dec. 16.—John Redmond, the Irish leader, in his speech in Belfast Wednesday night, expressed his conviction that before long an independent Parliament and executive would be established in Ireland.

The Times points out that, with the Prime Minister and Irish Secretary in favor of home rule, a system of intimidation will bring the country into an alarming condition.

Mr. Long, in his speech at Bristol, said that the crude brutality of earlier days would give place to a more subtle form of intimidation. Hampered by fear of breaking up the Ministry, even Lord Rosebery's friends who do not favor home rule, will be unable to check these methods of intimidation.

CATHEDRAL BURNED.

Relics Destroyed in Blaze That Causes Big Loss.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 16.—The Anglican Cathedral of St. Luke's, in the diocese of Bishop Worrell, was totally destroyed by fire early yesterday, after all available fire-fighting apparatus had been brought to the scene.

The fire is believed to have been the work of incendiaries. A number of articles of historical interest were also demolished and the total loss is estimated at about $60,000.

Thief Gets Presents.

East Orange, Dec. 16.—The East Orange daylight burglar yesterday afternoon started to do his Christmas shopping by visiting the home of ex-Councilman George Dorer, at 80 Grove street, North, East Orange. He pried open a door while the family was away and stole about everything in the line of Christmas presents that Mrs. Dorer had purchased. In addition to this he stole a costly solitaire diamond ring, a gold watch and some other articles of jewelry.

BURDENS OF WOMEN.

Wherever there is poverty, we see delicate mothers and the merest babies set to the tasks of men, writes Robert Hunter in the Christmas Cosmopolitan. When hunger presses upon a family, the woman takes up her work, and perhaps it ends here; but if necessity compels further effort, the children are taken from their play and they, too, are sent forth into the fields, factories or mines. And so we see that we may measure poverty by the number of those weaker ones who toil. It would all come out well enough, perhaps, were it not that the necessity of these strugglinfi ones breeds necessity, and their poverty greater poverty. For in that great mass of suffering humanity which fights for deliverance, in our own as well as in every other country, every additional effort on their part is in itself a factor in their ruin. Mr. Rockefeller has so far solved the problem of supply and demand that oil does not compete with oil and sell for less than what it costs to produce it. But no one has yet solved that problem for poor humanity, so that among those in abject poverty the mother goes forth to compete for the work done by the father, and the children for the work done by either the mother or the father. In many cases the women displace the men, and the children in turn displace the mothers. Wages are lowered, hours lengthened, and when the cheaper labor supplants the more expensive, the fate of the poor is in the end worse than it was in the beginning. In this field of unregulated competition, where human is pitted against human, man against woman, and the children against the parents, slavery and poverty, brutality and oppression, are still the lot of mankind.

Therefore, wherever you find poverty, wherever there is a sullen, iggardly nature, an oppressive landlordism, or capitalism seeking cheap labor, there you also find that the men are lazy, indifferent, shiftless and drunken. Men accept the inevitable, and if it means starvation, they do not try to postpone the day of its coming. They stop the struggle and wait. They refuse to carry on a losing battle. With women it is different. The nearer they are to starvation the more desperately they toil. For instance, in the famine districts of Italy they are up before dawn to gather herbs or acorns for the breakfast. They go into the fields and work until they sink from exhaustion.

They work harder than the men for half the wages. They return home in the dark and prepare the evening meal, eating only what is left over; and after the cleaning up is done, they sit down to sew or smoke. The children are put to bed, and then the mother returns to her work, patching and repairing, knitting and sewing, until exhausted. If there be illness, she remains awake the night through to attend to the needs of the sick one, and when the others awake in the morning they see that the mother has long been about her work. Men give up the fight with poverty and drink themselves into insensibility, while women, thinking not of themselves but of the children, never cease to struggle until struggle is no longer possible.

As a letter writer, Speaker-to-be Robbins is about as much of a success as the average politician.

After reading of his rebuke to the jury in the election case, there must be a lot of good people in New Brunswick who would be happy to have Justice Dixon over there all the year round.

The Trenton State Gazette remarks that "If wine must be drunk at a banquet, the best is none too good for members of the State Board of Education." But the question still remains, must wine be drunk at a gathering of educational authorities?

The Newark paper is one of the few in the State that has courage to speak out on political affairs as it finds them. Wife Plies Lash Until Alleged Rival Is Black and Blue.

New Brunswick, Dec. 16.—Mrs. Dora Hardy, of this city, formerly in the employ of the Red Star Trading Stamp Company here, but for the last few weeks in the employ of the Legal Gold Stamp people at Perth Amboy, was the central figure in a horsewhipping episode at that place Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. C. B. King, a well known woman of Paterson, went to Perth Amboy Thursday, and seeking Mrs. Hardy in her rooms over the Blue Front Store, in Smith street, horsewhipped her until she was black and blue. Mrs. King asserted that Mrs. Hardy had stolen her husband's love.

Mrs. King is a short, rather thin woman, while Mrs. Hardy is twice her size. Mrs. King told the police that her husband had left home, that Mrs. Hardy was to blame and that she was going to kill her.

Mrs. King, before leaving Perth Amboy, threatened to come back Saturday and throw carbolic acid in Mrs. Hardy's face.

(By Merry Tom)

On the occasion of his appearance in this city next week, John Drew will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Fisk at their West Seventh street home.

January 3 is being held open for "The Education of Mr. Pipp" at the New Plainfield. Dibby Bell still heads the cast and will be seen here if the date is closed.

There are two Plainfield boys who are holding their own before the footlights. One is Walter Sherwin, who is playing lead with "The Life That Kills" at present in Chicago, and the other Wyatt Barnes, the leader of the football squad in the eastern "College Widow" company.

Though the New York critics "roasted" Richard Carle's "The Mayor of Tokio," which appeared here the latter part of October, it is doing a big business at the New York theatre. After all, there's nothing like the box office to tell what's what in the show line.

Frank Cook, a former local resident and one time widely known circus man, was in town this week calling on old friends. In recent years he has been conducting a vaudeville agency but not long since opened a theatrical boarding house on East Fourteenth street, New York. Judging from the size of the diamond on his finger the world has been treating him kindly.

In his song, "Yankee Doodle Boy," George M. Cohan makes himself sing a line which ends, "Born on the Fourth of July," and he is singing the truth, for it was on the Fourth of July, 1878, at Providence, R. I., that the popular young author of "Little Johnny Jones," "Running for Office" and "The Governor's Son," first saw the light of day. His profits from these attractions are said to reach $8,000 a week.

Richard Harding Davis, who was in Plainfield Thursday night to witness the premiere of "The Galloper," is the author of three other plays. "The Dictator," "Ransom's Folly" and "The Taming of Helen." The first two of these "made good" but the other went to the shelf by the hurry-up route. "The Galloper" has the ear-marks of a typical Broadway success and Mr. Davis himself was never more confident of getting proper recognition.

MRS. VALENTINA HOPELESS.

Unofficial Word that United States Court Will Not Save Her.

Hackensack, Dec. 16.—Sheriff James Mercer, of Bergen county, was unofficially notified yesterday afternoon that the United States Supreme Court had affirmed the conviction of the lower courts in the case of Mrs. Anna Valentina, who has twice been sentenced to death in the Bergen county courts. The woman's lawyers, Trimble & Trimble, of Newark, had not heard of the decision up to last night. Mrs. Valentina was not told of the rumor.

Word was also received at the sheriff's office that several Italian societies in New York were contributing to a general fund for the purpose of carrying the case of Mrs. Antoinette Tolla to the United States Supreme Court. This will mean at least a delay in her execution, which was fixed for Tuesday, January 12, by Supreme Court Justice Garretson.

To Father Lambert, her spiritual adviser, Mrs. Tolla said yesterday she was hopeful that the Board of Pardons would commute her death sentence to life imprisonment.

The death watch has been placed on both Mrs. Tolla and Jerry Rossa in the Hackensack jail.

—Ted, one of the chemical engine team, is recovering from a sprain that put him out of commission last week.

—Dr. Lawrence, of Washington avenue, the borough, has purchased the A. V. Everett farm at Belle Mead, which was sold this week by the estate.

The Second Annual Charity Ball for the benefit of the Muhlenberg Hospital, will be held in the Casino, corner Seventh Street and Arlington Avenue, Friday Evening, December the twenty-ninth, Nineteen hundred and five. All persons interested in the Hospital and their friends are cordially invited to attend. Subscription price, Five Dollars each.

A limited number of boxes may be obtained at Twenty-five Dollars each on application to MR. PAUL TAYLOR BROWN, 802 Belvidere Avenue.

Tickets may be had by applying to Committee at the Casino.

THE FORUM.

Mr. Ackerman's Lecture.

Editor, The Daily Press:

May I be permitted to call attention to a lecture which a great many of our young men ought to hear and see? It is the one which is to be given by our Senator-elect, E. R. Ackerman, at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on the evening of the 19th. I have had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Ackerman, and seeing his pictures, and I want to say that is was a real treat. Travel in strange lands and contact with other people broadens a man's mind, but most of us cannot go round and round the world as Mr. Ackerman does. And so, when he comes home and just because he likes to help young men and others, who cannot go abroad, shows his beautiful pictures and tells his interesting story, with no hope of reward except that which comes from doing good, we ought not to miss the opportunity of showing our appreciation and enjoy a fine thing.

Yours sincerely,
WILLIAM D. MURRAY.

YALE ALUMNI BANQUET.

Lawrence Tweedy Elected on Executive Committee.

Good fellowship reigned at the annual meeting of the Yale Alumni Association of Essex county Thursday night at Orange Hall, Prospect street, East Orange, and Yale spirit permeated the atmosphere. There were about sixty Yale graduates in attendance.

Much interest was manifested on the appearance of "Jim" Hogan, the famous captai nand tackle of the '04 football team, who told the alumni a few things about the gridiron spirit.

There were a number of others present whose names have been prominently linked with Old Eli, such as "Pop" Hirsh, author of the famous "Boola" song, one-time catcher on the varsity baseball team. He performed on the piano while the others sang old college songs.

Other guests were Russell Colgate, '96; Emil Schultz, '85, an oarsman in his day; Charles B. Stoors, '83, also an oarsman; Hendon Chubb, '95; Frank Quimby, '95, captain of the varsity baseball team, and Percy W. Crane, '95, a long distance runner. Bishop Edwin S. Lines, of Newark, was also a guest.

An election of officers which was held resulted as follows: President, Hendon Chubb, '95, scientific, East Orange; secretary, Andrew S. Taylor, '94, South Orange; treasurer, Russell Colgate, '96, Orange; executive committee, R. Graham Douglass, '98, West Orange; Andrew S. Taylor, Lawrence Tweedy, '99, of Plainfield; Malcolm McLear, '91; W. A. Barstow, '99; Russell Colgate, Dickison W. Richards, '81; Hendon Chubb, Sr.; nominating committee, Sidney M. Colgate, '86, Orange; Rev. Robert H. Nichols, '94, pastor of Trinity Presbyerian church, South Orange; E. Arthur Bredt, '97.

Dr. Ernest Richards, '98, now an instructor at Princeton University, gave selections on the piano. Rev. David B. Eddy, '98, led the singing.

Among the Yale songs were "Show Me the Scotchmen," "Son of a Gambler," "Wake, Freshmen, Wake," and "Amici."

Edward Ware, class of '97, who has just moved into Essex county, told how glad he was to meet so many Yale men in this county, and how it made him "feel at home again."

Cupid Dictates a Will.

The will of Mrs. Mary R. Lundy, a wealthy resident of Oceanport, N. J., was filed in the Surrogate's office in this city yesterday. The entire estate is left to a nephew, Levi Lundy, for life. "He shall give to my son Frank, so long as he remains single, the privilege of remaining in my house at Ocean Grove," the will reads. Upon the death of Levi the house is left to Frank. This clause seems to explain the favor shown by Mrs. Lundy for her nephew. It reads: "If Frank Lundy marry any other woman except Lida Du Boise, an equal divide shall meet my approval. If he marry her and they have children, the revenue of any kind shall go to the children."

We offer to give this doll absolutely free to the customer who makes the greatest number of purchases at this store between now and December 21.

To determine this, the customer who presents the greatest number of "duplicate checks" (regardless of the amount of the purchase) at this store on Thursday, December 21, will be entitled to the doll and will receive same by calling at the store Saturday evening, December 23, at 10 o'clock.

PAINTING HIDES STRANGE DRAMA

GREAT WORK OF ART ALMOST LEADS TO TRAGEDY.

BATTLE BESIDE DEATHBED

Celebrated Canvas Results in Present of Sword from Mikado Which Nearly Causes Destruction of Two Men.

Chicago.—In the soft tones and mellow shadings of a painting just hung at the Art Institute lies concealed a tragedy as strange as fiction. In creating the painting—its formal title is "Niko Gate to the Royal Tombs"—the artist, not unlike Frankenstein, brought into being a thing that almost led to his own destruction.

The first act of the weird drama was laid in Japan, where the mikado, as an evidence of his appreciation of the work of John Devereux York, of Chicago, who painted the "Niko Gate," presented the artist with a sword which for centuries had been an heirloom of the imperial family. Next the scene shifted to Chicago, where the artist attempted to kill himself at the bedside of his dying mother with the selfsame blade. In a struggle to disarm him his uncle was wounded almost to death.

The curtain scene was in St. Luke's hospital, where York, no longer in a suicidal mood, spent night and day at the bedside of the wounded uncle. By tender nursing the patient was saved. The uncle is Holger de Roode, a well-known insurance man.

The revelation of the tragedy did not become known until the other night, though the action was several weeks ago. The occasion was when Mr. York's mother, Mrs. E. J. T. Brooke, lay dying at her home. Physicians said she could not recover. Mr. York, a son by a former marriage, had watched at her bedside constantly for a week, and when the doctors announced that she must die, he determined to die with her.

In the room where his mother lay unconscious was a case containing bric-a-brac which Mr. York had gathered in his travels through Europe and the orient. Among the articles was the treasured sword given him by the mikado.

Mr. de Roode, a brother of Mrs. Brooke, was bending over his dying sister when he saw his nephew take the sword from the case.

The artist made an attempt to thrust the blade into his body, and Mr. de Roode sprang at him and grasped the keen- edged weapon. In the struggle to wrest it from the man so intent on committing suicide the weapon was plunged into Mr. de Roode's body, perforating the abdomen.

Mr. de Roode fell to the floor. Blood streamed from the wound in a torrent. Mr. York suddenly regained his senses and ran to a telephone. He called a physician, and the injured man was taken at once to the hospital, where he lay four weeks hovering between life and death. He recovered, and is now able to attend to his business, although still suffering from the wound.

Mrs. Brooke, mother of Artist York, never regained consciousness, and died without knowing of her son's attempt to kill himself, which nearly cost the life of her brother.

Mr. de Roode's wife is an invalid, and until his complete recovery the unfortunate affair was kept from her for fear the news would cause her death.

During the time he was in the hospital a story was invented that he was called to New York on business for the firm.

Mr. York is 40 years old and was born in Nashville, Tenn. He studied at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, the Julian academy and with Raphael Collin, Paris. He received honorable mention for work exhibited in the Ecole des Beaux Arts, 1892, and in Tokio, Japan, 1901.

"My nephew was beside himself when the doctors told him his mother could not live," Mr. de Roode told a friend, "and he thought there was nothing left for him in life. Fortunately I was in the room and grasped the sword from his hands. When he saw what had been done he recovered his reason immediately and did all in his power to relieve me. He deplored the accident more than anybody else, I think, and my love for him was only strengthened."

The Limit.

The ostrich lay between the camels and the elephants, expiring with great pain.

"What's the matter with the ostrich?" inquired the pious-looking man with a boy holding to one hand and a girl to the other.

"Dying!" replied the circus employe.

"What's the matter?" asked the boy.

"Well, you see, it's this way," replied the circus man, "we run out of whetstones, nails and scrap iron, and I run across the street and bought a couple of apple pies from the restaurant to tide the ostrich over."—Kansas City Drovers Telegram.

Uncertain.

"What are you doing now, Scribblets?"

"Why, I am just about to start a magazine.'

"Under what name?"

"The Age of Woman. Do you think it will be a success?"

"Well, it is doubtful."—Chicago News.

Under the Machine.

Redd—Were you at the chauffeurs' dinner?

Greene—Yes; it was great. They had the table made to look exactly like an automobile.

"Is that right?"

"And say, that's not all that made it look realistic! Why, a lot of the chauffeurs were under the table!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Beyond His Limit.

Percy—What did she say when you popped the question last night?

Harry—Why, she said for two pins she would marry me.

Percy—Why don't you give her two pins?

Bent Too Far.

"As the twig is bent," cautioned the old man to the young man at the race track, "the tree's inclined; you'd better keep away from these places."

"I ain't bent," replied the young man whose horse was rollicking along a lap behind the bunch, "I'm broke."—Houston Post.

In the Bunker.

Mrs. Greene—You shouldn't be thinking of golf in church, dear.

Mr. Greene—Well, I really couldn't help it. You see, that Mrs. Styles, with her big hat, sat right in front of me, and I couldn't get the idea out of my head that I was in the bunker!—Yonkers Statesman.

Do It Right.

Smith modeled a Venus in wax:
And "Don't touch with Umbrellas or Canes,"
Was the sign that was fixed on with tacks
To the base. And some critic, whose brains
Worked, overtime, wrote with great pains
Underneath, this "N. B.—Get an ax!"
—Cleveland Leader.

SO THERE.

Patience—She says she never made a mistake in her life.

Patrice—Well, neither have I; and I don't believe her!—Portsmouth Herald.

What's the Use?

The women now who fume and shout
And congregate in throngs—
What would they have to fuss about
If we removed their wrongs?
—Courier-Journal.

Where He Heard.

"Bobby, I am surprised to hear you using such language! I hope you do not hear that kind of language at home?"

"Yessm, we've got a parrot."—Houston Post.

No Needless Delay.

"Do you believe there is anything in mind reading?"

"If there isn't, my wife's an awful good guesser. She never has to wait for me to do any confessing."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Long-Felt Want.

Customer—I want a book that will do for hot weather reading.

Bookseller—All right, sir. Here is a ghost story that is warranted to make your blood run cold.—Chicago News.

Poor Man.

Friend—When are you going to take your vacation?

Mr. Meekun—I'm taking it now. My wife and daughters are at the seaside.—Chicago Tribune.

Narrow.

"That so? I hadn't noticed it; I thought he was cross-eyed."—Houston Post.

Just So.

"What's a clever joke?"

"One that makes you laugh when you know absolutely there is nothing to it."—Judge.

He's There, Too.

Patience—Is she a selfish girl?

Patrice—No, not at all. You never find her occupying a hammock all by herself!—Yonkers Statesman.

STRANGE FREAK OF NATURE

Peculiar Metamorphosis Occurs at the Age of Thirty-Four and She Will Start Life Anew in Masculine Role.

New York.—Miss May Best, an estimable woman of Brooklyn, who has lived the life of the sex to which she was born for 34 years, has been transformed into a man.

Miss Best went into a hospital a few weeks ago. Even then the strange change was creeping over her and masculinity was assuming dominance. She came out of the institution after an operation some days ago, a man.

The necessity for a new environment, a new start in life, was impressed upon her by Dr. Claude N. Finley, the physician who had charge of the case, and she will go to St. Louis, there to don male attire, assume a new name and fit herself to the life which this amazing freak of nature has necessitated.

From childhood Miss Best was a strong, robust girl, with an abnormal fondness for the sports of boys. As she grew older she would have liked to play baseball and done other mannish things, but was restrained by a sense of delicacy.

As a young woman she was tall, broad-shouldered and very handsome, with jet black hair and blue eyes. She was strong, had rather large hands and feet for a woman, and walked with a mannish stride. In spite of these things, a slight harshness of voice and the increasing growth of hair on her face, she never had the slightest suspicion of the change in life she was undergoing. Her ideals remained feminine; she chose girl companions. She painted, sewed and did all the other things that women do. She had men friends and girl friends and was popular with both.

Miss Best devoted herself to several women's clubs to which she belonged, to her church and to her charitable work, living a life of usefulness and endearing herself more and more to her friends.

Miss Best was always aware of the streak of mannishness in her, but did not think it was any greater than had manifested itself in many other women whom she had seen. She did not think seriously of the matter until a few years ago, when her beard began to grow so fast that it was necessary for her to shave every day. In spite of this growth she kept her secret from everyone save those who lived with her. The beard humiliated her to some extent, but never gave her the slightest suspicion that she was undergoing any sexual change.

It was a little over two weeks ago that Miss Best was brought to a sudden realization of her condition. She knew then for the first time that she was not a woman but a man. She was prostrated by the blow and consulted her physician.

Dr. Finley was brought into the case, and he had Miss Best removed to the hospital, where an operation was performed which confirmed what Miss Best had suspected.

When the news was broken to Miss Best she was very ill for a time. She was told, however, that outside of the shock she had nothing to fear, that she could assume the sex of a man freely and without embarrassment, but that it was obviously impossible for her to continue to live as a woman.

Miss Best left the hospital in the clothing in which she entered and went to her home in Brooklyn. There arrangements were quickly made for her removal to St. Louis, from which point she will make her plunge into the world as a man. Before Miss Best could leave, however, the realization of the change that had come over her prostrated her again, and she has been ill in bed ever since.

Mustn't Bite His Family.

Des Moines, Ia.—An injunction restraining Henry H. Duke from biting his wife has been issued by the district court on complaint of Mrs. Duke who asks a divorce on the ground of cruelty. This cruelty, she says, consists in biting her whenever he is enraged. She makes the further assertion that Duke is in the habit of biting his children to punish them.

BIFF'S WEDDING

The bride-to-be was quite certain she wanted him.

"You know," she told his mother, "he'll fit into the color scheme so beautifully with that golden hair. All he will have to do is unroll one of the ribbons for the aisle. Do say you, Mrs. Hunter."

"All!" echoed the mother of Biff. "All!" she repeated. "My dear Miss Farmington, that child is quite capable of playing a sudden game of jump-the-rope with your white satin ribbon or using it to lasso the rector."

"But he will look so angelic all in white," persisted the bride-to-be. "Those Russian blouse suits become him so, and he walks so well. I shall count on him, then."

Then it became necessary for Biff's mother to break the news to him of his impending debut at a church wedding.

"Why should I walk down the aisle?" he demanded, calmly. "Do I have to be married, too? What for? why?"

By dint of hard mental labor and the exercise of maternal patience Biff's mother made him fairly comprehend his part in the scheme of things. Still, he was doubtful. At the mention of white silk stockings he began to regard the prospect with favor, until in her haste to clinch his mother mentioned as an especially alluring point that a nice, sweet little girl was to be his companion in that promenade down the aisle—a little girl he knew, Retta Kingston.

Biff showed the white feather instantly. "I will not go down the aisle with a girl!" he protested with the stormy insistence of a 6-year-old. Why should I? Ain't I enough just by myself? I don't like Retta, anyhow!"

More diplomacy on the part of his mother caused Biff to relent. "Well, anyhow," he said, with an air of finality, "if I let her walk with me and she doesn't keep step I'll punch her face."

"He's just as apt as not to do it, too," wailed Mrs. Hunter to the bride-elect. "I'm so worried!"

As the time for the wedding drew near Biff had sundry attacks of backsliding. Whenever it was necessary for him to be fitted with a coat or experiment on in regard to a proper tie or a new shoe his stage fright grew severe and required chocolate creams or similar soothing applications before it was vanquished. Being a shrewd youngster, Biff detected possibilities in this situation. Toward the end he held out strenuously. He didn't want to be a page at the wedding, and he wasn't going to be, and that was all there was about it. Chocolate creams he scorned and stood firm in his defiance. Even the blandishments of the bride-to-be had no effect on his adamantine young heart.

"You must, Biff," his mother said finally in the low, tense tone of voice stage heroines always use at the critical moment when they add to a great scene by acting it with repression. "You simply must, now that everything is arranged. I'll there anything you particularly want? I'll give it to you if only you'll be a good boy and do as you first said you would."

Biff considered the prospect with inward joy. "I think I would like to go to that play Jimmy went to," he finally announced.

Biff remembered that he must keep up the attitude of a martyr. "All right," he said with a gentle sign. "I'll do it. But, please, let's not talk about it any more."

Regard for Biff's mighty sacrifice of self led the family to respect his wish. Also they were afraid he might change his mind again were the topic brought to his attention.

The night of the wedding Biff's mother suffered from nervousness, for her pride and joy had been in a particularly impish mood all day, and his chief charm, except on a public occasion like this, was his unexpectedness. No human being could know what the crinkles in Biff's brain would lead him to do next. And whatever it was, it was certain to be thoroughly done. He might drop the ribbon halfway down the aisle and clamber into the pew with his family; he might drag marble out of his pocket and have a game on the chancel steps; he might interrupt the rector and converse with him. Biff's mother had thirteen varieties of cold chills as she sat and waited and smiled in her best society manner, as though she were enjoying herself.

There was a portentous strain of music and then a hush. The bridal procession started.

Could that be Biff—that angelic faced child gazing heavenward, holding the ribbon so gracefully, stepping so easily? His mother held her breath in an agony of apprehension. Little Retta reached the end of the aisle unscathed as to face and Biff's lips were still closed. High up on the steps he was posed in his proper place. Then he turned and surveyed the people interestedly, unembarrassedly.

Suddenly his mouth opened wide, wider—it was a yawn. It is not given many people to see such a comprehensive, all-embracing yawn. As has been said, Biff did things thoroughly. It really was a scandalous yawn.

"I am only thankful," shivered Biff's mother as the procession came back-down the aisle, "that it was no worse. But—heavens!"

"Yes, I had a good time," said Biff sleepily that night, his hands full of wedding cake. "Say, can I go over to Johnnie Martin's tomorrow to play with his new goat?"—Chicago News.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

WOMEN LIKE MASTERFUL MEN.

Nearly all women love the masterful man.

He has a high-handed way of doing things that seems to take wonderfully well.

Woman, in her soul, despises the man whom she can manage.

She does not manage the masterful man; he manages her, and the result is she respects and adores him.

He is not a bully, he can be as gentle as he is forceful, and the very fact that gentleness underlies his strength makes her love him, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

He has a way of saying "you must not do that, it's not good for you," or "I can't let you do this," that wins her interest at once.

When he wants to see her he thrusts aside every obstacle. Everything and every person will be sacrificed for her sake.

His methods may seem selfish to the world in general, but to the woman herself they are infinitely flattering.

He is a bold wooer, and he wins.

Women have been known to love timid men, but the love is more maternal and protective than wifely.

The masterful man sweeps all before him; his strenuous wooing carries a woman along on a tide that she is powerless to resist.

She may make a feeble pretense at rebellion, but in her heart she knows that her surrender is but a matter of time.

If he does not succeed in his first attempt to win her, he is not discouraged, but keeps at it.

He never lets her forget him.

He treats her as a child, but he makes love to her as a woman.

He understands her thoroughly, and rarely strikes a false note.

He makes her feel that everything on earth is subservient to her wish, that he will move heaven and earth to please her.

Thousands of years ago, when man went a wooing he knocked his lady love senseless with a club and dragged her home in triumph.

The method was a trifle strenuous, but the ladies seemed to like it, for they stayed and made faithful, loving wives.

Nowadays the wooing is done on a different basis, but the masterful man is still to the fore, still pursuing his successful tactics.

He does not conquer with a club, but with the force of his own all-powerful personality.

He does not say to a woman, "will you love me," but rather, "you must love me."

He inspires a woman with confidence, makes her feel that he cannot fail in aught that he undertakes.

And women worship moral and physical courage.

Above all, he makes her feel that she is the most important thing on earth and that he will go through fire and water to win her.

There's no doubt that the masterful man has a "way with him" where woman is concerned.

He is her exact opposite in every characteristic; he makes her do a thousand things she has sworn she would not do; he makes her bend to his imperious will; he tyrannises over her, pets her and in the end wins her undying love and devotion.—Newark Advertiser.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Curried Eggs—Slice two onions and fry in butter. Add a tablespoonful of curry powder and one pint of good broth or stock. Stew till onions are quite tender. Add a cup of cream thickened with arrowroot or rice flour. Simmer a few moments, then add eight or t enhard- boiled eggs cut in slices and beat them well, but do not boil.

Fish and Tomatoes—Shred some cold boiled whitefish until you have a cupful; mix with it the same amount of bread crumbs; add two eggs, a little pepper and salt, a dash of cayenne and a half cupful of stewed tomatoes. Turn into a baking dish, cover the top with fine cracker crumbs, drop bits of butter over it and bake for half an hour.

A Good Salad Dressing—Yolks of two eggs, one tablespoonful of butter, one teaspoonful of mustard, a little sugar, salt and cayenne, half a teacupful of vinegar. Mix butter in a saucepan, mix in a teacup mustard, vinegar, salt and cayenne, beat up the yolks of eggs, add mixture, stirring all the time; add butter, stir until it thickens like custard, leave to cool and thin down with milk. Can be bottled and will keep good a month.

Swiss Milk Toffee—Here is something to amuse the little ones some wet afternoon when they cannot get out. Rinse out a stewpan and leave about a teaspoonful of water in it. Add two ounces of butter, one and one-half tabulespoonfuls golden syrup, and one pound moist sugar. When these are all melted, stir in the contents of a tin of condensed milk and boil for twenty minutes. Lift from the fire and stir in two teaspoonfuls of vanilla essence. Pour into a buttered dish and when cool score it across.

Cherry-pine Trifle—Line a dish with thinly sliced pineapple; cover with sponge cakes, and over same pour juice of the pine. Beat up stiffly the whites of three eggs, and add a dessertspoonful of sugar. Heap unevenly over the sponge cake and garnish the dish liberally with stewed cherries. Serve with cream or custard.

Mayonnaise Dressing—A good mayonnaise dressing without oil is made in the following manner: Mix well and place on the fire to boil three-quarters of a tablespoonful each of flour, sugar, butter and dry mustard and one-half cupful of milk and one-half cupful of vinegar. Allow this to boil until quite thick, stirring constantly. When cool beat into it the yolk of one egg. If too thick thin with equal parts of vinegar and milk.

A Good Soup—Slice very fine one good sized Spanish onion or three ordinary onions; cover with a pint of cold water; add a teaspoonful of salt and a saltspoonful of pepper; cover and simmer for twenty minutes. Press through a colander. Put one quart of milk in a double boiler; rub together two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour; add to the milk and stir until smooth and creamy. Add th onion mixture; press through a fine sieve; reheat and serve with croutons an inch square.

Preserved Ginger Pudding—Beat to a cream four ounces of butter and four ounces of sugar, break one egg into it and throw in two ounces of sifted flour. Beat for five minutes, then break in another egg, and add two more ounces of flour. Beat for a few minutes longer, add two ounces preserved ginger chopped small, and two tablespoonfuls of the syrup. When all is mixed and the mold well buttered, quickly stir into the mixture half a teaspoonful of baking powder, pour the batter into a mold, cover with buttered paper, and steam for one hour and a half.

THE WOMAN WHO ENTERTAINS.

Why not give a tea with a little music? It is not the simplest and most inexpensive form of entertainment you can offer, and its success depends only upon your own tact and the getting of congenial people together.

The drawing room should be cleared of all unnecessary furniture and potted plants or vases of cut flowers should be stood here and there. The shades of the windows should be drawn and lamps and shaded candles should be used in addition to the gas or electric burners. A soft, subdued light is much prettier and pleasanter to the eyes than a glare.

In the dining room the table should be prettily decorated with cut flowers and shaded candles. As a rule three or four intimate friends are stationed there to offer the guests tea, hot chocolate, bouillon, sandwiches, ices, cake and bonbons.

The hostess should stand just inside the entrance to the drawing room. If the tea or reception is given for a visiting friend she should stand at her hostess's left hand.

Those who are assisting the hostess in receiving should station themselves in different parts of the various rooms.

A half hour is the longest and ten minutes the shortest stay which one should make at a reception or tea.

A cordial word of welcome is all that is expected of the hostess, and the guests should be careful not to engage her in conversation so as to keep her from greeting those who may follow.

The correct costume for the hostess and receiving party is a high-necked afternoon or simple evening gown. Gloves are usually worn, but they may be dispensed with if desired. At small informal teas gloves are never worn.

When a woman wishes to give a small tea in honor of a friend who is visting her she may select those among her acquaintances who would be congenial and send them cards of invitation.

She should write in one corner of her visiting card "Tea at 5 o'clock" and directly over her name she should write the words "To meet Mrs. B——." This may be written under her own name if there is room.

At a small tea such as this it would be best to have the tea, chocolate, sandwiches, cakes, nuts and bonbons served from a small table placed at the end of the drawing room. Cafe frappe or frozen fruit may also be served if wished, but nothing more elaborate.

There is something very attractive in the hospitality shown in the simple afternoon tea, and although the large and formal tea or reception lacks much of the old fashioned hospitality yet it may be made a very bright and delightful affair, and it has theadvantage of being the one form of entertainment where all social obligations are paid off both by the host and hostess and the guests.

CHURCH FAIRS ARE ONLY GRAFT GAMES

DECLARES THIS JERSEY CITY EDITOR

"The minute a church gets so it has to rely upon such catch-penny schemes as fairs it forfeits the respect of the community," declared the Rev. J. C. Joralemon, pastor of Grace Episcopal church at Jersey City, Thursday evening, as he sat in his parsonage and discussed fully the reason why he announced to his people Sunday that the fair that closed in Belvidere hall last week would be the last fair that would be held in Grace parish house while he was its minister.

"All fairs resolve themselves into a sort of graft, which seems to be a popular word nowadays," said the rector. "I do not think that any church should resort to fairs to meet its legitimate expenses. I think that Jersey City, Newark and Paterson are the worse places for this fair nuisance, and I doubt if there is a city in the United States that has more church fairs than we do in this town. It is an imposition on the people who feel bound to patronize them and to the storekeepers who are pestered for donations. Recently I was talking to a friend of mine who has a large store in Newark and he said that they had been receiving so many begging letters and personal applications for donations for church fairs that they had been obliged to make a new rule to discontinue their former practice of making gratis contributions.

"Patronizing a church fair costs an individual more money than to make an outright contribution of a certain small sum whenever the occasion may arise in a church to necessitate the raising of funds for any emergency. Your wife makes an article for a fair and that costs you something. Then she spends a good deal of her time in working for the fair and when the fair takes place you have to go there and spend your money, you think, and you buy things that somebody else's wife has made and in the end it costs you much more than if you had given a small cash contribution.

"Church fairs mean a tremendous waste of energy and time. I think the better plan would be for the pastor of a church to solicit personal contributions from all the members when extra money is needed."

HOCH MUST HANG.

Supreme Court of Illinois Affirms Verdict of Guilt.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 16.—The Supreme Court of Illinois announced here today that it affirms the verdict in the case of Johann Hoff, of Chicago, who is now under sentence of death for wife murder. Hoch will therefore hang on February 28, unless his case is carried to the Supreme Court of the United States. The prisoner admitted having been married to upward of thirty women. He was found guilty of having poisoned to death his last wife.

The appeal to the Supreme Court was taken on the morning that Hoch was to have been executed, and he was saved from the gallows at almost the last moment. The intercessor in his behalf was a woman who came forward with sufficient funds to carry the case to the upper courts. It is not know whether she will again aid Hoch.

SCHOOL TAX APPORTIONED.

Union County's Share to be $53,188.43.

The State Boar of Education has received the certification of State Comptroller Morgan to the apportionment of the State school tax for the 1906 year. Based on the total ratables of the State, the tax for next year is two and three-quarter mills on the dollar of valuation.

The comptroller shows that the 1905 total ratables of the State, on which this tax is based, is $1,153,682.10. On this basis the tax would be $3,172,626.14.

Under the State school law the State appropriates from its general funds for the support of the schools an amount equal to thirty-five per cent. of the total school tax, and that reduces the amount to be raised by taxation just that much. The comptroller's report shows that the thirty-five per cent. appropriation for 1906 will be $1,110,419.29, so that the tax to be raised in the counties besides will aggregate $2,062,208.29.

The apportionment for Union county follows: Total ratables, $55.-260,709; total tax, $151,966.94; share of thirty-five per cent. appropriation, $53,188.43; balance to be raised by the county, $98,778.51.

Under the State school law ten per cent. of the amount raised for school purposes is held by the State as a reserve fund and this is apportioned later in a way to benefit the districts where the ratables are not sufficient to produce tax enough to insure proper school accommodations. The reserve of the Mercer county tax will be $10,000.10, so that the county will have $90,000.87 for schools as son as the tax becomes available. Later it will bet its share of the reserve fund. Mercer county is not a district requiring aid from the ten per cent. reserve fund so that it will not receive more than the $10,000.-10, and it may receive somewhat less.

The apportionment to the counties of both the total tax and the State appropriation is made on the basis of the proportion that the ratables of the county bear to those of the whole State.

Dyers in Sympathetic Strike.

Lodi, Dec. 16.—Because seventy-five men were discharged from the United Dye Works here, charged with being responsible for the recent strike, nearly 300 dyers quit work yesterday. They became threatening and deputies are once more doing guard duty here. The two mills employ 1,000 men, and the strikers hope to have all out in a few days.

GROWTH OF METHODISM IN THE UNITED STATES

CHURCH'S MEMBERSHIP AND IT LIBERALITY BOTH GREAT.

During the year 1905 there has been an increase of 42,059 full members in the Methodist Episcopal church in the United States; and in the foreign missions an increase of 7,932, making in all 49,991 increase in full membership at home and abroad. Besides these there is an increase of 14,166 probationers in the home and 13,933 in the foreign field, making in all an increase of 78,090 communicants. During the year there have been 41,332 deaths, which, added to the 78,090 new communicants, shows the whole number of accessions to be 119,422.

December 31, 1904, the membership, including the probationers, was 3,070,121, besides 18,355 ministers, including those on trial, and three bishops, equaling $3,088,506. At this time the number of members, including the probationers, is 3,148,-211; the number of ministers is 18,-618; bishops, 28; total, 3,166,857.

The benevolent enterprises of the church show a similar increase. Without counting a dollar for church buildings, for colleges and universities, for debt paying or hospitals, homes for the aged or the orphans, which mount up to millions, or the money paid by the people for the support of local churches and pastors, the church has given to the regular "benevolences" — missions, church extension, Sunday School Union, Tract Society, Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, Board of Education and the American Bible Society—$3,169,403, an increase of $259,927. This is not only an increase in bulk, but in per capita gifts beyond anything the church has ever done.—Christian Advocate.

COSTS DEPORTATION.

Steamship Steward Polite to Woman Passenger Loses Liberty.

Judge Joseph Cross, in the United States District Court, at Newark, dismissed yesterday the writ of habeas corpus on which Louis W. K. H. Brehm, steward of the Hamburg-American line, was brought before him last Wednesday.

It was contended that Brehm had been illegally committed by Recorder Stanton, of Hoboken, to the custody of the German Consul of New York as a deserter from the liner Pennsylvania. The Court held that the writ had been improvidently issued and that while Brehm was actually in the custody of officers of the steamship Amerika, he was legally in the custody of the German Consul, against whom a writ could not lie.

The upshot of the case was that Brehm was given up to the custody of the German Consul for deportation to Germany. The young man lays his troubles to a flirtation he engaged in on shipboard during a trip of the Pennsylvania to this country with a young woman passenger. Brehm asserted the incident was harmless, but that on the vessel's arrival here he encountered a jealous sweetheart of the young woman, who complained of his conduct to the ship's officers. Brehm was first committed to the Hudson County Jail for ten days for disorderly conduct. This commitment was shown to be illegal and he was released. Then, instead of reporting back to his vessel, Brehm sought employment in Hoboken, but was rearrested as a deserter. On his second arraignment before Recorder Stanton the Recorder acted in his capacity of United States Commissioner.

KILLED BY TROLLEY CAR.

Watchman's Body Was Wedged Under the Vehicle.

Robert Hammersley, fifty-five years old, a private watchman, who for many years guarded property in Broad street, Newark, was run down and killed at 2 a. m. yesterday at Broad and New streets by a trolley car on the Turnpike line.

Hammersley started to cross Broad street, intending to complete his rounds by trying the doors of private residences in Park place. At the same time Turnpike car No. 1314, driven by Motorman William Sheehan, of 450 Broad street, approached the crossing. Sheehan says he slowed down to permit two young men to cross the street in front of him. He declares he did not see Hammersley until he felt a jolt and heard the cry of a man. He instantly stopped the car and then discovered Hammersley under the wheels.

Dr. John J. Fay, who was on a night call, happened to be in the vicinity. He arrived at the scene as the car crew and some passengers were lifting the body from beneath the car. Dr. Fay made a hasty examination and pronounced Hammersley dead.

Two Years for Long's Wife..

Mrs. Charles Long, wife of the condemned murdered of Matthew Cunningham, better known as Mattie Hicks, was sentenced to two years in the State Prison yesterday by Judge Rellstab in the Mercer County Court yesterday for attempting to burn the home of Giles Maben, on Feeder street, Trenton. Mrs. Long was tried last week. Because she was jealous of Maben, who had discharged her as his housekeeper, it was claimed in the trial that she attempted to burn down his home. Long has not been informed yet of his wife's incarceration, and will probably not be told. The woman cried bitterly when sentence was pronounced.

RAIN OF METAL BURNS TWENTY.

Mould Explodes at Passaic Steel Works with Disastrous Effect.

Paterson, Dec. 16.—Twenty men were injured, seven of them seriously, at the Passaic Steel Works early yesterday morning when the iron bar holding down the caps of the moulds broke, throwing the heated metal in all directions. The injured men were burned about the face, head, arms and body.

Joseph Martin was the most seriously injured. The physicians at St. Joseph's Hospital believe he cannot recover. Besides Martin, those taken to the hospital were John Goversky, Harry Dickerson, John Mandallee, James McGill, Patrick Mullane and Adam Schabinsky. The others, less seriously injured, were taken to their homes.

WILL DEFEND HIS SEAT

Reported Councilman Bullock Sees No Reason Why He Should Withdraw,

PREPARING FOR TRIAL

Defense Said to Be Arranging for Something Like Wholesale Challenges—A Storm of Subpoenas.

On the eve of the first clash between Chief Kiely and his accusers before the Common Council both sides are working at fever heat, arranging and strengthening their cases. Left in the dark as to the exact counts in the charges until last Wednesday, the defense naturally has been hard pressed to get in complete readiness for the opening of the legal battle. There is enough uncertainty to the case of the prosecution, however, in the lateral features to keep Councilmen Tyler and Bullock from sinking idly back on their oars and allowing their craft to go forward merely under the impetus they have already given it.

Public interest today seems to center on the question of the right of some to sit in judgment on the chief. From indications it had every reason to believe were sure, The Daily Press said last week that Councilmen Bullock and Tyler would probably make no attempt to sit in the Council at the trial. Friends of the former, since then, have said that he saw no reason why he should not be in his place when the hearing opened, and that he would contest any effort to rule him out. Mr. Bullock, it is said, is convinced that neither legally nor morally is he disqualified to pass judgment on the accused official.

His friends go further, and ask wherein his case is different to that of Councilman Randolph, who is frankly one of the chief's friends? It is contended that Mr. Randolph is as likely to be prejudiced in the chief's favor, to such an extent as to be blinded to the real value of the evidence, as are Mr. Bullock and Mr. Tyler in the other direction. Mr. Randolph has been a close personal friend of the chief.

From what former Senator Reed has said, there is no doubt that the accusing councilmen will be challenged by the defense, and there is reason to believe that the fairness of Councilmen Higham and Wilson will be questioned. Mr. Reed will, of course, give no hint as to his line of defense, preliminary or otherwise, but the rumor bearers on the street and in the places where the case is discussed speak of these things with a detail and positiveness and a degree of unanimity that gives more than a little weight to the talk. Moreover, a big percentage of truth is always found in general report of that character, however closely the people most interested have striven to guard against leaks from their places of council.

It is interesting in this connection to note that Councilman Murphy is not mentioned among those to be challenged. To the general mind his connection with the anti-organization movement is as close as that of any of the other councilmen named, and it is not apparent why he should escape the charge of prejudice and bias.

Councilmen Bullock and Tyler are in almost daily consultation with Corporation Counsel Marsh. They were at his home together yesterday.

Subpoenas are still settling, like a paper storm, all over town. Scores and scores of them are said to be out. It was said by a man closely connected with the case this morning that the prosecution alone had issued nearly two hundred.

FEW RIDERS OUT.

Weather Prevents Large Attendance At Hunt Club Chase.

Owing to the disagreeable weather on Saturday only seven members of the Watchung Hunt Club joined in the chase after the hounds. Those braving the elements met at Mt. Pleasant and followed the hounds to Colonia, where there was a check. The riders then returned to Oak Tree, where the chase ended.

On Saturday the club will meet at the kennels on Rahway road and follow the hounds to Westfield, where there will be a check. The club will then select the road for the return trip to Plainfield.

Dr. Knott has received word from Ireland that the new pack of hounds, thirty-one in all, will be shipped on Friday, December 29, on the steamer Armenia from England, and will arrive here in about a week.

Bridge Whist Christmas Week.

Miss Adelaide Graybill Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ball, of Rockview avenue, has sent out invitations for a bridge whist party to be given on the afternoon of Friday, December 29.

FIRST BAPTIST JUNIORS GIVE AN ENTERTAINMENT

THE PLEASING PROGRAMME APPROPRIATE TO CHRISTMAS TIDE.

Under the auspices of the primary and junior departments of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, a pleasing musical and literary entertainment, appropriate to Christmastide, was given Saturday afternoon. The Sunday-school room was filled with members and friends and the programme was enjoyable.

The opening number was an address of welcome by Elmer French, followed by a song, "Days We Love the Best," by the primary class. A piano solo by Lawrence French preceded recitations, "Christmas Greeting," by Florence Coons and "A Question," by Dorothy Hall. "Dolly's Rock-a-by Song" was sung by girls from the primary department, each one sitting in a rocking chair and holding a doll.

There was a piano duett by Lawrence and Elmer French, followed with recitations by Lillie VanWinkle, the junior department, Gertrude King and a song by the junior department. "Grandma's Gift" was the title of a recitation by Ethel Runyon, and after a piano solo by Elmer French, these recitations were given: "The Night Before Christmas," Junior VanDeventer; "Only a Baby," Edith Rickert; "The Day Before Christmas," Florence Neal; "Kris Kringle," Lawrence French; "Feeling Sorry for Santa," Herbert Hillman; "A Little Speech," Emma Mantz. The programme was concluded with a song by the primary department and a piano duett by Elmer and Lawrence French.

Mrs. J. A. Powlison, superintendent of the primary department, was in charge of the entertainment, assisted by Mrs. Harold Serrell, Mrs. Dudley S. Miller and the other teachers in this and the junior department.

$27,500 AWARD AGAINST THE PUBLIC SERVICE

MIDDLESEX JURY GIVES HEAVY VERDICT IN TROLLEY SUIT.

A jury in the Middlesex County Court at New Brunswick awarded John H. Dodd, of that city, $27,500 for injuries received by him last August when a trolley car in which he was a passenger collided with a Lehigh Valley freight car at the Aldene crossing. He sued for $100,000 damages.

Mr. Dodd was injured about the spine and head, and has been unable to do any work since the accident. He had to be brought into the courtroom on a stretcher. He has no control of his muscles, and when he was sworn it was necessary to raise his hand and put it on the Bible. His answers were given in a whisper and were audible only to those at his side.

On the day of the accident Mr. Dodd had been to Roselle on business. He was returning on an open car of the Public Service Corporation. When crossing a spur of the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks on South avenue, a freight train backed into the car and Mr. Dodd was thrown out and down an embankment.

The verdict was against the Public Service Corporation. Mr. Dodd's suit against the Lehigh Valley Railroad was non-suited on the ground that the accident was due to the negligence of the employes of the rolley company.

MR. BOARDMAN TO LEAVE

New Y. M. C. A. Physical Director Hands in His Resignation.

HERE ONLY 4 MONTHS

Successor Not Yet Chosen, and Boys' Secretary Robbie Will Take Temporary Charge of the Vacated Department.

The resignation of Physical Director Charles Boardman was announced at the Y. M. C. A. this morning. Mr. Boardman will sever his connection with the association on Friday.

Mr. Boardman's successor has not been chosen. It has been decided to secure a man from the Y. M. C. A.

C. A. Boardman.

training school at Springfield, Mass., but who the man will be not even General Secretary Manning as yet has any idea. The graduating class of the training school will not, in the usual course of events, go out from the school until next June, but it is a possibility that one of the students may be brought to Plainfield before that time.

In the meanwhile, the work will be under the charge of Boys' Secretary Kenneth Robbie. Mr. Robbie is not only a man of great executive ability and a tireless worker, but he is very familiar with gymnasium work and the general plan of physical department management. He is a graduate of the Springfield school, and from the very nature of his own work will carry on the physical work among the boys, at least, without any check to the advancement of the department.

Mr. Boardman's resignation was laid before the Board of Directors at the meeting held early in the month After due consideration it was accepted, and the announcement followed. Mr. Boardman's departure will not be a matter of great surprise in Y. M. C. A. circles. It was rumored at least a month ago that he was on the point of leaving, and the reports although never confirmed until this morning, grew more positive as the weeks went on.

Mr. Boardman has been at the Y. M. C. A. since September 1, when he succeeded F. A. Henckel, now at one of the Brooklyn branches. He has formed no definite plans as to his future field, but will rest for a time at his home in Vermont. He has made many friends among the Y. M. C. A. members since his coming, and his departure will cause great regret.

CHURCH RAISES $1,000.

First Baptist Congregation Contributed That Amount Yesterday.

After the morning service at the First Baptist church, yesterday, L. V. F. Randolph, a trustee, and J. Herbert Case, treasurer, made statements regarding the finances of the church for the year. It was stated that there is a deficit of about $2,000, which includes $400 carried over from the previous year and which was the balance left of the $11,000 indebtedness which was met.

In response to an earnest appeal from the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, as well as Mr. Randolph, Mr. Case and C. W. McCutchen, over $1,000 was raised at the service, of which amount $250 was given by the choir. There were several contributions of $100 and lesser amounts and the balance needed is practically assured to clear the church of debt. During the past year the envelope contributions increased twenty-five per cent. over the preceding year and the basket collections increased twenty per cent.

In Debutante Reception Party.

TWO MORE BREAK OUT OF STATE REFORMATORY

ALREADY 12 HAVE ESCAPED SINCE INSTITUTION OPENED.

Cutting their way through the roof with sharp instuments, which they had in hiding, Frank Miller and Joseph Cuttle escaped from the Rahway Reformatory early last night. After reacning the roof, the prisoners made a rope of overalls and by this means reached the ground. While Miller was making the descen the rope parted and he fell a distance of twenty feet, severely injurying his leg.

Suttle made good his escape, but Miller was found this morning along the trolley tracks not far from the reformatory, the injury to his leg making it impossible for him to get away. He was taken back to the reformatory, where he will be subjected to close confinement. Every effort is being made to capture Suttle.

This makes about the twelfth escape from the reformatory since it was opened, but a majority of the prisoners were captured. Among those still at large is "Dutch" Ides, the "Jesse James" of Union county

COW HERDER HEIR TO SNUG FORTUNE

SAILS AWAY TO ENGLAND TO GET HIS ESTATE.

Edward Weatheredge, of Elizabeth, who, a week ago, was a cow herder, Saturday sailed as a first class passenger on the steamer Carmania for England and will take his Christmas dinner at the home of his ancestors.

Fourteen years ago Weatheredge, who is a landscape gardener and florist by occupation, drifted into Elizabeth, and became a barroom cleaner for the former chief of the old volunteer fire department, Joseph Brown, in that city. About two or three months ago he began tending cows for a dairy man at North Elizabeth. He got his meals and was allowed to make his bed in the barn. One week ago he received a draft for a large amount from a sister in England urging him to sail at once so as to take his Christmas dinner at home.

A thread of romance was woven in Weatheredge's life, however, and it was this that took him home. Previous to coming to this country he had been the suitor for the hand of a young woman of his neighborhood, but his suit was rejected. Discouraged, he took to drink and later came to this country.

He has from time to time received letters from his sisters, of whom he has two, beseeching him to come home, but he was deaf to all their appeals until he received a letter recently from one of them informing him that the husband of his old sweetheart was dead, and that she joined in the appeal to have him return. Upon the receipt of this letter, Weatheredge wrote that if funds were forwarded him he would start at once. This was done with the results already told. Since leaving home it has ben learned that Weatheredge's father has died, making him heir to a snug fortune.

Delegations from all the organizations of which he was a member will be in attendance. The body will be brought to Plainfield on the 10:44 train tomorrow morning and will be taken direct to Hillside cemetery, where the Odd Fellow burial service will be conducted by Plainfield Lodge, No. 44.

New Tool Room.

The carpenter students at the Boy's Club are building a new tool room and a number of benches, to enlarge the capacity of the class. As soon as the work is done, the membership will be increased. Each of the boys is making himself a new bench. The newcomers will use the old ones.

Pasquale Was Freed.

Pasquale Quesno, a young Italian, was arraigned in the city court this morning, charged with fighting and disturbing the peace. Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

Contract Case Adjourned.

The contract suit of W. F. Howarth against D. N. Force, in Justice Mosher's court, has been postponed for a week. F. J. Blatz is counsel for the plaintiff.

Rasores Club Meeting.

The Rasores Club will meet at Truell Court tomorrow morning. The birthday topics will be Jane Austin and Matthew Arnold.

KILLED BY AN EXPRESS

Young Frank Rogers Meets an Untimely Death Near Wilmington, Del.

G. T. ROGERS' SON

Slipped on Rail and Fell in Path of Swiftly Moving Train—Funeral in Wilmington Today.

Frank Rogers, the young son of former Councilman and Mrs. George T. Rogers, of Myrtle avenue, was struck and instantly killed by an express train on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in the suburbs of Wilmington, Del., early Saturday night. The news came to his parents by telephone and they left for the scene as soon as possible.

The young man, who had just passed twenty-one, had been staying with friends of the family at Wilmington for the past few months, and Saturday night was out in the suburbs with an acquaintance. They went to the Concord railroad station intending to go back to the city proper, but the train they expected to catch did not stop. Unwilling to wait for another they started to walk along the tracks and had proceeded but a short distance when an express came behind them. Both made an attempt to get out of the way, but Frank's foot slipped on an ice-coated tie and he fell directly in the path of the locomotive. His companion hardly realized what had happened until after the train passed.

He then hurried to a nearby house and secured assistance to lift the body from where it had been thrown. The friends with whom he had been staying were notified and they in turn sent word to Plainfield.

Frank was widely known throughout the city and borough, and the news of his death came as a great shock. He attended Leal's School as a boy, but recently had been in business in New York. He has frequently visited at Wilmington, and this time had stayed longer than usual, intending to return home this week.

The funeral will be held at Wilmington today and the body will be brought here to be placed in the receiving vault at Hillside.

USED PASTOR'S NAME.

Swindler Adopts Successful Ruse in Soliciting at South Plainfield.

Claiming to have walked all the way from Whitehouse, a smooth-tongued young man who gave his name as Thomas Spicer, of Pittsfield, Mass., made an appeal to South Plainfield residents Saturday afternoon to lend him enough money to get home. "No work and sickness" formed the groundwork of his entreaties, but he failed to get what he wanted in the village and then set out for the outlying districts. In making his rounds he had learned the name of Pastor J. H. Cubberley, of the South Plainfield Baptist church, and he informed the farmers that the clergyman had sent him to them.

The ruse worked successfully and Spicer made quite a collection, getting $5 from one man alone. He was well out of this district before his trickery was discovered. The local police were notified, but there is slight chance of the fellow being caught.

WOMAN IN PULPIT.

Rev. Elizabeth Padgham, of Rutherford, Preaches at All Souls'.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson, of All Souls' Unitarian church, Park avenue, exchanged pulpits yesterday with Rev. Elizabeth Padgham, of Rutherford. A large congregation heard the woman preacher deliver an unsually interesting sermon on the meaning of religion.

She explained the true inwardness of religion, and what true religion meant. Among other things, she said that religion was not all found in the Bible; that it came rather from the innate goodness, and self-nurtured spiritual cravings of the truth-seeker. She pointed out in this connection, how each sect referred to, and found in the Bible "confirmation" for their varied beliefs.

Church Organist Ill.

Miss Jessie Utter, organist of the Seventh-day Baptist church, is quite ill at her home on West Fifth street with erysipelas.

A free trial of extension station service in residences or business places is also offered. Application may be made for this service to District Manager C. W. Runyon, 333 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. MRS. ELLA B. SMITH HAS PASSED AWAY

SUCCUMBS TO ASTHMA AFTER A LONG ILLNESS.

Mrs. Ella B. Smith died at her home, 65 Westervelt avenue, Saturday night, following a long illness with asthma. While she was a sufferer with this disease for many years, it was only during the past year that she was considered seriously ill. Last summer she was at Liberty, Sullivan county, N. Y., but the change was not very beneficial.

Mrs. Smith was born at Glen Cove, L. I., and was a resident of this city nineteen years. She was prominently identified with church and charitable enterprises, being a member of Grace church, the Women's Guild, Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., Women's Christian Temperance Union and the Christian Alliance. For several years she was a very active member of the committee from the Women's Guild of Grace church, looking after the poor of the parish. She will be greatly missed in these various societies.

Surviving Mrs. Smith are three children, Mrs. Lester R. Walton, of New York; Miss Elsie T. Smith and H. Clifford Smith, of this city; three grandsons, Lester R. Walton, Jr., Stanley W. Walton, of New York, and Gordon L. Smith, of Plainfield; also four brothers, J. T. Bowne, of Springfield, Mass.; S. R. Bowne, R. Frank Bowne and William H. Bowne, of Glen Cove, L. I., and one sister, Mrs. W. H. Zabriskie, also of Glen Cove.

The funeral services will be held from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be in charge of Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson and Rev. E. M. Rodman, of Grace church. The choir of the First Presbyterian church will also sing. The interment will be at Hillside cemetery and the four brothers of Mrs. Smith will serve as pall bearers.

EDWARDS' ACTING PRAISED BY CRITICS

APPEARS IN REPERTOIRE WITH MISS MAUD FEALY.

Rowland Edwards, son of Maze Edwards, of the Casino, and who was visiting here a short time since, is now a member of the Gilmore Stock Company at Springfield, Mass., and during the past few weeks has been meeting with the greatest success of his career as an actor. The organization is headed by Miss Maude Fealy, who was Sir Henry Irving's leading woman for several seasons, and her associates include some of the best known members of the profession. Last week the company produced Hall Caine's "Eternal City" and The Springfield News has the following in a lengthy criticism:

"Conspicuous for intelligent and forceful acting was Rowland Edwards as Bruno. He acted with intelligence and fire, and in the tribunal scene, riveted the attention of the audience on him to the exclusion almost of the other persons in the picture. His death fall was effective and well done. In fact, the honors of this week's production are pretty evenly divided between Miss Fealy and Mr. Edwards."

The Springfield Republican, one of the most widely quoted papers in the country, had the following to say of his work: "A pleasant surprise was furnished by Rowland Edwards in his portrayal of Bruno Rocco. He made the most out of the part and won deserved applause. In the scene before the tribunal he did highly creditable work."

Mr. Edwards is a very young man but the notices he has been receiving are seldom accorded actors far beyond his years. His training in stock, especially with a company headed by Miss Fealy, will prove of great value to him and it is not at all improbable that he will be heading a similar organization within a season or two. He has many friends in Plainfield who will be greatly pleased to hear of his success.

Mr. Edwards still claims Plainfield as his home.

Memorial Services.

The State prison at Trenton will pay an unusual tribute tomorrow to the memory of Major Edward J. Anderson, for ten years supervisor of that institution. During the hours of his funeral, which will be held at his late home in Somerville, the convicts will be assembled in the prison chapel for memorial services.

Two Games Tonight.

The New Brunswick Y. M. C. A. five will play the local association's combination at Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight. The Business Men and the Wanamassa Boat Club will play between halves.

PLANS ANOTHER CIRCUS

Y. M. C. A. Physical Department Outlines Interesting List of Wider Activities.

NEW BOWLING LEAGUE

Athletic Competition Also on the Cards—Leaders for Gymnasium Groups to Be Chosen by Test.

Relieved by the resignation of Mr. Boardman and the appointment of Mr. Robbie as his temporary successor, from the incubus of uncertainity, the physical work department of the Y. M. C. A. has taken a spurt that will rekindle the spirit of activity that marked the heyday of Director C. E. A. Heywood's regime.

As soon as the time was ripe for the announcement of his authority over the department, Mr. Robbie plunged into the work centering about the gymnasium and the news that he was to take charge was followed almost immediately by the announcement of several important departures from the attitude of relaxation that seemed to have settled down on the physical department.

For one thing, leaders will be chosen to train various classes in gymnasium work. A schedule of tests to demonstrate the men best fitted for leadership is to be prepared by a committee composed of Edward Neal, Walter Cahoone and Harry Scull. The committee will meet on December 28.

Another circus is to be held in February. Arrangements for that affair have been placed in the hands of the following committee: John Steiner, Stryker Hoagland, E. J. Cullingworth and Charles Sebrings.

Arrangements for an athletic meet are being made by Ray Smith. A list of events is to be planned by Smith and two others not yet named. The winner will earn the title of champion. Medals will be offered and the winners of the various events will have their names inscribed on the shields of honor that hang in the gymnasium.

A committee of four has charge of the arrangements for the formation of a bowling league. Four teams at least, it is expected, will be formed, and a trophy will be offered to spur them on to lively effort. The bowling committee is made up of C. B. Koons, F. A. Martin, G. Harold Whitney and A. L. Jeffery.

MONEY FOR SCHOLARSHIP.

Undertaking of a Christian Endeavor Society.

For the purpose of raising funds toward the support of a young woman at Salem College, West Virginia, which it has undertaken, the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church held an entertainment and tea in the church parlors, yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. The affair was arranged by a committee of which Miss Mary Ross was the chairman.

During the entertainment a double quartette of young women sang favorite songs used at Salem College, and Mrs. Violet Johnson rendered several violin solos. There was also a reading by Miss Mary Ross.

Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard and Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis poured tea and the young women waitresses wore the student cap and gown. There was a large attendance of members and friends of the society and a considerable sum was realized.

BOYS' Y. M. C. A. COUNCIL.

New Feature in Work Announced by Executive Committee.

The State Executive Committee of the Y. M. C. A. held its quarterly meeting in Newark last week, and among those present were W. D. Murray and F. H. Andrews, of this city, old members of the committee. A dinner followed the meeting.

Reports on the work in all parts of the State were made by State Secretary E. W. Hearn and Charles R. Scott, State Secretary for Boys' Work. The latter announced the organization of a Boys' State Council, to be composed of Y. M. C. A. juniors over fifteen years old. They will elect their own officers and will meet, from time to time, to discuss the work in the different departments. The council will be a clearing house for ideas in boys' work. The local boys' department will, of course, affiliate with the council.

Mr. Craig's Advancement.

An adjourned meeting of the Council will be held tonight. Bids for the widening and deepening of the Sanford ditch will be opened.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peters will live temporarily at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Le Matty, Plainfield.

Mrs. O. H. Day has been ill for several days. The shock of her husband's recent death has naturally left its mark on her.

William G. Vance is still in a critical condition. There is practically no hope of his recovery.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The fur mill, which closed several weeks ago, resumed work again this morning. It is reported that the former firm of Harper, Hollingsworth & Darby has been reorganized under the firm name of Harper & Hollingsworth, and will continue the manufacture of shoddy for the hat trade. The former employes were given notice last week to report for duty Monday morning, as the mill would reopen on full time.

Saturday night the Baptist Sunday school will receive its annual visit from Santa Claus. The committee has arranged an entertaining programme of recitations, carols and a Christmas cantata entitled "The Counterfeit Santa Claus." Besides this there will be a Christmas tree loaded with presents for all. The public is invited to attend the exercises and help welcome Santa on his annual visit.

Miss May Adams, of Brimfield, Mass., who has been spending a week with Mrs. Edward L. Hand, has returned to Plainfield, where she is spending several weeks with Mrs. W. R. Buckley, of South avenue.

Rev. G. M. Shott's address at the 4 o'clock meeting of the Y. M. C. A., held yesterday in the association hall, was enjoyed by a number of his former parishioners from here.

NEW JERSEY IN CONGRESS.

Mr. Fowler Files a Couple of Petitions.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—Representative Fowler has filed a petition from the Elizabeth Board of Trade favoring the betterment of the Consular service, and another petition from American Council, No. 25, Junior Order United American Mechanics, favoring the restriction of immigration.

Senator Dryden will accompany a committee from the New Board of Trade to the White House on Monday morning next, to see the President and invite him to speak at the annual banquet of the Newark Board of Trade in January. Mr. Rouzer, Senator Dryden's secretary, arranged with Secretary Loeb for the meeting on Monday.

Leave of absence has been granted to Allan L. McDermott, of Jersey City, until January 15, on account of illness. Mr. McDermott is in one of the local hospitals for treatment, and he expects to be able to return to his duties in the middle of January.

The New Jersey Congressmen have received a communication from Hugh Roberts, of Jersey City, secretary of the New Jersey Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, favoring the abolition of the duty on works of art.

Many applications for places in the government printing office are being received by the Senators, but unless an applicant has passed with an average of more than ninety-five per cent. there is little chance for getting a position as the eligible list is very large, and there are many eligibles who have excellent averages. The reinstatement of former employes has also been refused of late because of the big eligible list.

Senator Kean has received a petition from Moorestown in favor of the pure food bill.

TUBERCULOSIS.

Dr. T. Bassett Keyes, of Chicago, read at the International Congress of Tuberculosis, St. Louis, 1904:

"I shall now give my results in the cure of Tuberculosis by the subcutaneous injection of oil. The oil which I have selected in the treatment of my cases has been Olive Oil of a very HIGH GRADE, thoroughly sterilized, using OLIVE OIL in PREFERENCE to other oils on account of its being non-irritating and very readily accepted by the system. I give my results thus early, believing that the cure of tuberculosis is solved and that by so doing, many lives will be saved. I hope and trust that physicians will at once take up this method of cure."

"SFAX" Virgin Olive Oil is ABSOLUTELY PURE, with its natural, rich, nutty flavor. Ask this brand to your grocer for table use. Ask your physician to investigate for medicinal use.

M'CARTER VISITS COLBY.

Head of Public Service Corporation Talks on Taxation.

Senator-elect Everett Colby unfolded some of his views on equal taxation and limited franchises at a private conference in Newark Friday with Thomas N. McCarter, the president of the Public Service Corporation. The conference was suggested by Mr. McCarter, who telephoned asking the Senator-elect if he had a few minutes to spare for a talk with him.

Mr. McCarter, when he emerged from Mr. Colby's office, declined to discuss the nature of the interview further than to admit that the question of the assessment and taxation of public utilities franchises formed a part of the conversation.

Mr. Colby, in his frank manner, however, talked freely about the interview, saying that he and Mr. McCarter did not agree as to the method of taxing franchises.

The main question discussed was a plan of assessment and taxation. Mr. Colby told Mr. McCarter that franchise valuations should be fixed as accurately as those of a plot of land. He suggested that the money appropriated by the company holding franchises for its cars, tracks and other equipment be subtracted from the amount put into the company and the balance taken as the value of the franchise. Reference was made to the Ford act of New York, providing taxation on franchises according to the market value of the holdings of a company and to the Voorhess act in New Jersey, which makes provision for a 2 per cent. tax on a company's gross earnings.

Mr. Colby pointed out the contention of the courts where steam railroad franchises were involved wherein a francnise is valued at the rate of 60 per cent. of the difference between tangible and intangible property of a company. In the case of a street railroad Mr. Colby declared it would be a conservative taxation to exact 70 per cent. of this difference, since it picks up its business along the streets.

Mr. Colby said that if the public utilities companies were assessed at the local rates on their franchises as he suggested they would pay 4½ per cent. of the gross earnings instead of 2 per cent., as required by the Voorhees act.

It could not be learned just how Mr. McCarter differed with the limited franchise champion on this subject.

Plainfield, N. J., December 18, 1905.

Did you get a subpoena?

It seems that the Rahway reformatory is fast getting into the class with the Middlesex and Somerset county jails.

No one will censure Violets Hyde for giving all the dinners he wants to French actresses so long as he is not in a position to use the Equitable's funds for the purpose.

When the incoming Common Council fixes upon the salaries of city officials it will no doubt raise those of the treasurer and police court judge. Just think of paying a man who has charge of the finances of this city but $900 per annum.

It is quite certain that the present management of the Jersey Central Railroad is anxious to please its patrons in this city, where it derives the largest income, in all probability, of any station along its lines. For this reason we call the officials' attention to the time table put in force on December 3, being prompted to do so by complaints received from regular patrons of the road. Under the new conditions of the schedule there is not a single express eastbound from 9:59 in the morning until 6:29 at night, with the exception of the 2:31 in the afternoon. And westbound, there is not one express to this city from 10:00 in the morning until 1:20 in the afternoon. We do not presume that the management intends to make Plainfield a waystation, as it was at one time, for surely there is enough passenger traffic here to warrant a schedule at least as good as that in use before December 3.

For the benefit of some members of the Common Council who opposed the exaction of the penalty on C. M. Meeker's contract to macadamize certain streets in the West End, it might be well to draw attention to a similar case in New Brunswick. Only last week the Common Council of Middlesex's county seat took the opportunity to show that contractors must live up to the binding agreements they make with that municipality. The case in point was where a firm had neglected to pave a street within the time limit. The penalty named in the bond was $5 a day for each day over the time when the work was to be completed, and amounted in all to $100. Not only did the city fathers order this sum to be deducted from the contractor's bill, but it also withheld five per cent. of the cost of the work as a guarantee that the street will be kept in repair for that time. In addition it exacted a bond of $1,000 that the road would be all right at the end of five years. As previously pointed out by The Daily Press, this is the only thing to do here. Mr. Meeker disregarded the terms of his agreement with the city and the penalty on his $11,000 contract will amount to about $300. This sum should be saved the taxpayers and it is the duty of the Common Council to see that it is.

SCHOOL MEN BANQUET.

Superintendent Krebs One of Those at Middlesex County Affair.

About seventy-five men interested in public schools met at the Mansion House, New Brunswick, Saturday afternoon to enjoy the annual banquet of the Middlesex County School Board Association and to gain inspiration and instruction from the speeches which had been prepared for the occasion.

The banquet was a fine one. At the head table with County Superintendent H. Brewster Willis sat Assistant State Superintendent J. B. Betts, of North Plainfield; W. E. Florance, a member of the State Board of Education; Prof. Louis Bevier, State High School inspector; Prof. John W. Wilson, of the New Brunswick Business College; Superintendent Krebs, of the borough schools; Matthew Suydam and John Suydam, of the Somerset county schools, and Dr. A. L. Smith, of New Brunswick.

The subject of proper compensation for education of school children when sent from one district to another was discussed and reports from about forty districts in the State were given. Assistant State Superintendent Betts drew some lessons gained by comparison of methods in forty districts.

Dr. Smith discussed the vaccination question, as there are about 3,000 pupils in Middlesex county who are not vaccinated.

The session proved a profitable one to all in attendance. Superintendent Willis acted as toastmaster and kept things moving along briskly and entertainingly.

The nominating committee then rendered its report and the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, H. Brewster Willis, of New Brunswick; vice-president, J. O. Cozzens, of East Brunswick township; secretary, William Carman, of Metuchen; treasurer, D. W. Clayton, of Cranbury.

"TELEPHONE" MEN IDENTIFIED.

Recognized by Philadelphia Woman As Thieves.

Elizabeth, Dec. 18.—In the company of Detective James Tate, Mrs. H. W. Phillips, 4939 Cedar avenue, West Philadelphia, came here Saturday and identified the men under arrest here as the men who robbed her residence on October 12 last of jewelry valued at $1,400. They gained entrance by posing as telephone inspectors. They told Detective Tate where some of the goods had been disposed of in New York, and he will go there today to recover them.

The prisoners have already been identified by photographs as men who, pretending that they were workmen, looted the residences of J. P. Tuckerman, at 1410 Tioga street, Philadelphia, of jewelry valued at $1,000, and the house of H. C. Dingee, at 1430 Allegheny avenue, Philadelhia, of jewelry and other effects valued at $500.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Turrill, of Grove street, are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a daughter, born Saturday.

ANNUAL MEETING OF STATE TEACHERS

GATHERING OF EDUCATORS TO BE HELD AT ATLANTIC CITY NEXT WEEK.

The fifty-first meeting of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association, which will be held at Atlantic City on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, gives every promise of being one of the most interesting sessions in the organization's long and interesting history. In the first place, the gathering at Atlantic City will be the first ever held outside of Trenton, and in the second place there are unmistakable evidences that an effort is to be made to either have the affairs of the Teachers' Retirement Fund made subordinate to the concerns of the association, or to form a separate organization for the conduct of the fund.

For a year the opponents of the found forces have been striving to gather strength to oust it from the leading position in the deliberations of the association, and on the other hand the fund cohorts have been very active in strengthening their lines to meet the attack. The educators who wish to put the fund affairs on a basis different from that they now hold, contend that they have no wish to injure the fund movement, but argue that the State Association has been diverted from its original lines of activity by the fund business, and that the association must return to its old methods or split. There are some, however, who argue that it is yet to be proven that the fund can be self-sustaining, and these may express their views pretty freely before the coming meeting is over.

At the last session on Friday morning, Miss Elizabeth A. Allen, general secretary of the Teachers' Retirement Fund, will make her report.

The report of the Retirement Fund Commission, which it is expected will prove one of the most important presentment to be made during the entire meeting, will cover these points:

1. Whether the legislative plan for securing retirement annuities for invalided teachers, as provided for by Article XXV of the School Law, if properly enforced and generally supported by the teachers of the State, is calculated to insure the establishment of a sound and practical system for the retirement of such teachers upon conditions prescribed in the act.

2. Whether such legislative plan is being enforced in all its parts by those charged with the duty of enforcing it, and whether its provisions are being obeyed by those upon whom they have become obligatory.

3. In what respect, if any, the said legislative plan for teachers' annuities can be strengthened and improved by amendment, supplementary legislation, or otherwise.

4. To inquire generally into the benefits to the public school system of a teachers' retirement annuity system.

5. To discover on what basis teachers' annuity systems in the various States and cities are organized, and how administered.

6. To make such recommendations in regard to the New Jersey law as the commission may deem proper.

The commission is composed of Judge William R. Codington, of Plainfield; Charles H. Hartshorne, of Jersey City, and Professor Byron C. Mathews, of Newark. The commission organized on May 29, 1905, and has held about twenty sessions, at which they have taken testimony, secured data relative to the standing of the Retirement Fund in this State in accordance with the resolution under which they were appointed. They have investigated the status of retirement funds and pensions in other States, and they have secured expert testimony and advice, which they have used in reaching their conclusions. The commission will present a full report embracing its conclusions relative to the present standing of the fund, and they will make suggestions for future legislation, if in their judgment it may be necessary.

ELKS WANT LATITUDE.

Object to Being Restricted in Initiatory Work.

At the instance of many members of the Order of Elks, the Grand Lodge of that order is considering a revision of its rules limiting the use of certain paraphernalia and apparatus in the initiation work of the local lodges.

Notices have recently been sent to the local lodges asking that formal requests for permission to continue the lodge's favorite ritualistic ceremony be forwarded to the State executive.

Many of the most prominent Elks have expressed discontent with the ruling imposed about a year ago by the Grand Lodge. They say that the restrictions thus placed upon the work of initiation eliminated a large part of the interest taken by members in it, and that a great falling off of members has resulted. These members argue that lodges ought to be allowed to make their own initiation ceremony as picturesque and interesting as possible, provided they do not conflict with the important requirements of the more formal ceremony stipulated by the national organization. They claim that latitude in this respect would result in increased membership and larger meetings.

THREE BANKS FAIL.

$26,000,000 Involved in High Finance Crash.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—Reckless investments in Wall street assets, connected with the railway and coal enterprises of John R. Walsh, Chicago millionaire, resulted today in the suspension of the Chicago National Bank, the Home Savings Bank and the Equitable Trust Company, three of the largest banks in this city, all of which were under the direction of Walsh. Failure of these banks was announced at the unusual hour of 3:30 this morning, after a conference which had lasted eighteen hours.

Only prompt action by the Chicago Clearing House Association averted one of the greatest financial crises ever experienced in this city and enormous loss to depositors. The Clearing House Association, at 3 o'clock this morning, pledged the Clearing House banks to pay the depositors of the three institutions in full upon demand. This action is taken on condition that the three institutions wind up their affairs and cease to do business as quickly as possible. In all $26,000,000 is involved in the crash of the great banking triumvirate. The Chicago National Bank had $16,000,000 in deposits and the Home Savings $4,000,000 deposits belonging to 8,000 depositors.

Doris Keane is one of the few actresses now before the American public who really stepped from the best circles of New York society to an enrollment among the members of one of Charles Frohman's traveling companies. Miss Keane is a member of the wealthy Keane family of New York and travels with her own maid and companion while on tour. Last season she was in "The Other Girl" company, and this year she plays the ingenue role in "De Lancey," Augustus Thomas' comedy, in which John Drew will be seen in the chief role at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday, December 22.

"A Desperate Chance," the play that has made an international reputation the world over, is to be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre Christmas afternoon and night. The management looks forward to a capacity business during its coming engagement. The play is without doubt the greatest melodrama of modern times and although not entirely new to our theatregoers, it never fails to draw large audiences. The scenes and the action of the play are from real life and several pleasing specialties are introduced throughout the performance, giving the audience an opportunity to divert its attention for awhile from the serious portion of the play.

In these theatrical days of so much tomfoolery and frivolous offering it is positively refreshing to note with what uniform success the poetic drama of "Mozart" is meeting, hence it is not at all surprising to note the profund interest in evidence here respecting the forthcoming presentation of a play founded upon the exciting as well as romantic features in the brief career and sad ending of the world's most cherished composer, Howard Kyle, upon whom falls the burden of greatest responsibility, in order to impart fidelity to the noble character, has an enviable record as an actor of distinguished accomplishments. Those who especially recall his fine portrayal of "Nathan Hale" and John Ermine in "On the Yellowstone" will cheerfully testify to this, and it is therefore small wonder that Maurice Campbell has selected so earnest a student of dramatic art to interpret so charming a work. The play will be seen here Saturday afternoon and night, December 30.

The limited co-star engagement of James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering in Alfred Sutro's great play, "The Walls of Jericho," at the Savoy theatre, New York, is without doubt the great dramatic success of the present year. This play is now in the fourth month of its engagement and the large crowds that fill the theatre at every performance are loud in their praise of both the play and the company, which gives a flawless performance of one of the most delightful and interesting dramas ever presented in a New York theatre. Seats are selling four weeks in advance, including the regular weekly Thursday and Saturday matinees and special matinee performances on Christmas and New Year's Day.

"Wonderland" will close its season Saturday, December 23, and will be followed, starting Christmas matinee, by Marie Cahill in the part of "Molly Moonshine" in "Moonshine," which has been pronounced by the critics as the best she has ever had. This jolly and refined musical play by Royle-Hobart-Hein had one of the most successful runs that has ever been known at the Liberty theatre, New York. So unquestionable was the demand for a continuation of the piece that Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger regretted not having booked it at the Liberty for a more extensive engagement. But the next best thing possible was done, and Miss Cahill has been playing in the greater city since. This will be the last opportunity to see her this season, as after New York City she will fill her engagements in the West. "Moonshine" has charmed by its exquisite and yet an abundance of fun. Marie Cahill is the one woman on the American stage today who can make women and children laugh heartily. She has a rare sense of humor and a personality which takes it out over the footlights instantaneously. Her natural magnetism is helped by a wonderful talent as an actress. No one in the world can sing the Cahill songs as she can. And she has plenty of good ones this time. "Looking for My Ten," "Robinson Crusoe's Isle," "In Our Set," "Don't Be What You Ain't," and "Foolish," are all being sung about the city, and each is so good as to still leave it an open question as to which will be the hit of the present season.

That remarkable personage, "The Girl With the Red Domino," whose face has not been seen by any theatregoer in New York, is to be one of the attractions at Mr. Proctor's 23d Street theatre the week of December 18. This act is one of the most sensational that has ever appeared in New York, and its merit is not based solely upon the fact of the woman's secret identity, but is picturesque in the extreme. Surrounding the Red Domino is one of Mr. Proctor's extraordinary programmes. Nick Long and Idalene Cotton, in their new and original comedietta, "Managerial Troubles," will not fail to please the large Proctor audiences. During the comedietta Miss Cotton will give her famous imitation of Mrs. Fiske, as "Leah Kleschna" (by kind permission of Mr. Harrison Grey Fiske).

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

"Little Johnny Jones" is booked for a two weeks' engagement at the Grand Opera House, New York City, beginning New Year's Day. This will mark the twelfth engagement on Manhattan Island for George M. Cohan in this famous musical melodrama, and his farewell to the role of the American jockey, which will then pass to the capable hands of Bobby Barry. Bobby has been playing the part with the Western "Little Johnny Jones" company all the season, and his place with that organization is to be filled by Johnny Cantwell, a very clever singing and dancing comedian.

Corporation Notice.

The undersigned, Commissioners heretofore appointed by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield to make an estimate and assessment of damages that any owner or owners of land will sustain by the laying out and opening of Sycamore Street from the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street to the northwesterly side line of East Fifth Street, pursuant to the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to lay out and open Sycamore Street from the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street to the northwesterly side line of East Fifth Street," approved March 7, 1905, and also to ascertain the amount of damages that shall be assessed as aforesaid, and of all necessary expenses incident to such laying out and opening and to make a just and equitable assessment thereof among the owners and occupants of the lands, tenements and real estate benefited thereby, in proportion to the benefits each shall be deemed to acquire, said assessment to be made pursuant to the amended charter of the city as amended or modified by general statutes of the State, and particularly by the act entitled, "An Act respecting assessments in Cities," approved April 21st, 1876, hereby give notice that they have this day filed their report and assessment in the office of the City Clerk, and that the same is open to inspection of the public, and will be presented to the Common Council at the meeting of that body to be held at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, on the twenty-ninth day of December, 1905, at eight o'clock, p. m.

The character of the work and improvement is the laying out and opening of Sycamore Street between the points stated in the above mentioned title of said ordinance.

The lands taken are designated on a map and schedule accompanying said report and assessment, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, entitled "Assessment Map for the laying out and opening of Sycamore Street from the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street to the northwesterly side line of East Fifth Street, City of Plainfield, N. J.," to which map reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

The lands assessed for benefits are the lands fronting on Sycamore Street as ordered laid out and opened by said ordinance, and other lands fronting on said Sycamore Street extending from East Fifth Street to East Sixth Street and from East Sixth Street to East Seventh Street; also on other lands fronting on East Fourth and East Fifth Streets, extending northeast from said Sycamore Street to a line midway between said street and Watchung Avenue, and extending southwest from said Sycamore Street to a line midway between said street and Park Avenue; also the plot of land fronting on the southeasterly side of East Seventh Street facing Sycamore Street, and are also shown and designated on said map and schedule, to which reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

Store Open Every Night Until Xmas.

150,000 people at least will come to our store the next few days and evenings for their Christmas gifts, because it is only here in New Jersey that choice is vast and varied—a worthy and formidable rival of the big New York stores. No matter which way the visitor turns, the suggestion of a suitable present immediately looms up. That doesn't happen anywhere else in Newark. Our buyers made an extra effort to excel all previous Christmas preparations and succeeded admirably. The heavy burden of business proves it. The end of the great army of gift buyers is coming into view. The finish will find quite as choice as the beginning, for our immense stockrooms are ever ready to replenish delinquencies of the counters and shelves.

Our Dolls and Games.

Three times more Dolls and Games than any other Newark store exhibits or has in stock, is the choice we offer, and our collection is in every way prettier and more desirable in appearance and durability. We have dolls that are such close imitations of humanity that you almost expect them to speak to you.

The Hahne Toyland.

Seems absurd to tell Jersey people that we have the Only Toy Store in the State. Everybody knows that—but everybody doesn't know that we have excelled all our previous displays this year, and that already the children are wild over the many new and amusing features.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

USE OF TURPENTINE.

Turpentine is excellent and soothing when applied to scalds and cuts.

It will take ink stains out of muslin when added to soap and also helps to whiten clothes if added to the water in which they are boiled.

Moths will not come near clothes sprinkled with turpentine; they seem to hate its odor. A few drops of turpentine sprinkled where cockroaches congregate will exterminate them at once, while it will also drive red and black ants away.

Tan leather boots can be nicely cleaned with turpentine. Pour a few drops on a woolen cloth and rub.

White kid boots can be cleaned by rubbing them well with spirits of turpentine, using a clean white rag; they will first appear quite yellow, but must be dried before the fire and flour rubbed well into them to restore their pristine freshness. When quite dry, carefully wipe the flour off.

Turpentine applied with a bit of flannel will (especially when the stains are deep) restore the whiteness of ivory knife handles.

Gilt frames can be cleaned by wiping them with a small sponge moistened with oil of turpentine; wet the sponge only just sufficiently to take off the dirt and fly marks, then allow the frames to dry of themselves.

Turpentine is an immense boon for blisters on the hands, while it is also good for corns on the feet.

HOW TO LOOK YOUR BEST.

When you wish to look your best at a dinner or dance on any special occasion, if tired, lie down in the afternoon, and be sure to throw off both shoes and corsets, for without the removal of these, as a hospital nurse once told me, you get no real ease. Now take, and quickly, a warm bath and afterwards rub your spine well with eau-de-cologne or verbena. Dress very slowly and take plenty of time to arrange your hair. The face should first have been carefully washed with water as hot as could be borne, softened with bran, and then sluiced with cold water, into which some toilet vinegar had been dashed. To brighten the eyes, bathe them in a teacupful of water which has been slightly salted. Whatever happens, be sure to have all your clothes, your stockings, shoes, gloves, handkerchief, laces, handbag, fan, opera glass, or what not, laid out ready for you in the afternoon, your hair brushes washed, etc., so that when the hour comes for you to dress you can have no sort of worry or hurry, and can make your toilet composedly. If a pick-me-up be needed, there is no recipe so good as a glass of boiling milk sprinkled on top with nutmeg. To be sipped slowly.

IF I ONLY KNEW.

If I only knew the box where the smiles were kept,
No matter how large the key
Or strong the bolt, I would try so hard—
'Twould open, I know, for me;
Then over the land and the sea, broadcast
I'd scatter the smiles to play,
That the children's faces might hold them fast
For many and many a day.

If I knew a box that was large enough
To hold all the frowns I meet,
I would like to gather them, every one,
From nursery, school and street,
Then, folding and holding, I'd pack them in,
And, turning the monster key,
I'd hire a giant to drop the box
To the depths of the deep, deep sea.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Manager McGraw, of the New York Giants, has completed arrangements for the southern training trip of the champions. On March 1 the team will report at Memphis, where they will remain until the 20th of that month, playing some exhibition games with the Southern League teams. On March 24, the team will play at Nashville, and the first game on the northern trip will be played at Louisville, March 31 and April 1. Then the team will play at Indianapolis, April; 2 Wheeling, April 5; arriving in New York on April 7 to play New York University. It is likely that games will be arranged with Little Rock, Dayton and Columbus. It has been decided next year to introduce a new idea in traveling uniforms. Two sets will be carried on the road, the black suit, which the team wore in the world's championship series, and the gray, the team changing from time to time on the trip. McGraw will remain in New York most of the winter, not going to Hot Springs until early in January.

WOOD CONFIDENT.

Congressman Says Rate Bill Will Become Law.

Congressman Ira W. Wood ran up from Washington Saturday to spend Sunday at home at Trenton and incidentally gave expression to his opinion as to what congress will probably do with reference to railroad rate legislation and government control of insurance. In an interview with a representative of the True American he said:

"I do not think there is any question about what the house will do with regard to a railroad rate bill. The feeling seems to be as it was in the last session. There will certainly be a railroad rate bill and the measure that will be passed by the house will measurably at least conform with the ideas of the President.

"As to insurance, it is not likely that in the face of the opinions of the Supreme Court there will be any radical action. If the matter is taken up at all congress will probably content with legislation in which its power is clearly defined."

PARENTS GIVE RECEPTION.

Happy Event at Mr. and Mrs. Abrams' Home.

In honor of the confirmation of their son, Jacob Abrams, at the synagogue of the Children of Israel, Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. M. Abrams gave a reception at their home on Grove street, yesterday afternoon. It was attended by 100 friends from this city, New York and other places and was an enjoyable affair. The young man made a confirmation address, taught him by Rabbi Kantrowitch, of New York, that elicited many complimentary remarks. He also received many presents.

Following the confirmation service Saturday, Mr. Campus, a wealthy New York merchant and close acquaintance of Mr. Abrams, presented the congregation with a costly gift in honor of the affair.

A Saffron Dream.

Samuel Rottberg, an employe of Harry Werner, is indignant over a bald fake regarding him that appeared in Saturday's Courier-News. Mr. Rottberg found a bank pass book in New York and returned it to the trust company whose name appeared on its cover, which simple little incident formed the basis of a hysterical tale by one of the Courier-News fiction writers, wherein Mr. Rottberg figured as a haloed young man who returned $850 in cash to a grateful banker and the recipient of a warm letter of thanks and what the Courier-News novelist called a "tribute to his honesty." Mr. Rottberg has been pestered ever since the publication of the fake by facetious friends and well-meaning bearers of congratulations. He thinks the incident has put him in a ridiculous position, and is the more indignant because the Courier-News refused, when he asked the management for such action, to tell the truth about the matter.

Entertainment for Chapel.

A successful entertainment was held by Marconnier chapel last week, for the benefit of the general funds. The programme was rendered by the Sagamore Musical Club and Miss Aimee Louise Emmons, elocutionist, of this city. The music was much enjoyed and Miss Emmons scored a decided hit. The attendance was large.

New Chemical on a Run.

The borough's new chemical engine was given its first official run, yesterday, when an alarm was turned in for a small chimney blaze at the home of William Rowley on Linden avenue. It was put out without using the machine, hand extinguishers being sufficient.

H. F. KEAN BIDS FOR CONCESSIONARY GRANTS

UNION COUNTY MAN AFTER RAILWAY FRANCHISES IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—The first practical step toward inaugurating a modern and thoroughly-equipped railroad system in the Philippines was taken Friday when bids for the various concessionary grants were opened at the War Department.

Among those present was Governor-General Wright, of the Philippines, who came to Washington for this purpose.

The proposed system contemplates eleven lines, aggregating 1,200 miles in length. Standard gauge of 4 feet, 8½ inches will be required, except on such short spurs as may be excepted by the Philippine government. Steam will be the general motive power, except that electricity may be employed on any particular line with the consent of the governor-general.

The concessionaries will be given the right-of-way through all public lands, and will have the right to secure private property for right-of-way by means of condemnation proceedings.

The Philippine government is to receive for the first thitry years one-half of one per cent. of the gross earnings, for the next fifty years one and one-half per cent., and thereafter such amount as shall be fixed by the government. Interest on the first lien bonds of the concessionaries may be guaranteed by the Philippine government for a period of thirty years, at a rate not exceeding four per cent. per annum.

The government reserves the right to consider the ability of the bidder to carry out a contract if awarded to him.

Simultaneously with the opening of bids in Washington this morning bids were received and opened in Manila.

There were three bids, of which that of J. G. Speyer & Co., of New York, is considered the most important. This concession offers to construct 425 miles of railroad in Luzon, in connection with the existing properties of the Manila and Dagupan Railroad Company, an English concern, whose concession expires in eight years. It agrees to do the work without any government guarantee. If this offer is accepted, it would mean eventually the operation of about 633 miles of road in Luzon under one management.

Another bid was made by Kean, Van Cortland & Company, J. G. White & Company and Charles M. Swift & Company, associated with Cornelius Vanderbilt, R. P. Wilson & Company and the International Banking Corporation, of New York. It covers the lines in Panay, Negros and Cebu, and is made under the government's guarantee of four per cent. interest on ninety-five per cent. of the actual cost of construction for a period of thirty years.

The third bid was made by a Seattle concern, composed of Morris McMicken, G. Gresskins, G. Poncin, Jacob Furth and E. C. Hughes. It covers the line in the Province of Albay, Southeastern Luzon, and is in accordance with the interest on 95 per cent. of the cost of construction for thirty years, except that the road is to be completed in three years instead of one year, as set forth in the government's specifications.

Kean Congratulates Longworth.

Congressman Longworth, the prospective son-in-law of the President, Wednesday made his first visit to the Senate Chamber at Washington since his engagement was announced. He was for a few minutes the centre of attraction, and Senators made haste to grasp his hand and congratulate him, Sentor Kean being the rst to wish him a long and happy married life. Senators Allison, Foraker and many other of the leaders followed the New Jersey Senator in their congratulations.

Congressman Wood intends to see what he can do this year for both Princeton and Trenton. He has introduced the bill for $30,000 for the battle monument at Princeton, which has passed the Senate several times and always failed in the house. Then he has introduced a bill making an appropriation of $100,000 to enlarge the postoffice at Trenton, a much needed improvement, as the United States courts are terribly crowded at present.

NAMES NOT ON THE LIST.

Murray and Breintnall Not on Revision Board.

Trenton, Dec. 18.—Gov. Stokes, as cammonder-in-chief of the National Guard, has issued an order through the adjutant-general's office calling a meeting of the State military authorities for tomorrow to consider proposed changes in the military regulations of New Jersey. It is special order No. 82, and is as follows.

"The following named officers, Major-General P. Farmer, Wanser, division; Brigadier-General Edward A. Campbell, First Brigade; Brigadier-General Quincy O'M. Gillmore, Second Brigade; Brigadier-General Joseph W. Congdon, inspector-general; Brigadier-General Edward P. Meany, judge-advocate general; Colonel Dennis F. Collins, Second Regiment. Infantry, National Guard; Colonel Edwin W. Hine, Fifth Regiment, Infantry; Colonel Henry W. Freeman, First Regiment, Infantry; Colonel John A. Maher, Third Regiment, Infantry; Colonel Joseph H. Brensinger, Fourth Regiment, Infantry, and Commander Albert DeUnger, Second Battalion Naval Reserves, are hereby appointed a board to prepare the necessary amendments to the 'act concerning the military and naval forces (revision of 1900),' approved March 23, 1900, to conform to the regulations now prescribed for the army and navy of the United States, so far as they may be applicable to our States forces.

"The board will meet for organization at the office of the adjutant-general, Trenton, Tuesday, December 19, 1905, at 11 o'clock a. m., and at such other times and places as may be designated by the senior office."

After the order was issued Friday afternoon considerable wonder was expressed among some of the guardsmen that Adjutant-General Breintnall and Quartermaster-General Murray were not included. These indulged in some speculation as to why two of the most important officers in the National Guard had been omitted from the board.

DRIVER SELLS AMBULANCE.

Jersey City, Dec. 18.—The midnight sale of one of the ambulances by a driver and its recovery by Warden McAndrew, while the purchaser was on his way to the ferry with the purchase were one of the revelations at the investigation being made by the committee of the local Board of Health into the affairs of the City Hospital. The warden stated he received notification at midnight a few nights ago that an ambulance had been taken from the stable and was being driven down the hill behind a wagon. He gave chase, overhauled the men who had bought it for $40 and forced them to return the ambulance. The driver refunded the money to the purchaser and was suspended.

The committee began its inquiry Wednesday night at the hospital, and was in session until midnight. It was shown that beer was carried to the stable.

Warden McAndrew was a reluctant witness and disinclined to enter into details of the alleged quarrels and lack of discipline among employes. He admitted that the rules had not been rigidly enforced and that there had been no fire drills. The warden, when pressed to tell why this drill, which should be held weekly, had been neglected, replied that, if there was a fire, he would fight the flames.

Testimony was given to show that one of the men nurses, suspended a few days ago, was addicted to strong drink. It was also shown that a patient had been in the hospital two weeks before it was discovered that he had smallpox, and that a poor woman who went to the hospital to have a prescription filled was unsuccessful because the apothecary could not be found.

The warden, who is required by the rules to sign all prescriptions before they are filled, said he was often absent from the hospital on business. The investigation will be resumed next Wednesday night.

MAYOR GETS SUBPOENA

So Does City Judge Runyon and Other Prominent Men.

SERVED LAST NIGHT

Chief of Police Kiely received instructions, this morning, regarding the policing of the Smalley building tonight during the trial of the Kiel charges, from the police board. The public is not to have the run of the council "gallery" as was at first thought.

The instructions, which are signed by William S. Bullock, as secretary of the police board, direct the Chief to reserve half the seats in the "gallery" for witnesses. The crowds are to be kept out of the building until 8 o'clock.

Subpoena serving went on in unchecked rush yesterday. As late as 10 o'clock last night Officers Vanderweg and Myers, detailed by Chairman Tyler, were busy leaving papers for prosecution witnesses. No substitutes were on their posts. Patrolman Saunders was also off duty for some reason, so that the police protection of the city last night was a shaky sort of thing for a time.

Some of the former police commissioners were also served with subpoenas yesterday.

Mayor Buckle and City Judge Runyon was among those served last night. It is not known what the prosecution hopes to show by those officials, but neither of them, despite his close affiliation with the organization, seems greatly worried over the impending inquisition. Former Mayor Chas. J. Fisk, former Assemblyman Newcorn, Lawyer Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., are among those served today to appear for the defense. It is beginning to be plain to the outsider that unless the prosecution conducts its examinations with carefulness and handles certain official witnesses with a velvety touch the testimony will take on the nature of a cut-and-slash affair. It is certain that the public will be very much disappointed—or, at least, surprised—if generous chunks of mud are not heaved toward the prosecution by some of the witnesses for the other side. There are men so suspicious of frail human nature that they expect to see some of it stick.

The resolution which led to the order given to Chief Kiely, passed at the meeting of the Police Board December 13, is as follows:

"Resolved, That the chief of police be and hereby is instructed to make arrangements for reserving one-half of the seating space in the audience room of the Council chamber at No. 149 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J., for the witnesses of both parties, on each evening of the trial of the charges against the chief of police. It is the desire of the board that the space reserved be the half farthest from the entrance door."

"It was further suggested," Mr. Bullock's letter to the chief reads, "that arrangements should be made to keep the crowds out of the building until 8 o'clock, but no formal resolution was passed to this effect, as it was desired to leave the policing of the building and Council chamber to your judgment."

Xmas at First Baptist Church.

The Sunday school of the First Baptist church is preparing an elaborate Christmas entertainment to be held probably on Friday night, December 29. The affair will be in the form of a cantata and William Holmes, of the church choir, is now engaged in rehearsing the children of the school. The regular Christmas service will be held on Sunday morning and afternoon, when the choir will give a programme of appropriate anthems. In the afternoon the Sunday school service will be held.

MRS. J. H. ACKERMAN GOES TO HER REST

PHILANTHROPIC WOMAN PASSES AWAY PEACEFULLY.

Mrs. Ellen R. M. Ackerman, widow of the late J. Hervey Ackerman, passed away last night, after a brief illness. She was the daughter of Rev. Dr. Richard U. Morgan, of the Protestent Episcopal church, and was naturally as well as spiritually a devoted member of the church of her fathers. She was a woman of rare Christian virtues and until impaired health restricted her personal activities, she was practically interested in every department of church work.

In her family she was a faithful wife and affectionate mother. Among her circle of acquaintances she was always hospitable, kind and unselfish. In her church relations, as already referred to, she was remarkably loyal, generous and charitable. As a Christian her delight was in doing good to those who were in need of gracious assistance. She yielded up her spirit quietly in the presence of all her immediate family, her two sons and their wives and her two daughters with their husbands.

LECTURE ON COLONIAL LIFE AT MONDAY CLUB

PROF. ANDREWS, OF BRYN MAWR, PICTURES GROWTH OF NORTH AND SOUTH

Prof. Charles McLean Andrews, Ph. D., of Bryn Mawr College, lectured before the Monday Afternoon Club at the Casino yesterday afternoon. His subject was "Factors in the Northern and Southern Development." It was a continuation of the club's study of colonial life.

The attendance was large. Professor Andrews spoke most interestingly and received the undivided attention of his auditors.

He compared the New England colonies and the colonies of Virginia and Maryland, outlining the course of their development and pointing out the different factors that went into their making. The great difference between them, he said, lay in the fact that the Southerners were aristocrats or of aristocratic tendency, while the Northern colonists were simpler folk—what modern Americans call the common people. In the South the colonists were largely given to cultivating and managing big estates, which led to a conservative, clannish and classy spirit, while those in the North were clustered more in towns, which gave to their lives a democratic tone. Another difference between the two peoples lay in the prevailing religions. The Southerners were, for the most part, of the Established Church, while Congregationalism held full sway in the North.

Miss Marguerite Steinberger, soprano, of Brooklyn, and the renowned violinist, Frederick W. Schalscha, of New York, have promised their services. Most of the scenery used in the tableaux and the play has been especially sketched for this occasion by the well-known landscape artist, Jonas Lie.

Tree at Children's Home.

Justice Nash Improving.

The condition of Justice V. W. Nash, of Prospect avenue, is very much improved. Dr. Ard, the attending physician, called in consultation two New York specialists, and after an examination it was their opinion that Mr. Nash's eyesight will not be impaired, although it will be sometime before the soreness disappears. The face will be more or less scarred.

What Press Want Ads Do.

Another evidence that Daily Press advertisements pay, is shown by the quick recovery of a silver watch lost by Miss H. Connoly, of West Eighth street. She advertised her loss in The Daily Press and Miss Catherine Peney, of Somerset street, a reader of this paper, found the watch, saw the advertisement and returned the lost property for which she received a reward.

TO FORM 'VARSITY CLUB

MEETING AT CASINO

For the purpose of getting together all the college men in the city and borough and promoting a greater degree of fellowship, plans are now being discussed for a "university smoker," to be held at the Casino on a date to be decided upon later. Owen Fleming, of Park avenue, a graduate of Princeton University, has taken the initiative and the affair promises to be a great success.

It is estimated that there are nearly 300 college graduates in Plainfield, and it is believed that fully one-third of that number would join in the celebration. As to numbers, Yale men predominate here, there being about eighty graduates, while Princeton is second with about fifty graduates. Amherst has nearly fifteen, Pennsylvania has thirty, and the balance represent Harvard, Lafayette, Lehigh, Brown, Bucknell, New York University, Cornell and various other institutions.

Invitations were sent out today by Mr. Fleming to the college graduates known to him, and they are asked to spread the news and help make the affair a success. The invitation also says that there will be plenty to eat, drink and smoke, with good music and addresses. A meeting of college men will be held within a short time, when the date for the smoker and other details will be fixed. The music for the occasion will comprise favorite college songs, and this will be made a feature. An effort will also be made to secure the presence of several prominent out-of-town college men to make addresses, and it is possible that one or two college presidents may attend.

If the smoker meets with the success anticipated, it will probably be made an annual affair, and an association may be formed to perpetuate the true college spirit. It is believed that with 300 college graduates in Plainfield a strong and influential organization can be effected which would insure many good times. Those who have been acquainted with the plans under discussion are enthusiastic over the idea and have signified a desire to lend every effort to make the first gathering a success.

MRS. J. A. GAVETT DEAD.

Mother of City Engineer Gavett Passes Away.

Mrs. Julia A. Gavett, wife of William L. Gavett, of Sandford avenue, died at her home yesterday afternoon, following a serious illness of several weeks. Mrs. Gavett was the daughter of Warwick Hobbs, of Wells, Maine, and lived during the early years of her marriage in Boston and Cambridge, Mass.

About forty years ago the family removed to this city, and thus can be counted as one of the oldest residents. Among these Mrs. Gavett numbered many friends, all of whom can recall instances of her unobtrusive acts of kindness and sympathy.

Mrs. Gavett is survived by her husband, two sons, Andrew J. Gavett and Joseph W. Gavett, and one daughter, Mrs. Henry W. Rankin.

The funeral services will be held from the late residence, 33 Sandford avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

A SOCIETY TEA.

Mrs. John Dumont Was the Hostess —Many Present.

Mrs. John B. Dumont, of Stelle avenue, gave the third and last of a series of teas at her home yesterday afternoon, and it was a delightful affair. The home was attractively decorated appropriate to Christmastide. Those who received with Mrs. Dumont were Mrs. Augustus D. Shepard, Mrs. J. C. Gilbert, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. J. C. Corlies, Mrs. H. C. Adams, Mrs. W. G. Delanoy, Mrs. Clifford W. McGee and Miss Dorothy Fleming.

About seventy society folk enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess.

Tale of Two Wheels.

Clifford D. Manning, the North avenue real estate man, loaned his bicycle to Michael Higgins, yesterday, and the latter rode around to Roth & Co.'s on Front street, leaving it at the curb. When he came out, he got on a wheel that did not belong to him and someone else, probably the owner, took Manning's. The tangle has not been straightened out yet and Mr. Manning has advertised for his own mount.

TROLLEY CAR THROWS BLOCKS OF ICE ABOUT

HITS NATURAL ICE COMPANY'S WAGON AND OVERTURNS IT.

One of the Natural Ice Company's wagons, loaded to the roof with big blocks of ice, was struck by through line trolley car No. 1926 at Second street and Watchung avenue this morning at 9:25 o'clock. The wagon was overturned but the driver, James Blumetta, a boy, escaped severe injuries, although he was flung out under the heels of one of the team.

The wagon was one of two proceeding together, one before the other. The first wagon cleared the track ahead of the car, but Blumetta, for some reason, drove directly in the path of the conveyance. The car struck the front wheel of the cart, turning it over as neatly as if the job had been planned and executed by engineers. Blumetta tumbled from his seat right under the horses' feet, and chunks of ice flew in all directions. The car was not damaged and the motorman escaped injury.

The horses did not attempt to run away, but the one near where Blumetta fell stamped nervously and bruised the driver painfully before he could scramble out of harm's way.

The wagon was not damaged enough to put it out of commission, and after it was righted the men from the other cart threw the ice back and Blumetta drove on. The car had proceeded after a very brief delay.

FIGHT IN ELIZABETH COUNCIL.

Ford and Collins Battling for Supremacy.

George Ford, the president of the Elizabeth City Council, and Col. D. F. Collins, who aspires to succeed him for 1906, are waging a bitter factional fight for supremacy.

While the Ford forces are very quiet and are making no public claims as to the number of votes they will be able to secure, the Collins faction is more outspoken, claiming between ten and twelve votes, while only nine are needed for a choice.

There is also talk of a new excise commissioner to succeed Chief of Police John Keron, whose term expires this month. William Miller, a dry goods merchant in Elizabeth, is prominently mentioned as a successor to Chief Keron, while the friends of the present incumbent are working hard for him, declaring that he has made one of the best commissioners Elizabeth ever had.

Facts? What Are Facts?

The youthful fact-twister of the Courier-News is still busy spreading misinformation. The young man learned something at the railroad station yesterday and hurried to his office to report that "the total amount realized from the sale of tickets for westbound trains is $15,000, and for eastbound trains, $6,000," so far this month. The railroad officials would like to know when the tides of travel were shifted so as to send more than double the number of New York-bound passengers in the direction of Dunellen, Philadelphia and other upcountry places. Maybe they didn't teach the young man the difference between east and west in school.

Miss Lawrence a Story Writer.

Features of the December Acropolis, the Newark High School paper, include the stories that secured first places in the short-story contest which closed last week. Lawrence, of the borough, and is a member of the junior class of the Newark High School.

The basketball attractions at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night will include a game between the first team and the Yorkville Branch, East Side Y. M. C. A., New York. The New York team beat Newark Y. M. C. A. State champions and a very fast game is expected here.

THIS JUDGE FIXES ADVERTISING RATES

DECLARES $10 A YEAR ENOUGH FOR AN ADVERTISEMENT IN WEEKLY PAPER.

In the suit of A. V. Kline against a Bound Brook weekly paper, before Judge Schenck, in Somerville, the judge ruled that only $10 should be allowed for a three-inch advertisement in a country newspaper for one year. Mr. Kline sued the paper for work done in installing a steam heating plant in the office. His bill was for $110.

On the part of the weekly newspaper it was claimed that Mr. Kline owed for advertising and subscriptions almost sufficient in the aggregate to offset the amount of the bill.

Instead of allowing $18, the price charged by the paper for the three-inch advertisement for a year, Judge Schenck cut the amount down to $10, although Carl Hoagland, managing editor of the Somerset paper, whose opinion was asked, said he would not have taken the advertisement for his paper for less than $25 a year, and the sum of $18 was little enough for it.

COMPANY K. MEMBERS PREPARE FOR FAIR

WILL BE HELD IN ARMORY WEEK BEGINNING FEBRUARY 19.

The members of Company K are completing arrangements for their annual fair to be held in the armory February 19-24, and there is every indication that it will be as successful as those held in the past. Captain W. B. Martin, who is chairman of the general committee, has appointed these members as the heads of the various committees:

Refreshments, Corp. Robert Goldsack; donations, Sergeant George Apgar; door, Corporal Compton; publicity, Corporal Tranchard; floor, Sergeant A. I. Littell; treasurer, Sergeant Asa F. Randolph; secretary, Corporal Bilyeu. The other members of the committees will be selected later from the company.

On February 26, the term of enlistment of seventeen members of the company will expire, they having served five years. It is expected that twelve or fifteen of this number will re-enlist. According to the government of the State militia they will re-enlist for a year at a time, and for this reason the company is likely to lose but few men. With a one-year term they have the privilege of withdrawing at the end of that time, while many would object to another five-year term.

It is expected that February 26 will be made quite an occasion by the company for each member whose term expires will receive a five-year service medal and there will be other interesting exercises to mark the event.

MAJOR ANDERSON BURIED.

Governor Stokes Attends Obsequies at Somerville.

Governor Stokes, Head Keeper Osborne, of the State Prison; Prison Inspectors William Carter, William Hall and Eli Ducjer, besides Dr Thomas McKenzie, James Kersey and Colonel Edward D. Fox, the executive clerk, attended the funeral yesterday, in Somerville, of Major Edward J. Anderson, the late supervisor of the State Prison.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Charles Fiske, rector of St. John's Episcopal church. There were no honorary pallbearers. The floral tributes were numerous and costly. After the services the body was taken to Lambertville for interment.

As a mark of respect the convicts at the State Prison stopped work at 2:30 o'clock, the hour of the funeral, and spent the rest of the day in their cells without employment.

Xmas at Trinity.

The Christmas exercises at Trinity Reformed church will be in charge of the Sunday-school on Sunday night. Special music will be rendered by an orchestra consisting of three violins, 'cello, flute, piano and pipe organ. The large chorus choir will render several selections, besides singing, recitations, etc., by the school. At the morning service Dr. Schenck will deliver a special sermon on the "Birth of Our Saviour."

Caught Fever in Eating House.

Arthur Denton, of Washington avenue, has recovered from an attack of typhoid fever and is able to be out again. He will return to his studies at Brown University the first of the year. Denton was one of ten students at the university taken ill with the fever, and it was afterwards learned that the disease was contracted at one of the eating houses in Providence.

FRUSTRATED A BURGLAR

Mrs. Corlies' Presence of Mind Stood in Good Stead When Intruder Faced Her.

SHE ACTED QUICKLY

Walked to Another Room and Sounded Several Blasts on a Coaching Horn—Aid Came, but Man Escaped.

Looking up from a book that she was reading at her home Saturday night, Mrs. J. E. Corlies, of Roadending, was greatly startled to see an ill-appearing man shading his eyes and peering through a window into the room. She was alone at the time and though badly frightened by the apparition, sat perfectly still. Dropping her eyes, she pretended to resume reading, but instead continued to covertly watch the face, which was still to be plainly seen and to all appearances was there to stay until the owner had mapped out a plan of action.

Mrs. Corlies mapped out one herself, and laying down the book, yawned perceptibly and then started slowly for another room, giving the impression that she was to retire. Instead she hurried to a room on the upper floor, where a horn is kept to summon her coachman, and throwing open a window, gave several strong blasts. The employe responded, and was informed of the occurrence, but though he hurried about the grounds, the man had made good his escape. He had evidently intended to rob the house and was sizing up the rooms in order to have a fixed plan of exit in case he was detected and an alarm was given.

Mrs. Corlies' experience is one that would throw most women into hysterics and her planning to catch the fellow while he was watching her movements has caused admiring comment among her friends. The house is situated a considerable distance from any other residence and as a rule some of the employes are always about the place at night.

RANDOLPH PERKINS' CLAIM TO GREATNESS

UNION COUNTY ASSEMBLYMAN KNOWS HOW TO HOLD UP RAILROADS.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Union county, has demonstrated that he is a great man as a leader—a man who can rise to emergencies and overcome difficulties, to whose will even the haughty conductor of a Washington express train will bow in humble submission. Mr. Perkins was on his way to Trenton in an automobile last Tuesday. He started early in order to be on time to attend the caucus of the Republican Assemblymen, who were slated to choose him as their leader. But his machine—perhaps it had been doctored by a Colby sympathizer, for George L. Record is an expert chauffeur, and he is said by the "regulars" to be capable of any villainy—balked when he was half way between his home in Westfield and the Pennsylvania Railroad station in Metuchen. It was a critical moment for Mr. Perkins. Had he hesitated, he would have been lost, and he knew it. So, striking out boldly on foot, the Assemblyman reached the railroad station only to find that the last morning train for Trenton had left. Without a moment's hesitation, Mr. Perkins flagged an approaching Washington flier, entered the train, produced his pass and demanded that he be put off at the State capital. The conductor protested, the Assemblyman insisted, hot talk was exchanged, but—the train stopped at the Trenton station, and Perkins triumphantly wended his way to the capitol and participated in the caucus.

What a triumphant vindication for the coming leader of the Assembly! He has shown that when he wants to "hold up" the railroads he can do so, and nothing can move his determination. What show would a railroad lobbyist stand before him when even the conductor of a fast express quailed before his compelling gaze? It is not to be supposed that that conductor knew that Mr. Perkins was the author of the Union county Republican platform, which did not mention the "main stem" in its plank on taxation. The conductor runs trains, not politics. It was Mr. Perkins' hypnotic eye, his manly form, his determined attitude, his forceful arguments, that secured for him the triumph on Tuesday. He has, therefore, demonstrated his entire fitness for the job with which he has been honored by his party faction. Where he leads, it is to be expected that the others will follow.—Newark News.

THE DUKE HEARING DRAWS LARGE CROWDS

TOBACCO MAN'S DIVORCE SUIT BEGAN AT NEWARK, YESTERDAY.

Witnesses in such numbers appeared at the opening hearing before Vice Chancellor Pitney at Newark, yesterday, of the suit for divorce brought by James B. Duke, the millionaire tobacco man, against Lilian N. Duke, on statutory grounds, as to necessitate a "change of venue" to Vice Chancellor Emery's courtroom, which is larger.

The defendant, who is a woman of ample proportions, was dressed in black, with a flare hat of white velvet, faced with black velvet and trimmed with large black feathers. Her hair is a deep bronze color. She was Mrs. Lilian N. McCready, a widow, when Mr. Duke married her, November 29, 1904. Seated behind her counsel, Chauncey G. Parker and Samuel Kalisch, she was the centre of interest.

The hearing yesterday was on the issue of jurisdiction only, the answer of counsel for Mrs. Duke setting up lack of it as to both the parties to the suit, and this subject matter, and throughout the taking of the testimony of Mr. Duke, who was the first witness, on this phase of the suit, Mrs. Duke watched him intently with a smile playing about her face.

Mr. Duke's testimony related altogether to the question of domicile. His examination was conducted by Richard V. Lindabury, with whom, as counsel for the petitioner, are associated Alvah A. Clark, of Somerville, and Junius Parker and W. W. Fuller, of New York.

Interpolations by the vice chancellor made it plain that he regarded the question of a man's domicile largely a matter of intention. Very pronounced comment to this effect was made by the court when Mr. Lindabury drew from the witness that he had voted at Millston,e Somerset county, in 1896, 1900, 1904, and added, "and in 1905."

"Now, that is after this action commenced, and certainly is incompetent," Mr. Parker interrupted. "I move to strike that last out."

"Strike it out!" Mr. Lindabury assented.

"I won't strike it out, even if Mr. Lindabury does consent," the vice chancellor broke in.

"It has a bearing on the question at issue, and I have very marked reason to know what the opinion of the Court of Errors and Appeals is on this question. I recall the case of a man and wife who lived in Trenton. They moved to New York and the man engaged in business there. After a little more than a year the man came back to Trenton and some time later he began suit against his wife for divorce. Service was made on her in New York. She did not contest the suit and the man got a decree. Later she filed a bill for review and I sustained that bill and set the divorce aside. The Court of Errors reversed my holding, in effect that a man's residence continues where it had been established until it is established elsewhere.

"I think it was wrong, with great deference, but I have been reversed in two other like cases. I have always held that it required a higher decree of domicile where service is made out of the State, and have refused two ex parte divorce cases on that ground, only to be reversed by the Court of Appeals.

"The higher court in each case held that presumably the man's residence continued in New Jersey, and that the removal to New York was not sufficient to change the matrimonial domicile. I do not agree."

"You do not agree, but you submit," suggested Mr. Lindabury.

"I submit," assented the vice chancellor, and he followed up his confession of submission with the question:

"Have you ever voted in New York since that time?" to which Mr. Duke answered, "No, sir."

Mr. Duke told that he was born in North Carolina, came North in 1884, and engaged in the business of manufacturing tobacco and cigarettes at 6 Rivington street, in New York city.

To the vice chancellor's question he answered that he was not married when he came North, and it was brought out that his marriage to the defendant was his first matrimonial venture.

Mr. Duke further told of having lived in different places until 1893, after his purchase of the farm in Somerset county, which he made the nucleus of the great estate he now owns and which, Mr. Duke said, comprises about 1,800 acres. The present estate represents a great many purchases, and Mr. Lindabury took up the first hour of the hearing examining Mr. Duke as to the various deeds of conveyance, in nearly all of which he was described as being a resident of Somerset county.

The deeds were all marked for identification, and Mr. Lindabury next produced copies of the charters and bylaws of the several tobacco companies with which Mr. Duke is connected, and in all the more recent ones, going back a matter of ten years, he was likewise described as a resident of this State. As a witness before the "Lexow committee" in 1894, it was brought out by Mr. Lindabury, Mr. Duke also represented himself as being a resident of New Jersey.

Mr. Kalisch objected to this latter statement as not being competent coming from the witness himself, and the vice chancellor said: "I think it is competent." Summing it all up, Mr. Duke said:

"In everything I signed and in every declaration in which I have made on solemn oath, I gave Somerset county as my place of residence."

COAL OPERATORS NOW TALKING OF PEACE

STATEMENTS THAT THEY MAY RECOGNIZE THE UNION.

Tamaqua, Pa., Dec. 19.—Prominent individual coal operators of the southern anthracite region see nothing alarming in the action of the miners' Shamokin convention. When asked if they thought a majority of the operators would meet the miners' committee and treat with it they said they could see no reason why such action should not be taken.

That this would be tacit recognition of the union they admit, but pointed out that the operators have to all intent recognized the union for three years by having three of its representatives on the conciliation board.

This strengthens the growing belief that the operators will consent to renew the present wage scale, continue the conciliation board and adjust grievances as is done at present. Further than this the operaeors probably will not go, and the miners will not insist that they shall.

While the old dislike of the operators for the unions still exists it is not as stron gas three years ago. All the coal producers are making more money than ever before and are not seeking a fight.

President Mitchell's action in taking the discussion of wages out of the convention and placing the whole matter in the hands of the officers is believed to have been in order that he might dominate the situation more effectually. The Hazelton convention three years ago rode roughshod over Mitchell and declared a strike, and he is taking care that history does not repeat itself.

May Not Have Book Reaudited.

Rahway, Dec. 19.—Former Tax Collector Reed has failed to file with Mayor Terrill his desire to examine the city books for the purpose of having them reaudited by an accountant of his own. After filing this, the Mayor can use his own prerogative in regard to whether or not he shall appoint a man to stand by the accountant in the interest of the city and see that no account is altered. Should the Mayor not wish to make the appointment, he can refer it to the City Council for that body to act. The matter of who shall pay this man for watching may have to be decided by the courts. This means a delay.

SCHOOL IS CLOSED AFTER 145 YEARS

MILLBURN'S "LITTLE WHITE SCHOOL HOUSE IN THE OLDEN DAYS.

"The Little White School," at Parsonage avenue and Old Short Hills road, Millburn, which was recently ordered closed by the Millburn Board of Education, has for so long been "a seat of learning," and has so many recollections surrounding it, that there was many a pang of regret among the older residents when they learned that it was the intention of the board to close the school.

The closing was due to lack of attendance, many of the older scholars from the neighborhood attending the other schools of the township, leaving only the younger ones to attend the little school where the attendance had dwindled to twelve at the time of the closing. Since that time three of these children have moved away, and two others will leave in a short time for the city, which reduces the number to seven, and the majority of these can attend the other schools without great inconvenience.

The plot of ground on which the school house stands was originally given for school purposes by the land owner about 145 years ago, and the original "little white school," the name which has clung to it ever since, was then given it. At that time it was a very crude affair, as schools go nowadays. There were no individual seats, with desks, slate blackboards, etc. The benches for the older scholars ran the whole way around the sides of the room, while the little ones had lower benches in the centre of the room, and in winter the place was heated with a wood stove. In those days the schools were not supported by the State, but the expense of running them was paid by the people whose children attended them.

In summer the attendance would be confined to the younger children, the older ones being kept at home to do the farm work and getting but a "quarter" education in the winter. The attendance at the school at such times would be large, running as high as seventy-five or eighty, and the pupils were taken care of in a simple room, such as the school laws would now say would not be large enough for a dozen.

The oldest living person at present who at one time attended this school is John D. Meeker, of Main street, Millburn, who is now in his eighty-third year. It was at the age of 6, or seventy-seven years ago, that he first attended there. At that time the school was governed by a board of trustees, Jonathan Meeker, his father, being one, and the other two were Samuel Bailey and John D. Parkhurst. At this time the nearest schools were one at Jefferson Village, now known as Maplewood, which stood in Ridgewood road near Baker street; a "little red school" above Deantown, at the junction of Morris avenue and the road leading to Feltville, and the old academy at Springfield, which stood on the site of the school which was burned a few years ago. At this time Jonathan Parkhurst, who conducted a pasteboard mill where the Diamond paper mills now stand, and who was one of the wealthiest and influential men in the town, wanted some change made in the manner of running the school, but failing to win the trustees to his way of thinking, he built a school, and for awhile conducted it as the first Sunday school in the township, afterwards turning it into a day school. This building was near the mill gate, and has since been added to and is now used as a dwelling. In a short time this school was abandoned, but the "little white school" still remained in business at the old stand, and many of the descendants of the old people who attended there are living in Millburn today. The names of the most familiar of these old families are Campbell, McChesney, Reeves, Taylor, Bailey, Meeker, Parsil, Parkhurst, Smith and Ross.

Some of the reminiscences of the old school days by Mr. Meeker are interesting, especially one where the school master, a little bit of a "Yankee," thrashed eighteen of the largest boys in the school for disobeying him about remaining too long at the noon hour on the ice at the "big pond," now known as the Newell Pond, a short distance from the school.

The only other pupils who attended about the time or shortly after Mr. Meeker, and who are living today are: Abram Parkhurst, of Millburn; Aaron Parkhurst, of Branch Mills; George Ross, who is living with his son-in-law at West Livingston, and Phoebe Clark, who afterward married Oliver Bailey and is now living in this city. Oliver Bailey also received his early education there, and was at one time the teacher. Scores of the pupils who received their early education there have died, others have drifted too far away, but the "little white school" still remains, fenced in on its little bit of ground, about as large as a cemetery plot, and with the trees which were planted years ago now standing sentinel over it to protest it from the elements and the destroying hand of man.

Miss Genevra M. Miner, of New York, was a guest at the home of her uncle, Joseph E. Morse, of Franklin place, Saturday and Sunday.

MGR. STAFFORD OFFICIATES.

Lays Corner Stone of Elizabeth's New Polish Church.

Elizabeth, Dec. 19.—In the absence of Bishop O'Connor, of the Newark diocese, Monsignor Stafford, president of Seton Hall College, and former curate of St. Mary's church, Plainfield, laid the corner stone Sunday afternoon of the new Polish church of St. Adelbert, located on Third street, Elizabethport, in the presence of more than 3,000 people. There was a short parade of Polish military and civic organizations prior to the ceremony. The grand marshal was Michael Swindsky. He had a corps of mounted aides. The procession was headed by a Newark band.

Owing to the religious revival now in progress in Elizabeth, the parade was not as long or imposing as it otherwise would have been and was confined chiefly to the lower part of Elizabethport. There was a short address by Monsignor Stafford and a sermon in Polish was preached by the rector of the new church. He informed Monsignor Stafford that his flock now numbered 2,000. They worship at present in Grand Army Hall.

The new religious edifice, which will be a combination of a church and parochial school, the latter to be on the first floor, will be dedicated and formally opened on Easter Sunday, 1906. It will cost about $40,000. A collection was taken up during the exercises.

SAY THEY'RE OLD THIEVES.

Men Captured at Elizabeth Ancient Hands at the Game.

Elizabeth, Dec. 19.—William Mackey and Edward Egan, old thieves, so the police allege, were caught Saturday night at Elizabethport working the "flim-flam" game, which they operated successfully there a week previously. The prisoners are each over fifty years old. Egan was born and raised in Elizabethport, but his accomplice is a stranger, and as yet refuses to tell where he belongs.

The men were identified by John Britt, manager in Roth's meat market, as the parties who had buncoed Miss O'Brien, the cashier in the place, out of $10 on Saturday night, December 9. It is said that they also swindled a storekeeper in the upper part of the city out of $20 the week previous. Both prisoners were stylishly dressed. They will be held at police headquarters for a few days before being arraigned, so as to give a chance for more charges to be made against them.

Old Resident Buried.

Whitehouse, Dec. 19.—The funeral of Thomas Fritts, eighty-three years old, one of the oldest residents of Somerset county years ago, was held Friday in the Reformed church at Pottersville. Rev. Frederick M. Baeder, the pastor, officiated, and the interment was in the cemetery adjoining the church. Mr. Fritts was born at Anthony, in Hunterdon county, and was a son of the late Morris Fritts and Cornelia Lunger. He married Miss Sarah Lance at Whitehall (now Woodglen), in this county, and she, with the following children, survive him: John A. Fritts, of Chester; M. L. Fritts, of Lincoln, Neb.; Enoth Fritts and Mrs. Frederick K. Lamerson, of Pottersville, and Mrs. John Heath, of Somerville.

Edward G. Forbes, of East Sixth street, has returned from a week's visit with friends at Flushing, L. I.

A daughter has brightened the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Horne, of Hackensack. Mr. Horne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Horne, of Willow avenue.

—Members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will attend the funeral services of their late comrade, William G. Vance, at Dunellen, tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

BOY GROUND TO BITS.

Struck by Fast Express at Elizabethport.

Elizabeth, Dec. 19.—To be ground to bits by the wheels of an express on the Long Branch Railroad at Elizabethport was the awful fate that befell Abe Cohen last evening, the quietest and one of the hardest working newsboys in that section of Elizabeth. It was owing to the fact that the papers he handled came late to Elizabethport that indirectly led to the boy's frightful death. He was hurrying over the railroad crossing at Fulton street to deliver them to his customers, when he got bewildered by two trains coming in opposite directions.

He was hit by the locomotive of the eastbound train, known as the "Flying Dutchman," and tossed about twenty-five feet ahead on the same track. Then the entire train passed over his body, fragments of which were strewn along the railroad for two blocks. They had to be gathered up with a shovel and removed to Martin's morgue. The lad was fourteen years old, and a son of Isaac Cohen, who resides at 228 South Fifth street. The papers he was carrying were torn and scattered along the tracks. The same train that killed young Cohen struck and killed at about the same hour on January 6, 1902, Cornelius O'Leary, a brother of Police Captain John J. O'Leary, of Elizabeth's Second Precinct.

ASSAH. MINSTREL PARADE.

Almost a Riot When Youths Stampede Dog and Fail to Budge Donkey.

Some of the students of Stevens Institute at Hoboken had an encounter Friday with a minstrel troupe that nearly caused a riot. Hi Henry's company paraded through the principal streets of Hoboken headed by Henry in a barouche. They wore high silk hats and long gray coats.

By the side of the barouche walked a big St. Bernard dog and at the tail end of the procession came Maud, a donkey, said to be owned by John Reilly, of Jersey City, employed in Perry's drug store, Manhattan. While the paraders were passing Stevens Institute some of the students, who had been sitting on the steps of one of the buildings eating their luncheon, made a rush for the dog and drove the animal into the grounds of the institute.

Another group tried to corral the donkey, but Maud was obstinate and could not be budged. Finally when she let fly with her heels and nearly landed on the head of one of the boys the attempt to make her a prize was abandoned.

In the mean time some of the minstrels had gone back in pursuit of the dog and had captured it. As they led the St. Bernard back to the street they were bombarded by the students, who showered apples and other missiles on them.

Some of the silk hats were badly damaged and the long gray coats sadly soiled. But for the appearance of a couple of policemen there might have been a serious disturbance, but the sight of uniforms sent the students scurrying back into the grounds of the institute. Then the ranks were reformed and the parade went on.

ASKS JERSEY TO TAKE PART.

Governor Sends Out Letter Requesting Fire Company to Go to Italy.

Trenton, Dec. 19. — Governor Stokes sent to the fire commissioners of the larger cities of the State Saturday copies of a letter received by him from the Consul General of Italy, inviting New Jersey to participate in the international fire congress to be held at Milan next spring. It is understood that the promoters of the congress would like to have a New Jersey fire company and apparatus sent to Italy. The letter of the Consul General follows:

"On May next, on the occasion of the international exhibition to be held in Milan, an international congress will be opened for the prevention of fires and the best means of extinguishing them. This congress is promoted by the Italian Federation of Firemen, under the patronage of His Majesty the King of Italy, and will also include a host of competitive exercises and maneuvers between the different companies of Italian and foreign firemen.

"The participation of the State of New Jersey, that is to say, all of the principal twons of the State, being eagerly sought of, I beg of your excellency, in the name of my government, to bring to the knowledge of those municipal authorities which may be interested, in order that the participation of the world renowned American firemen may be assured to the congress.

"Hoping that through the high intervention of your excellency, the wishes of the Italian Federation of Firemen may be attained, I remain, with the assurances of the highest consideration," etc.

—Harry Thompson, of Belvidere avenue, has taken a position with the Ingersoll-Rand Company, of New York.

—George Carpenter, of this city, who has been enjoying a furlough granted by the English Navy, is temporarily filling a position at the Naval Branch of the Y. M. C. A., in Brooklyn.

—The second rehearsal of the "Pirates of Penzance," which is to be presented for the benefit of the day nursery, was held under the direction of William Holmes at the Casino last night.

The figure of merit for the State was, the past season, 51, the Fifth Regiment being the highest, with a figure of merit of .58, the Second Regiment being next with a figure of merit of .52, followed by the Third Regiment .49, Fourth Regiment .44, and First Regiment .38.

There were qualified: Expert riflemen, 206; sharpshooters, 51; marksmen, 1,170; first class, 413; second class, 436; third class, 913; fourth class, 1,264.

The First Troop, Newark, has the highest figure of merit, 1.26, qualifying every man on the roll; expert riflemen, 13; sharpshooters, 4, and marksmen, 35.

In armory practice the First Regiment leads with 494 qualified; the Fifth Regiment being next with 448 qualified; followed by the Fourth Regiment, 425; Third Regiment, 364, and Second Regiment, 234.

The First Battalion of naval reserve had their rifle practice while on a cruise on the U. S. S. Portsmouth, with very successful results.

General Spence recommends that the rifle practice be held during camp and that all the regiments shall go into camp each year. He says: "In view of the increased range facilities and the present system of employment of scorers and markers from the colleges, we shall be so situated that there is no reason at all why the organization going into camp should not obtain all or practically all of their rifle practice during their camp. Rifle practice with ball cartridges is a much more efficient instruction than extended order drills with blank cartridges, although not quite so spectacular. I sincerely hope that arrangements may be made whereby the entire National Guard will encamp by regiments for a period of five weeks in all and that the rifle practice at the share of, say, two companies per day, be extended over this period.

"Additional time, say three weeks, can be afforded after the camp is over for the practice of those who are unable to go to camp, who may be entitled to fire in the higher classes than those practiced during the camps. I believe that the money saved in transportation and the money saved in subsistence to the regiments during rifle practice will be almost sufficient to pay the difference necessary to encamp the entire National Guard each year. It goes without saying that a more efficient guard will be developed and a larger percentage will have an opportunity to qualify upon the rifle range."

Captain W. C. Gannon, inspector of rifle practice of the Fourth Regiment, is announced as the winner of the Governor's championship match.

Reference is made to the use of the magnificent facilities at Sea Girt for the rifle practice of the United States troops. Six companies of the Eighth Infantry and seventeen companies of coast artillery completed all of their practice on the Sea Girt ranges.

As to the national match at Sea Girt, General Spencer has the following to say:

"The third national match, under the supervision of the National Guard for promotion of rifle practice, pursuant to act of Congress, was held at Sea Girt beginning August 24. The first national match, in 1903, was held at Sea Girt, and fifteen teams competed. In 1904 the competition was held at Fort Riley, Kan., and nineteen teams competed. This year at Sea Girt thirty-seven teams were entered and competed. The housing and care of this vast number of competitors was undertaken by the State of New Jersey, and if commendations and congratulatory letters count for anything the efforts of the State was a decided success."

After telling of the arrangements made at Sea Girt for the national match General Spencer says:

"While Sea Girt is not especially a candidate for the next match, or for future matches, still it is to be regretted that the tendency of the regular officers is toward a permanent match at Fort Riley, under strictly regular army regulations. Nor can we agree with General Hall, in his report, that the Fort Riley range makes it the most available point in the United States. It is true that it is near the geographical center of the country, but nowhere near the geographical center of the population, much less of the shooting population. If the national match is to be a success in the future it must be a joint competition, held under joint auspices, and not in any sense strictly under army control."

Plainfield, N. J., December 19, 1905.

And so you got a subjoena? Well, well, well, who would have thought it?

It is a long way off before the next mayor will be named, but what's the matter with Leslie M. Daniel?

The only argument in favor of the railroad's new schedule is that it will make the local people do their Christmas shopping in Plainfield. There is only one express train to New York between 10 in the morning and 6:30 at night.

According to the official statement of the State's department of banking 106 institutions held a grand total of deposits amounting to $218,377,198.87. This was on Nov. 6 and at that time the aggregate resources figured up to $272,275,016. The sixty-three trust companies, including the Plainfield Trust Company, showed combined resources amounting to $165,716,054.60, while the aggregate of the deposits was $122,486,980. Of this grand total, $1,600,000 represents that of the local trust company. The statement shows that the resources of the 26 saving banks, including the Dime Savings Institution, amount to $92,126,894.40, while the total amount of their deposits is $84,706,945.92. The combined reports of the seventeen state banks show that these institutions have resources amounting to $14,432,067.84, and the aggregate amount deposited with them is $11,183,272.95. The deposits and resources of the National banks, among which are the City and National banks of this place, are not incorporated in the report because they are under Federal supervision.

XMAS GIFTS COST A LIFE.

Child Burned While Mother Was Out on Shopping Trip.

Before going out yesterday to buy Christmas presents the mother of Ethel Bailey, seven years old, of 218 Second street, Elizabeth, locked the child in a room so that she could not run out in the street.

When Mrs. Bailey returned she found the window curtains of the room on fire and the child on the floor with her clothing almost burned from her body. The little girl had been playing with matches and had set fire to her dress and the curtains.

Mrs. Bailey quickly extinguished the flames, and the child was hurried in an ambulance to the Alexian Brothers' Hospital. She died soon after she had been admitted.

Alcott for U. S. Marshal.

Washington, Dec. 19.—The President sent yesterday to the Senate the nomination of Thomas J. Alcott to be U. S. marshall of New Jersey. Thomas J. Alcott has served before as United States marshal. He succeeded Col. Pfeiffer, of Camden, as marshal in 1897. He has worked in the Republican ranks for years and held office in the Assembly from 1884 to 1887. Mr. Alcott was born in Mt. Holly, in 1840. He served during the Civil War as quartermaster sergeant in the Army of the Potomac.

May Take Long's Case Higher.

Trenton, Dec. 19.—With less than a month to live Charles Long awaits his fate in the county jail. His counsel, W. Holt Apgar, had a talk with him last week, with the result that no effort will be made to carry Long's case to a higher court. Mr. Apgar, however, may go before the court of pardons and endeavor to have his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life.

Petitioned for Shut Saloons.

A petition, signed by all of the church people of Trenton, will be presented to Mayor Frederick W. Gnichtel when he takes the oath of office January 1, asking him to enforce the Sunday closing of all saloons. The Mayor is a church member, and this encourages the petitioners to believe that the Sunday closing law will be enforced.

ANTI-GRAFTERS URGE PUNISHING BRIBER ONLY

WANT IMPRISONMENT IN STATUTE WITHOUT REFERENCE TO ANY FINE.

Trenton, Dec. 19.—A long conference on the subject of anti-bribery in conducting elections was held last week and a temporary organization effected, with the Rev. Alfred W. Wishart temporary chairman and Frederick Haines secretary.

It was the sense of the meeting that a change in the bribery laws of the State should be agitated. The suggestion was made that the briber alone should be named as the felon. At the present time both the briber and the bribe taker are equally guilty.

Because of this neither can be induced to testify against the other, for the law excuses a man's testimony when it would tend to incriminate or degrade him. By making the briber the guilty man, the bribe taker can be induced to testify against him. This, it is thought, would deter the briber from his course.

It was also agreed at the meeting that agitation should be started to keep the penal section demanding State imprisonment in the statute, and strike out the phrase "or fine."

TRIED TO STEAL STREET.

Newark Police Stop Workmen of the Central Railroad.

Early yesterday a big force of laborers, employed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey, began to lay tracks in Newark at grade across a public thoroughfare, known as Plum Point lane. As no permission had been received by the company, complaint was made to Chief Engineer M. R. Sherrerd, of the Board of Works, that the railroad was trying to steal a street.

Mr. Sherrerd called up the Third Precinct police and a squad of bluecoats was ordered out to prevent the threatened seizure.

Mr. Sherrerd also called upon Engineer James O. Osgood, of the railroad company, and after a conference the company's representative agreed that no encroachment on the public property would be made until an agreement coould be reached in a proper way.

The company desires to secure addition facilities for its freight yard at Bull's Station.

(By Merry Tom)

"Jolly" May Irwin, in "Mrs. Black is Back," is one of the bookings for early in the coming year at the local playhouse.

Manager Counihan has arranged to have a caller look after the carriages before and after the Drew performance Friday night. From the present outlook the number will be very large.

The ever youthful Lillian Russell, who recently closed a ten weeks' engagement on the Proctor circuit, giving a singing specialty, sailed for Europe last week. She will spend some time abroad in search of a suitable comic opera or musical comedy.

Responding to the requests of his many friends in the organization, Manager Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, has made application for membership to the Green Room Club, New York's famous theatrical association. There is hardly a manager, actor or business representative in the country who is not connected with it, and to be a member means to come in contact with them all at some time or other. The fact that Mr. Counihan is to be taken in, his request having already been acted upon, will mean that his theatre will gain more recognition in metropolitan circles and that he will have better chances of securing only "top-notch" attractions. His application was signed by Charles Osgood, representative for Klaw & Erlanger, and Hollis Cooley, general manager for Gus Hill.

Mosquitoes Still About in Jersey.

Montclair, Dec. 19.—Swarms of mosquitoes were seen by persons in the Hillside section of Montclair yesterday afternoon. The open winter is responsible for their existence now. This would seem to predict a bad mosquito season for Montclair next summer. The inspector of the Board of Health caught and bottled up one of the mosquitoes recently, and found it to be of the salt marsh species blown from the Newark meadows.

Would Not Enjoin Woman's Tongue.

Mrs. Emma Abbott's tongue is not to be curbed by injunction. Vice Chancellor Stevenson at Jersey City yesterday denied the application of William Abbott, husband of the woman, who said she abused him in his office and on the street. He is the ticket agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in Hoboken. Mrs. Abbott said she only asked him for money. The court held that the evidence submitted by Abbott was insufficient.

Miss Kathryn Honan, of West Fourth street, is entertaining friends from Virginia.

REPUBLICAN SENATORS TO CAUCUS WEDNESDAY

COLBY WILL BE PRESENT, BUT MAY NOT REMAIN THROUGH.

Trenton, Dec. 19.—The call for the Republican Senatorial caucus has been issued and the gathering will take place on Wednesday morning in the house of the Republican Club, on East Hanover street. This is the place in which the Republican Senators have caucused for some years past and it generally happens that some of the more influential of the State leaders are conveniently at hand in the clubhouse in case their advice should be needed. It is not expected that much of their advice will be needed this year, as everything appears to be settled except the smaller offices and it does not require much counsel from the "elder statesmen" to dispose of them. The accepted slate is William H. Bradley, of Camden, for president; Thomas J. Hillery, of Morris, for leader, and Howard L. Tyler, of Cumberland, for secretary.

Some people profess to believe that Wood McKee, of Passaic, will be the leader, but the majority pins its faith to Mr. Hillery.

The probable action of Senator-elect Colby, of Essex, in regard to the caucus in the light of the withdrawal of the Assemblymen from his county from the House caucus last week, when it became apparent that Samuel K. Robbins, of Burlington, would be chosen Speaker, is receiving considerable attention in all parts of the State. In fact, "What will Colby do?" is generally considered to be the only question of interest connected with the caucus. As he has not made any attempt to have a candidate named against Senator Bradley for president, and has recently been said to have received assurances from Governor Stokes and others "higher up" in the party this his measures are to be given a "square deal" in the Senate, the adherents of the State house machine say there is no reason why he should follow the example of his colleagues in the Assembly and "bolt" the caucus.

A close friend of Mr. Colby said today that the Essex Senator-elect proposed to go to the caucus on Wednesday, but whether he would remain in the caucus and participate in its proceedings would depend entirely upon what the majority attempted to pledge the caucus to.

Big Money on Football Game.

A recent football game between Massillon and Canton for the championship of Ohio caused about $100,000 to change hands on the result. Massillon won by a score of 14 to 4, both teams indulging in rabid professionalism. Some of the players received as much as $500 for their services. Heston, of Michigan, got this sum, while Cure, of Lafayette, received $300 and Blondy Wallace, formerly of the University of Pennsylvania eleven, picked up $250. All these played on the losing team. On the winning team were several well known college players, who evidently forgot all about the amateur ruie. After the game, which was played at Massillon, the Canton people who accompanied their team to the battlefield, had nothing left in their pockets but return tickets. Massillon was $50,000 behind on the season until this victory pulled the town out of the slough.

MORE DRASTIC AUTO LAW IS DEMANDED

FARMERS TO HAVE BILL INTRODUCED AT COMING SESSION.

Farmers of Mercer, Middlesex and Somerset counties, who are members of the Princeton Agricultural Association, have decided to go before the ensuing session of the Legislature and ask for the passing of a law to prohibit the driving of automobiles at a speed exceeding fifteen miles an hour in the country and ten miles an hour in the city, compelling non-residents to pay a license fee of from $25 to $100 per year, according to the size of their automobiles, and giving the right to any and all persons to arrest without a warrant any automobilist who violates the law.

Such a law would be a radical departure from existing automobile legislation, especially in the matter of license fees, for now $1 secures a license in perpetuity for both resident and non-resident automobilists.

Roosevelt Invited to Newark.

Elaborate invitations will be sent to President Roosevelt, Governor Edward C. Stokes, Mayor Henry M. Doremus, and Baron Speck von Sternburg, the German Ambassador to this country, asking them to attend the Saengerfest in Newark, to be given by the Northeastern Saengerbund from June 30 to July 5 next year.

Bad Fright for Mr. Lehr.

Was Friend of Bryant.

The Rev. Aaron Lloyd, who died at Nutley last Sunday, was born in Erie, Pa., on June 27, 1817. He was graduated from Rutgers College and the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick and at the time of his death was one of the oldest living graduates of both institutions. After his retirement from the ministry he was an active worker with the Free Trade League in association with William Cullen Bryant, David A. Wells and Edward Atkinson. In 1843 he married Maria Christie Demarest, daughter of David J. Demarest, of New York, who still survives him.

Killed by Falling Rock.

Buried under a rock weighing half a ton and a great quantity of sand, Sidney Jacobs, forty years old, of 422 Union street, Union Hill, was killed while working in the shaft of the Pennsylvania Railroad tunnel in Weehawken yesterday afternoon. One hundred workmen are employed in the excavation. Jacobs and some other workmen were boring under the Palisades, when they came unexpectedly upon a mass of sand, in the center of which was imbedded a large fragment of rock. Before Jacobs could escape the rock and sand slid down on him.

To Aid Young Vanderveer.

Mt. Holly, Dec. 19.—"My boy will suffer an unjust injury or wrong," said Dr. George W. Vanderveer, father of Warren A. Vanderveer, whose dismissal from the Naval Academy has been recommended for failure to report the illness of Jerdone P. Kimbrough, who was hazed. The case of young Vanderveer has been taken up by Governor Stokes and the New Jersey Representatives in Congress because they believe the boy told the truth when he said he was ignorant of Kimbrough being hazed. They say they only insist that the accused be given a "square deal."

Wife Sues for Alimony.

Vice Chancellor Bergen, in the Court of Chancery at Trenton yesterday, heard testimony in the case of Mrs. Louisa P. Harris, of that city, who is suing her husband, Daniel P. Harris, of Clayton, for alimony, on the charge that her husband began to treat her cruelly soon after her marriage in 1885, and grew so abusive that she was compelled to leave him in April last. On two occasions, she says, her husband has sent her to the State Hospital for the Insane in Trenton. Asked today why this was done, she replied: "I do not know. I had my five senses, but I had lost my decision. What I needed was diversion, consolation and inspiration."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Margaret Dale, who is deservedly rated as one of the handsomest young women now upon the American stage, is again John Drew's leading lady this season in the part of "Jacqueline Marple," in love with "Jim De Lancey," which is Mr. Drew's role. The comedy "De Lancey" is from the pen of Augustus Thomas—everywhere remembered as the author of "Arizona," "The Other Girl" and the "Earl of Pawtucket." The comedy will be given in this city at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday, December 22.

All the local scenery will be removed to make room for the tons of special scenery used by Hi. Henry's brand new minstrel show, which appears at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. The programme presented by this organization is certainly winning the encomiums of the press and public everywhere. Singing, dancing, character skits, jokes, comicalities, acts, scenes and changes follow each other in rapid succession, and not half can be told of the grand array of talent and variety that is presented. All along the line this company is meeting with remarkable success, and their appearance as above should not be missed by genuine amusement lovers.

The dramatic treat of the present season is assured in the coming of the big scenic production, "A Desperate Chance," which is announced for the New Plainfield theatre Christmas afternoon and night. The cast is a specially selected one, the production is one of the heaviest and most intricate ever witnessed on any stage, everything being carried complete. Aubrey Mittenthal, who is responsible for many successful productions, has, in producing "A Desperate Chance," spared no money in making it eclipse its former production.

In "The Lightning Conductor," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, the management have elected to add an extravagant panorama to the very successful play. In the first act the motor car with two ladies in distress—the crank of the motor having broken—is seen in the foreground. In the background a panoramic view is unfolded of the beautiful scenery between Dieppe and Paris. As the panorama rolls rapidly by it shows views of farms, orchards, vineyards, and occasionally a group of peasants working in the distance. On hilltops, turreted castles, remnants of medieval days, a scene which hundreds of Americans pay thousands of dollars to see. In the second act of this charming three act comedy Mr. Smith brings his motor car to the south of France as far as Tours, and here again the semi-tropical is pictured in a series of magnificent stage views, the last being the picturesque and famous inn Tours.

Howard Kyle, whose fine artistic endeavors were so much appreciated as "Nathan Hale," in which he starred for several seasons, and whose John Ermine in "On the Yellowstone," and other notable achievements have firmly established him in the favor of theatre patrons, is now appearing in the title role of "Mozart," a poetic drama based upon the life and romance of the great composer. Mr. Kyle will present this play with an adequate production and a cast of general excellence at the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday afternoon and night, December 30.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

Blanche Bates, in her rollicking character, with its subtone of pathos and sincere sentiment, has endeared herself to the hearts of thousands of people in New York since she opened at the Belasco theatre in "The Girl of the Golden West." She was loved before, for she has been a favorite in the metropolis for years. But somehow, this dashing, breezy "Girl" seems to touch a responsive note in every breast such as is seldom found in a stage character. Probably this is because it does not seem a stage character at all. You feel that if you were to go to California you would meet this "Girl," just as surely as you would find yourself in the shadow of the Sierras, and you know that every word she utters rings true. David Belasco never conceived a character which fitted this big-souled wholesome young woman like this. It is because the "Girl" really is Blanche Bates in her inherent characteristics that you enjoy her impersonation so much. She hardly has to act at all.

David Belasco enjoys the distinction of having produced the two big hits of the present New York season. One of them, "The Music Master," with David Warfield as the star, was also the hit of last season. The other, Mr. Belasco's newest play, "The Girl of the Golden West," in which Miss Blanche Bates sustains the title role, has packed the Belasco theatre since its first night, and now it is necessary to purchase reserved seats five weeks ahead if they are to be obtained at all. The sure touch of the most eminent stage producer and dramatist of the decade is shown in the fact that every moment tells in both of the Belasco productions. This is no less true of "The Music Master," than of "The Girl of the Golden West." The hand of the wizard is evident in both. The Bijou theatre, in which "The Music Master" is holding forth, had not been a particularly lucky house for some years when it became necessary to move this particularly human play from the Belasco to make room for something else. But it has been one of the two theatres in New York which is sold out weeks before each performance. The Belasco theatre is the other.

NATURE SPARES
The Stricken Rose From Grief.
What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

BLAMING IT ON THE REPORTER

The other day a well known citizen entered the Sentinel-Review office with a grievance. He had, he said, been grossly misrepresented in a news paragraph which had been printed in the paper. When the offending paragraph was submitted for correction, behold, there was nothing to correct, and eventually it was ascertained that the complaining citizen had not read the item at all, but based his complaint as to its inaccuracy on what somebody had told him. This is neither a fable nor a parable; neither is it an isolated case; but it has a moral all the same: Be sure you have a grievance before you seek to ventilate it.

The people who make daily newspapers have a good deal to answer for; it should be sufficient to hold them accountable when they are clearly responsible. In the gathering and preparation of news for a daily newspaper inaccuracies are almost certain to creep in. For these the newspapermen are freely blamed; but they are seldom given credit for the diligence they display in the search for facts. Perhaps the great mass of the people, not being intimately associated with newspaper work, have no idea, or but an imperfect idea, of the troubles to which sincere and self-respecting newspaper men go to ensure accuracy. And yet the difficulties by which newspapers are surrounded on every side should be more or less familiar to everyone who has ever attempted to get at the bottom facts of a piece of gossip.

It is a familiar fact that no two eye witnesses of an occurrence will see exactly the same things, and no report of it will be exactly correct to the man who has his own fixed notion of what happened.

Then there are the flying stories. Where do they come from? How do they originate? How do they develop? The reporter is at the mercy of all these. If he spends the time necessary to "chase up" one of these mysterious stories, to find there is nothing in it, he will miss the other news that he should have gathered on his rounds. If he prints the story as he is told it, he will probably be denounced as a wonderful liar. If he should decide to ignore the story altogether, and there should happen to be something in it, he would probably learn that he was a failure as a news-gatherer.

If the reporter prints a story that is untrue he is characterized as a liar. No one seems to think it worth while to give him the benefit of the doubt, in that he may have been nothing more than the victim of a liar. And yet any other man who accepted in good faith an untruthful story would scarcely be condemned as anything worse than a victim of credulity.

Again a reporter may make a synopsis of a speech or a sermon, and may for his pains be denounced as a blockhead or worse, for failing to catch the speaker's meaning, or for having misrepresented what was said. It seldom occurs to anyone that the fault may not be entirely the reporter's. May it not be that the speaker was at fault in not making his meaning clear? No doubt the speaker knew what he meant to say; but did he say it in such a way that an audience of average intelligence would know what he meant? If not, whose fault was it that he was misunderstood? Assuming the reporter to be a man of average intelligence, and nothing more—and reporters are not chosen for their stupidity, whatever some people may think—what does it signify when he fails to grasp a speaker's meaning? Does it not signify that the speaker failed to make his meaning sufficiently clear to meet the needs of an average audience? Instead of placing all the blame on the reporter, it would be much more candid and to the purpose if the speaker who has been "misrepresented" would engage in a soliloquy something after this fashion: "I must have made a sad mess of that speech. If that is the impression I made on the trained reporter, how hopelessly I must have failed to make my meaning clear to those of my audience who are not trained in detecting points and extracting the gist of public utterances!" That would be a fair way of looking at it. Are such soliloquies often indulged in? Not likely. It is much easier to lay the blame on the reporter. One can even imagine an indignant retort: "Supposing that to be true, do you expect a man of my culture and standing to talk down to the level of an average audience's intelligence?" Perhaps not; but why in the world does such a man talk to an audience at all? If he is unable or unwilling to make himself understood by an audience of average intelligence, is he not wasting his own time and that of the audience by his talk? This is a phase of the matter which public speakers might think over with profit to themselves and those who go to listen to them.

There are several other aspects of the matter which might be discussed, probably without convincing anyone. It has become the custom to blame the newspaper, and we suppose there is no help for it, until the custom changes. In some countries editors are employed at good salaries who never write a line and never edit anything, but whose duty it is to go to jail every time some one in authority finds himself afflicted with an overcharge of spleen which he seeks to work off on the newspaper. Perhaps in time the newspapers of this country will find it advisable to employ such editors. There are plenty of people willing to go to jail for the sake of the food and shelter to be found there. If there was a salary also, no doubt the number would be greatly increased. The trouble might be that the editors out of jail would become so envious of the delicious restfulness of the quiet life of their lucky colleagues behind the bars that there would be no preserving harmony on the staff.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

MURDERER ROSA IN DESPAIR.

Condemned, He Has Given Up Hope of Reprieve.

"There can be no God, or he would not keep me in jail and see me hanged upon the gallows for a murder I never committed," has been the cry of Jerry Rosa, under sentence to be hanged in the jail at Hackensack on January 12. He has repulsed spiritual comfort until yesterday, when he welcomed Garry Cantaluppi, an evangelist, of Paterrson, and allowed the visitor to talk to him fifteen minutes.

There seems to be not hope for Rosa. His case may be taken to the Board of Pardons, but he expects no consideration from that court.

The Court of Pardons will meet at the State House next Wednesday to distribute Christmas presents of pardons and paroles to a number of prisoners in the State Prison. There are ninety-six applications to come before the court. Among them is that of Libbie Garrabrandt.

His Great-Grandsire a Newarker.

Congressman Nicholas Longworth, whose engagement to Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the President, was announced last week, is a great-grandson of Nicholas Longworth, who went from Newark, where he was born, to Cincinnati, in 1804, and made a great fortune theree by real estate investment. The Congressman will inherit a large share of the former Newarker's estate some day, but at present his mother controls it. He has a considerable fortune of his own, however. Nicholas Longworth, the pioneer, left in Newark a sister, Catherine Longworth, who died there and left large real estate holdings, which eventually were inherited by her niece, the wife of ex-Governor Marcus L. Ward.

Whiskey Kills a Child.

Jamesburg, Dec. 19.—Four-year-old John Farr, son of Raymond Farr, died in terrible agony at his home at midnight from the effects of drinking half a pint of whiskey. The father of the child purchased the liquor for medicinal use, it being home-made rock and rye, and left it on a table. The child drank the entire contents and when its parents returned to the room after a brief absence the child was seen to reel. He told his parents that he drank the whiskey. Dr. John L. Suydam worked over the child for twelve hours, but failed to arouse him from an unconscious state. Paralysis was given as the cause of its death.

Fire Department for Springfield.

A public meeting to arrange for a fire department in Springfield was held on Saturday. Mr. Hoppaugh was elected chairman of the meeting and A. P. Cain, secretary. Mr. Laing, secretary for Stewart Hartshorn, reported that Mr. Hartshorn would furnish three hydrants free of charge for one year, then it would be $50 per hydrant. It was decided that at least ten or fifteen hydrants would be necessary. A committee of five, composed of Bartley Farrel, George M. MacDonald, William B. Denman, William Stiles and A. P. Cain, was appointed to wait on the Town Committee of Springfield.

Minister Faints in Pulpit.

"I am feeling badly. I wish you would sing for me." As he uttered these words the Rev. P. Ekster collapsed in the pulpit of the First Holland Christian Reformed church, Paterson, Sunday night. Before the eyes of the startled congregation assembled for worship the aged minister fell backward, striking his head with great force on the floor. Mr. Ekster is pastor of a Midland Park church and was occupying the pulpit in Paterson for his son-in-law, the Rev. Herbert Tuis. When he had been revived he went home. No serious consequences are feared.

Cough Drops Will Kill.

On a dresser in the room were found several mysterious looking cough drops of a peculiar taste and a box of powders. Although the powders have not been analyzed, the physicians believe they are patent medicines containing opium. It is believed McGrath accidentally took an overdose.

HORSE'S LONG FLIGHT.

Bearing Woman Rider Ran Madly for Four Miles.

While riding neor the Westfield golf grounds, a few days ago, a spirited saddle horse belonging to Mrs. Brown, of Charles street, Westfield, took fright at something and ran away. She sought by every means to bring the animal to a halt but without success and it continued straight through Fanwood and down North avenue to this city. When it reached Berckman street, Mrs. Brown managed to guide it into Loizeaux's lumber yard, where a fence blocked its progress.

Employes of the yard ran to the woman's assistance and when she reached the ground she sank in a faint. A cab was summoned and she was taken home as soon as she revived sufficiently to tell her address. The runaway had gone over four miles, covering the entire distance at top speed.

Major Sheppard Promoted.

Word has been received by Major John Sheppard, division officer of the Salvation Army, who has been stationed in Newark and is well known here, where he has visited many times, for nearly four years, to the effect that after the first of the year he will be transferred to another district. Major Shepard does not know where he is to be assigned to, but has been assured, he says, that it will be a larger territory than he is at present in charge of. He expects to leave by February 1. He acted for two years and a half at Newark as a staff captain, but for a year past has been in charge of New Jersey and Staten Island.

Morris Company Traction's Start.

It is to be extended in the other direction to Elizabeth, with a branch to Maplewood. The car left the barn at 10:20 yesterday morning and returned at 11 o'clock. A number of business men from Summit, Millburn and Short Hills were the passengers, and all along the line the car was greeted and cheered by the residents.

Smallpox Scares Borough.

The public school of Prospect Park borough has been closed and the village thrown into a panic by the discovery of a case of smallpox within the borders of the borough. The afflicted person is John Egberts. Mr. Lydecker, the health officer for Prospect Park, was notified, and as Egberts has six children attending the public school it was deemed best to close the institution until it could be fumigated and all the students vaccinated.

Brewer's Home for Hospital.

An agreement was signed Saturday night whereby the Hospital of the Immaculate Conception becomes the owner of the residence of Michael Winter, the brewer, in Centre street, Orange. Possession will be taken January 15 by the Sisters of St. Francis. The price paid for the property is $50,000, which is $7,000 less than the figure at which the place had been offered for sale.

Foils Attempt to Blow Open Safe.

An attempt was made yesterday morning to blow open the safe in Mahler & Zacker's liquor store, on Smith street, Perth Amboy. The safe was rolled more than 60 feet to the rear of the building, and one hole was drilled when the thieves were scared away by the arrival of the bartender, Harry Meyers. There was over $1,000 in cash and $800 in checks in the safe.

TRIAL OF CHIEF KIELY BEGINS BEFORE COUNCIL; CHALLENGES BY THE DEFENSE QUICKLY OVERRULED

Tyler and Bullock Voluntarily Withdraw From Their Seats, But Council By Divided Vote Keeps Three Other Challenged Members in Their Places.

PROSECUTION GOES ON

Before nine of the eleven Council members, sitting as a court, the trial of Chief Kiely on the Tyler-Bullock charges began last night. The two missing from the tribunal were the authors of the charges, who withdrew of their own volition. The attempt of former Senator Reed, counsel for the defense, to have them ruled out as ineligible to sit as judges, and with them Councilmen Murphy, Higham and Wilson, failed at the very outset. His objections were summarily overruled and he was not even allowed to present the testimony he had prepared in support of his contentions.

The prosecution presented most of its case before the body adjourned. They had seven witnesses on the stand, among them Councilman Tyler, whose testimony was unfinished when the session closed. The bulk of the evidence was in reference to Kiely's famous ride in the patrol wagon early one morning, his alleged drunkenness and profanity in the Jersey City station, his alleged reluctance to proceed against the Goff speak-easy and his connection with the Get-together Club, which is what the coterie of politicians who gather in the upstairs room of Windham's Hotel call themselves. Collector Robert L. Lee testified as to the club gatherings and his bearing on the stand occasioned comment. He appeared to be impatient of the hearing, constrained and not very willing to commit himself as to the chief's connection with the club. Mr. Lee testified to the release of a prisoner at McCardell's direction, and his testimony on this was not at all unwilling.

The Council was called to order at 8:15. Councilmen Bullock and Tyler were not in their places. The former remained in the ante-room and the latter sat beside Corporation Counsel Marsh. When Clerk MacMurray started calling the roll Mr. Tyler started to his feet as if he had remembered something suddenly, and tip-toed from the room.

"Messrs. Tyler and Bullock did not answer to their names," said the clerk, "but I think they are somewhere around; I saw them here."

"Never mind," said President Daniel, after a moment's consideration. "There is a quorum isn't there? We will proceed."

Immediately after the regular order of business was suspended and the Council became an investigating body, Corporation Counsel Marsh arose.

"Before the charges are taken up," he said, "I wish to state that I have been authorized by Messrs. Tyler and Bullock to say that while they do not concede any claims that may be made as to their eligibility to sit as judges in this matter, they will defer to the desire of Chief Kiely and his counsel as to their withdrawal, and they ask the Council to relieve them from sitting during the trial."

On Mr. Murphy's motion the accusers were excused by unanimous vote. Mr. Tyler tip-toed back to his place beside Mr. Marsh and the face of Councilman Bullock appeared at the door of the ante-room.

After minor formalities preliminary to the hearing were gone through by Mr. Marsh, counsel for the defense presented his challenges against Messrs. Tyler, Bullock, Murphy, Higham and Wilson. His grounds in all the cases were substantially the same. He charged them with being peculiarly and directly interested in securing a conviction, rehearsing the story of the anti-organization movement during the last municipal campaign to show that the five were prejudiced and not actuated purely by judicial desire to ascertain the truth in the case. He said

Chief of Police Patrick S. Kiely.

Messrs. Tyler and Bullock were even more directly interested in the outcome of the hearing, because the result of the trial will hold them open to or relieve them from the chance, as it may turn out, of action by Chief Kiely. The Council sat as a court, as he held, and it was axiomatic in law that no judge shall be allowed to sit in a case in which he is personally and directly interested.

Mr. Marsh objected to entertaining the challenges against Tyler and Bullock. They had already withdrawn and he could see no reason for acting against them. Mr. Reed refused to recognize their withdrawal. It was not legally binding and there was nothing to prevent them from retaking their seats whenever they so elected or Council saw fit to recall them.

In a short and pithy ruling, President Daniel refused to entertain the challenges. He cited a decision in a case before the Newark police board and ruled that a policeman under investigation was merely a public servant on trial as to his efficiency, and the formalities relevant to the trial of a criminal are not necessary to insure substantial justice to the defendant, and legal formalities tending to delay or chicanery are not to be permitted in such cases. To sustain the challenges, he said, would tend to suppress the trial. To allow the defense the right to shut certain councilmen out would give the same right to the prosecution, and might result in the removal of so many councilmen as to reduce the number sitting to less than a quorum. There was no other body before which the charges could be heard, so the proceeding palpably tended to prevent the trial entirely. He ruled the challenges against Higham, Wilson and Murphy out, and ruled that action was unnecessary on Bullock and Tyler.

Councilman Gloak protested against the ruling. He said there was no unfairness in Mr. Reed's profer of testimony to prove his charges against the five councilmen and he asked that the testimony be received. Without replying Mr. Daniel put the question. It was carried by six votes to three, Gloak, Frank Randolph and Tolles voting against the ruling.

Mr. Reed filed an objection to the president's method of putting the ruling to the Council. He said it was not legal for him to present the question where only one member of the Council had opportunity to express his opinion.

Corporation Counsel Marsh opened for the prosecution in a brief address as follows:

"The defendant for twenty years has been a friend of mine, and I never knew of his infraction of the law, and you may know how painful to me is the duty before me. I think it would be cowardly for me to resign my office or shirk my duty. I shall therefore try to do my duty, be the result what it may. My hope is that the evidence may be produced in a calm, dispassionate manner, so that when all the evidence is in it may be left to the judges without speeches. If the defendant is innocent, let's aequit him. I am no hireling; I am no private counsel; I am the counsel of the whole city and only want fair play. If, on the other hand, the charges be sustained, it will be for the Council to say what manner of penalty shall be administered. I wish to thank Chief Kiely for facilitating the trial by allowing us to see the records of his department, and also thank his counsel, Mr. Reed, for waiving certain points."

Supreme Court Commissioner Dengler, who was stenographer for the proceedings, was accepted by both sides as the official to swear the witnesses.

When the counsel had finisned their preliminary arguments regarding the challenges, Corporation Counsel Marsh called for the defendant to plead to the charges, and the latter, through his counsel, Formef Senator Charles A. Reed, promptly entered a plea of not guilty to each charge.

Tax Collector Robert L. Lee was the first witness called. Mr. Marsh offered the daily arrest record of October 22, 1903, noting the arrest of John Nelson for being drunk and disorderly, upon whom sentence was suspended by Judge Runyon. Mr. Lee testified that he was at the city jail when Nelson was brought in. He said: 'I was on Front street, with half a dozen others, and we all went into the station. Nelson was in a cell with the door locked. Chief Kiely came in when we did, and Andrew McCardell also. McCardell asked, 'Who have you got in here tonight?' and he went to the cell and talked with Nelson. He said, 'If you will vote the ticket I will give you at the next election I will see that you get out.' Nelson said he would. McCardell then gave directions to have the door opened, and in my presence and that of McCardell, the chief and others Nelson then walked out. McCardell talked with him. The chief said, 'John, you'll have to get down here at eight in the morning,' and Nelson went out."

Mr. Marsh asked Mr. Lee: "During your term as councilman, did you go to a room at the Waldorf Hotel, known as the Get-together Club?" and he replied that he did.

"From January to November, 1904, had you seen Kiely there?"

"Yes," the witness replied; "several times; I don't know how often."

"What was supplied when Kiely was there?"

"We ordered what we wanted. If we ordered beer, whiskey or ale we got it. I have ordered drinks when Kiely was there. Everyone paid for his own. We figured up at the end, and put the money on the table."

"Did Kiely pay for his?"

"I suppose he stood up his end, but could not swear to it."

"Think he sponged?"

"No, I don't."

On cross examination by Mr. Reed the witness testified:

"I was a member of Common Council on October 26, 1904; saw Nelson released from jail; did not report the matter to Council. This is the first time I have reported upon it to Council. It was no good reporting it to the other Council."

"You thought it not worth while to bring such violation to the notice of Council?"

"No, I would never bring such as that. I did not think it the right thing to do, to bring such a charge against Kiely, but I always thought he had acted wrong at that time."

"Why didn't you make the charge?"

"I did not have any particular desire to do it."

"When did you first call the attention of Messrs. Tyler and Bullock to it?"

"I told them when I was asked, about six months ago, after I was elected collector."

"How often have you seen Kiely at the Get-together Club?"

"Several times; but he was not a regular attendant. I did not see whether he bought anything or not. I did not watch anyone pay; we all put money in a pile on the table and paid up. I have seen him put money on the table."

"Did you say that in January, 1905, in relation to the police department, that before the year was up we'd hear something drop?"

"Not about the police department."

"Is there any doubt in your mind," asked Mr. Marsh, breaking in on the cross examination, "that Kiely drank intoxicating liquors and paid for them?"

"No doubt," was the reply.

By Mr. Reed:

"Did you say to Sergeant Frederickson that Kiely would have to go?"

"No, sir."

The second witness called was Cornelius H. Vanderveer, stationmaster for the Jersey Central at Jersey City terminal. To Mr. Marsh's questions he replied:

"In March, 1904, I was stationmaster at Communipaw. I saw Kiely in the ladies' parlor on the night of March 25, 1904. He was taking things easy. My attention was first called to two or three men in the ladies' parlor, one of them under the influence of liquor. I saw a man in a chair with a string or red roses over his shoulder, and another opposite to him. I said, 'You will have to vacate, for this is only for ladies.' He said, 'Who are you?' I said, 'I'm the stationmaster, and you'll have to vacate.' He said, 'I'll be —— if I do.' As he was going out, he said, 'You —— —— ——, I'll have you broke.' He was drunk and had to be led out by his partner. It was after the owl train. I think he went away on the 4:08 a. m. train. He repeated the last words as he went out."

"Did you notice Mr. Lee? Was he with Kiely?"

"Don't recollect."

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"What evidence can you give that he was drunk?"

"He could not stand alone."

"Was the other man drunk?"

"Not so much so."

"You are accustomed to seeing drunken men often?"

"I've handled hundreds of them—many from Plainfield and some from Somerville. We hear all sorts of back talk; we take it from rounders, but from men like Chief Kiely it's different."

Otto Schmidt, of 220 Oxford avenue, Jersey City, the present ferry agent, was the next witness. He said he was ferry collector on March 25, 1904, and that he saw Kiely that night coming out of the ladies' room and said he appeared like one who "had been out for a good time and had too much in him."

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"I did not notice him much because it is a common thing to see drunks at the ferry. Mr. Vanderveer spoke to me later about it, also Mr. Large and Mr. Tyler, asking me if I remembered it."

Peter Hamilton, Jr., former policeman, now a detective in Jersey City for the Erie Railroad, was the next to testify.

He said he was in the Plainfield police department on March 25, 1904, and saw Kiely early in the morning at the station, at about 5:30 o'clock. The chief entered headquarters with Mr. Lee. His hands were in his pockets and he staggered. He said, "What are you all doing here?" Officer McGinley replied, "It's after 5 o'clock, and we are off duty." The chief said, "Hitch up and take me home." He attempted to help hitch the horse to the patrol wagon, and in doing so he jabbed the horse's neck several times with the ends of the snap-collar. He tried to get into the wagon, and finally did get in and took the reins. He drove up Front street at what the witness said was a reckless rate, zigzagging from side to side in the roadway. At Richmond street the wagon struck the crub. When the chief's home, on East Fifth street, was reached the horse was fagged out. The witness said that besides himself there were Officer Kelly and Councilman Lee in the wagon with the chief.

"Were you present when the Goff saloon was raided?" the witness was asked.

"I was," he replied.

"Was you there before?"

"Yes, six or seven times in the two weeks preceding the raid of September 3, 1905. I saw men drinking more or less. It was a regular barroom, fitted up with a bar and bottles under the bar, with tables, chairs and pool tables. The first time I was in there there were fifteen or twenty men drinking whiskey and beer. J. J. Goff served it. I bought whiskey and beer and paid for it. There was no trouble getting it or to get into the place. I paid five cents for beer and ten for whiskey. I saw drunken men as I was there, and they went out on Front street. On the night of the raid a dozen men were playing cards and drinking. I got two bottles of beer at the bar and took them to a table. Two men came and joined me and wanted to play cards. They were Patrick Wallace and William Wenzel. It was Sunday night about 8 or 9 o'clock. I bought twice and they bought one each. During the card game Messrs. Bullock and Tyler came in and took possession. They

EQUAL TAX PIONEER DIES

Jacob Weart, Once Eminent Legal Light, Passes Away at His Home Here.

A GOOD LAWMAKER

Some of the Things He Achieved During the Seventy-six Years of His Life—Leaves Two Children.

Jacob Weart, a lawyer of repute and a former Assemblyman from Hudson county, died early yesterday morning of paralysis, at the home of his daughter, Miss Ella Weart, in East Fifth street.

Jacob Weart was born June 8, 1829, in Hopewell. He was the third son of Major Spencer Weart. Mrs. Jonathan Blackwell, wife of former Senator Blackwell, is his sister.

He received a common school education, and at nineteen years of age became a law student in the office of John Mannen, at Clinton. He finished his studies in Trenton with Mercer Beasley, who was for many years chief justice of the Supreme Court. Mr. Weart was admitted to the bar in 1852, and became a counselor-at-law in 1855.

For two years he was counsel to the Board of Freeholders of Hudson county and prepared and procured the enactment of the laws creating the county Board of Health and Vital Statistics and the Hudson county Board for the Equalization of Taxes.

In company with John Cassedy, Mr. Weart organized the Bank of Jersey City, now the Second National and he was a director and its counsel for many years.

He was instrumental in establishing the Jersey City law library and was its president for a long time. He was a member of the American Bar Association and for a number of years represented New Jersey in its governing council.

In 1881 Mr. Weart took part in the public demonstration in Jersey City on the death of President Garfield, and was chairman of the committee that prepared the memorial volume.

His opinion on the legality of the Hudson River police act of 1866 produced the case of Pangborn vs. Young, 3 Vroom 29, which established a police commission in Jersey City and formed a precedent for every quo warranto proceeding since that time.

Jacob Weart, as long agao as 1872, fought for equal taxation, and deserves to be ranked as a pioneer and leader in that cause.

Mr. Weart prepared a map showing the real estate holdings of the railroads in Jersey City, and it was published in the Evening Journal of that city December 3, 1872. It showed 120 blocks of land valued then at $16,000,000 as the extent of the railroad property that paid no local taxes. The sense of injury became greater the more the people thought about the inequality and about that time the filling in of the Harsimus cove closed the public sewers from First to Eighth streets, and the indignation of the people knew no bounds.

At a mass meeting held in the court house January 30, 874, Mr. Weart promised that justice should be done or the railroad trains would stop on the west bank of the Hackensack, and no trains should enter the city unless they came under the protection of State regiments. All that saved the railroad bridges from destruction that night was the lack of a leader to say to the people "Come on."

That was a warm, prolonged and successful campaign. It produced results, liberating the State from Camden and Amboy rule and providing both competition and taxation. In the legal proceedings growing out of it, Mr. Weart represented Hudson county. He had been for some time counsel to the freeholders and a very efficient worker for the public weal.

During his term in the Legislature Mr. Weart was instrumental in securing the passage of the law by which married women are enabled to hold property in this State. That was the pioneer law of its kind and other states have since copied New Jersey's enactment.

He also secured the passage of an act appropriating funds for the erection in Hopewell of a monument to John Hart, a signer of the declaration of independence, whose body lies in the burial grounds of the Old School Baptist church of Hopewell.

Mr. Weart was noted for his extensive historical knowledge and addresses, and when past seventy years of age he published in the New Jersey Law Journal a series of articles on New Jersey's best known lawyers.

Mr. Weart married Catherine J. Van Winkle, of Passaic, and had two children—Spencer Weart and Miss Ella Weart. His wife died some years ago. Not very long since he married again, and Mrs. Weart survives him.

KIELY HEARING KEPT POLICE FROM BEATS

CHIEF PROTESTS AGAINST THE HOLDING OF TOO MANY BLUECOATS.

After the trial in the Council chambers last night, Chief Kiely entered formal protest against the keeping of half his force of patrolmen in the Smalley building as witnesses. A majority of the bluecoats served with subpoenas are members of the night force and it was impossible to secure enough specials to cover the beats. As a result many of them were left unguarded, and, as the chief informed President Daniel, left an opening for second story men.

Many citizens in the Council room made similar comment, one of whom was former Mayor Charles J. Fisk. Addressing himself to Mr. Daniel, he said:

"I counted ten officers in this building tonight. That gives a fine opportunity to these sneak thieves that are working around here, and they hold that man (pointing to Chief Kiely) responsible; it's not right."

In speaking to the president, the chief stated that the men he had secured to police the building were on the day shift. He was unaware, he said, of the number that had been subpoenaed, otherwise he could have made arrangements. Inasmuch as the majority of the witnesses are to be present again tonight, Mr. Daniel promised to have some plan adopted whereby only the bluecoats positively needed would be called to the room.

XMAS EXERCISES AT BOROUGH H. SCHOOL

CELEBRATIONS ARE TO BE HELD IN ALL SCHOOLS ON FRIDAY.

Christmas exercises will be held at the North Plainfield High School Friday at 12 o'clock noon. Similar exercises will be held in the kindergarten department of the Somerset street and Watchung schools at 9 o'clock in the morning and in the primary departments of the schools at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The programme at the Borough High School, will include a song, "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing," by the school, a piano duet, "The Arrival of Santa Claus," Miss Edith Majer and Miss Florence Smalley; song, "Christmas Comes," fifth and sixth grades; trio, "The Enchanted Lute," piano, Miss Myra Emmons; mandolin, Miss Maude Emmons; violin, Miss Edna Smith; "Christmas Holliday Song," school, and an anthem, "Sing, O Heavens," by High School. A feature of the exercises will be an address by Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church.

He Met Two Friends.

Charles Schaefer, an itinerant butcher, presented a woeful and penitent countenance in the city court this morning, when he was arraigned on a charge of drunkenness. He said his fall came through a meeting with two friends whom he had not seen in two years yesterday morning. They were very glad to see him, and he was very glad to see them, and their gladness overflowed so that other things overflowed, and he, Schaefer, became very, very drunk. What happened to the friends was not disclosed. Judge Runyon smiled indulgently on the meat man and suspended sentence. "I hope I never meet another friend," said Schaefer as he went out with his hands pressed to his head.

Masonic Lodge Election.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., at a regular communication, last night, elected these officers for the coming year: Worshipful master, George T. Caskey; senior warden, Robert Reif; junior warden, Samuel W. Fish; treasurer, Clarence Goss; secretary, Garret T. Dunham; trustees, Robert A. Meeker, Fred'k J. Pope and L. B. Woolston; representative to the Masonic Hall Association, R. H. McCready. The master-elect will announce his appointments at a later date. The elected and appointed officers will be installed on Tuesday night, January 2, by William D. Wolfskeil, right worshipful district deputy of the Fifth Masonic district.

Entered in Big Golf Tourney.

Charles Kirchner, of the Plainfield Country Club, and secretary for the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association, is among those who will attend the second annual international golf tournament to be held at the Mexico Country Club, San Pedro, January 19-28 next, inclusive. He is also trying to interest other local golfers to make the trip. A special train will be run, composed of Pullmans, diner and baggage cars, direct from New York to the City of Mexico, and special rates have been secured.

CURIOUS ARE KEPT OUT

POLICE FORM BARRIER

One Individual Tries to Work "Fake" Subpoena—Prominent Citizens Interested Spectators.

As was expected by those who had in charge the arrangements for the Kiely hearing, the curious citizen was early on the scene last night, but he came in far larger numbers than had at any time been predicted. Long before the Council chambers were opened, the crowd began flathering on North avenue and the ruses adopted to gain admittance to the Smalley building would have done credit to a Sherlock Holmes.

But all the scheming and conniving came to naught. Acting under instructions from the police committee Chief Kiely had supplied a sufficient number of patrolmen to keep out any but those who were directly connected with the proceedings and they obey orders to the letter. There were bluecoats everywhere—on the sidewalk, in the lower hallway, on the stairway and at the entrance to the Council room proper—all intent on barring out the men who only came for what they could see and hear. In some instances it was ten minutes before legitimate witnesses reached the seats reserved for them, so frequently did they have to exhibit their passport in the form of a subpoena.

One enterprising gentleman managed to run the gauntlet of the lower hall and when on the threshold of admittance to the guarded portal was halted by Patrolman Overbaugh, who asked for his subpoena. The schemer drew a long paper from his pocket, much like the customary legal summons, and showing it just for a moment, confidently started to pass on.

"Not so fast," exclaimed the officer, and he made a successful reach for the "subpoena." It proved to be an old auction bill, carefully folded, so as to deceive an ordinary glance. The owner was gently, but firmly, grasped by the collar and kept going in an opposite direction from what he wanted, until he reached the sidewalk.

Those who were not allowed to enter, lingered about the front of the building and at times it was impossible to pass along that part of North avenue, so great was the gathering. As the hours sped along the crowd began to dwindle but there were many who did not give up hope of hearing the proceedings and remained in the vicinity until the adjournment was reached.

The witnesses called by both sides and the officials allowed to enter were sufficient to fill every available seat in the lobby of the Council room. With only a few exceptions, all remained until President Daniel's gavel announced a cessation of proceedings.

Among the well known citizens who were interested spectators during the proceedings were Mayor James F. Buckle, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, Factory Inspector McCardell, and the majority of the city's legal lights.

MRS. SMITH'S FUNERAL.

Four Brothers Carry Casket to Grave at Hillside Cemetery.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of John G. Cook, who died at the State Hospital at Morris Plains on Sunday, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 from his late home on Park avenue. Interment will be at the convenience of the family. The deceased is survived by a widow and three daughters, Misses Amy, Etta and Elsie. The death of Mr. Cook removes one of the town's old citizens. For a number of years he was engaged in the butcher business, but gave up to engage in the stone crushing business, erecting the first crusher ever put up in the valley. Later he sold this out to Hetfield & Weldon, and retired from active business. He was a member of Excelsior H. and L. Co. and Fanwood Council, No. 744, R. A., for several years. He was a member of the Board of Education and served until ill health compelled him to resign.

The annual election of fire department officers will be held in January. Last year, on account of the members of Excelsior H. and L. Co. believing they had a walkover, the B. and E. Co. walked off with the prize, because of their inactivity. They have learned their lesson and will work hard to get out a full vote when the election is held.

The first of the Christmas exercises will be held Friday night, when the members of the Methodist Sunday-school will entertain Santa Claus and the friends of the school.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Brotherhood of the First M. E. church will hold a social and business meeting in Vincent chapel on Friday night.

Rev. Mr. Dupee, of the Mission House, Trenton, the new rector at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, will have charge of the services on Sunday for the first.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the pastor on Codington avenue.

Arthur L. Titsworth, organist of Trinity Reformed church, will play the organ at the Seventh-Day Baptist church on Saturday, owing to the illness of Miss Jessie Utter, the regular organist.

Mrs. Odell, organist and choirmaster at the Church of the Holy Cross is arranging a special programme of music for the Christmas entertainment to be held in the parish house on Thursday night, December 28.

The choir of Trinity Reformed church is rehearsing special Christmas music, under the direction of Arthur L. Titsworth, organist and choirmaster, to be rendered at the services on Sunday, morning and evening.

As the result of an effort made last Sunday to liquidate an indebtedness of $2,000 at the First Baptist church, there has already been subscribed about $1,500. The balance will be easily raised, thus making it possible for the church to close the year out of debt.

There will be special Christmas services at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Sunday, morning and evening, while the Sunday-school exercises will be held in the chapel in the afternoon. The quartette choir of the church will render appropriate anthems at the church services.

EASY MONEY.
Of course money isn't lying around loose—that's certain. But some savings you might as well make are like finding money.
There's the Paddock overcoat for instance—a coat that needs to have unusual style and fit—a coat that so improves the appearance of every wearer that it looks as though it must cost a lot. So it does when custom-made. But the Watson-made Paddock is just as good, just as stylish and well-fitting as if made by the best custom tailors; but it costs about $20 less. Isn't that $20 worth saving? It will come in handy this holiday time.
Overcoats $10 to $40.
Paddocks $15 to $30.

CHIEF KIELY'S TRIAL BEGINS

examined the stuff and talked with Goff, who denied selling anything until he was refused his license the last time."

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"You were angry with Kiely after leaving the force, and said you would get even?"

"No, sir."

"You were angry at Kiely for not being appointed a regular, weren't you?"

"Yes, in a way. It was up to him to send in my name, and he did not send it in."

"It was after that you reported him drunk, did you?"

"No, sir, never reported him. When they (referring to Councilmen Tyler and Bullock) asked me I told them, as they were my superior officers."

"You didn't think it your duty to report it to the police board about Kiely being drunk until after you got mad at him?"

"I went under the instructions of Messrs. Tyler and Bullock in the Goff raid. I told them how to get in—to push the button at the front door. I first went there on the invitation of two men. One day I was going to Kerwin's and they told me not to go so far, but to come with them to Goff's."

"Goff knew you were mad at Kiely, didn't he?"

"He spoke about that to me afterwards."

The next witness was John J. Goff, who claimed residence at 1348 West Front street since two years ago last February. He said his place was called a hotel, but never had been a hotel. "We were in a sort of club," he testified, "that was started up after the license was refused the last time. I went to Mr. Tyler's house one night and was there for three hours, and explained all there was in it."

"Did you sell beer and whiskey at your place from January to the time that you were indicted?"

"I don't know if I should answer that question. I sold some times, but some of those who bought were club members. We sold what we called ginger ale. I bought it of the Eastern Bottling Company and of the Rising Sun Brewery."

Mr. Marsh showed bills from the brewery and asked if they all referred to soft drinks. The witness replied:

"I sell on orders direct to the brewery. Hamilton never called for bree at my place; he called for ginger ale. He knew what to call for and how to get in."

Mr. Marsh showed the witness a slate with the scores of different men, asked the witness what they meant, and Goff said:

"A few friends asked me to put in some stuff before I started. I didn't want to start it, but that is how I came to do so."

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"You did not start in to violate the law until after the license was refused the second time?"

"A neighbor wanted me to start in first off, but I wouldn't. I had boarders—eighteen or twenty—who were mechanics."

Referring to the raid, Goff said:

"Mr. Tyler and Mr. Bullock came to my place September 3, last. All hands had a drink, but no one asked me for it, and we did not put it on the slate. Someone said it was pretty good whiskey."

"How did Hamilton get in there first?"

"He was brought in by Mr. Noble."

"You had a system of passing on candidates for admission to the place, didn't you?"

"We had to know they were all right or they had to be vouched for."

"If the police had come would they have got in?"

"No. I did not know Hamilton was an officer. I thought he was entirely out of the department."

Re-direct examination by Mr. Marsh:

"When Messrs. Tyler and Bullock were tasting the liquors did you not understand that they were sampling merely to see what they were?"

"Well, they took pretty good tastes of it."

The witness admitted to selling whiskey and beer, after being assured by Mr. Marsh that there was no intention in this examination to incriminate him on the old charge.

Justice James P. Kelly, of Elizabeth, a member of the party which raided Goff's saloon, was next placed on the stand. He testified:

"At the Goff raid we rang the bell and got in without much trouble. We gave not secret signs to get in. There were fifteen or more at the bar. We found beer and whiskey. I did not taste, but the stuff smelled to me like rye. As justice of the peace, I participated in the raid for the convenience of interested parties. Mr. Tyler wanted the defendant arraigned at once. The complaint was made beforehand. Prosecutor English got me in it. We found two property owners at the time of the raid who went as bondsmen. Goff was very much worried over Hamilton's doings. He said he never thought Peter would do that, and his exclamation after we came in was, 'Peter's done it, boys, Peter's done it.'"

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"My business there was in consequence of a visit of Mr. Tyler, who wanted a complaint drawn and the defendant arrested. I met Mr. Tyler at Dunellen and he had a carriage with an axe and a crowbar. We talked about getting in. I told him that for minor offenses it was hardly necessary to take such strenuous means. Mr. Tyler had an electric bullseye lantern. I suggested other ways of getting in than by the use of axe and crowbar."

Councilman W. S. Tyler, chairman of the police committee and chief complainant in the case, was the next witness. To Mr. Marsh's questions he said:

"I directed the attention of the defendant to Goff's place, where it was said liquor was sold, some time last January. I told him I was informed from several sources, in a way to make me believe that Goff was violating the liquor law, and that it was our duty—his and mine—to stop it. I had a number of talks with the chief about it. My confidence in him was implicit at that time. I told him often in the first six months of the year that he must get evidence against Goff; that I was more and more convinced that Goff was selling. People kept coming to me about it, some of whom had been disturbed by the noise and had seen drunken crowds going in and out of the place; who had seen lights over the barroom transom at night, when that side was apparently not in use. His first suggestion to me was that we get boarders to go to Goff's to get evidence, and I tried to get Councilman Hibbard to get some of his men to go there. Mr. Hibbard said that he was not willing to go to that extent, so nothing was done."

By Mr. Marsh, interrupting:

"Mr. Hibbard told you that he was not willing to have his men act as spies?"

"Not exactly that."

"Did Chief Kiely ever tell you," asked Mr. Marsh, "that the corporation counsel and Prosecutor English had said that he was not to proceed until he had evidence to submit to them for the Grand Jury?"

"No."

Continuing, the witness said: "At a meeting of the police board June 30, last, I called the chief by telephone to tell him what had been observed about the condition of Goff's. I had never made any charges against the chief up to that time, and my confidence in him was implicit. I called him and the other members of the board stated to him what they had said to me regarding the Goff place. The general import of the statement was the general observance of men going in sober at Goff's and coming out drunk, and the noisy disturbance, and so forth. The chief faced Mr. Bullock up in a way that offended me, saying, 'You give me those witnesses and I will have them before the Grand Jury.' I said, 'Chief, we have tolerated this delay as long as we will. That place must be closed at once or there will be trouble. You search for evidence to close that place or we will know the reason why.' At previous interviews earlier in the year I had stated to the chief that it would be difficult to close the place because of the relation which Goff bore to the political powers, naming McCardell. Kiely said he knew it would be difficult to close the place because McCardell was behind it. McCardell's relationship was assumed all through the discussions. From June 30 to September 3 I asked the chief several times if he had gotten evidence. He said no, and could not unless we could give the names of witnesses. He said his conspicuous position made it impossible for him to do so. I then started in. I employed a detective, but did not get very satisfactory evidence. I was discouraged. There was nothing done until we got hold of Hamilton. It was hard work when it was necessary to maintain secrecy from the police. I employed a detective on July 1. He was on ten days. Then, one night, the chief called me up on the telephone and asked me, 'Have you got some one at work in the West End?' I said 'No.' The man was then gone. He then replied, 'I am going to arrest that fellow if you say he is not your man.' Then after some hesitation, he added, 'Don't you know you can't do anything in this town behind my back; don't you know that I know everything that is going on here?' Next we got Hamilton. We saw the prosecutor, and he said he had advised Kiely in the matter. The prosecutor did not advise us. He said that if I wanted to swear out a complaint he would introduce me to Mr. Kelly."

Just at the point when cross examination was about to begin President Daniel suggested that adjournment was in order. It was agreed between counsel to carry the case forward tonight. Mr. Tyler will continue on the stand, under cross examination.

There is likelihood that after tonight the hearing, if it is not finished then, will continue in daytime sessions. Mr. Reed said he was willing enough to carry the case forward tonight, but would like sessions during the day after that. Mr. Marsh said he had no objection to daytime sessions, but the Council took no action on the question. There is a bare possibility that the case will reach such a point tonight that Council will consider it worth while to sit it out and get the whole matter over and done with.

The prosecution expects to complete the presentation of its case within an hour and a half, at the most, after the Council comes to order tonight. Mr. Reed has given no hint of the length of time he expects the testimony he will bring forward to consume, beyond his reference to daylight sessions, not a very promising portent for those who hope to see the case disposed of in one more sitting of the trial body.

Plainfield, N. J., December 20, 1905.

Plainfield's Common Council has a Tom Reed presiding over its deliberations, and as a result business is accomplished with dispatch.

If the Kiely investigation is not completed tonight, and there is every reason to believe that it will not be, would it not be better to hold the remaining sessions in the day time?

Anxious reader wants to know what the Get-together Club is and what are its objects. The West End avenue sage says it is a collection of lawmakers and lawbreakers, but we cannot guarantee this information.

As prophesied by The Daily Press, Councilmen Bullock and Tyler did not assert their right to sit as members of the jury when the Kiely case was taken up last night. In waiving this right, these two members have removed any question of unfairness in the trial of the chief and at the same time have prevented any legal tangle over that phase of the affair.

HE KICKED HER DOG TO SPITE HIS WIFE

SO MRS. THOMAS DECLARED IN HER HUSBAND S SUIT TO DIVORCE HER.

Vice Chancellor Garrison heard testimony yesterday at Jersey City in the divorce suit instituted by Frederick G. Thomas, a wealthy resident of Somerville, against his wife, Sadie B. Thomas. Desertion is alleged. The couple were married in 1902.

It developed that the cause of the trouble between Thomas and his wife was a letter from Mrs. Thomas' mother. It was addressed to Mrs. Thomas, and Thomas opened it. Thomas admitted on the stand yesterday that he had reason to believe that his mother-in-law was not particularly fond of him, and said that was why he opened the letter. His suspicions were confirmed.

The letter spoke of him in an uncomplimentary manner. A quarrel followed when Mrs. Thomas learned that her husband had read the letter, and she returned to her mother. This was three years ago. The couple have lived apart ever since.

Mrs. Thomas is combating the suit. She alleges that her husband frequently found fault with her for no reason whatever. Whenever things went wrong with him, she says, he would kick and abuse Rover, a pet dog, knowing that by doing so he would hurt her feelings, as she was particularly fond of the dog.

Thomas admits the dog incident, and says that his wife seemed to think more of the canine than she did of him.

Vice Chancellor Garrison, after hearing the evidence, said he would advise a decree.

Xmas at Monroe Ave. M. E. Church.

Special Christmas services will be held at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church on Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, when there will be appropriate music and an address by the pastor, Rev. George Mooney. The Sunday-school will hold its exercises in the afternoon. On Thursday night, December 28, the annual Christmas entertainment will be held. A cantata, "Santa Claus in Japan," will be presented. The committee in charge comprises Rev. George Mooney, Miss Charlotte Aldrich, Mrs. N. Mansfield Smith and John Daub.

Rev. Dr. Edgar to Preach.

Rev. Dr. Edgar, who for twenty-three years was rector of an Episcopal church at Rome, N. Y., and who has taken up his residence in Rockview avenue, the borough, has been invited to preach at the Church of the Holy Cross on Sunday night. The rector, Rev. G. W. Warner, will preach in the morning.

BOWLING CONTESTS FOR THE PARK CLUB

SCHEDULE ARRANGED FOR THE WINTER SEASON.

In addition to the games scheduled by the Park Club in the Central Journal Bowling League, the committee on bowling comprising F. O. Ball, J. B. Betts and W. L. Long, has arranged interesting tournaments on the local alleys.

Beginning Tuesday night, December 26, and continuing thereafter every Tuesday night during the winter, there will be a cocked hat handicap tournament, for which suitable prizes will be awarded the winners. A similar event was held last winter and proved a great success. There were a large number of entries and an equal number no doubt will participate this season.

The annual handicap ten pin tournament, which was also such a success last year, will be started on Saturday night and continued every Saturday night thereafter. The rules governing these tournaments have been posted at the club for the benefit of those desiring to enter.

In this way the bowling committee hopes to secure strong material for the regular team competing for the Elizabeth Journal prize. The Parks now hold a good position in this tournament, having won five games and lost two. Their next series of games will be with the Newark Bay at Bayonne tomorrow night. This will be the first meeting of these teams this year and the result will be watched with interest. A large crowd of rooters is expected to accompany the team. The next match in this tournament on the Park Club alleys will be with Roselle Casino on Thursday, January 4.

HOLY CROSS' CELEBRATION.

Programme of Music for Christmas Day.

Mrs. Frederick Odell, organist of the Church of the Holy Cross, has prepared attractive programmes of music for the services to be held on Sunday, Christmas Day, and for the Feast of Holy Innocents on Thursday night, December 28. On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the service of holy communion, this programme will be rendered:

Processional, hymn 51, Adeste Fidelis; Introit, hymn 49; Kyrie, Tours in C; Gloria Libi, Tours in C; hymn 58; offertory anthem, "O Zion That Bringest Good Tidings," Stainer; Sanctus, Tours in C; Benedictus, Tours in C; Agnes Dei, Tours in C; Gloria in Excelsis chant 204; recessional 60; postlude, "Christmas March," G. Merkel.

This programme will be rendered Thursday night, December 28, at 7:30: Processional, hymn 51; Magnificat, Tours in F; Nunc Dimitis, Tours in F; carol, "The First Nowell," (Traditional); address to the children; carol, "God Rest Ye, Merrie Gentlemen," (Traditional); offertory, "Good King," tenor and soprano solos and chorus; carol, "Silent Night," M. Hayden; distribution of gifts from the tree; recessional, 582.

Taxes Due Today.

While today is the last for the payment of taxes without the addition of the ten per cent. Collector Lee will be busy receiving tax money by mail which will undoubtedly take him two or three days to credit up. The ordinance provides that the report shall be made to the city treasurer by Friday, allowing but two days after taxes become delinquent to prepare it. This is impossible and Mr. Lee will not be able to prepare his report for some days later. The Common Council will fix a date for a meeting convenient for the city collector and treasurer to complete their reports so that they may be presented before the first of the year.

Randolph's Decorations.

Probably one of the most elaborate holiday decorations in the city is found at L. W. Randolph's handsome pharmacy on West Front street. The store, recently improved at great expense, has been made even more attractive through the use of greens and the erection of an arcade for the special display of Huyler's choice confections. The arcade is filled with the Christmas stock which arrived today. It is brilliantly lighted with incandescents which spell the word "Huyler's." There is also a large stock of perfumery and other articles suitable for holiday gifts.

Freedom Castle Entertains.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, entertained a delegation of thirty Eagles from the Perth Amboy Castle last night. The visitors made the trip to this city in a special trolley car. The initiatory team from Freedom Castle worked the second and third degrees on eleven members from Perth Amboy and was highly commended for its excellent work. After the business of the evening all adjourned to the banquet room, where supper was served. The vistors departed for home about 11:30 o'clock.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., will hold an important meeting tonight. Final arrangements will be made for the Christmas entertainment and plans for the minstrel show will be discussed.

WOMEN'S WOES.

Plainfield Women Are Finding Relief At Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. J. Krewson, of 119 Plainfield avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Symptoms of weak or diseased kidneys afflicted me for some time, and dull heavy backaches and pains in the top and back of my head nearly drove me to distraction. I have also had trouble from inactive liver and at times my complexion has been of an almost saffron hue. About two months ago I was induced to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and did so with the very best of results, procuring them at Randolph's drug store. I am now free from the aches and pains in my head and back and my liver and bladder troubles have left me. I have a great opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills after what they have done for me, and I would not hesitate to recommend them to anybody suffering from such troubles."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

NEW ROUTE FOR THE PENNSYLVANIA

WILL RUN FROM TRENTON TO NEWARK THROUGH THE INTERVENING COUNTIES

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, through a number of its officials, including President A. J. Cassatt, filed articles yesterday with the Secretary of State at Trenton incorporating the Pennsylvania and Newark Railroad Company. The capital of the company is placed at $500,000.

The company is incorporated to construct and maintain a railroad from a point in the middle of the Delaware River at Trenton through the counties of Mercer, Middlesex and Union in New Jersey to a point in Essex county near the northern boundary of Elizabeth, and there to connect with the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The length of the rail is given as forty-seven miles. The articles of incorporation do not disclose anything more than these facts, but it is understood the purpose is to provide for the Pennsylvania Railroad an additional double-track road connecting it at Newark by a separate and distinct route through the counties named with what is known as the Trenton Cut-Off, extending from Morrisville, Pa., across the Delaware River from Trenton to Glenloch, twenty-five miles west of Philadelphia, on the main line between Philadelphia and Pittsburg.

This will give the Pennsylvania a double-track freight line from Glenloch to Newark and will relieve a great deal of the freight traffic that is now handled on the present four-track system between Philadelphia and Newark.

The map showing the route of this new road has not yet been filed, but it is understood that it will run through the outskirts of Trenton, New Brunswick, Rahway, Elizabeth and the other towns between Trenton and Newark.

The incorporators named in the articles filed are A. J. Cassatt, William A. Patton, Samuel Rea, Thomas D. Cuyler, W. H. Barnes, Henry Tatnall and S. L. Shephard.

Will Prepare Historical Sketch.

At the official board meeting held at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church on Monday night, N. Mansfield Smith was appointed historian to prepare a historical paper at the watch night service to be held at the church on Sunday night, December 31. This paper will contain a complete history of the church from its organization to the present time.

Realty Transfer.

James C. Manning, the contractor, has sold his new ten-room dwelling house, corner Park avenue and Arlington place, to Stuart H. Patterson, of East Ninth street. The sale was made by J. T. Vail and the consideration was about $9,000. Mr. Patterson will take up his residence there in the spring.

Mission Society Elects.

These officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church yesterday afternoon: President, Mrs. Robert L. Lee; vice president, Mrs. W. B. Grannatt, Sr.; secretary, Miss Anna E. Stafford; treasurer, Miss May Brower.

Mrs. T. P. Lindabury, of Morristown, is visiting her friends, Mrs. George Reighton, of West Second street.

Mrs. Milliken Spoke of Her Visit to the Pacific Islands.

Mrs. Milliken, of Central avenue, who has twice visited the Hawaiian Islands, gave a delightful talk concerning the islands at a meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church held at the home of Mrs. W. S. Lowry, of Sherman avenue, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Milliken, in addition to her talk, exhibited many beautiful pictures and curios she secured on her trip to the islands and these were of special interest to the mission society in its study of the work there. A feature of the meeting was he singing of Hawaiian hymns. There was a large attendance of women and after the talk a social time was enjoyed.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

When you see a good show, make a note of it, everybody knows Hi. Henry, and can bear testimony to the general excellence of his minstrel organization. For the present season Mr. Henry has labored to produce the largest and best company he has ever presented, and the flattering encomiums of his many patrons, seem to bear out his statement. A night of fun and melody by artists or versatile genius, enhanced by fine music, elegant costumes, gorgeous stage settings and electrical effects all combine to round out a great show, which will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night.

To all who have an acquaintance with John Drew's life off the stage one of the most fascinating features of his new comedy, "De Lancey," in which he will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, is the fact that most of its events are taken directly out of Mr. Drew's daily life. In the New York hunt clubs, as well as in "De Lancey" he is known as one of New York's best fox hunters; and the Baychester Hunt Club is but another name for the Long Island Hunt Club, which is near Mr. Drew's country home.

"A Desperate Chance," is the title of the greatest drama from the pen of the well known playwright, Theodore Kremer. From all accounts Mr. Kremer has written the best work of his life in placing on the stage the incidents in the life of those two notorious criminals, Ed and Jack Biddle, of Pittsburg. It will be remembered that some time ago the entire world was startled by the escape of those two notorious men from the Pittsburg jail where they were incarcerated, awaiting the death sentence that had been passed on them some months previous. They were aided in their escape by the wife of the prison warden who, previous to that escape, had borne the very highest reputation as a loving and faithful wife. It was simply a case of a weak woman's infatuation for a criminal. The author has not exaggerated any of his scenes. Aubrey Mittenthal, proprietor of this attraction, has spared no expense in mounting the play, having even gone to the expense of securing some of the original weapons that were used by the celebrated detectives in the capture of these criminals. "A Desperate Chance" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre Christmas afternoon and night.

In "The Lightning Conductor," which will be at the New Plainfield theatre Tuesday, December 26, will be seen panoramic views of the most picturesque part of France. The motive of the play is a dainty love story happening during a tour through France in a motor car, and in the first act this motor car is seen on the foreground of the stage supposedly breaking all records of speed while behind is unrolled the magnificent views of the fertile country between Dieppe and France. In full succession is seen farms with their quaint little houses, orchards and vineyards; groups of peasants working in the field and we hear now and again their songs which are intermingled with the puffs and the squeaks of the automobile.

"How Hearts Are Broken," a stirring emotional melodrama in four acts written by Langdon Mc Cormick, which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday, December 27, is said to be one of the best offerings of the season. The management has taken great pains to select a competent company to portray the variety of characters introduced, and the special scenery, properties and electrical effects carried by the organization are complete in every detail.

Sunshine and shadow in the form of humor and pathos, alternate rapidly in the scenic play "On the Bridge at Midnight," which Klimt and Gazzolo have booked in this city for Thursday, December 28. A blind mother searches for her stolen child and her task is beset with difficulties. Two remarkable characters, Germany and Reddy, come out strongly and the story reaches one of its stirring climaxes in the famous drawbridge scene.

There are sounds of flying melodramatic hoof-beats in the air, heralding the approach of Theodore Kremer's "A Race for Life," the new play to be produced by The P. H. Sullivan Amusement Company at the New Plainfield theatre Friday, December 29. This time the popular author of staged and storied sensation and comedy has gone to the ranch and race-course for inspiration, and among the strenuous folk of border regions for characters. Even the thoroughbred beauty of a box stall is called upon to play a most dramatic and important part, and to meet the perils of poison, dynamite and steel, employed by skulking scoundrels. She wins out, and the play promises to do the same.

In the elaborate production of "Mozart," the eminently successful play, having for its central character the creator of "Figaro," "The Magic Flute," and other immortal musical works, Maurice Campbell is presenting Howard Kyle in the title role with no small delight to theatre patrons who enjoy uplifting sentiment in dramatic art. Mr. Kyle is thoroughly well known to the public as an actor of force and intelligence. His "Nathan Hale" and John Ermine in "On the Yellowstone," having added much to his worthy reputation, while his more recent appearances in "Rosemary" and "Diplomacy" stil further added to his long list of conspicuous stage characters. "Mozart" will be given the same careful performance at the New Plainfield theatre on December 30, as has characterized its receptions as a poetic drama of exalted quality in all the important cities.

Richard Carle begins the third week of his metropolitan run in "The Mayor of Tokio" at the New York theatre Monday evening. The talented young player-playwright has scored a decisive hit on Broadway and the New York theatre is at present the Mecca for all playgoers who like a light musical entertainment made up of comedy, beautiful girls and pretty music. Mr. Carle's songs, "I Like You" and "Foolishness," have proved the two hits of the show; the first for its pretty music and the second for its peculiar humor. In addition to the strong personal success achieved by Mr. Carle, decided hits have been scored by Miss Janvier as wardrobe mistress of a stranded theatrical company, and Miss Hortense Mazurette, the prima donna. When Miss Janvier walked down to the footlights there was hardly a person in the audience who had ever seen or heard of her. Within a few minutes after she had made her entrance, however, the whole house was looking through programmes to discover the name of this woman who had immediately taken the fancy of Broadway because of her keen appreciation of humor and her power to express it. Miss Mazurette was also an unknown quantity, although she had made a splendid impression in Chicago during the long run of "The Mayor of Tokio" in that city. New York theatregoers were unaware of her existence.

Public interest in the run of "Veronique" at the Broadway theatre shows no sign of waning and the house is packed at every performance. Ruth Vincent, Kitty Gordon, Lena Maitland, Lawrence Rea, John Le Hay and the others members of Mr. Edwardes' London company make up the strongest musical organization seen on Broadway in many years. Notwithstanding the success of "Veronique" its run is drawing to a close, necessitated by contracts for its presentation in other cities.

E. S. Willard will begin his third week at the New Amsterdam theatre Monday evening, when he will play for the first time Kipling's "The Man That Was," preceded by "A Pair of Spectacles." This will be the premiere of the former piece, Mr. Willard presenting it for the first time on the stage. On January 1st Mr. Willard will be followed by Fay Templeton in "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway."

Thomas W. Ross has scored a success in "A Fair Exchange" at the Liberty theatre that will place him permanently among New York favorites. Henry Blossom has given Mr. Ross a vehicle just suited to his talents and Charles Dillingham has surrounded him with an excellent company, backed by a magnificent production. The result is a most highly enjoyable artistic performance of a bright comedy which teems with spirited interest. Mr. Ross begins his last week at the Liberty next Monday evening and will be followed on Christmas Day by "The Gingerbread Man."

"Before and After," Leo Ditrichstein's latest "laughter play," has made a hit at the Manhattan theatre, New York, where it will serve as perhaps the most amusing comedy to be seen in New York this season. Holiday matinees will be given on Christmas and New Year's Day, in addition to the regular Saturday matinees in vogue at this theatre. This play puts forward one of the best companies of comedians seen in New York in a long time, and when amusing players have such a medium the result is unmistakable. "If you are suffering from the blues," says the New York World, "go to the Manhattan theatre and your cure will be instantaneous." "The convincing claim of 'Before and After,'" says the Herald, "is humor, and it has scored a success in the fun-making line." And other metropolitan papers say the same. That Mr. Ditrichstein in his play has worked out one of the most amusing pieces yet credited to him is certain. And when one may see such comedians as Fritz Williams, George C. Boniface, Jr., Thomas A. Wise, Mr. Ditrichstein himself, Roy Fairchild, John D. Murphy, Katherine Florence, Georgie Lawrence, Kenyon Bishop, Jean Newcombe, Helen Warren and Mabel Lindlay in association, no further prescription for fun needs to be written.

THE POWER OF STEAM.

Many May See But It Takes Genius to Realize.

When James Watt saw the steam causing the kettle lid to jump up and down he said "There must be power in that steam that it can lift such a weight."

There was.

Millions prior to him had seen the same phenomenon and regarded it as an unexplained mystery.

Recent scientific research has put its finger on the "cause" of Dandruff, Falling Hair, and consequent Baldness, and has unearthed a tiny germ which eats the life from the roots of human hair.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

The Eastern Professional Golfers' Association held its second meeting at the Astor House Monday afternoon, when the constitution and by-laws, as drafted by the executive committee, were adopted with a few minor changes. Plainfield is represented in this association by "Marty" O'Loughlin, the professional at the Plainfield Country Club, and Charles Kirchener, of this city. The next meeting of the association will be held the first Monday in May.

LAWYER BURNED HIS HAND.

Painful Consequences of I. P. Runyon's Work on Parlor Stove Pipe.

Counsellor Isaac P. Runyon was fixing the pipe of his parlor stove Monday. The stove was actively in commission, whereon this little story hinges. When Mr. Runyon stepped down from the ladder he saw one of the stove legs wobbling. As he looked, it parted company with its fellows, and Mr. Runyon hurriedly grasped the stove. He didn't pause to make any particular choice of place to get hold of, and his right hand rested on the hottest section within reach. And that stove was working hard.

Mr. Runyon held the stove long enough to make it safe from toppling over, but he has been filled with burning regret ever since. His hand was very painfully scarred. He is compelled to carry it wrapped in bandages.

Suspects Her Husband.

Trenton, Dec. 20.—Howard Paul, ten years old, was led away yesterday by a man on the street while his mother was in a Christmas shopping crowd. His mother believes he has been taken by his father. Paul is a Pennsylvania Valley farmer. The woman has reported the case to the police and asked for assistance in the recovery of her child. The Pauls have been separated about two years and the wife says that nearly all that time the husband has been trying to get possession of the boy.

"And Darkness Settled Down."

Shortly before midnight last night all the electric lights in the business section of the city, with the exception of the street circuits, were turned off. It caused a great deal of inconvenience, especially in the newspaper offices, where the reporters had just settled down to a long grind after the Kiely hearing. The lights were kept off until 4 o'clock this morning in order that repairs might be made to dynamos at the Madison avenue station.

Netherwood Tunnel Opened.

The Jersey Central's new tunnel at the Netherwood station has been practically completed and is now open to the public. It is already being used regularly by passengers, although the contractors have several finishing touches to make before it is turned over to the public.

A Second Attachment.

Another attachment was clapped on the goods of Robert Fulton aboard a freight car at the station yesterday. The paper was served by Deputy Sheriff Weaver for M. R. Giles. It was issued by Justice Mosher.

23RD ST. FERRY HOUSE AFIRE

While a gang of painters were working on the girders under the baggage room of the new Lackawanna Railroad ferry house at the foot of West Twenty-third street, New York, about 10:30 o'clock this morning, fire, in a way as yet unexplained, broke out among the inflammable materials near them and spread so rapidly that the structure was a mass of flame before the firemen could arrive upon the scene. It is known that two of the painters got safely out of the place they were working in, but as yet two others have not been accounted for, and there is some fear that they may have been killed.

The Jersey Central ferry house, adjoining that of the Lackawanna toward the south, also caught fire and at the start there seemed little hope of saving it. The Erie and Pennsylvania terminals, which adjoin the Lackawanna house on the north, were in the gravest danger and efforts were concentrated to save them from destruction.

The Erie and Pennsylvania boats were allowed to land their passengers until the fire assumed such proportions as to threaten those stations also. By 10:30 o'clock no boats were allowed to approach the Twenty-third street terminal. At 11 o'clock twenty-one streams were put on. The entire structures were destroyed.

Villagers Are Angry.

There was indignation yesterday in South Orange over the action of the Village Board of Trustees in passing an ordinance which permits the Public Service Corporation to place more electric lights in the village in defiance of the expressed wishes of residents of the village during the last political campaign, when municipal lighting and the ending of further free privileges to the corporation were important issues. The Public Service Corporation has been doing business in the village without the semblance of a franchise. It pays absolutely nothing for the privilege of tearing up the streets and installing conduits, and the village trustees on their part exact no bond nor surety to indemnify the village against loss.

Is Regular First Rider.

John D. Meeker, one of the oldest residents of Millburn township, who was one of the first persons to ride over the Morris and Essex Railroad when it was opened through Millburn, in 1843, also was one of those in the party to ride over the new rapid transit line of the Morris County Trolley Company on the first trip yesterday. This last event marks an important epoch in the history of Millburn and Springfield, as both towns have been until now without trolley facilities. When the line is finished it will extend from Summit to Elizabeth. Eventually it will extend to Lake Hoptacong.

Owing to the holiday rush, Postmaster E. H. Bird announces that the postoffice will be kept open an hour later on Sunday morning for the accommodation of the public. The hours will be from 9:30 to 11:30.

THOMPSON OUT OF IT FOR PRISON SUPERVISOR

P. V. D. VAN DOREN LIKELY TO SUCCEED THE LATE MAJOR ANDERSON.

As a result of a conference held at Somerville last night, former Senator Lewis A. Thompson decided that he would not be a candidate for the position of Supervisor of the State Prison to succeed the late Major E. J. Anderson.

Besides former Senator Thompson and Senator-elect Frelinghuysen, the conference was attended by quite a number of representative Republicans of Somerset county and they agreed unanimously to endorse former Assemblyman P. V. D. Van Doren, of Millstone, for the place.

Senator-elect Frelinghuysen was in Trenton yesterday and is making a hard fight for Van Doren. In view of the fact that the position nominally belongs to Somerset, it would not be surprising to see Van Doren appointed.

New Aerie of Eagles.

New Brunswick will have an aerie of the Order of Eagles all right, according to the plans made at a preliminary meeting held in Norton's Hall, in that city, last night, with fifty-six men ready to get all that the Eagles' order may have in store for them. Those present heard Dennis J. Burke, of Elizabeth, past worthy president of the lodge there, explain the aims, purposes and benefits of the order.

Sprinkling System for Theatre.

Work was commenced this morning laying a four inch water main from Second street and Park avenue into the New Plainfield theatre building, for the purpose of equipping it with automatic fire sprinklers. The theatre is to be fitted with the most modern and approved system in order to give the patrons the best possible protection.

Rush to Pay Taxes.

Tax Collector Robert L. Lee had one of the busiest days of his official career yesterday. In order to save the ten per cent. that would be added to tax bills, there was a rush of property owners to pay up before night. As a result $35,000 was turned over to the city treasurer when the day's account was balanced.

Fireman Hurt.

Just as he was finishing the cleaning of his engine by polishing the lens of the headlight the acetyline gas tank exploded and John Ryder, a fireman on the Reading express of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, was thrown, blinded and senseless, to the track early today. This is the first explosion of the gas tanks that are used on the line. The lamp was burning at the time and the water dripper had been inspected for the run to Reading. Ryder is twenty-three years old and lives at No. 125 Fortieth street, Brooklyn. He is in the Jersey City Hospital with his face lacerated and is in danger of losing the sight of both eyes.

Enjoyed "Dutch Whist."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Smith, of West Fourth street, entertained the Whist Club, of which they are members, last night. The affair was unique in that the game played was called "Dutch whist," and instead of the usual kind of refreshments, the repast was of a Dutch character, all of which was greatly enjoyed. The club offers but two prizes, and the honors last night were awarded to Mrs. Francis E. Hammann and Frederick M. Van Emburrgh. The club will be entertained in two weeks by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Fletcher, of West Seventh street.

Borough Bill Drafted.

A draft of the bill to be presented to the Legislature in furtherance of the projected incorporation was adopted last night by the citizens of South Plainfield who are working to have the village organized as a borough. S. R. Manning, A. Steengrafe and Mr. Holly were appointed as a committee to bring the matter to the attention of the county representatives.

Miss Annie Kenney, of West Second street, will leave for Florida in a few days, where she will spend the winter.

Mrs. Clarence Woodcock, of West Seventh street, who recently suffered a paralytic stroke, has been recovering steadily and is now able to leave her bed at intervals.

NEWARK AS MEETING PLACE.

Military Commission to Hold Its Sessions There.

Trenton, Dec. 20.—The military commission appointed last week to prepare amendments to the present laws as to make it conform as nearly as practicable to the laws governing the regular establishment, met at the State House yesterday. General P. Farmer Wanser, senior officer of the commission, was elected president, and Adjutant General R. Heber Brientnall, secretary.

Beyond a general discussion of the scope of the work and effecting an organization the commission took no action. It was decided to hold all subsequent meetings at the Newark armory, as eight of the eleven members of the commission live in the northern part of the State. January 3 was fixed as the date for the next session.

MARRIED IN NEW YORK.

Miss Sue M. Pound Becomes Mrs. Judson R. Giles.

Miss Sue M. Pound, daughter of Daniel S. Pound, of West Front street, and Judson R. Giles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac R. Giles, of Fairview avenue, were married on Sunday last by Rev. Kerr Boyce Tupper, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York. The ceremony was performed at the church.

Both the bride and groom are well known. Mrs. Giles has been a regular attendant and worker at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church. The couple will reside here.

Trolley Car Hits Milk Wagon.

Elizabeth, Dec. 20.—A trolley car on the main line from Plainfield to Newark crashed into a milk wagon belonging to Dairyman James Stiles, of Union township, on North Broad street, yesterday morning. The shafts of the vehicle were cut as with a knife, while the glass windows in its side were smashed. The horse was severely cut about the flank and hind legs and ran away, but was caught by the negro driver of a coal wagon. Dairyman Stiles, who was driving the rig, escaped unhurt. The fender of the trolley car was broken.

The regular weekly meeting of song and speaking at the Rescue Mission will be held tonight. J. B. Oakley, of Elizabeth, will be the speaker.

CHIEF KIELY'S PROSECUTION STILL UNFINISHED; COUNCILMAN TYLER UNDER A LONG CROSS EXAMINATION

Counsel For The Defense Keeps Accusing Councilman on The Rack For More Than an Hour.

WITNESS'S CREDIBILITY

Mr. Reed Checked by Ruling of a Divided Court In An Effort to Show That Tyler Is Prejudiced—Police Docket Disappears.

For three full hours last night the prosecution continued its case in the Kiely hearing before the Council, and when the body adjourned at 11:15 their array of witnesses was still incomplete.

The feature of the hearing was the cross examination of Councilman Tyler. Mr. Reed held him on the rack for more than an hour. His testimony did not strengthen the case for the prosecution.

Two incidents marked the session. One was the withdrawal of the count on the alleged drunkenness of the chief on his return to the city from St. Louis, and the other was the announcement by Judge Runyon, on the stand, of the mysterious disappearance of the police court docket, by which the prosecution hoped to establish the dates of the disposition of the three prisoners alleged to have been freed from the station house without bail or without hearing on Andrew McCardell's say-so. The judge said the book disappeared from his office, for all he knew, like a wreath of thin smoke. Mr. Marsh made a careful and earnest statement to the effect that he didn't doubt the judge's word as to the way in which the docket was lost and had not the remotest idea of charging the accused official of having anything to do with getting the book out of the way.

The hearing will be continued tonight.

Councilman Tyler, who was on the stand at the adjournment of the meeting the night before, carried his testimony on. He was questioned as to the Goff raid.

"Did you drink anything at the time the raid was made?"

"No, sir."

"Who knew about the employment of the detective to get evidence about the Goff place?"

"Nobody except the detective and myself and the man from whom I engaged the detective in New York."

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"How long have you known the chief?"

"I have known him a good many years."

Referring to his associations with Chief Kiely, Mr. Tyler said, in answer to questions by Mr. Reed, that he had found him willing to accept assistance from him in police matters, and that they had talked over the subject of police matters together, one of which was the matter of speak-easies. At first, he said, the chief expressed some hesitation about getting evidence as to speak-easies, but he said he thought the chief was willing to work with him in that direction.

Continuing, Mr. Tyler said: "The chief said it was difficult, and that politics were behind it. We had been talking of McCardell, and there was a pretty full discussion of how we could accomplish what we were after. I said 'We must close that place.' He said he did not want to get into that task. Mr. Kiely, at the first interview, upon the duties of the police, after I was appointed chairman, and when talking about the Goff place, expressed some anxiety at first. He said that he feared from what he was told that I was hostile to him and was going in as chairman to oppose him. I assured him that such was wholly false and that I had complete confidence in him, and felt friendly, and that it was my desire to co-operate with him and he with me, and that we could work together strongly. I mentioned, among other things, that I felt that Goff was selling illicitly and I desired him to take hold of the matter vigorously and for him to see that the place was closed. He said I had a big job on my hands. I said that one reason I knew why I had a big job on my hands was because I felt sure of the political power behind Goff with which McCardell was connected. Mr. Kiely, either by his nod or some other indication, assented to this remark.

"I recall distinctly that he said, 'Mr. Tyler, if you are determined to take hold of that matter, I will see what I can do.' He told me that it was very difficult to convict illicit liquor sellers, and said that the authorities would not take cases which depended on paid testimony. He said it was very difficult for the police to get sufficient evidence against such places to convict. He said he had tried many of them, and that it was necessary to get convincing evidence, but he added that if I wanted it done he could do it. He told me one method most successful was to get men to go there as boarders."

To the question, "Did you know that he had no money to employ detectives to gather such evidence?" Mr. Tyler replied:

"Yes; but the chief knew, or ought to have known, that the committee would furnish the money. He said he would suggest a good way was to get Mr. Hibbard to place two of his men as boarders at Goff's place. I saw Mr. Hibbard soon after, and reported to the chief.

"That proposition made by Kiely regarding the two men was reasonable, wasn't it?"

"I don't think now that the proposition was reasonable, but I did then."

"Didn't he tell you that the corporation counsel and the prosecuting attorney had told him that he was to make no sign to the people involved in such proceedings, but to give the names of frequenters of the places to the Grand Jury?"

"As a general rule, I have been informed that it is better to be guided by the corporation counsel and the prosecutor. If he, Kiely, had dealt with me fairly, as chairman of the board, I should have accepted such reason from him as given. He never told me he was obtaining evidence or was doing anything until after June 30, 1905, but I think he told me after that, about August 27, that he was getting evidence. He said he had been obtaining a list of names of people seen going into Goff's, and if there was any selling there he could find out by bringing them before the Grand Jury."

"Well, assuming that by getting the list of names he was carrying out the instructions of the prosecuting attorney, what criticism is there of his conduct?"

"The criticism of his conduct at this time was disobedience of orders. He knew he was not carrying them out."

"Between January and May, 1905, what had you done as chairman to assist the chief in performing the admittedly difficult task of securing evidence against the Goff place?"

"I tendered my assistance in any way that he might request or direct."

"What did you do except tender him your sympathy?"

"If ever a man had another with him, the chief had me. I spent many afternoons and evenings talking with him."

"What did he fail to do during that period that he should have done?"

"He did not bring evidence before the Grand Jury in May."

"Your whole contention, then, is that the chief did not accomplish up to May 1, the very difficult task of securing evidence?"

"But, Mr. Reed, my making charges is purely official. Mr. Marsh has prepared them."

Mr. Marsh broke in. "Yes, I prepared those charges. Mr. Tyler is not on trial, Mr. Reed."

"Well, all we want is the truth," retorted Mr. Reed. "You understand," he continued, turning again to the witness, "that Chief Kiely is on trial for a very serious offence in its results, if convicted?"

"I regret to say I do, Mr. Reed."

"Do you admit that he was a faithful servant up to May 1, 1904?"

"I believed up to last May that he was faithful, but after that my suspicions were becoming aroused. I had heard the Goff place was selling from that time, and continued to hear it. Mr. Kiely and I talked matters over freely. He said, 'When you hear anyone say these things, tell me.'"

"When did you first give names of the people you heard these things from?"

"At the police board meeting. I said, 'Here are some of the people who have made statements that the Goff place was selling.' There were Messrs. Higham, Bullock, Hibbard and Wilson present. One of these told the chief that he had seen drunken crowds going in and out of Goff's. Mr. Kiely asked Mr. Bullock to give him the names of witnesses. These men did not say they had evidence of sales there."

"You knew that Kiely was friendly to McCardell, and would not proceed?"

Former Senator Charles A. Reed, Counsel for the Defense.

"Yes, and I resented it."

"You have never offered him the names of any one who knew about the Goff place?"

"When he asked us we resented the request. I don't think I would make any effort to aid him after that, after six months of doing nothing. After that I employed a detective; I was determined to know what was going on. The chief's request for names to present to the Grand Jury was an absurd request. So far as I know, there was no evidence in shape to go to the Grand Jury; only that persons were known who knew of the selling, and everybody was talking about it. This should be enough to indicate that there was evidence to be had if the chief would go to work. The chief deceived me by saying that he had not gotten evidence. I asked him if he knew of the illicit selling in August, and he said no. He had some names, but he had no evidence. I certainly say he was not carrying out the orders of the police board."

There was considerable sparring between Mr. Marsh and Mr. Reed over the latter's effort to show that Mr. Tyler entertained hostility to Chief Kiely. Mr. Reed started to question the witness as to his share of responsibility in bringing the original charges before the Common Council on October 24, and Mr. Marsh interposed a sharp objection. President Daniel ruled that the line of cross examination was immaterial and merely delayed the hearing; that the presentation of the original charges had no bearing on the guilt or innocence of Kiely on the present charges.

Mr. Reed demanded a roll call on the ruling. Mr. Gloak spoke in favor of sustaining Mr. Reed; he argued that the Council wanted to get at the truth of the whole matter, and not merely observe the legal formalities.

The question was put without further debate, and Mr. Daniel's ruling was sustained, five to four, with his own vote. Gloak, Tolles, Frank Randolph and Charles Randolph voted in the negative; Wilson, Higham, Hibbard and Murphy sustaining the president.

Mr. Reed took up the question of the charges in general and asked the witness if the defendant had had a chance to explain any of the accusations before the charges were made. As to frequenting Windham's saloon, the witness said it was against his advice. Referring to unpaid debts, which comprise one of the charges, witness was asked if the defendant had had a chance to explain. He said he had been about to bring the matter of one debt of the defendant before the police board one night, but the defendant paid the account that afternoon. Asked if he had given the defendant a chance to explain the discharge of John Nelson and others from the city jail without bail or hearing, before making the charge against the chief, he said he had never heard of it until recently.

"Did you, before publishing the charges, ever ask Kiely if he had been drunk in the waiting room at Jersey City?"

"It is time to call a halt," protested Mr. Marsh. "These questions throw no light on the issue."

"I want to bring this out," explained Mr. Reed, "to show that he was unfair to the defendant. It is a question of the credibility of the witness."

The question was not pressed. The next witness was John J. Goff, who was on the stand the night before, recalled to testify to his possession of a Government license to sell liquor.

"How long have you held a Government license to sell liquor?" asked Mr. Marsh.

"I object to that question," exclaimed the witness.

"On the ground that your answer will tend to incriminate you?" asked Mr. Marsh.

"Yes."

THE DEFENDANT'S CASE

Senator Reed Makes a Vigorous Statement Regarding the Prosecution.

Former Senator Charles A. Reed, counsel for Chief Kiely, made a vigorous statement regarding the case presented so far by the prosecution in the investigation of the accused official. He characterized the case as weak, flimsy and patently born of self-seeking. The defense, he declared, would disprove every charge.

"It is time something was done to give the public the right impression as to the whole matter," he said. "The charges—the insinuations made by these accusers—have been published broadcast, and it is no more than fair, now those accusations are being shown to have sprung from animus and political jobbery, without basis in fact, that the other side of the story should receive some publicity.

"If this case were being tried before a court or a jury there would be no doubt at all that the chief would be acquitted. We are going to prove—to prove, mind you—that the chief was not intoxicated; that he did not use the language imputed to him at the Jersey City terminal; that he did everything a man in his position could do, under the instructions of the prosecuting attorney and the corporation counsel, to proceed against Goff; that no man was ever released by him room the city jail without an order from the city judge, or, in his absence, the mayor, or, in his absence, the president of the council; that the chief never was taken from the station drunk and loaded into the patrol wagon; that he did not fail to pay a bill he owed. The bill of Frank Linke's was in dispute, and, as for Matthew Cashin's bill, he never owed him $1.50 or any other sum.

"The whole case shows that it was put up for political purposes. Their failure to give the chief any chance to explain the charges, and the way in which they have made them on the flimsiest evidence, shows that. Had the challenges been argued I could have proven that the charges presented on October 24 immediately followed a deal that Murphy, Higham, Bullock and Wilson and certain so-called independents made with the Democratic candidates; plainly a move for votes. The date of the raid was chosen with reference to the primaries."

BOROUGH SENIORS HOLD XMAS EXERCISES

FACULTY AND FRIENDS EOJOY THE ANNUAL JOLIFICATION.

The senior grades of the borough schools held their annual Christmas jollification in the chapel of the Somerset street building last night. The gathering included the pupils, the faculty and many friends, all of whom enjoyed the programme and customary pleasantries that passed. Class colors and Christmas greens formed the decorations.

The programme opened with an instrumental trip, "The Enchanted Lute," by Miss Maude Emmons, mandolin; Miss Myra Emmons, piano, and Miss Edna Smith, violin. This was followed by an amusing frace, "Chums," in which the characters were taken by Frank Webster, Marion Overton, William Dunning, Ralph Kutz and Mary Robley. The young artists acquitted themselves creditably and kept the audience laughing.

In conclusion, members of the junior class were given presents from the senior Christmas tree. Each one was supposed to "hit off" the recipient, an attached verse telling about it, and some of them were very cleverly gotten up.

Becoming a Sprinter.

Raymond Brokaw, of the Centenary Collegiate Institute, Hackettstown, is spending the Christmas holidays at his home here. He is becoming one of the prominent athletes at the institute, and promises to develop into a star runner. He took part in the recent interscholastic athletic meet at Philadelphia.

Carruthers' Double Jag.

John Carruthers, employed on this side of the brook, was arrested in the borough for drunkenness Tuesday night. He deposited $5 bail and was released yesterday only to be picked up again in the afternoon, saturated with rum. He is being held for appearance tonight.

23d Street Ferry Resumed.

The Jersey Central, whose station at Twenty-third street, New York, was destroyed by fire yesterday, has resumed its ferry service to that section, the city having obtained temporary use of a nearby slip.

PETITION FOR BOROUGH

Draft of South Plainfield Citizens' Formal Application to Legislature.

REASONS ARE GIVEN

Demand for Better Police and Fire Protection Prompts Request—Over 1,000 Persons in the Village.

South Plainfield is intensely earnest in its endeavor to become incorporated and already the proper application has been drawn and will be presented at the opening sessions of the Legislature next month. The special committee of citizens of that village has passed favorably upon the petition, which recites that the people in that place, which number over 1,000 souls, pay one-third of the taxes in Piscataway township. A desire for better police and fire protection are the principal reasons given for making the application.

Here is the petition in full:

"To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

"Gentlemen:

"The undersigned, residents and property owners in the township of Piscataway, in the county of Middlesex and State of New Jersey, hereby make application for the passage of an act to incorporate as a borough all that portion of the territory of Piscataway as herein described; the said territory to be known as the borough of South Plainfield.

"This portion of the township has had a large and rapid growth during the last few years, and now forms a connected, thickly settled community of at least one thousand inhabitants. South Plainfield is situated about three miles from New Market, the present municipal seat of the township government, and is the junction of the Perth Amboy and New York branches of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company.

"While the presence of these railroads in South Plainfield is a distinct advantage in many ways, they bring to our town a number of tramps and other undesirable characters, who make a stopping place of South Plainfield, and it is becoming more and more necessary to adopt rules, regulations and ordinances for the maintenance of order and good government, and the prevention of crime in South Plainfield, that are not at all necessary in other parts of the township. South Plainfield is also more thickly built up than any other portion of the township, and requires adequate fire protection, which could be easily obtained by the organization of a fire company, if a separate municipality were created.

"In the year 1904 the South Plainfield district contained more than one-third of the taxable wealth of the entire township, and paid more than one-third of all taxes. It is constantly growing, and being situate, as it is, within twenty-five miles of New York City, with first class railroad facilities, good water supply, and available factory sites, we feel that if we had borough rights, we could, by the organization of a Board of Trade, or by the adoption of other suitable means, induce many valuable industries to locate here, as has been done in the case of a number of other small boroughs which have not nearly as good facilities to offer as South Plainfield.

"Your petitioners therefore believe that the needs of this community call for an entire separation from said township of which it is now a part; and that its best interests, continued progress and proper government will be more readily and safely secured by its creation as a district and separate municipality.

"The undersigned therefore most respectfully petition your honorable body to pass an act incorporating said territory as a borough."

"Scotty" Missing.

A letter receiver yesterday from William Scott, of Los Angeles, brother of Walter Scott, the Death Valley mine owner, formerly of this city, states that "Scotty" has been missing ten days. He left Bennett Wall's Death Valley camp for his mines on December 1, and December 7 his mule "Slim" returned to Wall's riderless. A bullet hole was found in the saddle and the saddle itself was smeared with blood. William Scott and a scout followed the mule's trail for two days, when it became obliterater by a sand storm. They were unated by a sand storm. They were unable to find any trace of "Scotty."

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Nellie Adeline Bechtel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Bechtel, of Carlton avenue, and Charles Stanley Woolston, of this city.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Public Service Corporation has asked the Township Committee to make some effort towards putting an end to the practice indulged in by the small boy in trying their marksmanship upon the electric lights in town. For several years past the company has been put to a great deal of trouble as well as expense in replacing the small bulbs. Efforts have been made to catch the youthful culprits but so far they have been unsuccessful. The locality selected by the marksmen is generally in the outlying sections, where they can enjoy the sport unmolested.

Charles and Battell Loomis, of the Mt. Pleasant Military Academy, will spend their holiday vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Battell Loomis, of the borough.

The trial of Chief Kiely, being held in Plainfield, is watched with interest here, as the chief is well known here and has worked upon several cases of local nature.

The two local bowling teams, the 'Plains and the Suburbans, are both bowling a steady game and are more than holding their own with the other teams in this section.

From present indications there will be skating for Christmas, to ease the mind of those who always want a white Christmas with the merry jingle of sleigh bells.

School closes tomorrow afternoon for the ten days' holiday vacation, not reopening again until January 3, 1906.

If your taxes are not paid you are now on the delinquent list and your property will be advertised.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight in the Library rooms.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Men's Club of the First Baptist church will hold its next meeting on Monday night, January 8. The programme has not yet been decided upon.

"Old Fashioned Santa Claus," is the title of the Christmas cantata to be given by the First Baptist church Sunday-school on Friday, December 29.

The Christmas entertainment to be held by the Sabbath-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church on Tuesday night, December 26, will consist of music, recitations and distribution of gifts.

The Christmas exercises will be held at the Congregational church Sunday morning and will include special music by the choir and an appropriate sermon by the pastor. The entertainment for the Sunday-school will be held next week.

The annual Christmas entertainment for the primary department of the First M. E. church Sunday-school will be held in Vincent chapel on Tuesday afternoon. The entertainment for the older members of the school will probably be held on the following Thursday night.

STUDY OF FRANCHISES.

Public Utility Commission's Report for Legislative Session.

The public utility franchise commission met at the State House at Trenton to consider the report which it is to present to the next Legislature. The members are former Governor Murphy, former Governor Voorhees, John C. Payne, secretary of the State Riparian Board; Eckard P. Budd, of the State Board of Assessors, and Frank T. Lloyd, prosecutor of Camden county. All were present. One member stated that the report would not be ready at the opening of the Legislature, but would be presented during the session.

Prosecutor Lloyd stated that the report will be based on information gathered from every State in the union and from Europe. Several countries in Europe, he stated, have made surprising progress in the matter of handling the public franchise question during the past five years.

The commission was appointed under an act of the last Legislature to investigate the whole subject of the grant of franchise by municipalities to public utility companies, also the question of assessing the franchise values of corporations using the public streets for trolley, gas, telephone, telegraph or water purposes, and taxing them at a local rate.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

The toy departments in the local shops are busy places these days, and deft fingers have fashioned mechanical toys to delight the boys and girls. There are miniature automobiles, locomotives with trains of cars and toy animals for the boys, pretty dolls that speak and walk and a variety of mechanical games for the girls.

On the book counters are seen an endless variety of Christmas books for children. The new nursery rhymes, as well as the old ones of our grandmothers, are beautifully illustrated by famous artists. The fable books and fairy tales are made more attractive by their store of beautiful pictures.

"Rhymes of Real Children" and "Poems of Childhood," beautifully illustrated, make pretty gift books.

There are many finely bound that the grown up will enjoy, as much for their beautiful illustrations and rich bindings as for the enjoyment to be found in perusing them. The rich burnt leather and decorated ooze calf are among the popular leathers.

An album of black and white drawings makes a pleasing gift. Gems from the pencil of famous artists have been collected and bound in book form and are shown at the book shops.

One of the many beautful calendars for 1906 would make a nice addition to a room. Some of these are works of art in pastel, water colors and etchings, as well as reproductions from famous pictures.

Passepatout wall cards with verses and quotations from the poets, richly colored and illuminated, will find favor with many.

Stationery and writing materials make pleasing and useful gifts. Desk pads and blotters one is sure to choose as useful gifts.

Nicely bound memorandum pads and telephone directories, as well as diaries and post card albums, are among the gifts that will be appreciated.

The new Japanese leather pocketbooks and hand bags are finding much favor among the Christmas shoppers, and will bring joy to many a girl on Christmas morning.

Among the useful trappings for a man's den or cosy corner are to be found the new velour cushions in rich shades of green, brown and red. These will find favor because they can be put to practical use without fear of soiling.

Smoking jackets and house coats please most men and make practical holiday gifts. The velveteen and dark cloths are the ones most favored.

For the man who travels, select one of the new telescope suit cases. These are an improvement on the old style and are made of substantial cowhide and pigskin.

The housewife will find pleasure in gifts for personal use or the many pretty ornaments or pictures that go to brighten the home.

MAKE PLANS FOR CHRISTMAS.

Get your presents all laid in before the 20th—here is a rule which should be rightly observed. Then tackle the household problems and get as many as possible done the week before Christmas.

In England the plum pudding for the Christmas dinner is always made and put away for future use the week before advent. In America, with our modern inventions, we do not have to make such early preparations, for we can buy almost all materials already prepared; but there is one disadvantage in this system. Women are likely to leave everything until the last day; then, when Christmas comes, they work all the time and are too tired to enjoy the dinner they have cooked or the festivities which follow.

More than two-thirds of the women in this country who keep house either do their own housework or employ only one servant, seldom a good cook, says the Philadelphia Telegraph. So when it comes to a Christmas dinner, the woman of the house must either cook almost everything herself or personally superintend the getting of the meal.

Now, how to have a Christmas dinner that will delight one's husband, to have the house in order, the table attractively decorated, the children neatly dressed, and yet to have time to put on one's best frock in time to sit at the head of the table before the dinner is served and, afterwards, to join in the pleasures of the evening, is merely a matter of management and forethought.

It is not a matter of making the Christmas pudding six weeks in advance, but of preparing it two or three days beforehand, and of having ready, so that there will be no hurry and confusion at the last moment.

If roast turkey is to be the piece de resistance, buy your turkey three days before Christmas. Dress and stuff it the day before Christmas, so that it will be all ready to put into the oven when the day for cooking it arrives. Have your jellies, your pies, your cake, all made and ready the day before. If you have children large enough, have them help to set the table on Christmas morning. Do not let the children scatter their Christmas toys about; they should keep them in one room until after dinner. Enlist your husband into your service and make him useful. There are many things he can do, and doubtless would gladly do to lighten your labors.

DID GENERAL M'CLELLAN WEAR A SLOUCH HAT?

DISPUTE OVER HEADGEAR ON BRONZE STATUTE OF "LITTLE MACK."

New York, Dec. 21.—State Historian Hugh Hastings called on Mayor McClellan Tuesday to talk over with him the alleged blunder in the design of the statue of the Mayor's father, "Little Mac," which is to be erected in Washington. General McClellan, in the model made by Frederick Maconnies, wears a slouch hat. Members of the Loyal Legion assert that he never wore any such headgear while in the Federal Army. They want the model changed so that the general shall wear a fatigue cap.

Mr. Hastings suggested to the Mayor that the matter be called to the attention of the committee of congress which has charge of the erection of the statue. The Mayor promised to look into the subject.

In reference to the Maconnies' model, William Elmendorf, adjutant of General Slocum Post, G. A. R., of Hoboken, declares that he has a picture of General McClellan taken during the Civil War in which he is shown wearing a slouch hat. In the group with the general are Allan Pinkerton and President Lincoln. The picture, he says, was taken in front of General McClellan's headquarters.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Lay Them Bare.

Investigation now means publicity, and publicity in turn means reform. So turn on the searchlights. Ulcers and running sores on the body politic may be hideous and revolving, but to effect a cure they must be laid bare in all their repulsiveness.—Hoboken Observer.

Lakes Should be Preserved.

The lakes of New Jersey should be preserved for the people. It was proper that they should be used to fill the canal and make effective an important factor in transportation, but on the abandonment of the canal these lakes should be preserved for the benefit of the people, and not turned over to a corporation which will sell the water at a profit.—Paterson Guardian.

Danger of Unclean Money.

Undoubtedly there is no vehicle of disease transmission more powerful than banknotes. Upon single notes in circulation millions of contagious disease germs have been found under the microscope. Great Britain finds no difficulty in supplying clean currency, and the task would be neither a difficult nor expensive one for this country. Mr. Wiley's bill should be enacted without a dissenting vote.—Asbury Park Record.

Passaic is Satisfied.

As Shakespeare said, "All's well that ends well." The right has won. Passaic county will not be a nonentity. There will be no trunk sewer legislation. The Morris canal job will not go through, if it means the theft of Greenwood lake or involves the confiscation of private property by grabbing corporations. And the principles of equal taxation, as specified in the platform of the Passaic county Republican convention, will unquestionably be adopted. The victory is won and the incident is closed.—Paterson Call.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Sigmund Frucht has started the work of building an automobile garage on his property on Park avenue, formerly owned by Dr. M. B. Long.

—The ironwork about the catch basin at Park avenue and East Front street is loose and is more or less dangerous to pedestrians who are very apt to stumble over it.

—Mayor Newton B. Smalley has had a gang of men at work on West End avenue in the borough digging holes for the shrubbery that is to beautify the boulevard when completed.

—There will probably be no further meeting of the members of the 1906 Common Council to plan an organization until the regular session on Monday night, January 1, when the newly-elected president will announce his committees.

Holiday Rush at Postoffice.

The holiday rush of mail is now on at the postoffice and the letter-carriers as well as the clerks are on the jump constantly receiving and sending mail matter. From present indications this year's business will exceed that of other years.

Earning His Money.

Tax Collector Lee's duties at present are made more arduous by reason of the fact that he is also receiving assessment money for macadamizing and sewer improvements. This adds to his general work considerable.

Justice V. W. Nash, of Prospect avenue, is improving so rapidly that he expects to be able to return to his office next week.

Dr. and Mrs. H. Worthington Paige, of New York, have been visiting Mrs. Paige's mother, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, of West Seventh street.

10,000 BIBLES A YEAR DISTRIBUTED IN STATE

REPRESENTS PART OF THE WORK OF AMERICAN SOCIETY.

In a statement just issued some idea is given of the work done in this State by the American Bible Society, both as regards the distribution of Bibles and the amounts paid for them, together with the donations from the auxiliaries (the principal distributors) and the churches. Following are some of the facts shown:

The number of books sent into the State in the last five years was 47,427, or nearly 10,000 a year. Of this number 1,531 were grants. The 45,896 were sales.

The amount paid by auxiliaries for Bibles in the five years was $10,814.84. The amount donated by the same auxiliaries was $9,743.13, making a total of $20,557.97.

To this was added $13,248.70, received from contributing churches and the two Methodist Conferences.

The total received from sales through auxiliaries, donations by auxiliaries and contributions from churches, reached $33,806.67.

The number of contributing churches averages sixty-one. The church which is the largest contributor is the First Presbyterian of Trenton, giving on an average $187 a year. The Brick church, East Orange, is second. Last year the contributing churches were eighty-three.

In 1901 the auxiliaries paid $2,595.55 for books, and $1,998.68 in donations. The churches contributed $2,882.98.

In 1902 the figures were, respectively, $2,023.55, $2,427.36 and $1,917.84.

In 1903 they were $1,868.45, $1,065 and $2,125.54.

"Thirty-four thousand dollars in five years," said W. H. Morse, secretary of the Union County Auxiliary, "or between six and seven thousand a year, seems a large sum, and particularly when there should be added to it the contributions from individuals. I make no doubt but that the latter swells the amount to $50,000, or $10,000 a year. But, it seems to me that it might well be doubled. New Jersey is a generous giver, and the auxiliaries and the contributing churches do nobly. But it would be better if the number of contributing churches were increased. That this may be the case, may be expected, as the Rev. A. E. Colton, the indefatigable field agent for New England, has had this State added to his territory."

LITERARY NOTES.

The American Magazine has become, from the photographic standpoint, perhaps the best of the magazines of National circulation. In the current number there is a striking series of photographs, of crocodiles, by Julian A. Dimock. In one instance a 10-foot crocodile has been photographed only four feet away, and in another the effect is almost that of some prehistoric monster or dragon. The January number is excellent from start to finish. Booker T. Washington writes of "The Negro in Business;" Arthur Goodrich tells of the work of Dr. Barnado in saving London's waifs, and Burton T. Hendrick traces the development of the Gould fortune. Creswell Maclaughlin contributes two pages of epigrams, and Annie Payson Call continues her series on "Every Day Living." The short stories are by Joseph C. Lincoln, Mark Lee Luther, W. B. M. Ferguson, Julia B. Foster and A. C. Davis. Miss Cholmondeley's serial, "Prisoners," is making a hit.

The January Everybody's is virtually's an "automobile number." There is excellent reading in Arthur N. Jervis' spirited article, "Car Coming!" with its brilliant description of Vanderbilt Cup race and its discussion of the present high and significant status of American automobile racing. On the other hand, Eugene Wood, in his sprightly essay, "Do I Want an Automobile?" treats the same subject with highly successful humor. Any reader who may be in doubt as to whether he wants an automobile, and why, can find out by reading these two articles. Charles Edward Russell, who has been studying European solutions of American problems, tells, in a remarkably significant instalment of his serial, "Soldiers of the Common Good," of the phenomenal development of Municipal Ownership in Europe. The story of the London County Council, "that body unique in the history of government;" the fact that where Public Ownership has been tested, "Private Ownership is doomed;" and the relation of these important sociological developments to the misery of London's very poor—are all points that Mr. Russell makes with vigor and conviction. There is also a brief put pithy instalment of Mr. Lawson's and the reappearance of Addicks are "Frenzied Finance." Bay State Gas taken up in this number.

The January number of Scribner's Magazine contains one of Kate Douglas Wiggin's most amusing stories, "Philippa's Nervous Prostration." In its course it describes a modern sanitarium, with its daily routine of prepared foods, massage, rest and meditation. The theme furnishes Mrs. Wiggin with the very best opportunity for the display of her marvelous talent for making fun. Incidentally it develops two charming love stories. The illustrations, by May Wilson Preston, catch the humorous spirit of the story delightfully. Mrs. Burnett's wonderfully powerful tale, "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," which was begun in the Christmas number, is concluded with great strength, and will no doubt have a decided effect on the many thinking people who see in the present time the right moment for a recrudescence of Faith. Ernest Thompson Seton was a writer of natural history long before he became a writer of stories, and he begins in this number, with an account of "The Wapiti and His Antlers," a series of papers on the great horned game of America. In each brief paper will be set forth clearly the result of many years study and observation, illuminated with drawings by Mr. Seton. The articles will interest every lover of outdoor sports.

PASSAIC AND CAPE MAY HEADS APPOINTED AT STATE BOARD'S SESSION

Lakewood, Dec. 21.—New Jersey's State Board of Education met in the Laurel-in-the-Pines Hotel here Tuesday, for the December session. There were fifteen members present. James L. Hays, the Newark postmaster and president of the board, presided at the session.

Those in attendance besides Mr. Hays, were Colonel Sweeting Miles, of Alpine; Dr. Ulamor Allen, of Jersey City; William D. Forbes, of Hoboken; Judge Francis Scott, of Paterson; W. R. Florance, of New Brunswick; James B. Woodward, of Bordentown; Benjamin H. Campbell, of Elizabeth; Samuel St. John McCutchen, of Plainfield; William R. Barricklo, of Jersey City; Edward G. Robertson, of Newark; T. O'Conor Sloane, of South Orange; S. R. Morse, of Atlantic City, and John P. Walker, of Trenton.

Besides these members of the board, Dr. James M. Green, head of the State Normal School, and Professor Louis Bevier, Jr., the State inspector of high schools, attended the session.

The principal business transacted was the reading of the annual report of Dr. Green. Consideration of the appointment of a successor to Peter Tilton, the present head of the Ocean county schools, was also made, but as no suitable candidate for the office has yet been found, it was decided to let Mr. Tilton occupy the office until his successor can be appointed.

Much routine business was disposed of at the meeting. Two new county superintendents were appointed—Edward Garrison in Passaic county, and Oscar O. Barr in Cape May county. The annual report of the high school inspector was read. The list of appropriations, which the Legislature will be asked for during its coming session, follows: Expenses of the State Board of Education, $3,000; school house plans, $500; bureau of information, $500; State superintendent's office salary, $5,000; clerical services, $9,000; stationery and blanks, $4,000; incidentals, $2,500; Normal School current expenses, $50,000; repairs, $4,000; School for the Deaf, current expenses and repairs, $45,000; Bordentown School, $8,500; Farnum School, $2,000; Manual Training, $50,000; industrial schools, $15,000; school libraries, $7,000; teachers' libraries, $600; salaries of county superintendents, $42,000; State Board of Examiners, $250; teachers' institutes and high school inspector, $4,000.

The appropriation for the Bordentown Colored School is $2,500 larger than that of last year, as the board is desirous of establishing an agricultural school there. In order to do this it will be necessary to keep the school in operation all the year round, and thus the extra appropriation is asked. An appropriation of $100,000 was asked for toward the new Normal School building, and it was decided to ask for $200,000 for the same purpose next year.

A Christmas Suggestion.

The appearance of Van Arsdale's shoe store looks as if the proprietor is doing the holiday shoe business of the town. There is everything in slippers for everybody, in both leather and felt; shoes in shiney leather, bright and dull kid, white kid and white ooze; pumps, the newest out for ladies' wear; dress shoes, street shoes and skating shoes for young men. Also a new skating boot for girls or women who skate; rubber boots (high tops) for the little chaps; rubber boots and warmovers for everyone; overgarters in the new popular shades. These are simply a few of the appropriate things for gifts at Van Arsdale's.

Lawyer Criticises Judge.

Edward I. Croll, a lawyer, created an unusual scene Tuesday in the First Precinct Court, Newark, when he denounced methods of Detective Sergeant Farrell, expressed amazement at a decision by Judge Sweeney, said he was aware that he was in contempt and that he would cheerfully pay a fine for the privilege of naving expressed himself freely. Judge Sweeney adjudged him guilty of contempt, but said he would decide upon the penalty later. Croll's remarks were caused by Judge Sweeney holding Mrs. Alexander Miller, of Brooklyn, for the Grand Jury on a charge of fraud.

Will Fight Husband's Suits.

Vice Chancellor Garrison, at Jersey City, Tuesday, granted Le Roy A. Gibney, a lawyer, $100 fee to assist Mrs. John Vanderbilt, of New Providence, in contesting her husband's suit for divorce. Mr. Vanderbilt, who resides in West Orange, has also asked the Court of Chancery to declare his wife's two-year-old son illegitimate. He alleges that his estranged wife seeks possession of his estate for her son.

Jury in Dr. Allen's Suit Disagrees.

After being out eight hours the jury in the case of Eltfel Myerbahm against Joseph Hermann told Judge Keogh, in the Supreme Court, at Flushing, that it could not agree. Dr. Thomas H. Allen was the real plaintiff, seeking to recover $23,000 for professional services. The case may be retried.

Plainfield, N. J., December 21, 1905.

At any rate, it is unlikely that Libbie Garrabrandt will go on the stage.

Do your Christmas shopping early, and do not wait until the last moment to mail what you must. As usual, a rush may be expected at the postoffice to get things off at the last hour, and the employes will be overburdened with work. A little forethought will prevent all this.

When can the Plainfield patrons of the road expect a restoration of the Jersey Central timetable in use before December 3? The present one makes this city a way-station for east bound service between 9:59 in the morning until 6:29 at night, there being but one express train during that period. West bound the same condition prevails between 10 in the morning and 1:10 in the afternoon. Doesn't the business warrant a service at least as good as that given before the first of the month?

(By Merry Tom)

The automatic sprinkling apparatus that is being installed in the New Plainfield theatre by Manager Counihan will reduce the danger from fire to a minimum. The system is one approved by Chief Doane and is being put in under his supervision.

Chris Sorensen, Jr., who has been "wildcatting" with several musical organizations, is to return to Arthur Pryor shortly. He will be on the advance line during the band leader's western tour, but when a long stand is made in Chicago, will take his place among the musicians as trombone soloist.

Things theatrical have been a little dark in town so far this week but when the lights are turned on for John Drew tomorrow night they will usher in a busy season. Hi Henry and his minstrels holds the boards Saturday and there is a show booked for every night next week. "That's going some."

The mirth-provoking Richard Carle and his funny associates, "The wardrobe mistress" and "Rusty, the song book boy," are to come back to Plainfield in "The Mayor of Tokio." They are at present drawing crowded houses at the New York theatre but will be seen at the local playhouse early in February.

James O'Neil, who has been booked for January 13, has already been in Plainfield with "Monte Cristo." It was presented to a big audience at Music Hall fully fifteen years ago. Since then Mr. O'Neil has appeared in several other plays and also vaudeville but has always returned to his greatest success.

The names of the jurors are withheld from the public until the opening day.

ANTI-CAUCUS' IDEA WINS IN THE SENATE

UPPER HOUSE AGREES TO RESPECT COLBY'S PRINCIPLES.

Everett Colby abolished the caucus, so far as the Senate is concerned, yesterday, and thereby won a victory for his anti-caucus theory. He declined to remain in the conference of Senators at Trenton yesterday if anything binding was adopted. On motion of Senator Wakelee, of Bergen, a resolution was passing leaving Mr. Colby free to exercise his own free will to any action that might be taken. Of course, the same privilege, by inference, would be granted to any other Senator. In future what used to be a caucus will simply be a conference.

The Senators and Senators-elect met at the Republican Club about noon. Senator Ackerman, of Union county, was absent on account of his mother's death. Senator Bradley, of Camden, as the temporary chairman, called the meeting to order. Senator Wakelee then nominated Senator Hillery, of Morris, for leader, and the latter took the chair. At this point Mr. Colby arose and stated that he did not see his way clear to vote for any officer if the action of the meeting was to be considered binding. It was contrary to the principles he had been advocating. If the Senators desired him to withdraw, in view of his attitude, he would depart. He would be glad to attend the meetings whenever party measures were to be discussed, provided it was understood that he was not bound in any way. There was considerable discussion that apparently amounted to little. Colby finally walked slowly to the door, and had his hand on the knob when Senator Wakelee remarked:

"Come back a minute, Colby, I have a resolution to offer, which may interest you."

Mr. Colby took his seat, and Senator Wakelee then read a resolution, which had evidently been prepared in advance, in which it was moved that Mr. Colby need not vote for any officer at any of the conferences or be bound as to any measures on which action might be taken. This resolution was adopted unanimously, and Mr. Colby bowed his acknowledgment of the compliment.

Then the regular business proceeded. Colby voted for Hillery for leader, but after Senator Homer, or Burlington, named Bradley for president, and the vote was taken, the Senator-elect from Essex did not vote. The nominations for the rest of the officers to be chosen by the Senate were left to a steering committee. While the committee was making up its report, the Senators sat down to a dinner furnished by the club. Later on the following officers were named and confirmed: Secretary, Howard L. Tyler, of Cumberland; assistant secretary, Lewis T. Stevens, of Cape May; journal clerk, S. Merchant Meeker, of Union; supervisor of bills, Edward S. Sexsmith, of Monmouth; calendar clerk, William E. Staban, of Passaic; assistant sergeant-at-arms, Richard Rowe, of Burlington. The bill clerk is to be named by Colby, the assistant journal clerk by Shinn, of Ocean; the assistant supervisor of bills by Hillery, of Morris; the assistant bill clerk by Frelinghuysen, of Somerset, and the sergeant-at-arms by Hutchinson, of Mercer.

The conference adopted a resolution directing the custodian of the State House to see that no flowers were placed on the Senators' desks on the opening day of the session. There were two absentees, Avis, of Gloucester, and Ackerman, of Union. Avis had to go to Washington on business, and the death of Mr. Ackerman's mother detained him.

GRANTED SEPARATION.

Mrs. Martha G. Woolworth Also Gets $30 a Week Alimony.

Mrs. Martha G. Woolworth, of this city, wife of Herbert G. Woolworth, who, it is claimed, is the manager of his uncle's five and ten cent store business, has been granted a separation from her husband by Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman, of New York, and $30 a week alimony.

The decree of divorce obtained by Woolworth in South Dakota, after a jury in New York decided against him in the suit he brought there is declared by Justice O'Gorman to be void in New York State. Mrs. Woolworth remained in New York and was served with papers in the Dakota action, but ignored the suit and judgment was granted by default. That was in November, 1904. She then used for a separation on the ground of abandonment.

Justice O'Gorman says that a refusal by Woolworth to take his wife back constituted abandonment and that his attempt to claim a domicile in South Dakota was evidently fraudulent, as he returned to New York on getting his divorce.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, have returned from a visit with friends at West Point.

Mrs. Minna Hille, of Carlton avenue, has returned from Muhlenberg Hospital, where she has been under treatment, and although still confined to her bed, is rapidly improving.

WILL REPORT ON ALL FRANCHISES

BOARD TO SUBMIT REPORT TO LEGISLATURE EARLY IN SESSION.

Former Governors Murphy and Voorhees called upon Gov. Stokes at Trenton Tuesday afternoon and passed the time of day with him. They came in company with Prosecutor Frank T. Lloyd, of Camdan, and John C. Payne, of Hudson, as members of the commission appointed under authority of the Legislature to inquire into the subject of granting franchises for public utilities and the taxation of the same. Eckard P. Budd, the other member of the commission, was not present.

After paying their respects to the governor the commission held a meeting and considered the report which it will make and which it expects to have ready for submission early in the coming session. The commission has received information on the subject it has under investigation from every state in the union, and through the United States consular agents from all the larger of the important foreign cities.

As the two former governors passed through the governor's reception room, on the walls of which hang the portraits in oils of those who have heretofore occupied the executive office, former Governor Murphy paused before the large painting of himself and gazed at it.

"This is the first time I've seen that since it was hung there," he said.

"I don't like it," replied the governor decisively, and then he added jocularly, "When I get wealthy, I'll have another one painted to take its place."

Former Governor Voohees was asked what he thought of the portrait of himself which has recently been added to the collection.

"Why, that's all right; it's a good picture," said the former governor as he hurried after his fellow franchise commissioners.

LIBBIE GARRABRANDT RELEASED ON PAROLE

AFTER 35 YEARS IN PRISON—POISONED A MAN.

Libbie Garrabrandt's life term in State Prison for the poisoning of Ransom F. Burroughs at Paterson is ended at last, after she has served nearly 35 years, and 40 attempts have been made to secure her freedom. By a vote of 5 to 3 the Court of Pardons yesterday granted her a parole. Those voting in favor were Governor Stokes, Judges Vroom, Vredenburgh, Gray and Dill. Chancellor Magie, Judges Green and Bogert opposed the parole.

Miss Garrabrandt's case was taken up early in the session of the court, and about 1 p. m. Prison Keeper Osborne was notified officially that the parole had been granted. Miss Philbrook, probation officer of Essex county, and counsel for Libbie, was at the State House early in anticipation of favorable action. Relatives of the prisoner were also there. Following the action by the court the necessary papers were executed for the release of the prisoner. Then those interested hurried to the prison to make the arrangements to take Libbie away.

JUNIORS' HAPPY TIME.

Young Epworth Leaguers Enjoy Christmas Exercises.

The Junior Epworth League of the First M. E. church enjoyed its annual Christmas exercises in Vincent chapel yesterday afternoon. There were forty children present and all thoroughly enjoyed the excellent programme prepared by Miss Nettie Beeching, the superintendent, and her assistant, Miss Miller.

During the forepart of the afternoon the children spent the time playing all kinds of games. There was a large red stocking filled with gifts of various kinds, and the appearance of Santa Claus, in the person of Edward Bingaman, who distributed the gifts, delighted the little ones.

After the distribution of gifts, piano solos were rendered by Miss Frances Rittenhouse and Miss Myrtle Darling, the young artists receiving hearty applause. A feature of the entertainment was the appropriate talk by the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea, whose pleasing words were attentively listened to. The programme over the children were served with ice cream and cake.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

TOASTS.

A long life and a happy one;
A good business and a successful one;
A firm friend and a faithful one;
A swift death and a peaceful one;
And God's face beyond.

At a recent supper to a bride this was the first toast:

Here's to Love, a thing so divine,
Description makes it but the less,
'Tis what we feel but can not define,
'Tis what we know but can not express.

And after toasts to the youngest matron and the bride, one of the girls whose engagement had not been announced, gravely recited:

We've had a toast to the bride-to-be,
Winsome, smiling and fair,
Here's to the girls who would like to be,
Wondering when and where,
Still there's fish in the sea,
No doubt of it, as good as ever came out of it,
And some day we'll get our share—
So we don't care.

Then her neighbor at the table sad:

Pray do not fancy hope is dead.
Be game and laugh at fate.
Bear this in mind: they also wed
Who only wait and wait.

Among general toasts, the quotation from Cicero to friendship is apropos: "It improves happiness and abates misery by the doubling of our joy and the dividing of our grief."

At a family reunion Mark Twain's unique toast to "The Babies" is generally appropriate: "We haven't all had the good fortune to be ladies; we have not all been generals, or poets, or statesmen; but when the toast works down to the babies, we stand on common ground—for we've all been babies."

A familiar toast to a general company is:

No matter where you're from;
May the best day you have seen
Be worse than your worst to come.
—Pilgrim.

CHRISTMAS FAMILY DINNER.

The Christmas dinner may be made to convey doubly the idea of good cheer if the housewife will lend herself to a few details beforehand.

Even if the menu is not an extraordinary one, the manner of its serving may partake of the character of the occasion. The entire table is to be so decorated with red and green that it will seem to fairly radiate the Christmas spirit. Artificial holly is now being largely used instead of the real—it is a bit more expensive but lasts over from season to season without losing is lustre.

A large bunch of holly placed in the centre of the table in a low vase or fern dish, and tied with a flowing bunch of scarlet ribbon, gives an added brilliancy to the spotless cloth. The napkins are to be crimped around the edges, rolled and wound with a spray of holly in lieu of napkin rings. Spread the covers in the regulation fashion, and arrange a piece of holly on the cloth in front of each plate. The ends of these sprays may be joined to form a complete circle of green around the table.

Place some greens on the oyster plates and float a small piece of parsley in each soup plate. If stick bread is used it may be tied with red baby ribbon.

That piece de resistance, the turkey, is to be elaborately garnished with holly, while nothing could present a more wholesome picture than a dome of creamy white potatoes, smoothed high in a tureen and mounted with a dashing touch of green leaves.

When the salad course is reached serve either shrimp or lobster. The pink of the shrimp goes well with dark green leaves of lettuce, arranged around the outside of each plate. Should you serve lobster salad save some of the red meat from the claws and chop up to give a sprinkling of color.

As a crowning event of the meal a plum pudding should by all means be ushered in with ceremony. Many of the canned plum puddings are considered wholesome, and are to be commended for their richness of flavor, but nothing can equal the fresh, moist, home-made plum puddings, put together from a standard recipe and turned out of the bag steaming hot on a large platter.

No Christmas dinner is quite complete without a dish of fruit and nuts piled high. To pyramid a fruit dish is quite an art. First fill in the bowl with oranges and apples, ranging bananas around the rim in such a way that the heavier fruit will hold them in firmly. As the pile grows higher and, therefore, more unstable, you must use tooth picks to hold it together; this may be quite adroitly done until the whole appears a marvelous creation. Fill in the small spaces with lady apples, figs, dates, raisins and nuts.

Resigns as City Committeeman.

Charles H. K. Halsey, whose term as chairman of the Republican City Central Committee, of Elizabeth, expires with the end of the present year, heard many kind words spoken of his direction of the affairs of the committee as he occupied the chair for its last meeting in 1905 Tuesday night. Mr. Halsey has represented to Eleventh ward in the body and has been chairman for three years. He did not stand for re-election at the last primaries, and Everard K. Tucker was chosen in his place.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Dec. 24: "A Christmas Gift to the Christ"—Matt. ii, 11; II Cor. viii, 5; I Chron. xxix, 5.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

As the Christmas season comes again the thoughts and hands of all are busy with preparations for gifts and pleasant surprises for the loved ones. We care much less for what we are ourselves to receive than for what we desire to give to others. We have not thought of bargain and trade in this matter. It is all a question of giving pleasure. If not overdone, it is a blessed thing for the world, this Christmas giving.

One caution is needed in it all—that we do not forget the origin of the custom and the One who deserves and desires the best we can offer, the One who gives us not once a year, but continually, the very best of all His gifts and all that we have in any way.

There is danger even in Christian homes and in the church itself that we lose sight of our great Giver and neglect to give to Him what is His due and His pleasure to receive from us.

It is a beautiful custom coming into vogue in many places for the Sunday school and league to join with the church at Christmas time and bring offerings into the church building for the poor, to be distributed as need may require through the cold weather, when there is so much distress.

In other places they are making the collection or subscription at the Christmas festival for the mission causes of the church. Whatever calls attention to the pure benevolences and the divine origin and obligation of this festival is to be welcomed by us. We need to counteract the dissipation which is liable to creep in and all abuses of this festal season of the church. We would make more sacred all its functions in home life and elevate it to its true position.

The one best thing of all that should not be lost to view in all our enjoyment is the pleasure of our service for Jesus. This is the time of all times for renewed consecration to His work and getting very near to Him in sympathy.

We have many examples of generous giving recorded in the Bible when God's people poured out their treasure for His work, but we are not a whit behind the ancients in our offerings for the Lord.

How unstintedly the Israelites gave in the wilderness for the building of the tabernacle! How they gave when the temple at Jerusalem was to be builded! What offerings the early Christians made to help the poor! But the real systematic beneficence in care of the aged, sick and needy of all degrees is really a matter of recent growth.

What a marvelous thing has been the growth of benevolent orders with sick and burial benefits in these recent times! Great good has been done undoubtedly by many of them.

But we must not lose sight of the fact that this is not all that is needed. We must care for our needy brother, but we should not let our thought stop there. We need to give ourselves completely to the ever blessed Lord, all our powers dedicated to His service, our hearts to His love and our lips to His praise.

Better than the gold, frankincense and myrrh which the magi of old offered to the infant Saviour should be the offering which we present to Him. He has given all He had to us. Let us not withhold from Him anything which we have.

Perennial Piety.

The periodical piety that goes by the calendar and only serves the Lord Jesus at set times and places is of very little value. It is only a perennial piety that possesses both peace and power. He is the only healthy Christian who runs his Christianity through all the routine of his everyday experiences. Some people keep their religion as they do their umbrellas for stormy weather and hope to have it within easy reach if a dangerous sickness overtakes them. Others and quite too many reserve their piety for the Sabbath and the sanctuary, and on Monday they fold it up and lay it away with their Sunday clothes. A healthy, vigorous, cheerful, working religion cannot be maintained on Sabbaths and songs and sacraments. Every day has got to be a "Lord's day" if we expect to make any real headway heavenward. I have observed that those who try to live by fits and frames and feelings are never fruitful Christians.—Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

A Letter of Credit.

If a good face is a letter of recommendation, a good heart is a letter of credit.—Lord Lytton.

Day by Day.

I heard a voice at evening softly say:
Bear not yesterday into tomorrow
Nor load this week with last week's load of sorrow.
Lift all thy burdens as they come, nor try
To weight the present with the by and by.
One step and then another, take thy way—
Live day by day.
Live day by day.
The path before thee doth not lead astray;
Do the next duty. It must surely be
The Christ is in the one that's close to thee.
Onward, still onward, with a sunny smile
Till step by step shall end in mile by mile;
"I'll do my best" unto thy conscience say—
Live day by day.
Live day by day.
Why art thou bending toward the backward way?
One summit and another thou shalt mount;
Why stop at every round the space to count?
The past mistakes, if thou must still remember,
Watch not the ashes of the dying ember.
Kindle thy hope. Put all fears away.
Live day by day.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 24.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The brotherhood of man.—I John ii, 7-11; iii, 12-15. (A Christmas missionary meeting.)

A Christmas topic may well include the two ideas of human brotherhood and of missions. The coming of Christ into the world made it possible for men through Him to become the sons of God and hence brethren through the common tie that binds them to Christ. And Christ's coming to earth may well suggest missions. He came from heaven to earth upon the same mission that the disciples of Christ leave their homes and go to faroff heathen lands. He came to save men through His death, and missionaries go to foreign lands that they may lead men to accept the gospel offer of salvation in Christ.

The brotherhood of man is a well established doctrine. To a greater or less extent it has been recognized throughout the ages. The Fatherhood of God cannot be denied. No man was ever self created. "It is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves." By creation we have a common fatherhood and are therefore brethren. In his address to the Greek philosophers on Mars hill, in Athens, Paul enunciated this great doctrine when he declared, "God, that made the world and all things therein, * * * hath made of our blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth and hath determined the times before appointed and the bounds of their habitation." By redemption also there is a common human brotherhood. By sin we lost sonship with God; by Christ it has been restored. The redeemed sons of God are therefore brethren, "heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ."

The brotherhood of man brings its blessings, but also its duties and obligations. The latter, above all else, need to be emphasized. Brothers, for one thing, should love one another. If, therefore, all men are our brethren we should love all men, and this is the commandment of Christ. John also declares that "he who hateth his brother is in darkness" and "he who loveth his brother abideth in the light." Again, he declares that brotherly love is the test of Christian discipleship. "We know that we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren." In other words, no man is a Christian who does not love his fellow men. Brothers should also be interested in one another and assist one another in the hour of need. Christ loved us and manifested His love by dying for us. We should show our love for each other by self denial in each other's behalf and by the exercise of kindness and charity toward one another. Nor are the obligations of brotherly love wanting. Philanthropy is widespread today. The Christmas season amply proves it. There may be here and there a man "who hath this world's goods and seeth his brother hath need and shutteth up his compassion from him," but the vast majority of men respond to the calls of their fellow men. The human heart is much better than it is often given credit for being. Few priests and Levites pass by on the other side. The spirit of Christ has a large hold upon the world. May it ever increase and more and more manifest itself not only in giving men bread for their bodies, but especially in giving them Christ, the bread of life to their souls.

Another Field Secretary.

In the person of Asa Merrick Parker the Massachusetts Christian Endeavor union has secured a strong man and a stalwart worker to represent it in the field.

ASA MERRICK PARKER.

Mr. Parker is a Williams college man, a former Young Men's Christian association secretary in Brooklyn and a Christian Endeavorer with a record of fourteen years' active service.

The Bay State has just reason to hope to place itself in the forefront of Christian Endeavor commonwealth.

A Japanese Poem.

John E. Randall, the secretary of the Jamaica Christian Endeavor union, was one of the foreign delegates to the Baltimore convention. He writes an interesting article to the Christian Endeavor Gem about a visit to Dr. Clark's home and closes it with a description of the interesting collection of world-wide Christian Endeavor souvenirs which the founder of the movement has treasured there, giving this translation of a Japanese poem which is among the many tokens given to Dr. Clark during his numerous around the world tours:

Strive on with God,
Then all things may be done—
As trickling drops from mossy bank
A mighty sea become.

But strive with God;
There's naught impossible to Him and thee—
As trickling drops from wayside brook
Grow into mighty sea.

Worth While.

At the recent Christian Endeavor convention in Baltimore an evangelistic meeting was held, and as a result of the appeal of the leader 500 persons arose for prayers and 200 signed cards signifying their desire to lead a new life. That was worth while.—Epworth Herald.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Manager Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, announces for his Christmas afternoon and night attraction "A Desperate Chance." The piece is from the pen of Theodore Kremer, the well known dramatic writer. The play deals with the life of the famous Biddle brothers, and is filled with thrilling situations. There is much comedy and several interesting specialties. The scenic production is a complete one and the cast consists of many well known people and one which guarantees a performance of usual merit. Little Clara, probably the greatest child actress now before the public, is of great interest to the children. After each performance the stage entrance is crowded with little ones anxious to get a glance at their little friend, and Clara is always pleased to think she has made some new acquaintances. The old horse and sleigh with which the Biddles and Mrs. Soffel attempted to make their escape on that cold February day, when they were surrounded by the detectives, captured and returned to the Butler jail, will be used at each performance.

John Drew comes to this city tomorrow night at the New Plainfield theatre, in a typical Drew part. It is the latest comedy from the pen of the gifted Augustus Thomas—"De Lancey," a three act comedy that touches lightly and humorously upon the divorce question, even to the extent of making something of a hero of the divorced man, points out the folly of attempting to sacrifice one's self in behalf of one's friend, and pictures with delightful scenery and fine color typical aspects of New York's swell set. Miss Margaret Dale, who was with Mr. Drew last year, is again his leading lady. The ingenue role is admirably played by Doris Keane, who was last seen here in another Thomas comedy, "The Other Girl."

At last a new minstrel show, on new lines, with new ideas, and new routine, is positively assured by the well known minstrel king, Hi. Henry, whose brand new show will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. The public long have wanted the pure dialect "coon" and Mr. Henry has made this character very prominent in his entirely new company. While it is a fact that all minstrel faces are patched up from bygone material, these presented by Hi. Henry's show are positively new, and fully protected by copyright, therefore cannot be seen in any other minstrel program.

Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon are now starring in a new play by Charles Zimmerman and Harry C. Sommers, entitled "The Lightning Conductor," adapted into a comedy of three acts and a prologue by Harry B. Smith. The book of this name by Mr. and Mrs. Williamson has had immense success, and if Mr. Smith has been able to infuse its pleasant humor and atmosphere of good breeding into the comedy the play should prove one of the successes of the current theatrical season. It will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Tuesday, December 26.

"How Hearts Are Broken," a new four act play by Langdon McCormick, which will be seen at the New Plainfiel dtheatre Wednesday, December 27, is an emotional melodrama full of startling situations and strong heart interest. The heroine is beset on every side by wicked men and gossiping women, but is finally extricated from her dilemma by the aid of an old blind musician, who is an interesting character all through the play. The management has furnished a capable company of about twenty people, all carefully selected as to their fitness for the roles they portray and special new scenery has been prepared.

Appealing with all the power of a blind mother, the victim of a brutal plot to kidnap her only child, seeking through a vast city, find and rescue the child, "On the Bridge at Midnight" is a play of the true melodrama character. It is romantic without being sensational and it bears the great distinction of being natural, sane and wholesome. Mingled with the anguish of the mother, and the villainy of a brother who would murder his own kin, is genuie humor and the whole play is illuminated with an unequalled outfit of scenery. The celebrated reproduction of the "jack-knife" life bridge over the Chicago River, is not the only memorable setting of "On the Bridge at Midnight," and the professor and the bootblack, excellent comedy characters as they are, will be found surrounded by numerous other stage persons that hold the attention. At the New Plainfield theatre Thursday, December 28.

From the echoes of metropolitan opinion it must be inferred that in his new four act play of California ranch and race track, "A Race for Life," to be presented by the P. H. Sullivan Aumusement Company at the New Plainfield theatre Friday, December 29, Theodore Kremer has struck a big bonanza, from both a box office and melodramatic point of view. The scene of action is romantically laid in the wildly picturesque region buttressed by the Sierra Nevada Mountains, admitting of grand and beautiful scenic effects, of which we are assured very accurate and artistic advantage has been fully taken.

Mrs. Ivy Ashton Root, a niece of Secretary of War Elihu Root, is responsible for the authorship of the beautiful play founded upon the eventful career of "Mozart," who is still regarded as the greatest musician of all times. Maurice Campbell, under whose managerial direction the splendid production is being successfully made, has evidently found in Howard Kyle an admirable exponent of the leading role, that of Mozart, and those who have a most pleasant remembrance of Mr. Kyle's portrayal of "Nathan Hale" and his superior efforts as John Ermine in "On the Yellowstone," and his many other brilliant impersonations, will be glad to welcome him to this city in his latest triumph. The date of Mr. Kyle's appearance has been set for Saturday afternoon and night, December 30.

The lively and breezy musical play, "Running for Office," the music and play of which was composed by George M. Cohan, who is now prominently in the public eye, will be presented in this city at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, January 6. The production comes here under the immediate management of Sam H. Harris, who controls the destinies of some of America's biggest and most successful musical plays. Many consider "Running for Office" the most meritorious play from a dramatic standpoint that Mr. Cohan has yet given the public. The company numbers fifty people, while the scenic effects and costuming of the play is promised on the same elaborate scale as seen for three months in New York and in all the principal cities.

WHAT BELCHER SAYS.

He Was Ill and Needed the Money—Did Not Know Brother Made Good.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—J. W. Belcher, a brother of the missing Mayor of Paterson, former secretary of a loan association, whose accounts were found to be about $200 short, has returned to his home in this city. He has been in New York part of the time he was absent from this city and he declares that his troubles were caused by loaning money to friends who failed to return it when promised.

Mr. Belcher declares that he did not do wrong intentionally. He said he was sorely pressed for money and he was almost demented he felt so badly. He also said that he did not know until a few days ago that his brother in Providence had made good the shortage with the loan association. He had determined, he said, to come back and face the situation. He says he will endeavor to live it down on a hitherto clean and honorable record, and his friends are disposed to aid him.

Bit of Cloth in His Neck.

New Brunswick, Dec. 21.—By the use of X-rays on the neck of William Mosher, a conductor on the Public Service trolley line, doctors discovered Tuesday a piece of an overcoat an inch square imbedded under the flesh. Mosher was thrown from his platform by the car jumping the track about three weeks ago, and was taken to the Wells Hospital in this city on account of a deep cut in the neck. The wound was examined and dressed, but failed to heal. Now the piece of cloth has been removed and Mosher is in a fair way to recovery.

WAKES FROM TRANCE AND STOPS FUNERAL

GIRL THOUGHT DEAD SUNDAY SITS UP AND EXPRESSES SURPRISE TUESDAY.

Viola Anderson, a fourteen-year-old girl, apparently died at the home of her parents at Elizabeth on Sunday evening, and but for the doubts of a woman neighbor as to the reality of her death might have been buried.

So sure was the girl's mother of her daughter's death that the announcement was made from the pulpit at the evening services of the Shiloh church. The girl had an attack of diphtheria, and later pneumonia developed.

Her schoolmates took up a collection to buy flowers to place in her coffin, and appointed a committee to attend the funeral. But so persistent was the woman neighbor in her doubts of the girl's death that the family physician was called to the house again. He pronounced her in a trance.

Yesterday she woke up and expressed surprise that she was not in heaven.

At that time an entertainment will be given and supper served. There will be a regular meeting of the Council tonight to further plans for the coming affair.

LEAL TEAMS WIN.

First and Second Basketball Aggregations Bested Boroughites.

Two exciting basketball games were played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium yesterday afternoon between the first and second teams of Leal's and North Plainfield High Schools. In each game Leal's were successful, taking the first contest by a score of 10 to 8 and the second by a score of 11 to 5. The team from this city showed up stronger and the advantage of constant training. However, the boys from the borough played well and gave their opponents a hard game.

PROSECUTION UNFINISHED

"Very well, you are excused."

Councilman W. S. Bullock was next sworn. He is one of the complainants in the case. He said:

"I was present at the Goff raid. I examined the Government license on the wall, bearing the date May 25, 1905."

Counsel then asked the witness about the Get-together Club. He said:

"It is no organized club; it is just a name. They meet in the second story front of the Waldorf, East Front street. I have known a number of people to go there. I used to go there. Drinks were ordered in quantities. They would send for several bottles of whiskey, ale and beer, and so forth, which were paid for at the end of the session. Each one present deposited his money on the table. The defendant was there occasionally. I may have been there twenty or twenty-five times. Saw the defendant there twelve or fifteen times. I lived up to the custom of calling for beverages, and so did he, and we paid according to the custom."

Witness was next asked about the Goff raid and what he found there. He produced from a sealed package several bottles, one part full, which was said to be whiskey. When asked what it was he said it tasted like rye.

"I got it out of Goff's cooler," he said. Another bottle was shown, and the witness said, "It tasted like lager beer. It came from the Eastern Bottling Company. It was taken from Peter Hamilton's hand."

Another bottle was marked "Rising Sun Brewery." He said: "It was taken from behind the bar." In a small bottle was beer, which, he said, he took from a glass from which a man was drinking. He said he hadn't tasted that, but it smelled like beer. Another article in the exhibit was a dice box, and the last one was a whiskey flask. All these were offered in evidence.

In answer to questions, the witness continued: "I was at the police board meeting June 30. After Mr. Kiely arrived there Mr. Tyler said, 'Chief, here are the men with knowledge of what is going on at Goff's. I want you to hear their story.' I told the chief that on the Saturday night previously I had come past Goff's on a trolley car and saw a noisy crowd there. One man was just coming out. I told him I frequently heard men on the boats and the trains say they believed, and some knew, the place was running and had been for months. Messrs. Higham and Wilson also made statements while the chief was there. Mr. Wilson said he had driven by the place and seen men going in and out. He had seen people on Sunday staggering noticeably. Mr. Higham said that people in his section of town were complaining that women passing by the place had been insulted by men coming out who were not wholly sober."

"At this meeting Kiely came toward me in a defiant and threatening manner and said, 'Mr. Bullock, you've got to give the names of those witnesses. I can't do anything without those names. There's been altogether too much of this wild talk about Goff's, and you've got to stop it.' The chief seemed to be exceedingly nervous when he learned the cause of his being called to the meeting. His face flushed and his attitude seemed one of defiance. I said to the chief, 'I will give you these names if the parties are willing for them to be used, and not otherwise.' Mr. Tyler said, 'Chief, we won't have any more of this nonsense. You know Goff is selling. You've got to get after the place and close it. If you don't close the place at once there is going to be trouble.'"

Cross examination by Mr. Reed:

"Did you see the Mayor at the Get-together Club?"

"Is it necessary to answer that?"

"I want to show that it is a respectable place," said Mr. Reed. "If the city officials gather there it ought to be."

"There is no need to follow that line of questioning," broke in Mr. Marsh; "we will concede that the gentlemen who gathered there were honorable men and respectable."

"Will you concede that most of them were city officials?" queried Mr. Reed.

"No, sir, I will not," retorted Mr. Marsh.

"Were they mostly city officials?" asked Mr. Reed of the witness.

"No, sir, they were not," was the very emphatic reply.

"Did you express to the chief that it was a violation of the police rules to be at that place?"

"At that time I knew nothing of the police rules. I was not on the committee at that time. I did not criticise him, nor the others."

"Do you know any evidence that Kiely had that could have been presented to the Grand Jury before the raid?"

"No."

"Did you frunish him any evidence?"

"I had no evidence until the raid."

"Do you know of any evidence Kiely could have gotten had he wanted?"

"Think not."

James E. Martine was the next witness called. In the course of the testimony it was disclosed that he was a very unwilling witness. Mr. Marsh took occasion—for what reason was not particularly apparent—to warn him that he could be compelled to tell what he knew of the matter, and Mr. Martine himself stated frankly that he was willingly testifying.

In answer to questions, he said: "I recall an incident of a midnight train in Plainfield, when a man was carried from the train and assisted to a wagon. I recall a conversation with F. W. Runyon, within a day or two later, about it. As far as I could see at the time, the man was helpless. I came from New York on the midnight train. As I alighted there was quite a commotion at the end of the depot. I saw five or six men helping one out of a car. He was carried. I saw several swallow-tails in the crowd. My judgment is that the man was under the influence of liquor. He was lifted into a wagon which had a rear entrance, and which struck me as the patrol wagon. As I saw him; he looked like the defendant."

Mr. Marsh showed a copy of the Courier-News of April 30, 1904, with an editorial on this subject. Cross examination:

"I dropped into the office of the Courier-News a day or two later and spoke of the patrol wagon as an extravagance. I happened to remark that I saw it put to a funny use the other night."

Referring to the witness' acquaintance with the defendant, he said: "Candidly and frankly, I never saw Kiely intoxicated before in my life. I have known him for thirty years. I have seen him four or five times a week, and often as many times a day, in those years. He was always sober and, to me, respectful. I never spoke to him about this incident."

Thomas M. Muir, a Daily Press reporter, was called, and testified:

"In 1904 I was on the Courier-News staff. I was present at an interview between Mr. Runyon and Mr. Martine. I was called to take notes upon it; did so and wrote a story. But the story did not appear that day. I was puzzled to know why, and next day I saw an editorial about the patrol wagon."

The editorial was read by the witness. The part of it relevant to the case contained a reference to the use of the patrol wagon for "carting drunks, official and otherwise." There was no cross examination.

At this point Mr. Marsh announced the withdrawal of the charge of drunkenness alleged against the defendant on the occasion of his coming home from the St. Louis convention of police chiefs.

It was alleged that the defendant was drunk on a trolley car in Plainfield at that time. Mr. Marsh said he depended on Hezekiah Hand for testimony to this effect, but that Mr. Hand had said he could not give testimony to support the charge. Mr. Marsh added that Mr. Reed said he could prove that the defendant was entirely sober at that time. Mr. Reed added that he had forty witnesses to prove that Mr. Kiely had not even a bottle of beer on that trip since the train had touched Baltimore.

One of the very peculiar incidents of the session was the absence of an important link in the testimony in the shape of the police court docket for 1903-04-05. Judge Runyon came up as a witness and testified that this docket had disappeared from his office. That after diligent search for it he was unable to get any clue to it. Mr. Marsh explained that he imputed no responsibility to the defendant for the absence of the docket. This piece of evidence was to have had important bearing on the disposition of the counts touching on the release of three prisoners without bail or hearing.

John Nelson was called, and testified that he had been arrested one night and that the city judge suspended sentence on him next day; that he did not spend the night in the cell, but at home; that he was in the cell two hours.

The next witness was Patrolman Martin Vanderweg. He testified that Andrew McCardell came to the jail in January, 1904, and spoke to the sergeant, but he did'nt know what was said. "After McCardell went out," said Vanderweg, "the sergeant handed me the keys and told me to let the man out, for McCardell stood good for his appearance in the morning. The city judge was not there. During 1904 McCardell came to the jail quite frequently—once or twice a week."

The record was produced, showing the arrest of Thomas Sheridan and John Newman, in October, 1904, and the suspension of sentence on Sheridan, and a fine of $5 or twenty days on Newman, for fighting.

Officer Myers was sworn. He testified to having arrested Sheridan and Newman for being drunk and disorderly and for fighting. Newman, he said, was somewhat cut up.

Thomas Sheridan was sworn, and testified to having been arrested in October, 1904. He was working in town then, but didn't remember where. He said he had worked for Mr. McCardell a year and a half ago. He was arrested at 4:30 p. m. and was in jail until 8:30, and gave security to get out. Newman, he said, put up a check for twenty dollars with Chief Kiely as security for both of them. He went before City Judge Runyon on the Monday morning following, and sentence was suspended on him. Newman got five dollars' fine. Chief Kiely tore up the check after Newman paid the fine. Sheridan said that McCardell had come into the station house while he was locked up and saw the chief, and shortly afterwards he was let out. He said that some one telephoned up from "Watson's" offering to go his bond.

John Newman was the last witness sworn before adjournment. He testified to having given a twenty dollar check as bail, which was never certified and never cashed. He said his trial came up very shortly after the banks opened for business. He said he was released under the bond a half-hour after McCardell came into the station house.

NEGRO FOOTPAD HOLDS UP WOMAN

SHE PLUCKILY HELD ON TO HANDBAG, BUT ASSAILANT GOT IT AND ESCAPED

A negro footpad waylaid Tuesday night Mrs. Stephen Arrowsmith, wife of the principal of the High School at Red Bank, and stole her handbag, which contained money and valuable papers. The thief escaped.

Mrs. Arrowsmith, who is about fifty years old, had been visiting friends was on her way downtown in Red Bank to make some purchases before returning to her home on Maple avenue. As she was walking on Broad street a negro, who had been concealed behind a tree, sprang out and seized the handbag, which she had in her right hand.

Although greatly frightened, Mrs. Arrowsmith hed on to the handle of the bag while she screamed for help. William Hopping and James Truax heard he rcries and ran to her assistance. They had almost reached her when the handle of the bag to which she was clinging gave way and the negro made off with the bag, leaving the handle in Mrs. Arrowsmith's hands.

Hopping and Truax gave chase to the thief, but he was swift of foot and got away. The robber is described as short and thick-set, but in the darkness neither Mrs. Arrowsmith nor the men who went to her aid got a good look at him.

KEAN HAS TILT WITH SPOONER.

Sharp Discussion Over Appointment of a Messenger.

Washington, Dec. 21.—The session yesterday was comparatively unimportant. There was some discussion of the rate question arising from a request by Mr. Foraker to have printed as a Senate document a report of the railroad case for the purpose of showing that the Elkins law could be enforced. It was finally cut short by a demand for regular order.

The Senate yesterday consumed half an hour in the morning business, most of which was devoted to the introduction of private bills. Mr. Kean, Republican, of New Jersey, presented a report from the committee to audit the contingent expenses of the Senate, authorizing the appointment of a messenger at $1,400 a year for the committee on industrial expositions. This moved Mr. Spooner, Republican, of Wisconsin, to inquire how many committees of the Senate remained without messengers. He said he had been accustomed to this "daily treat" from Mr. Kean. Mr. Kean said there were three committees in the Senate without a messenger, and he was ready to provide for them whenever called upon.

Mr. Spooner hoped there would be no discrimination, and inquired what committees remained unprovided with messengers. Mr. Kean created laughter by naming the committee on Potomac River front. Mr. Hale observed that the remaining three committees "would touch the surface" before long. Mr. Kean's resolution was adopted unanimously.

Fire Destroys Silk Mill.

The silk mill of Peter Kempkes, at Paxton street and Genesee avenue, Paterson, was destroyed by fire Tuesday night, entailing a loss of $10,000, which is partly covered by insurance. The flames started in the upper part of the mill and must have been burning some time before they were discovered. About seventy-five hands will be thrown out of work.

SWEARS TYLER ADMITTED THAT GOFF'S RAID WAS INTENDED SOLELY FOR ITS POLITICAL EFFECT

DEFENSE OPENS CASE

Charges and Counter Charges of Attempted Corruption of Witnesses—Reed Says Central Railroad Is Seeking Vengeance on Kiely.

The defense in the Kiely case opened last night. An hour after the Council came to order, at 8:15 o'clock, Corporation Counsel Marsh rested the prosecution, and Senator Reed opened fire on the structure of evidence that the opposing counsel had reared with all the legal skill he possesses.

When the Council adjourned at 11:30 he had scarcely crossed the line toward the attack, but one sensational blow for his client was struck. Released from a seal of confidence by the chairman of the police board himself, County Prosecutor N. C. J. English told of a conversation Mr. Tyler had with him in reference to the Goff place, in the course of which he told him bluntly that his move against the hotel was simply for political purposes. The disclosure stirred the audience and the Counsel as no bit of testimony offered so far had done.

One other sensational feature marked the evening. Mr. Marsh, after Mr. Reed had attempted to prove that a Central Railroad officer had been offered a bribe to testify against the chief, declared he could prove that witnesses for the prosecution had been tampered with. Additional spice was lent to the session by a charge, by Mr. Reed, that the claim department of the Central Railroad was working against Chief Kiely to get square for his efforts in fixing the responsibility for the Westfield wreck.

The hearing will be continued at 4 o'clock this afternoon. It is hoped by holding a long, unchecked session that the trial will be finished up in one more sitting of the Council. It is expected that one or two of the councilmen will not be able to reach the chamber in time for the hour of opening this afternoon, but possible absences have been covered by agreement between counsel.

The first witness last night was C. H. Vanderveer, station agent at Jersey City, recalled to identify the man who, he said, in his former testimony had worn a string of roses around his neck at the Jersey City station the time that Chief Kiely was said to have been intoxicated at that place. He said Mr. Kiely was the man who wore the roses.

Henry F. Windham, proprietor of the Hotel Waldorf, where the Get-together Club meets, said he was the man who furnished the liquors used in the upper room of his hotel, which he designated as his dining room—the room where the club meets. He said he had no way to know how often the defendant had been there, because his work was downstairs.

Matthew J. Cashin was sworn. He told of being in business in Plainfield for two years, and of supplying uniform trousers to the police on one of two occasions. That he furnished Chief Kiely several pairs of trousers at different times.

Some argument followed over the price that he charged the chief for his trousers, and to the question, put by Mr. Marsh, he replied that "He (the chief) owes me nothing that I know of."

Mr. Cashin's testimony was sought to show in support of the charge that the chief owed Cashin a bill that he failed to pay. Mr. Reed asked the witness how Mr. Bullock came to consult him about the matter of a bill. Mr. Cashin said that Mr. Bullock had asked him if Kiely owed him anything.

By Mr. Reed: "Why did he ask you that?"

"That's what I asked him. He said he got his information from Mrs. Linke."

By Mr. Reed: "How did Bullock get into this?"

"Mr. Bullock came to Collyer's store in Newark, where I work, and introduced his brother-in-law, and started talking about Kiely."

Tax Collector Robert L. Lee was recalled and asked if, when in his presence, John Nelson was released from the city jail, the Mayor, city judge or president of the City Council were present. Mr. Lee answered "No."

Mr. Lee was summoned to the court room at the suggestion of Mr. Marsh by an officer, Mr. Marsh having stated that he was a recalcitrant witness. Mr. Lee stated on his arrival in the room that he was so busy with the tax collection that he had not appeared before and that he meant no disrespect to the court.

Officer Myers was recalled. He testified that he had been on the beat near Goff's place in June last, but that he had not had any instructions from the chief to watch Goff's to discover illicit selling. He said he did not know that the police board had given special orders to close the place.

Frank Linke was the next witness. He said:

"I am a wholesale liquor dealer. The defendant has dealt with me since 1888-89. He stopped buying goods of me about three or four years ago."

"Did he pay his debts?"

"No, sir. He owed me a bill."

"How long before he paid you?"

"He came to me after his wife died and asked me to be lenient."

"I said I would wait a year. He said that would not be necessary; that six months was enough. He did not pay me for three or four years. He paid up September 1, this year, through his counsel, Frank Blatz. The amount was $60."

"Did he ever dispute the bill?"

"No."

"Prior to September last, had you threatened suit?"

"Yes, several times."

Cross examination:

"Well, Frank, when had you that talk when he asked you to wait?"

"A few days after his wife was buried."

"Were the goods furnished for her?"

"Yes, and for him."

"Was she ill some time?"

"Yes, quite a while."

"Did you know the physician had prescribed these goods for her?"

"I don't know."

"Was Mr. Fitzgerald, who delivered the goods, her uncle?"

"I don't know."

"Didn't Kiely tell you his wife had paid her uncle, Mr. Fitzgerald, every cent she owed?"

"No."

"Didn't he demand an itemized bill?"

"He had one—I gave him one."

"Didn't you tell him he had itemized statements and that you would not furnish any more of them?"

"He had them."

"Didn't he say, 'You make the itemized statement, if you have any bill?'"

"He had them," reiterated the witness.

"Now, Frank, when Mr. Kiely's aunt died, you furnished some goods at the time of the wake, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Wasn't that after you spoke about the bill?"

"No."

"The last charge on the bill was for September, 1900; which goods were for the wake?"

"I can't remember exactly the dates."

"You know his aunt had an estate?"

"No."

"Did not he tell you that his wife had paid all she owed, and that the rest was to be charged to the aunt?"

"No."

Former Officer Peter Hamilton was recalled by Mr. Marsh.

"In March, 1900, did anything occur at the station house in connection with Mr. McCardell and two molders?"

"I stood in the station house and Mr. McCardell came in and said, 'You've got two men here?' He gave an order to the officer and the two men came out. He said to them, 'Come here at 9 in the morning.' They went out."

"Was the city judge, Mayor or the president of the Council there?"

"No; O'Gorman or McCue opened the cell, and the men went out."

Cross examination:

"I don't know what day it was, but I think it was in March. I am not sure."

"You did not care whether they went out or not, did you?"

"It was nothing to me."

"You didn't care about anything except to get square with Kiely, did you?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't you tell Charles Dixon the night of the hospital carnival that you'd get square with Kiely?"

"No."

"Nor to Officer Payne?"

"No."

"Didn't you tell City Judge Runyon that Kiely was a big —— ——?"

"No."

By Mr. Marsh: "The judge would have given you sixty days for that."

"He ought to go up for sixty years," commented Mr. Reed, and the gallery laughed.

At this point Mr. Marsh rested the case for the prosecution, and outlined the charges on which the prosecution would depend. He read extracts from the police rules and from the statute books covering the case and the accusations under which the chief rests.

Mr. Reed opened the defense with the following address:

"I will occupy some time in defending Mr. Kiely; no more, however, than necessary to present facts as they should be presented in answer to the charges made. I know the importance of my position, for Mr. Kiely is on trial for his life. A policeman who is broke after attaining the position that he has, is done for. That's one reason why the law has so safeguarded officers. This Council sits as a court to give this man, who the law has said once appointed is never to be removed except for cause, a fair trial. I can well imagine how it would be to me to be on trial on a question if my license to practice law should be revoked. That is what we are here to try, so far as this defendant is concerned. No matter what personal knowledge any member here may have that knowledge cannot be used except as coming from the witness stand.

"In the case of Carey vs. the City or Plainfield, Chief Carey was charged with use of profane and indecent language to members of the police board, Messrs. Moffett, Gallup and Hetfield, and language about members of Council. That trial was referred to the police board. The board suspended Carey. Its jurisdiction was challenged, a certiorari was taken, and the case was set aside on the grounds that the judges were prejudiced. Carey was restored to office.

"I expect to prove that Chief Kiely is not guilty of the charges brought against him. Every man is presumed to be innocent until he is proven guilty. There is no law to compel a necessity until he is proven guilty. We will show that Kiely never let a man out of jail except through an order from the judge, the Mayor, or the president of the Council. We claim that Kiely acted upon the orders of his superior officer every time.

"Rule 19, which Mr. Marsh relies upon, says, 'No officer shall, while on duty, or in the station house, smoke or take liquor, or, unless in the performance of duty, enter a place where liquor is sold. We must interpret this rule in a reasonable way. Now, if this is strictly enforced, Mr. Kiely can't go to a hotel."

Mr. Marsh, interrupting: "He can go all over the hotel, except in the barroom."

"Well, the Get-together Club met in the dining room," replied Mr. Reed.

"Now, the rule must be reasonable and just," continued Mr. Reed. "A construction of it which would make Kiely guilty for going to the club would be unjust and absurd."

The first witness called for the defense was County Prosecutor N. C. J. English, who was asked if he had come much in contact with Patrick S. Kiely. He said, "Yes, frequently."

"Did you ever give him any instructions relative to the best method of obtaining evidence of the illicit sale of liquor?"

"Yes, several times. My general instructions to the chief was, when he found a place which was suspected to watch and learn the frequenters and report the names to me, so we could select the most reliable ones to use before the Grand Jury."

"Why do you give these instructions?"

"My experience is that when a raid is made you are apt to get people who are poor witnesses or don't tell the truth. But when you get a large number of frequenters you are more likely to get reliable ones. I have frequently told the chief that when you get them you can make them lie or tell the truth. My instruction to the chief and to all officials was along this line. Speak-easies are harder to convict, as Mr. Marsh once said, than murderers."

"I say so yet," agreed Mr. Marsh.

Continuing, the witness said: "The main difficulty is in getting reliable evidence. The thing a man will lie about the easiest is the sale of liquor."

By Mr. Reed: "Did you speak to

HARTRIDGE SCHOOL

Public and Private Schools Hold Formal Exercises—Vacation Now Until January 3.

Preceding the presentation of prizes at the Christmas exercises at the Plainfield High School this morning, Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, made an appropriate address. He spoke on the subject of "Worthy Ambition." Mr. McCrea said that winning the prize is the ambition of nearly every boy and that nothing can be accomplished without ambition. He then referred to noble and ignoble ambition.

Dwelling on what constitutes noble ambition, the speaker said that it consisted of making the most of one's self, striving to do the best for others and doing one's best to develop that which God has endowed one with. He characterized the noble ambition by referring to Lincoln and Roosevelt, and the ignoble by the life of Napoleon.

Following the address, Principal Ira Travell presented the following prizes: The Daily Press medal for individual championship, Phil. Smith; Sabbath Recorder cup prize, class championship, class '08; boys' tennis championship prizes, singles, Paul R. Collier; doubles, Paul R. Collier and Phil. Smith.

Following the Christmas exercises at the High School at noon today the seniors took possession of the platform and the customary "roasts" were in order. While the boys were marching to the platform the seniors sang a parody on the popular song, "Everybody Works But Father," the words being written by Miss Louise Kline.

There were the usual "roasts" for the juniors, many being considered quite appropriate. After this part of the programme the juniors served refreshments to the seniors in the chapel rooms and friendly relations were resumed. The rooms were decorated with the various class colors.

Then followed the customary "roasts" between freshmen and sophomores. The juniors presented each sophomore with a stick of candy and an appropriate rhyme written by Miss Eleanor T. Woodcock, and the seniors presented the freshmen with candles with an appropriate rhyme written by Miss Marguerite Ostrom. School will reope on Wednesday, January 3.

The exercises in the borough schools were enjoyed by a large gathering of parents and friends of the pupils. Those of the kindergarten and junior departments were held at 9 o'clock and the upper departments assembled in the Somerset street building at noon. The programme, as given in yesterday's Daily Press, was carried out, with an address by Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, of Grace M. E. church, one of the features.

Interesting exercises appropriate to Christmastide and at the same time closing the school year, were held by the kindergarten children of Miss Hartridge's School in East Seventh street, yesterday morning, under the direction of Miss Florence Burt, of this city, and Miss Morris, of Springfield, Mass., teachers in this department.

The little tots had the usual Christmas tree and many pretty things of a useful character made by them were presented to the parents. The time was pleasantly spent in playing games and singing popular selections. Quite a remarkable feature of the exercises was the fact that the children, even to the youngest, were so well advanced in history, being able to tell many interesting facts.

The children in this department of the school participating were as follows:

Chapman Kinney, Prescott Van-Wyck, Duncan Taylor, Margaret Patterson, Susie Taylor, Lucy Otterson, Charlotte Taylor, Wesley Johnson, Celia Bomann, Heyward Erickson, Gordon Taylor, Walton Hedges, Edward Hyde, Godfrey Clay, Jack Zelie, Lillie Wright, Ruth Lacas, Whitney Baker, Edith Frierson, Nat. Stevens. After the exercises the children were dismissed for the term.

This morning the pupils of the elementary and academic departments gathered at the school in East Seventh street, and enjoyed their Christmas exercises. The recitations and songs were all of a sacred character and were given in a very efficient and pleasing manner under the direction of the teachers. A feature of this work is that all of the pupils have prepared their own essays and poems which they read.

Following the opening exercises there was an intermission for social intercourse on the part of the pupils, the parents and other guests of the school. Upon resuming the exercises,

DAKOTA DIVORCE INVALID

New York Court Hands Down Decision in Favor of Mrs. Woolworth of This City.

HUSBAND TO APPEAL

A decision that lawyers think of far-reaching importance in the matter of divorce was handed down yesterday in New York by Superior Court Justice O'Gorman in the case of Woolworth vs. Woolworth.

It is the question as to whether a South Dakota divorce granted there while a counter suit is pending in another State is valid. The case before Justice O'Gorman was that of Martha G. Woolworth, of this city, against Herbert G. Woolworth, one of the founders of the ten-cent store industry. The Justice decided against Mr. Woolworth.

Mr. Woolworth, in 1903, instituted an action against his then wife, Martha Gwenn Woolworth, in the Supreme Court of New York State. It was heard by Judge Leaventritt. It was for absolute divorce based upon statutory grounds, and came up for trial in January, 1904. The jury disagreed, but the case was tried again in March following. This time the jury found in favor of the defendant.

In March, 1904, Mr. Woolworth went to the State of South Dakota and engaged in business there. After residing there for six months he, in September of the same year, brought suit in the Supreme Court of that State before Judge Joseph W. Jones for absolute divorce, charging her with desertion. The case came up for hearing on Nov. 7 of last year, and Woolworth was granted a decree. Prior to his obtaining this decree in South Dakota, but after the suit had been started, Mrs. Woolworth, who resided in New York State, brought action against her husband in New York on the ground of desertion.

Woolworth appeared by counsel and filed an answer. It came up before Justice O'Gorman, in November, this year, and the Court, after hearing the evidence, gave the counsel until Dec. 4 in which to submit briefs.

It was on these lines that the decision of yesterday was handed down. Justice O'Gorman saying in part:

"Mere residence in a State will not support a divorce suit. The factum of residence and the animus manendi prove the domicile. Mere bodily presence, without an intention of remaining in the State, is insufficient. The wife's domicile never changes. While the husband has the right, without his wife's consent, to change the family domicile, the wife's domicile cannot be changed when she is deliberately kept in ignorance of her husband's movements and not invited to accompany him. His refusal of the plaintiff's repeated offers to live with him, and his secret removal to a distant State without inviting his wife to accompany him or providing for her support here, make are defendant the deserter, and in my opinion the South Dakota decree confers on him no protection or immunity in this State."

DID NOT FIGURE IN THE CASE AGAINST CAREY.

Mr. Marsh Was Not Even Consulted in Those Proceedings.

The trial of Chief of Police Carey, referred to last night by Senator Reed at the trial of Chief Kiely, was held during the rule of the "Big Six." Corporation Counsel Marsh did not conduct the proceedings, and that fact is expressly alluded to by Judge Depue in his opinion, where he says: "So completely did the Common Council stand aloof from this prosecution that it instructed the city counsel neither to prosecute nor defend Mr. Carey before the police board, but to be prepared to advise the board on any legal question the board might see fit to ask him."

Needless to say, the board did not "see fit to ask him" any question.

FAST EXPRESS KILLS TWO PEOPLE AT CRANFORD

HEROIC FLAGMAN AND COLORED WOMAN BOTH STRUCK.

While travelling at the rate of sixty miles an hour, the Philadelphia express that reaches this city from New York at 10:51, struck and killed two persons at the Cranford crossing, this morning; the flagman who guards that point and a colored woman. The latter started to run over just ahead of the train and then noticing it bearing down upon her, stood as if dazed. The flagman sought to save her, only to lose his own life. The woman was thrown beneath the wheels and the body was terribly mangled, while the heroic flagman was hurled through the air and to the roadway near the Cranford hotel.

Many Plainfielders were on the train and several of them assisted in picking up the bodies after the train was stopped and backed to the scene of the accident.

JACOB WEART'S FUNERAL.

Services Over Remains of Lawyer and Politician.

The funeral services of Jacob Weart, who for many years was a prominent member of the Hudson County Bar, and was prominently identified with affairs in Jersey City, were held yesterday afternoon from the late home in East Fifth street. There was a large attendance of friends, including many former business associates in the legal profession in Jersey City, Trenton and other parts of the State.

Rev. Mr. LeVevre, formerly pastor of the Reformed church at Middlebush, Somerset county, where the departed was an attendant several years ago, conducted the services. He read appropriate Scripture selections and made a short address. The remains were taken to Arlington, Essex county, for interment.

Xmas at Park Ave. Baptist Church.

Special Christmas services will be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Sunday. Robert Lowry, leader of the choir, has prepared an attractive programme of music for the morning and evening services. In the afternoon the Bible School will hold Christmas exercises that will be of interest to all. A Christmas cantata will be given by members of the school Thursday night, December 28, at 8 o'clock. Amusing characters, good music and a delightful time is promised all who attend.

Second Dinner Dance.

The second of the series of dinner dances under the auspices of the Plainfield Country Club will be held at the Casino, tomorrow night. Good music will be furnished and there is every indication that this affair will be more largely attended than the first one held recently. Mrs. Lena Hellstrom will serve the dinners.

Basketball Games.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team has cancelled its scheduled game with the Yorkvilles for tomorrow night, and in its stead the ex-High School team will meet the All Collegiates, captained by Robert Abbott, of Yale. The Y. M. C. A. team has also cancelled its game with the Orioles, of New York, in order to make way for two other strong contests. There will probably be games at the local gymnasium on New Year's Day.

Dr. McCrea to Talk to Men.

Rev. A. C. McCrea will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There will be good vocal and instrumental music.

PROVISION FOR A DISTRICT COURT CITIES THIS SIZE MANDATORY

Law Says Municipalities of Over 17,000 Inhabitants Shall Have Such a Tribunal.

POWER IN GOVERNOR

Method of Obtaining Benefit of Statute—Demand for Such a Court—What the Law Says.

The subject of establishing a district court in Plainfield, which has been frequently talked of among those more directly interested, is again being discussed by legal lights and officials and there is a strong possibility that it may shortly be brought to the notice of Governor Stokes, who has the power of appointing the tribunal. The city proper now has 18,478 inhabitants, whereas recent Legislative acts declare that but 17,000 is necessary to make the proper application to the State's chief executive. In the laws of 1900 is a supplement to the act of 1898 "concerning district courts," which makes the establishment of such a court here mandatory.

"All district courts now constituted and established by, under or in pursuance of any law of this State, shall continue in existence under the provisions of this act, and there SHALL hereafter be district courts in the several cities of this State as follows: In cities having one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants or over, two district courts, to be called the first and second district courts of such cities; in cities having over seventeen thousands inhabitants and less than one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants, one district court to be called the district court of such city.

"The salaries of the judges of said courts shall be fixed as follows: In cities having two hundred thousand inhabitants or over, an annual salary of $4,000; in cities having between one hundred thousand inhabitants or over, an annual salary of $3,000; in cities having between twenty-five thousand and one hundred thousand inhabitants, an annual salary of $2,500; in cities having between twenty-three thousand and thirty-five thousand inhabitants, an annual salary of $2,000; and in cities having between eleven thousand and twenty-three thousand inhabitants, an annual salary of $1,200."

According to an amendment to the laws of 1898 made in 1903, the judge of each district court shall be appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, and shall continue in office five years from the date of appointment and until his successor has been duly appointed and qualified. This is the act which has brought the matter more directly to the attention of Plainfielders and which clearly marks out the course to be pursued in seeking the official action.

"Every suit of a civil nature at law, or to recover any penalty imposed or authorized by any law of this State, where the debt, balance, penalty, damage or other matter in dispute does not exceed, exclusive of costs, the sum or value of $300, shall be cognizant in district courts of this State; district courts shall also have jurisdiction in proceedings between landlords and tenants, and in actions of forcible entry and detainer, and in actions of replevin, and in attachments as hereinafter provided by this act."

An interpretation of section 31 of the laws of 1898 which it still in force, reveals the fact that an appeal could be taken from many decisions rendered by local justices of the peace. It declares that: "No justice of the peace or court for the trial of small causes shall have jurisdiction over any cause or proceedings cognizable before a district court, where the defendant or defendants reside within the limits of any city where a district court is established, nor shall any justice of the peace resident within the limits of any city where a district court is or MAY BE established exercise any civil jurisdiction whatsoever."

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Robert Craig is one of the fortunate ones who have been able to get into the Council room in Plainfield to hear Chief Kiely's trial without a subpoena. Several curious Dunellenites have been disappointed in their efforts to hear the proceedings.

So far about twenty-two new members have joined the Baptist church as a result of the revival. Rev. Mr. Fletcher is undisguisedly delighted over the fact.

Miss Mary Baldwin is to sing in the chorus of "The Pirates of Penzance," which will be presented by a company of amateurs at the Casino, Plainfield.

The Misses Nelson held a successful masquerade dance in Friendship Hall on Tuesday night. A number of people from Plainfield attended.

Mrs. Fred Nelson, of Bound Brook, has been a guest at the home of Mrs. Foster Sofield.

Lewis Lare has purchased a farm in Hunterdon county. He will take possession of it April 1.

William Chamberlain's house on North avenue has been connected with the gas main.

Mrs. D. C. Fisher has been visiting Mrs. Sanford Ramsay, of Roselle.

The new township school bonds are being made ready for sale.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of the late John G. Cook were held yesterday afternoon at 2:15 from the home on Park avenue. Rev. T. Moore-Smith, of the Baptist church, of which the deceased had been an attendant, had charge of the services. The speaker chose no particular subject for a text but spoke reminiscently of the man, as he was known, a family man and one always identified with the best interests of the town. The home was filled with sorrowing friends and relatives who had gathered to pay their respects to him they had known and respected in life. The floral designs, tokens of kind sympathy from friends, were many. The pall bearers were John Bornmann, William S. Corey and John Robison, from Fanwood Council, R. A., and William H. Lake, Alexander Mac Cauley and Ira G. Walker, from Excelsior H. and L. Co. Interment was made in the Baptist cemetery.

Christmas exercises were held at the school this morning. An informal programme of music was enjoyed by the scholars and teachers in the assembly room of the building. At 12:30 Miss Little's room, first primary, held a Christmas tree which was the pride and delight of the children. On its heavily laden branches were presents for each and every scholar. At the close of the exercises scholars and teachers exchanged presents and extended Christmas greetings, after which school was dismissed for the ten days' holiday vacation.

The Methodist Sunday-school holds its Christmas exercises tonight in the church. A pleasing programme of recitations, songs, responsive reading and presents for all, has been arranged. Besides this a visit from Santa Claus is promised during the evening. The friends of the school are invited to enjoy the exercises with the school.

Quiet at the Hospital.

The past month has been one of unusual quiet at Muhlenberg Hospital. Very few accident cases have been received and the number of operations was also small. Many trivial accident cases which used to go to the hospital the local physicians get now, the distance to the present hospital being further away from the business part of the town than the old one.

ORDERED RAID FOR EFFECT

Kiely about the Goff case prior to Goff's indictment?"

"Yes; I can't recall any particular conversation prior to the indictment except I know we talked about it more than once. He told me after the indictment that he had evidence ready and sufficient to convict the man. He said before the indictment that he had or could get the evidence and after the indictment, he said he had it."

By Mr. Reed: "Now, Mr. English, what about the efficacy of the chief's work as you have noticed it?"

Interruption by Mr. Marsh: "To save time, isn't it enough that we concede that the chief was one of the most efficient chief's Plainfield ever had up to the time of the charges. His reputation for his work was first class in every respect."

By Mr. Reed: "It is not his character we are asking about. I can prove by Mr. English the character of his work."

"What is Kiely's reputation for efficiency?" continued Mr. Reed, turning to the witness.

"None better in the county."

"Will you state the conversation with Mr. Tyler relative to the Goff place before the raid?"

Interruption by Mr. Marsh: "One minute, please. So far as pledge of secrecy is concerned, Mr. Tyler will relieve Mr. English, but I will object to any irrelevant to the case, so that Mr. Tyler's testimony may not be misunderstood."

By Mr. Reed: "I am surprised that Mr. Tyler takes this attitude. He said he would be glad to relieve Mr. English from any pledge of secrecy."

Mr. Marsh made formal objection to the question.

By Mr. Reed: "I have seen people taking the back track before, but never so openly as Mr. Tyler is taking it now."

By Mr. Marsh: "Mr. Tyler is under my direction; he is a city official."

The question was temporarily withdrawn.

By Mr. Reed: "Mr. English, what did Mr. Tyler say to you relative to the raid?"

Mr. Marsh: "I object on the ground that we are not here to try Mr. Tyler; if you want to impeach him, there are other ways."

"What are you afraid of?" asked Mr. Reed.

"I am afraid you are not going to conduct the case according to law, and I intend that you shall," was Mr. Marsh's reply.

A vote of the Council was taken upon the admission of the question as to what Mr. Tyler had said to Mr. English before the raid and relative to it. The vote was five to four, Messrs. Gloak, Hibbard, Charles Randolph, Frank Randolph and Tolles voting to admit the question, and Messrs. Higham, Murphy, Wilson and Daniel voting to strike it out.

Prosecutor English related his meeting with Mr. Tyler. He said:

"Mr. Tyler came to my office one day, introduced himself, said he was a member of the Plainfield Common Council, chairman of the police committee, and a lawyer practicing in New York. I did not know him, but he impressed me as a gentleman. He talked about the Goff case and Mr. Kiely and Mr. McCardell. What he said was in official confidence. He asked me to consider it so, and I so consider it now. I decline to divulge it unless released by him personally."

Mr. Tyler arose. "I release you," he said simply.

Mr. English continued: "He said there was a place in Plainfield, which I now know to be the Goff place, where he believed liquor was being sold illegally; that a license was promised to the proprietor, and although the license was not yet given, he had evidence to satisfy him that the law was being broken. He said he had called Mr. Kiely's attention to it, requesting him to take action, and that Mr. Kiely had said he was working on the case, doing all he could to ascertain about the place, and that Kiely had said he did not feel justified in raiding it, but was doing what he considered his duty in the matter.

"Mr. Tyler said he believed that Mr. McCardell was interested in getting a license, and he thought Kiely was largely influenced by McCardell's connection with the place; he thought Chief Kiely could be more efficient if he took some other line of investigation. Mr. Tyler asked me to raid the place. I told him that I couldn't; that he would have to see a justice of the peace, and have a warrant sworn.

"He went on and spoke of the warring parties in Plainfield and said that he didn't care about the place and Kiely anyhow, but that he wanted to use it for political effect. I introduced him to Justice Kelly, and told the latter that Mr. Tyler could make known his business."

There was an audible demonstration by the gallery when Mr. English quoted the chairman of the police committee. It was curiously like a sudden sharp "Ah!" by all of the audience in unison.

By Mr. Reed: "Did you tell Mr. Tyler then about your instructions to the chief and the best methods of getting evidence?"

"I think I told him not to raid the place, but to get the names of frequenters."

"You suggested his waiting until the Grand Jury met in October?"

"Yes." Continuing, Mr. English said: "Mr. Tyler appeared to be very zealous and conscientious, and desirous of having the law enforced, and said that if illegal selling were allowed there it would work a detriment to Plainfield."

Cross examination:

"I get the impression Mr. English," began Mr. Marsh, "that you formed a high opinion of Mr. Tyler?"

"Yes; I formed an opinion of his earnestness and conscientiousness, but felt indignant that he wanted to use my office for political purposes."

"Why, then, if you felt that way, did you take the trouble to introduce him to the justice and make suggestions?"

"Because if the law was being violated, it was my duty to see that the necessary steps were taken to have it enforced."

"Did not Mr. Tyler suggest that the political influence to which he alluded had already been exerted to prevent Goff from being indicted?"

"I don't recollect."

"Did Mr. Tyler tell you that Mr. McCardell seemed to have an influence over Kiely?"

"Yes."

"Do you know that Mr.Cardell is one of our most prominent citizens and most potent politicians?"

"I have heard so."

"Don't you think you might have confounded something Mr. Tyler said with the other political influences mentioned?"

"No, sir. It impressed be very much."

"I don't see how you could praise Mr. Tyler so much and yet be indignant with him," said Mr. Marsh.

"I did not like his wanting to make use of my office to further his political ends."

"Don't you think he was right in going to you with the facts?"

"I think he was right—eminently so."

"Don't you know that Goff has been selling under a Government license for two years?"

"No."

"Don't you know Kiely could go to the internal revenue collector and learn that Goff had a Government license?"

"No, I don't know as I do."

"Well, don't you know just as a matter of practice that there is no difficulty in getting names of license holders from the collector?"

"I presume so."

"Then if Kiely neglected to find out if he had such a license, he was not going after a clue he could have used?"

"You know as much about that as I do."

"Did you ever give Kiely instructions to go ahead with methods not consistent with orders from the police board?"

"I never instruct a chief of police to disobey superior officers."

"Did Kiely present any witnesses before the Grand Jury at the May term against Goff?"

"Goff's case never came before any Grand Jury until October."

"Did he bring any witnesses to the October Grand Jury against Goff?"

"I am not certain, but think not. There were some that Justice Kelly named, and some that Mr. Tyler named."

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk and former Mayor O. L. Jenkins testified to the custom of releasing prisoners held on minor offenses for a hearing the following court session, when vouched for by some reliable citizen to the judge or the Mayor or the president of the Council; or when the offenders put up a suffcient amount of money in the shape of a bond. Judge Runyon testified also to the same custom in his practice. Mr. Fisk, Mr. Barrows and former Sheriff Coriell testified to the sobriety of the chief and generally to his efficiency as an officer.

Stephen Robacy, special officer of the Jersey Central Railroad at the Jersey City station March 24, 1904, was called, but testified to but one thing—that he had not seen Chief Kiely at the station on that night.

At this point Mr. Reed introduced the name of one Ritterbush, a claim agent of the Central Railroad, in his questions. He asked the witness to tell a conversation held with Ritterbush at his, the witness's office in Jersey City, relative to the Kiely case. Mr. Marsh sharply objected.

"Unless you are prepared to prove a connection between Ritterbush and Mr. Bullock or Mr. Tyler as to this conversation the question is not admissible. If you will agree to show that I will allow you to go on."

"Well, I think I can prove it," said Mr. Reed. "Bullock has talked with Ritterbush a good deal."

"That is no proof of his connection with this conversation," said Mr. Marsh. "You must prove that or I will maintain my objection."

"Well," said Mr. Reed, quickly, "I offer to show that this Ritterbush told Robacky that it would be worth his while to testify that he saw Kiely drunk on the station that night. The claim department of the Central Railroad has been up against Kiely because of his work in the Westfield wreck. He helped the prosecutor work that case up and by reason of his efforts the railroad has been compelled to pay damages probably considerably in excess of what they otherwise would have paid. The claim department has been working hard to bolster up this case against the chief. That's my offer," concluded Mr. Reed.

"And a very discreditable offer it is," said Mr. Marsh sharply. "It is one that never should have been made. If I wanted to make an offer of that sort I could bring fifteen witnesses to prove the attempted corruption of people connected with the prosecution of this case."

"Why don't you do it?" challenged Mr. Reed.

"Because I will not attempt to prove any such thing. It is not necessary. And I think counsel shows excessive zeal when he suggests that men like Mr. Bullock and Mr. Tyler would try to bribe witnesses."

"Well, who is it that is trying to bribe your witnesses?" queried Mr. Reed.

"Ah, I can tell you his name—in your private ear," warmly replied Mr. Marsh. "But I don't impute any responsibility for that to the defendant," he continued, quickly, turning to the chief. "It is the act of some super-serviceable friend."

Mr. Reed withdrew the question and the witness.

City Judge Runyon, when called, was asked if former Officer Hamilton had ever made any remarks in his hearing expressing ill-feeling against Chief Kiely. He said, "Yes."

"Did he call the chief a ——— ———?"

"He used that term in my office, referring to Mr. Kiely."

Mr. Marsh: "Did you commit him?"

"No, sir."

"Don't you think you ought to have done so—you, a judicial magistrate?"

"That never occurred to me until now."

Frank H. Smith, county register, was sworn. He testified to having requested the chief to release Sheridan and Newman from jail. He said the chief called up Judge Runyon and the latter asked me if I would put up cash bail for their appearance, and I said yes. After the two came to the desk I said I would put up the money, but Newman said it was not necessary, for he had money in the First National Bank, and he gave a check. Mr. McCardell was there, but he had nothing to do with the release as I know of."

In the matter of the illegal debts owed to M. J. Cashin, William Newcorn, assignee of the Cashin-Gough Company, was called, and testified that there was no claim on the books against Chief Kiely. There were two other Kielys in the book. Thomas Gough, of the defunct firm, said he bought the accounts of M. J. Cashin when his firm took over the latter's business, but there was no account on the books against Kiely to show that he owed anything. Gough admitted that he had destroyed the ledger of the assignor within a few months of the time he purchased the accounts.

ROOSEVELT ATTACKED BY R. B. ODELL JR.

CHAIRMAN SAYS PRESIDENT SEEKS TO WRECK THE PARTY.

In a scathing statement yesterday former Governor B. B. Odell, Jr., made a bitter attack on President Roosevelt and Governor Higgins, of New York.

He charged the President with an attempt to wreck the Republican party in New York State and accused the governor of duplicity.

He declared that Mr. Roosevelt was actuated in the selection of James W. Wadsworth, Jr., as candidate for speaker of the New York Assembly by a desire to further his (the President's) ambitions, and he defied those who were trying to drive him out of politics, and said he would fight to the finish.

He predicted that Wadsworth would not be elected speaker, and added that if the present situation should result in party disaster not he and his friends, but Roosevelt and Higgins would be responsible.

Mr. Odell, when seen at his room in the Republican Club, showed that he is thoroughly angry and that his mind is made up to strike back with all the power at his command at his factional enemies.

"I notice," said Mr. Odell, "that Governor Higgins says that he did not agree to support Merritt for speaker. Shortly after election I went to see the governor and asked him for whom he stood for speaker. I asked him if Merritt would be satisfactory to him. He asked me to see Merritt and ask him some questions. I did so and reported back."

1,784 WED, 512 DIVORCED.

Los Angeles Statistics Cause Campaign for Strict Law.

Los Angeles, Dec. 22.—Ministers of Protestant churches in Los Angeles have united to fight the divorce evil. They have planned mass meetings for the purpose of arousing public sentiment, and will have a lobby at the next session of the Legislature. The following is their platform:

"The guilty party of a divorce shall be punished law. There shall be only one ground for divorce, and that the Scriptural ground of unfaithfulness. Under no circumstances shall the guilty party be allowed to remarry. No divorce shall be granted by default. Both parties must appear in court. Old offenders who have been divorced more than once shall be severely dealt with."

In Los Angeles during the first six months of 1905 there were 1,784 marriages and 512 divorces. These figures aroused the ministers to action.

Lucetta Council, Daughters of Liberty, will elect officers Wednesday night, December 27.

A QUESTION OF DOLLARS.

What is the price that you think of first in connection with a clothing purchase—overcoats or suits? Is it fifteen, eighteen, twenty, twenty-five or thirty dollars? If these are your prices, then Watson can give you the best you ever had—clothes that are unquestionable as to their style and tailoring.

It's that class of men, who at one time wore only custom-made clothes but now wear Watson-made, who are Watson's most satisfied customers. They've tried both ways, paid both prices, and find the only difference to be the price.

Overcoats $10 to $40.

In a Watson-made overcoat you get that exclusive cut and originality of design that even the best custom-tailor can't excel—he may equal it but if he does you pay double what Watson asks. For style and dignity the Watson-made Paddock is unapproachable—although those coats of 52 inch and medium lengths are extremely nobby, and please some men just as well.

The Watson-made suits are flawless examples of suit perfection. Look at them, examine them carefully, try one on, note the fit and style, and you'll realize why they are called suits of perfection.

Suits $10 to $25.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT.

When It Is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

Hair preparations and dandruff cures, as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. It allays itching instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Plainfield, N. J., December 22, 1905.

Do you know what Chief Kiely would like for Christmas?

Talking about prominent social organizations, the Get-together Club is occupying the greatest attention just at present.

After listening to the evidence in the Kiely trial one is almost persuaded that it is a case of "the pot calling the kettle black."

Will the Common Council take the initiative in requesting Governor Stokes to name a district court judge for Plainfield? If the members of that body will take the trouble to get the local lawyers' opinions on the establishment of such a tribunal here, they will find an overwhelming sentiment in favor of it. An extract of the laws on the subject will be found on page one.

A particularly instructive article on philately will be found on page eleven of this issue. It was kindly contributed by Ernest R. Ackerman at the request of The Daily Press and we are sure that it will prove entertaining not only to those interested in the hobby of collecting postage stamps but to our readers generally. No one in the State is better qualified to write on this subject for Mr. Ackerman has made it a special study for years while at home and abroad.

LOCAL POST OFFICE RUSH GREATEST IN ITS HISTORY.

Force of Over Thirty Men to Be Employed Now.

From present indications the holiday rush of mail matter at the local postoffice will exceed that of previous years. Postmaster E. H. Bird has made every preparation to handle all incoming and outgoing mail as expeditiously as possible and has applied for several extra men to assist the regular clerks and carriers. He expects the approval of the department today.

The regular force of fifteen carriers and three rural carriers will be augmented by an equal number of men, making a total force of over thirty. In the office there will be the eight regulars on duty, assisted by three specials. In many cases the carriers will have the use of horses and wagons to deliver mail.

Mr. Bird says that he registered mail matter this season is the heaviest since he has been in office. The rush began several days ago. The real Christmas rush began yesterday and continued all day up to the hour of colsing. Today it was just as heavy and a continuous stream of people lined up waiting their turn to reach the stamp or registered mail windows.

For the convenience of the public, Postmaster Bird has arranged to have the office open Sunday morning from 9:30 to 11:30, one hour later than usual on that day. In this way he hopes to reduce somewhat the amount of mail for delivery Christmas morning.

DeWitt C. Morris Dead.

DeWitt Clinton Morris, one of Elizabeth's most prominent residents, died yesterday in St. Elizabeth's Hospital after a brief illness. He was a son of General Morris, who was a veteran of the War of 1812 and also the Mexican and Civil wars, and who was a noted lawyer.

Special Preacher at Grace.

Rev. Dr. John H. Egar, formerly rector of an Episcopal church at Rome, N. Y., for twenty-two years, and now living in North Plainfield, will preach at Grace church Sunday morning.

MRS. J. HERVEY ACKERMAN LAID AT REST IN HILLSIDE.

Son's Business Concerns Shut Down During the Service.

With the edifice well filled by a gathering of relatives and friends, funeral services were held yesterday afternoon over the body of Mrs. Ellen R. M. Ackerman, widow of J. Hervey Ackerman, in Grace church. They were conducted by Rev. E. V. Stevenson, the rector, and Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector-emeritus. A quartette composed of Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Mrs. Albert Cliver, Mr. Chamberlain and E. D. Cutting rendered, "Sun of My Soul" and "Softly Now the Light of Day." Mrs. W. A. Freeman presided at the organ.

The floral tributes were sufficient to form a bank along the chancel and numbered dozens of large set pieces. The casket was covered with smilax and cut flowers. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery.

During the service, the offices of the Lawrence Cement Company, of which her son, Ernest R. Ackerman, is president, were closed; and the company's mills shut down for a part of the time.

NINE EXPRESS WAGONS WORKING FOR SANTA.

Express Company Has a Large Force Working Hard.

The holiday rush is on at the United States Express Company's office and Manager Wilson Frederick and his large force of employes are as busy as bees receiving, delivering and shipping packages and bundles from Santa Claus.

Up to last night the office was cleared of all express matter, but this morning the goods began to arrive in such large quantities that it kept the force of men hustling. The company is employing nine wagons and as many men to deliver goods, and this is the full force. Extra assistance is also employed in the office.

UNFURLED CLASS FLAGS.

Annual Scrimmage Among P. H. S. Pupils.

With the good-natured but determined scrimmages that mark scholastic rivalry at Christmas time, the Seniors and Juniors of the City High School had several tussles last night in seeking to place their respective colors in the most conspicuous parts of the building and grounds. There were several "batties" in which more that one student was severely bumped before the Seniors won out to the extent of getting their orange and blue flag in the cupola of the school and relegated the Juniors to the yard. The latter still sought recognition and at 4 o'clock this morning succeeded in sending a green and gray flag to the top of the flag staff. With these hostilities over, adjournment was made to the laboratory, where a programme of vocal and instrument music was enjoyed and refreshments were enjoyed.

Elks' Tree for Children.

The Elks' annual Christmas tree for children of the city will be lighted at Reform Hall tomorrow afternoon. The committee has arranged a pleasing entertainment to be furnished by professional artists and the distribution of gifts is to be made under the direction of the King's Daughters and Organized Aid Association. Friends of the two organizations are invited.

Exercises at Groszman School.

Friends of Dr. Groszman's school for nervous and atypical children have received invitations to attend the Christmas exercises to be held at the school tomorrow afternoon beginning at 2:45 o'clock. A programme of interest will be presented.

—The dues of the members of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association are payable on Monday, Christmas Day, but an advertisement in another column informs the members that they need not be paid until Tuesday, December 26.

BIG SURPRISE FOR DUKE

Wife's Sensational Testimony in Divorce Case at Newark Astonishes Court Room.

RULED BY SERVANTS

Declares They Used Flowers From "Farm" and Were Treated as Members of Family—A Bitter Fight.

Mrs. James B. Duke, wife of the president of the American Tobacco Company, astonished the court at Newark yesterday in the suit to settle the question whether Mr. Duke is a resident of New Jersey and whether Mrs. Duke is answerable to the Jersey court in the divorce suit brought by her husband.

When asked whether she had corresponded with her husband during his last trip to Europe she replied that she had written to him daily. She said that during her husband's absence she had remained in New York, and when asked why she did not go to Mr. Duke's place in Somerville she replied:

"Because Mary and Maggie Smith rule the place by Mr. Duke's orders."

The Smith girls were originally employed as servants in Mr. Duke's house at Somerville. Concerning them Mrs. Duke further said:

"On one occasion I wanted them to send to my home in New York some flowers from the conservatory in the Somerville place, but they replied that they had only enough for their own use. Another time, when I desired them to send me some vegetables from the farm, I received a similar reply."

"Even when I visited the farm with my husband," continued the witness, "the Smith girls ate at the same table with us and dominated me."

At this point the court interposed, saying that the question whether or not Mr. Duke permitted servants to dominate his wife was irrelevant.

Mrs. Duke said her husband told her he had intended to make the Somerville house into a clubhouse for the members of the tobacco company, and she added that she had never looked upon the place as her home. She said her husband's brother, sister-in-law, cousins, aunts, nephews, and nieces had all visited at the Sixty-eighth street house, and all looked upon it as the home of herself and her husband.

Mrs. Duke said "Ben" Duke, her husband's brother, used the "farm" a great deal in entertaining his friends. She said her husband had told her he liked to go to the "farm" occasionally, but that one day or two was the most he could stand at a time.

Witness was asked if she had sent invitations to the Smith girls to attend her wedding to Mr. Duke, and she replied that she had, but that she had done so only on the request of Mr. Duke. She added that after her marriage she was told by her husband that when they visited the "farm" the Smith girls were to be treated as members of the family.

Mr. Duke testified that he had never given any orders that the girls were to "dominate" his wife. He admitted that when he was in Europe he received a letter from his wife in which she said she was unable to get any vegetables from the "farm." Duke said he inquired the cause of the trouble, and the girls told him when Mrs. Duke wanted the flowers they did not have any at the "farm" at the time, and the Smiths told him they had to borrow some from a neighbor.

After hearing counsel sum up, the vice-chancellor decided that Mr. Duke had established his contention that he was a resident of New Jersey, and could sue for divorce there.

Mr. Parker, of Mrs. Duke's counsel, showed the witness cards announcing that the Dukes "at home" specified No. 11 West Sixty-eighth street, New York.

"Yes, I paid for these," said she. "That was our home."

Later, commenting on this, Vice Chancellor Pitney remarked:

"'At home' means that when a lady doesn't wish to see another lady she tells the maid to say she is 'not at home;' that she is not visitable."

Everybody laughed.

"How about the automobile rides?" Mrs. Duke was asked.

"I went out but twice," said Mrs. Duke, "while I was there. Mr. Duke always took the Smith girls with him.

"'Why do you take them?' I asked. 'Because I owe them much,' he answered.

"'Here are three motor cars,' he told me one day. 'You take them and drive around Somerset county while Maggie runs the house.'"

The multi-millionaire was called in rebuttal. His pink face grew crimson as he took the witness chair.

"It is not true that my wife did not get enough to eat," he swore. "Nor is it true that she was not mistress of Duke Park. Mrs. Duke never complained of our home nor of the Smith girl. In fact, she once begged Mary Smith to remain when the maid had threatened to leave. I objected to my wife going to New York so often, and even threatened to close up the New York stables if she did so. Her answer was that she would hire carriages and send me the bill."

The Vice Chancellor in his decision said:

"The testimony would show that Mr. Duke's residence by choice is in New Jersey. He had other homes, but that is his right. He never settled down that I can see except when he was sick. He has spent millions on his Somerville estate and the letters that he wrote to her while he was living in this home he gave her on West Sixty-eighth street show him to be a greater man than I at first thought him. He asked her in that letter, "Will you be my wife?" I thought more of Mr. Duke as a man after I read that letter that her lawyer put in evidence."

TEACHER FIGHTS THIEVES.

Finds Burglars in Home—Beaten in Attempt to Capture Intruders.

The arraignment of two men arrested on suspicion in the Second Criminal Court, Jersey City, yesterday brought out a story of the fight of a young woman to arrest a thief on Wednesday evening. The young woman is Miss Jean Arrison, who conducts a kindergarten at her home, 166 Belmont avenue. She lives with her father. Every one was absent Wednesday when Miss Arrison returned from a shopping tour. She entered by the basement and was surprised to find the door had been forced open.

She moved quietly and heard some one moving about the parlor. Stealthily ascending the stairs, she threw open the door, to confront two stalwart young men. On seeing her the intruders bolted for the door. She stood in their way. The first of the thieves was a good dodger and cleverly avoided Miss Arrison as she attempted to catch him. The other was not so agile.

She got a firm hold and stopped him. The thief pummelled her with his fists until she was dazed and fell. Miss Arrison quickly recovered and ran to the door and shouted. The intruders, however, escaped.

She made an investigation and found that the thieves had ransacked the house from the bedrooms to the parlor, but had not reached the dining room, where the silverware is kept. They obtained some jewelry, taking also the wedding ring that Miss Arrison's mother wore. The booty was valued at about $100.

Miss Arrison promptly reported the theft to the police, who arrested the two young men. She was unable to identify them.

THEY FISHED WITH GUM IN SALVATION ARMY POT.

One Boy Abstracted Dollar Bill While the Other Gagged One-Legged Collector.

John Owens, twelve years old, and William Garvey, ten years old, of Paterson, conceived a novel method of obtaining money for Christmas gifts. By the use of a cane and a piece of tutti-fruitti they robbed a Salvation Army pot of 1$. Both were arrested and committed to jail.

The pot was on one of the most prominent corners in the city, in front of City Hall square. A wire netting covered it. Owens fastened a piece of chewing gum to a cane, which he inserted between the wire netting and drew forth a $1 bill, while Garvey held his hand over the mouth of John Vanderwheel, a one-legged boy who was in charge of the pot.

After the money had been extracted the boys ran off. The one-legged Salvation Army man was unable to pursue them, but both boys were recognized and complaints were made. Owens admitted the theft.

He and his companion were committed to the county jail.

Ballston, N. Y., Dec. 22.—Porter Quivey's headless rooster is a fact. Mr. Quivey has had the rooster photographed to prove it, and put an end to the sceptical questioning of reporters.

"My editor wants to know if the rooster still crows?" asked one scribe. Another: "Since the rooster can no longer speak for himself, will you act as spokesman and narrate the details of the astounding situation?"

Mr. Quivey tells of decapitating several fowls for the Thanksgiving dinner, among which was the now famous rooster. It found its feet after being flung from the block, and Mr. Quivey was well nigh paralyzed with astonishment when he observed that it continued to stand. He says any sane person would know that it cannot cluck to the hens now, or fight with the Plymouth Rock next door, but it surpassed in activity and indications of continued life any headless rooster on record.

"The picture of the rooster speaks most eloquently in its defense," Mr. Quivey declares. "Any one can see that the rooster is standing unassisted, and also that it is headless."

Died on Railroad Train.

William Baldwin, a prominent resident of Bloomfield, died suddenly yesterday on a train on the Greenwood Lake branch of the Erie Railroad, near Forest Hill. He was on his way home from Manhattan, where he had been taken ill. He was sixty-seven years old and lived in Spruce street. He had not been feeling well for several days, but the illness was not regarded seriously.

Did Not Hear Train; Killed.

William Clark, of Great Notch, was found yesterday lying by the Erie Railroad track about four miles from Montclair. He was taken to the Mountainside Hospital, where he died in the afternoon. It is supposed he was struck by a train. He never recovered consciousness. He was partly deaf and it is supposed did not hear the train approaching.

Nine Years for Simmons.

Cape May, Dec. 22.—Charles Simmons, who confessed to attempting felonious assault on Miss Olevio Rothelle, in West Cape May Monday last week, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Voorhees to nine years at hard labor in the Trenton State penitentiary. Simmons is sixty-five years old.

He Predicts a Blizzard.

Prof. Gustave Meyer, the Hoboken astrologer, who came to some prominence by predicting the death of President McKinley, and who since that prophecy has assumed the title of the "Nation's Counsellor," asserts the "starry messengers" indicate that a great blizzard is due next Sunday and Monday.

TAKEN BY STORM

"I do not believe it is love," said she.

"If it is not love, what is it?"

"Oh, sympathy—attraction—perhaps you mesmerize me—or I mesmerize you—who knows?"

"I do, I love you."

"Three days ago you did not know me."

"The plant can spring in a night."

"But it does not always come to flower."

"In this case it is flowering already."

As his eyes met hers they smiled, and his broad shoulders took a positive set.

She looked at him disdainfully—this big, handsome, brainy man.

"But a few short hours and we shall have forgotten one another," she remarked.

"Don't think that, I tell you that I love you. And you—why will you not acknowledge—the truth?"

His eyes were tender, and as if compelled, she answered.

"What can I acknowledge? How do I know what this—"

She hesitated.

"This is love?" he concluded.

A mighty green wave capped with foam thundered by, almost splitting over the deck.

"Let me assist you out of the seadust," said the sailor.

"Go to your watch," she said; "I can assist myself."

Miss Nolan had enjoyed the trip up the coast, starting at Portsmouth, stopping at Plymouth, and now on to Glasgow. Life at sea, even at a season when most women are glad to be safe on land, had a fascination for this girl, bred among thinkers and scholars, cultivated women and professional men. A man who was all action was an interesting study to her. That was how she put it to herself when her ears inclined to the first officer's impulsive wooing. She did not take him seriously then. She had read about sailors and had theories concerning them. The second day out she wrote in her diary:

"A sailor's life is so filled with perils and hardships that I can hardly blame him if he fills up his breathing spaces with whatever sport comes his way—even if that sport sometimes means playing at love. Any other man I should despise for making a jest of such a serious matter, but, considering all things, I think Jack can be forgiven for having a sweetheart in every port."

Miss Nolan, like many an inexperienced girl, prided herself upon being liberal and broad-minded.

The fourth day her diary recorded:

"I believe he thinks he is in love with me, but that's absurd. How can he possibly care for me whom he does not know? He has the audacity, also, to tell me that he is sure that I love him. Why, Dr. Gibson, who, father says, is both morally and intellectually one of the finest men on earth, and who has been paying me attentions for two years, would not presume to hint at such a thing. I think I will marry Dr. Gibson after all. He has such good, kind eyes. They never make me feel—uncomfortable.

"I wonder why I am so attracted to him—this sailor man? Even before we had spoken to one another, before the vessel left port, when he was superintending the stowing of the hold, I was drawn to watch him and listen to his masterful voice. I never saw a man work like a king before. How the men under him obeyed his orders. His strength was greater than any of theirs. I don't believe they could have hoisted those bales without his aid.

"Then he moved with such freedom and fearlessness, scording the gangplank and passing from steamer to dock and back again so quickly and carelessly. How alert he was to catch the captain's commands, and what a responsibility he bears. Last night, as I lay awake, I thought of him keeping watch above with all our lives, as it were, in his hands.

"Then, when the second mate came to take his place, I heard him pass my cabin whistling cheerily, even amid the storm and darkness. What a life his is—ever contending with perils and hardships! While Dr. Gibson is warm and safely housed my sailor keeps his watch, with gales howling and waves seeking to devour. Great courage and iron will must undoubtedly be his. Yes! He lives a man's life. He is a man. But as to love! Oh, that is absurd!

It was about 3:30 in the afternoon. The sea was rolling high; but Miss Nolan, rocked by wind and wave, slept the sleep of the sea sleeper, and it was not until a great shout went up from some men on deck that she became conscious of peril. What was that cry she heard? There it was again——

"Heywood is overboard!"

She started to her feet, but fell almost immediately. She crawled to the cabin door and tried to push it open. As she did so a sea mightier that had been felt before struck the ship and capsized her.

The girl realized that something terrible had happened; that death was waiting near; yet, in this awful situation, closed in alone under the deck of the steamer, no sign of human life around her, only the warring elements of her ears, the only clear thought in her mind was that the man she loved had gone to his death. She realized now that she loved him, else why this pain at her heart—this indifference to her own fate?

The sound of sharp blows on the planking above her head aroused her from the stupor into which she had fallen. A face she know looked down.

"I have come for you," said Mark Heywood.

Then Edna Nolan lost consciousness.

The steamer had capsized with that side of her deck uppermost under which was Miss Nolan's berth. The capsizing was an unexpected happening, for, although the sea had been rolling for hours, yet before the catastrophe the storm had apparently abated, and even the captain had retired with confidence for a little rest, he and the mate having been up nearly all the previous night.

The second officer had been swept overboard just before the coming of the mighty comber which had destroyed the vessel; but Mark Heywood, the first officer, with whirlwind around him and whirlpool beneath, kept his clutch on life. How he did it was a miracle. Every man on deck, including the three male passengers, was swept away. Even the two lifeboats had been wrenched from their fastenings and smashed to atoms as they went over the bulwarks.

The storm subsided almost as quickly as it had risen, but the ship was slowly sinking, and Heywood's only chance lay in swimming to shore, which was about a mile off. He would take the chance if some one else would take it with him.

The opening to the aft companionway was near him. He forced himself down, and there, under two feet of water, found a hatchet, with which he crawled to the deck and set to work with desperate energy.

When Miss Nolan opened her eyes Heywood was tying a rope which bound them together.

"Then it was not you who were swept overboard?" she cried, in great joy, forgetting present peril.

"No; that was a mistake the men made. It was poor Brown," he replied. Then, looking straight into her eyes he said: "There's to be a desperate struggle. Tell me that you love me."

"I love you," she answered him, "so well that I am glad to die with you."

The endurance and courage of the man were put to the severest test, but the shore was reached in safety.

* * * * * * * *

Three months afterward they stood in their own home, side by side, hand in hand. The bridal party had just left, and Jack took her in his loving arms.

"I gave in to you, after all," she said, softly.

"Not so," he replied, "you were taken by storm."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS.

Elizabeth Board of Aldermen Will Make Up Slate Tuesday Night.

Elizabeth, Dec. 22.—The Democratic majority in Elizabeth's new Board of Aldermen for 1906 will hold a caucus on Tuesday night next to make up a slate for distributing the offices. There are only five to be given out next year. They are street commissioner, for three years; excise commissioner, for four years; two city physicians, and the presidency of the aldermanic board. The big fight is on the last named position, the candidates being George A. Ford, the present incumbent, and Colonel Dennis F. Collins, of the Second New Jersey Regiment.

The bold warrior's supporters claim that he has the job already cinched and that he will have ten votes in the caucus out of the seventeen Democratic aldermen. Ford, however, the others claim, is a hard man to beat and never boasts of what he is going to do, but he never lets up hustling until the battle is fought. Last year his opponents thought they had the "Democratic fox," as he is called, beaten to a standstill, only to find on New Year's night that he had smashed the slate which had Colonel Collins on it for president, and that the "fox" held the trump card.

There is another struggle on for excise commissioner between former Chief of Police John Keron, president of the Excise Board, and William Miller. The latter has been hankering after the place for some years. President Keron, however, is picked by the knowing ones to win. It seems to be settled that Street Commissioner Nathaniel K. Thompson will be renominated, as likewise will the two city physicians, Drs. McElhinney and Eaton. The caucus heretofore has usually been held on New Year's Day.

Means Athletics for All.

Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, New York, yesterday appointed two committees to devise plans by which the recommendations made by the university council to abolish all intercollegiate sports entailing gate receipts, may most speedily be accomplished. One committee consisted of faculty members and the other of alumni. Mr. Butler said that this action did not aim to abolish college athletics at Columbia, but to put athletics on a basis on which every student could participate, and that Columbia's ultimate purpose was to encourage the widest possible participation of students in athletics.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

SOME GOOD RECIPES.

A string of round red objects dangling from an upper window was the cause of daily comment by passengers on a train that pressed pretty close to the tall tenement house. They swung there for a fortnight in the bright fall days, and then disappeared, for they were nothing more than large red peppers hung out to turn red and dry for winter use. They will season the savory dishes cooked by the little dark-haired foreign woman, who still uses the methods of her mother country as far as possible.

Peppers, both green and red, and especially the mild sweet variety, are growing in favor every year with cooks of all degrees. The flavor of the dry red pod added to soups and sauces is pleasant, and it is a positively pure seasoning. If a mild red pepper that is still juicy is shaved into fine shreds, like little red threads, and is added to a vegetable salad, it will give a piquant flavor as well as pleasant color to the whole.

The uses of green peppers, either stuffed, baked, pickled or in salads, are increasing, where for a cold there is nothing better than a dose of old-fashioned pepper tea, made by steeping a piece of the red pod in boiling water. This tea is also a stimulant and a good tonic in some conditions of the stomach. Pure red pepper as a seasoning for food is healthful, while black or even white pepper is more or less irritating. The seeming excess of red pepper eaten in hot countries is needed as a tonic and is nature's preventive or remedy.

Coffee Cake.

Make a sponge with one cup of milk scalded and cooled until lukewarm, one and three-quarters cups of flour, three level tablespoons of sugar and one-half yeast cake dissolved in one-half cup of lukewarm milk. Cover and let rise. Add one-half cup of melted butter, one whole egg and the beaten yolks of two, one-half level teaspoon of salt, the grated rind of half a lemon, and one and three-quarters cups of flour. Beat well, turn into a shallow buttered pan until it is one-quarter of an inch thick. Let rise until twice as high and set in a moderate oven. When half done spread with butter, after brushing over with a beaten egg. Spread on three-quarters of a cup of sugar, mixed with one-half cup of seeded and chopped raisins.

Beef Croquettes.

Chop enough cold roast beef or cold tender steak to make one cup. Season well with salt and pepper, onion juice and a little table sauce if liked. Add a tablespoon of melted butter, a rounding tablespoon of fine bread crumbs and one beaten egg yolk. Stir all over the fire until heated, then spread to cool and form into little rolls. Dip each roll in flour, then in a beaten egg and last into fine bread crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat. Serve with a sauce.

Sauce for Croquettes.

Simmer together two level tablespoons of butter, the same of flour, a slice of onion, one of carrot, and a bit of bay leaf, with the cup of white stock, for half an hour. Strain and add one-half cup of cream. Season with salt and pepper and it is ready to serve.

Prune Puddings.

Wash one pound of prunes and soak over night in cold water to cover. Cook in the same water until tender, then take out the stones. Make a batter with three well-beaten eggs, one and one-half cups of milk, a saltspoon of salt, one rounding tablespoon of sugar and three cups of flour, sifted with four level teaspoons of baking powder. Beat and add the prunes and fill buttered cups a little more than half full. Steam one hour and serve with a prune sauce.

To two cups of the prune juice from the stewed fruit add a level teaspoon of cornstarch, mixed with one-half cup of sugar. Stir and cook fifteen minutes; add a level tablespoon of butter and it is ready to serve. If there should not be two cups of the juice add enough boiling water to make that amount.

Orange Ice.

Grate the rind of one orange, add the juice of one lemon and one cup of orange juice. Boil two cups of sugar and one cup of water together for fifteen minutes, add the fruit juice and cool. Strain and freeze.

Wheat Muffins.

Sift one cup of white flour, two cups of whole wheat flour, a rounding tablespoon of sugar, four level teaspoons of baking powder and a saltspoon of salt together twice. Beat one egg, add two cups of milk, three tablespoons of melted butter and the dry materials. Bake in muffin pans in a moderately hot oven.

Cooking Cabbage.

A cabbage is much better if it is blanched before boiling, frying or cooking in any way. Take off the coarse outer leaves and cut into quarters. Take out the hardest part of the stalk and drop into a large kettle of boiling water. Cook constantly for ten minutes, then drain, drop into cold water and let stands until cold. Handle it with a skimmer. Take from the cold water and drain, when it is ready to cook in any way preferred.—Newark Advertiser.

CARNEGIE SENDS SULZER WHISKEY.

Congressman, Who Doesn't Drink, Will Have No Trouble Using It.

Washington, Dec. 22.—William Sulzer, Congressman from New York, walked up to the desk in the Raleigh Hotel yesterday and asked:

"Any mail for me today?"

"Mr. Congressman," began the clerk, "there is a mail and there are a lot of telegrams, too," and he handed out a bundle of telegrams that filled his hand. The Congressman stuffed the letters in his pocket and began operations on the telegrams. One read:

"Don't forget the boys. It's Christmas time.—Johnny Oakley."

"I never forget the boys at Christmas," commented the Congressman, and then he opened the other telegrams.

Some of them read: "Bring the case home," or "I just love Scotch when it is thirty years old," or "You owe me a bottle."

Every telegram had a reference to drink. Congressman Sulzer doesn't drink. For a time he was puzzled; then a light of intelligence overspread his Henry Clay countenance.

"It all comes about because of the case of twenty-four bottles of thirty-year old Scotch sent me by Andrew Carnegie," he began. "The iron master sent me those case goods for a Christmas present, and I don't drink, either. However, I have friends who are not so particular, and with ice, fizz water and lemon peel I can make myself popular."

In sending the liquor to the Congressman Mr. Carnegie sent an expression of good will.

PLAYED VIOLIN AS FATHER DIED.

Daughter of Cousin of Emerson Soothed His End With Music.

Charles M. Emerson, who died at his home, No. 81 Montgomery street, Jersey City, was buried Wednesday.

The late Mr. Emerson was a third cousin of Ralph Waldo Emerson, the great American essayist and philosopher. He was an atheist and when he died no clergyman was called in.

He was employed as a clerk in the motive department of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the station in Jersey City, where he had worked for thirty years. His deskmate, Charles Ayres, read a simple burial service and Miss Mary Laterman, a student in the New York Conservatory of Music, sang "Lead, Kindly Light."

Mr. Emerson was sixty-two years old. As his life ebbed away his daughter, Miss Josephine, a teacher in the New York Conservatory of Music, played the dying man's favorite airs on the violin—airs she had learned at her father's knee.

Mr. Emerson had been ill only since last Friday. He was stricken with pneumonia. Over 1,000 persons tried to gain admission to the house during the funeral services.

NEW CLARK BABY BORN TO MILLION.

Grandchild of Senator Is Girl, but Gets Big Prize Anyhow.

San Francisco, Dec. 22.—Senator William A. Clark, of Montana and New York, is poorer by $1,000,000 and richer by one granddaughter, born yesterday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Clark, at San Mateo.

The stork may have had suspicions that it was bringing a million-dollar bit of humanity in its flight, but the public had not been informed, as it was before the birth of the Senator's first million-dollar grandchild, that this great walth would be its burden from birth.

Senator Clark's first grandchild was a girl, born to Mrs. Morris, his daughter. Then he offered his sons and daughters the big prize to the first grandson born, and it fell to the child of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Clark, Jr., now three years old.

It was not known that the offer would be extended to granddaughters. Therefore the surprise when, in answer to a message announcing its birth, came the Senator-millionaire's reply that he would settle $1,000,000 on the yet unnamed infant.

The mother of the second million-dollar baby was Miss Cecilia Tobin, of San Francisco, and its father is the Senator's second son.

STOPS TRAIN, SAVES THREE.

Crew of Freight Rescues Two Men and a Boy from Drowning.

Winsted Conn., Dec. 22.—The crew of a freight train on the Harlem division of the New York Central Railroad saved John Bates, aged ten, whose father is superintendent of the Borden Condensed Milk Company at Millerton, N. Y., and Alonzo Andrews and John Burns, two men, from drowning in that town Wednesday.

Bates, while skating, broke through the ice. In trying to rescue him, Andrews got in, and Burns while attempting to save Bates and Andrews, slide into the hole. The engineer of a passing freight train saw the two men and boy struggling in the water and stopped the train.

The crew, with ropes taken from the caboose, managed to save all three. Bates was badly exhausted when taken from the water and his condition is regarded as serious.

—Peter Hill, of Millstone, has taken a position with A. E. Hoagland, the expressman.

FOR CHANGE IN THE FACTORY LAW

HUGH F. FOX, OF THIS CITY, EMPOWERED TO NAME COMMITTEE.

Preparations for a campaign throughout this State toward securing an amendment to the present child labor law, which shall prohibit the employment of children under sixteen years in factories at night, were made at a meeting of the New Jersey Children's Protective Alliance, held in the rooms of the Bureau of Associated Charities, 10 and 12 Academy street, Newark, Wednesday afternoon. There were present many of those who led in the crusade against child labor a year or two ago. The point on which they have determined to focus their energies this year and for which careful plans have been made, was originally a part of the child labor law, as introduced, but was eliminated before the bill was passed.

Hugh F. Fox, of this city, president of the Alliance, who is also president of the State Board of Children's Guardians, was directed to name a committee from the members of the organization, with power to enlarge its membership from outsiders, which shall be authorized to draft the amendment and present it to the coming Legislature. Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay, secretary of the national child labor committee, offered the co-operation of that body in the proposed fight. He spoke at length on the campaign against child labor recently made in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Lindsay declared that Pennsylvania had its eyes upon New Jersey and that without doubt if the Alliance succeeded in getting the amendment made a part of the law in this State, Pennsylvania would soon follow suit, or even if it made simply a good showing, the people in Pennsylvania, with the interest of the child workers at heart, would be encouraged to go ahead with their campaign.

"Does that mean," asked Mr. Fox, who was presiding, "that if we succeed it will help, but if we should fail it would hinder?"

"The worst thing that could happen to the cause," replied Dr. Lindsay, "is for you to do nothing."

Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, of Elizabeth, spoke strongly of the necessity of the Alliance going ahead with its campaign.

"This fight," she said, "is going to be a long one and a hard one. It is going to be harder than it might be ordinarily because of the trouble in the ranks of the Republicans in Hudson, and, as you know, the labor unions in the south of the State are divided among themselves. We must get the help of the labor unions, the trade councils, and we certainly need the help of the national child labor committee. In this part of the State we are all fighters—every one of us—but this fight is going to be a tremendous one, and we need every bit of help we can get."

Arthur W. McDougall suggested the necessity of getting the co-operation of the Boards of Trade throughout the State, and the question of raising funds for the campaign was also discussed. These matters, it was decided, should be left with the committee.

A constitution and bylaws for the Alliance were adopted. The body was organized about a year and a half ago, and at that time William Potts was made chairman of a committee to draft a constitution and bylaws, which was submitted by mail to the members. Several changes were made, notably the leaving out of an executive committee. The Alliance is made up entirely of representatives from other organizations, all working for the betterment of conditions affecting children, and its purpose is to work for any measure which it is felt by the body to be needed and which may be advanced by any one of the organizations represented.

The agitation started by the Consumers' League for shorter hors for children employed in stores was indorsed.

Bryan Declines Ide's Invitation.

Manila, Dec. 22.—W. J. Bryan has cabled from Hong-Kong declining Acting-Governor Ide's invitation to be his guest during his stay in Manila, for the reason that he comes as a newspaper representative and not as a private citizen, stating that by his acceptance of the Acting Governor's hospitality he would feel placed under cetrain obligations to the government, which he might wish to write about in the near future.

IS POLL TAX ANCIENT MODE OF TAXATION

A. C. PLEYDELL SENDS LETTERS ON SUBJECT TO NEWSPAPERS

A. C. Pleydell, of Grandview avenue, who se views on political economy and kindred subjects have been widely published, has sent the following letter to newspapers throughout the State and which has been given prominence in their columns:

"Dear Sir—It was assumed in a recent editorial that there are men residing in the State who pay no taxes at all, and advocate a poll tax. But everybody who lives in the State and pays rent for a house, or even for a room, helps to pay the tax on real estate. Everybody who buys goods from a merchant helps to pay the taxes on the merchant's store and stock. Poll taxes are an ancient mode of taxation and have been forbidden by a number of State constitutions because of their obvious inequality. To arbitrarily tax men at so much a head does not take into account either their ability to pay or the benefit which they get from the government. As an illustration of the injustice of a poll tax as a requirement to vote, some years ago I was paying $900 a year rent, out of which my landlord turned over about $110 to the tax collector. He got a receipt for this money and could vote on the strength of it, while I and my customers, who were really paying the tax, had to pay a poll tax before we could vote. The case of fraternal organizations is different because they are voluntary associations which no one need join unless he feels he is getting his money's worth, and they cannot be supported in any other way than by directly collecting from each member.

PUPILS CELEBRATE XMAS

Mrs. Andrews, who has charge of the vocal instruction at the school, favored those present with a solo, her selection being from "The Messiah." This was greatly enjoyed.

The exercises were concluded about 10:30, when this department was dismissed for the term. The school will reopen on Monday, January 8. In the meantime the teachers and out-of-town pupils will spend the holiday season at their various homes. At the close of both yesterday's and this morning's exercises, Miss Hartridge, as well as all of the teachers, were congratulated upon the excellent showing made by the pupils.

Leal's School closed this morning for the holiday vacation and will be reopened on Wednesday, January 3. The closing was marked by an informal programme of simple exercises chiefly by the younger boys of the school, comprising readings and declamations.

EVANGELISTICS SERVICES.

Connecticut Revivalist Engaged by Faith Chapel.

Commencing on Sunday night, December 31, and continuing for two weeks, evangelistic services will be conducted at Faith chapel by Rev. C. C. Luther, a Baptist evangelist from Connecticut. He will be assisted by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson, and other officers and workers in the chapel.

It is not the purpose to start any wave of revival over the city, but to confine the efforts of religious work to the east end of the town, and more particularly in the neighborhood of the chapel.

Mission Entertainment.

Under the auspices of the colored mission guild of Grace church a musical and literary entertainment was held in the parish house last night. Mrs. Miller, wife of the curate of the parish, was chairman of the general committee. The programme included piano selections by Mrs. J. C. Anderson and Alfred White, mandolin selections by Toney Brothers and readings by Miss Cora Pierson. Following the entertainment there was a social time. There was a large attendance and the proceeds will be devoted to the interests of the mission.

Seats for Drew Performance.

The management of the New Plainfield theatre announces that there are plenty of choice reserved seats left for John Drew's performance of "De Lancey," tonight. Mr. Drew came to the city today and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Fisk.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Mrs. Barnes, organist at the Congregational church, has arranged a special musical programme for the Christmas service Sunday morning. A feature will be three 'cello selections by W. Paulding DeNike, as follows: "Largo," Haendel; "Reverie," Bottesine; "Adagio," Goltermann. Mr. DeNike will also contribute to the musical service at the Sunday-school session.

The programme for the special services to be held at the Church of the Holy Cross on Christmas Day morning at 11 o'clock is as follows: Processional, hymn 51; Introit, hymn 49; Kyrie, Tours in C; Gloria Tibi, Tours in C; hymn 58; offertory anthem, "O Zion That Bringest Good Tidings," Stainer; Sanctus, Tours in C; Benedictus, Tours in C; Agnus Dei, Tours in C; Gloria in Excelsis chant 204; recessional 60; postlude, "Christmas March," G. Merkel.

Special Christmas music will be rendered at the Congregational church Sunday morning, under the direction of the regular choir, and Mrs. B. T. Barnes, organist. This programme will be given:

"Largo," Handel, 'cello and organ; "Arise Shine," Schnecker, choir; response, benedictus, Moir, choir; baritone solo, Willard Wadsworth; "There Were Shepherds," Spence, choir; "Reverie," Bothemini, 'cello, W. P. DeNike; offertory, "The Birth of Christ," Berwald, Miss Haines; "Adagio," 'cello, W. P. DeNike; "Welcome Dear Redeemer," Frank, Willard Wadsworth and choir. In addition to the above, the pastor, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, will preach an appropriate sermon. The Sunday-school exercises will be held in the afternoon at the usual hour.

Shepard—Lowe.

Invitation have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lowe for the marriage of, their daughter Charlotte Frances, to Frederick Mead Shepard on Wednesday, January 10, at half after twelve o'clock in Grace church. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents, 1024 Park avenue. A special car will be attached to local train conveying New York guests to and from the wedding.

Annual Meeting Borough Council.

The annual meeting of the Borough Council will be held tonight at which reports will be presented and other business of importance considered.

August Trust returned to his home in North Carolina today after spending the week at the home of his sister, Mrs. Adam Fritz, of Watchung avenue.

SLATE ALL MAYORS.

Murphy Has No Share In Assigning Department Plums.

Mayor McClellan's city cabinet slate, which all the office holders and office seekers of Tammany have anxiously awaited since the election, will be given out next week, probably on Wednesday. It is believed the mayor has practically decided which of his commissioners must give up office and who will succeed them, but he will put the finishing touches on his list at Princeton, where he will go tonight to spend Christmas.

"I hope to have the names ready by Wednesday and that I will have a certificate of election by that time," said Col. McClellan today. "They will not be announced until I shall have received my certificate of election."

The mayor would give no intimation of his appointments.

When he was told that Street Cleaning Commissioner Woodbury was making plans for caring for snow that is expected next year he answered with a smile:

"What would the world be without a Woodbury?"

It was declared on the best of authority that Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, chief of staff of the United States Army, can have the position of police commissioner if he will accept the place.

When Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, was asked for his opinion concerning the suggestion that Gen. Chaffee be appointed, he said that he had heard nothing about it.

When it was said that John S. Caldwell, superintendent of the speedway, had been suggested as park commissioner, Mr. Murphy said with some determination:

"Well, there couldn't be a better man for the place."

Bird S. Coler, borough president elect of Brooklyn, announced the selection of David F. Moore as superintendent of buildings, Samuel Greenblatt, assistant building superintendent for the Eastern District; James Dunne, superintendent of sewers, and Joseph Lawrence, superintendent of public buildings and offices.

With the selection previously made of Desmond Dunne, public works commissioner; Charles Frederick Adams, borough secretary, and John A. Heffernan, private secretary to the president, the borough list is practically complete.

Cambridge Celebrates.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 22.—The 275th anniversary of the founding of Cambridge was celebrated here yesterday by exerices in the public and private schools. A public meeting was arranged for the evening in Saunders' theatre under the auspices of the Cambridge Historical Society. In each school an invited guest delivered an address appropriate for the occasion, and the pupils joined in the singing of "America" and the "Cambridge Hymn," which was written by Emma Endicott Marean, of this city.

Harkness Buys Famous Place.

Los Angeles, Dec. 22.—The announcement was made yesterday of the sale of the beautiful home site in Pasadena, known as Carmelita, to L. V. Harkness, the Standard Oil magnate. The consideration was $180,000. On the grounds is a bungalow in which Helen Hunt Jackson wrote part of "Ramona."

MUST BE ABLE TO SPEAK ENGLISH

ONE REQUIREMENT PREPARED BY NATURALIZING COMMISSION.

Washington, Dec. 22.—The report of the Naturalization Commission, composed of Milton D. Purdy, chairman, assistant to the Attorney-General; Gaillard Hunt, chief of the passport bureau of the State Department, and Richard K. Campbell, law office of the bureau of immigration, Department of Commerce and Labor to which reference was made in the President's message, makes important recommendations for improving the conditions now surrounding naturalization. The commission declares that the general principles of the naturalization law are correct, but recommends that no one be admitted to citizenship who does not intend to reside permanently in the United States and that no one be admitted who does not know the English language.

To prevent naturalizations for political purposes it is recommended that a uniform fee of at least $7 be prescribed by law and that no naturalizations be permitted for at least thirty days next preceding a Presidential or Congressional election. The commission also recommends that the declarations of intention, which can now be made before any clerk of a court at least two years before naturalization be entirely abolished and the substitution in its place of a petition for naturalization before the clerk of the same court in which the naturalization is to take place at least three months before the naturalization proceedings are heard and that a duplicate of this petition be sent to the Bureau of Naturalization, which the commission recommends shall be established in Washington.

In considering the action of the courts under existing conditions the commission gives evidence which it says proves that many have been corrupt and many more negligent in conferring citizenships, and that this condition has prevailed ever since the naturalization laws went into effect.

As a preventative, the commission recommended that in those cities where Federal courts sit almost continuously no State courts shall entertain applications for citizenship, and that in smaller places only one specified State Bureau of Naturalization, which it is recommended shall be established in the Department of Commerce and Labor, is to have full jurisdiction of the enforcement of the act, and a part of the naturalization fees is to be turned into the treasury, thus producing a revenue which, it is stated, will be far in excess of the cost of the Federal machinery recommended.

Separate reports by a majority and the minority of the commission are submitted on the subject of registration of old certificates of naturalization and on the question of naturalization of minor children by the naturalization of their parents.

BOARD OF PARDONS' WORK.

Show Mercy on a Number of Prisoners.

The Court of Pardons at Trenton Wednesday, in addition to action in the Garrabrandt case, paroled a number of prisoners, pardoned one man and remitted some fines.

The man who was pardoned is Abraham Goldberg, of Hudson county, sentenced to ten years for bigamy. His case was brought up at the last term of the Court of Pardons, but the evidence offered was so startling that the court could not believe it. Assistant Prosecutor Vickers, of Jersey City, has since made a thorough investigation, which sustained the claim.

The story told was that Golberg went through a mock marriage ceremony at Braunsville, N. Y., having a false rabbi, false witnesses and a mock ceremony, in which his housekeeper was the principal. Later he was regularly married in New Jersey against the wishes of his family, who to get even, it is now alleged, charged him with bigamy, and produced witnesses, who testified that the pretended marriage was real.

The Court laid over the application of William Macqueen, the alleged anarchist, who is serving five years, accused of inciting riots in Paterson during the silk strike in 1902.

Robert A. Wood Dead.

Robert A. Wood, of Union place, Summit, a resident of that city for nearly a score of years, died at his home last night from heart disease. Mr. Wood was about forty-two years old. He was born in Newark. He was a member of the Summit fire department for the last eleven years, and was once foreman of Hook and Ladder Company No. 1. The fire department will parade in his honor. A widow and five children survive him.

HUNG GEMS WORTH $12,000 IN KITCHEN

DIAMOND SETTER DROPPED THEM IN RESTAURANT.

Elizabeth, Dec. 22.—A reward of $100 was received yesterday by H. M. Mills, proprietor of the Central Restaurant in Broad street, for the return of $12,000 worth of diamonds wrapped in a leather wallet. The diamonds were the property of a Philadelphia jewelry house, which was represented by a man who gave his name as David H. Compton, salesman, of Philadelphia. Compton entered the eating place Tuesday afternoon, and ordered dinner.

He was seen by one of the waitresses to take from his pocket a package wrapped in a handkerchief. He had another package of similar size, which he took from his pocket and placed on the top of the first one as he ate his meal. When he arose he took one package and the other fell down behind the table. Later when Mr. Mills was cleaning up his place of business he found the bundle and stuffed it into his pocket carelessly.

Several hours later he thought of the bundle, and, upon opening it, was almost dazzled by the brilliance of the stones. There was one cluster of twenty-one large diamonds in a gold spray, three solitaires, two pearl stick pins with a diamond necklace, composed of thirty-seven.

Yesterday morning when the first train from Philadelphia arrived the salesman was at the restaurant and recovered the precious bundle. He insisted upon Mr. Mills accepting the reward. The man asked that the matter be kept quiet, but the facts leaked out, nevertheless. He would not give the name of the house he represented.

HOT AFTER "CLANSMAN."

Plan Mass Meetings to Ask Mayor to Stop Performances in New York.

The play "Clansman," by Thomas Dixon, Jr., is billed by Klaw & Erlanger at the Liberty theatre, New York, under the management of the Southern Amusement Company. The negroes of the city are determined to do all in their power to stop it. They are sending out notices to every minister in the city asking them to preach next Sunday against the piece, as detrimental to public morals, misrepresenting and vilifying the negro. They are preparing a mass meeting at Carnegie Hall, or Cooper Union, or possibly Madison Square Garden, to which Mayor McClellan and many leading citizens will be invited.

The Colored Citizens' Protective League has no doubt that the Mayor has the power to stop the performance of the play, and cites the cases of "Sappho" and "Mrs. Warren's Profession" as almost exactly analogous. They maintain the play is every bit as immoral and dangerous as either of these.

WORKMAN SAVED HER.

He Threw Off Belting, but Not Before Girl's Scalp Had Been Badly Torn.

The quick wit of a workman in the mill of the Clark Thread Works at East Newark probably saved Wednesday the life of Sivana Camel, fifteen years old, of 132 Hudson street, Newark.

Miss Camel was bending over tying a lace of her shoe when her hair, arranged in a long braid, was caught between two slow-moving gears. The girl was dragged to the wheels and was being drawn between them. Her scalp was torn and her plight was desperate when the clear headed workman threw off the machine belt.

It required a number of stitches to sew up the wound in Miss Camel's scalp. She was taken home, instead of to the City Hospital, on her plea that her father was in the hospital being prepared for a serious operation, and she feared he would learn of her injury and that it would involve serious consequences.

ERIE RAILROAD INDICTED.

Charged With Maintaining Bridge That Is a Nuisance.

The Bergen County Grand Jury indicted Wednesday at Hackensack the Erie Railroad Company for maintaining a nuisance at that place. The nuisance is the frail-looking bridge that crosses the Susquehanna and Western Railroad tracks at Prospect avenue, in the residential section of the place. Engineers have said the bridge is unsafe. The residents say it is inadequate and unsightly.

For years the Improvement Commission of Hackensack has endeavored to have the Erie build a new bridge, but delay has been the result. The Grand Jury inspected the bridge Tuesday and unanimously voted to indict.

Missing Man a Suicide?

Newton, N. J., Dec. 22.—The body of George W. Blackford, thirty years old, who had been missing from his home at Newton since last Thursday, was found yesterday in the mountains near Swartswood. He had committed suicide or had been accidentally killed by his own shotgun, a charge from which tore out his breast. He was married a little over a month ago to Miss Rose Hill.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

In addition to "The Lightning Conductor's" success as a play, it has additionally an attraction that by itself would form an entertainment. The play deals with a motor tour through France and a dainty love story between its occupants. In the first act the automobile stands in the middle of the stage in the foreground and is supposed to be speeding ahead with a velocity that would cause their arrest in Central Park. Behind, the panoramic view is unfolded. Swiftly passing we see hill-tops crowded with medieval fortresses and castles, fertile valleys through which tiny streams flow like while raven in an emerald field. Fertile farms with their dainty little farm houses. Vineyards creeping up terraced arbors under which you hear the merry song of the farmers mixed with the toot of the motor car. It is a very novel scene and attention is brought to it more particularly as it is an exact reproduction in scene painting of photographs which the management sent a photographer to take. The play will be at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday, presented by a cast headed by Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon.

Effie Shannon,

Herbert Kelcey,
At New Plainfield Theatre Next Tuesday Night.

Hi. Henry's new collossal minstrels aggregation of fifty all white performers will appear at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening. This famous organization promises every variety and excellence of one of the biggest and best minstrel organizations ever presented to minstrel patrons. From start to finish Hi. Henry's show goes without a dull moment. Every song, every gag, every comic ditty, every dance and all electrical scenic stage business ideas and settings, are new, and embrace the latest and highest embodiment of modern minstrel art and genius. This will be one of the best entertainments of the season, don't miss it.

Hi Henry,
At New Plainfield Theatre Tomorrow Afternoon and Evening.

To an American playgoer, a comedy by Augustus Thomas—ever to be remembered for such brilliant plays as "Arizona," "The Earl of Pawtucket," and "The Other Girl,"—is as positive a promise of a delightful evening's entertainment as is the announcement of a new Sardow play to a Frenchman, or a new Pinero play to an Englishman. Mr. Thomas has become so thoroughly the representative playwright of America, and has scored so many permanent successes, that Charles Frohman announces his intention of bringing to London the latest Thomas success, "De Lancey," in which John Drew will be seen in this city, at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. In London, Mr. Drew will appear again as Jim Delancey, which will be his first appearance before an English audience since his famous "Petruchio" to Ada Rehan's "Katherine." "De Lancey" will constitute a splendid medium for the exhibition of Mr. Drew's well-known comedy style, because of the fact that its scenes are taken largely out of events in his own life, or are placed in environment with which he is perfectly intimate. The piece, which will of course be given in this city with the same stage-settings and cast that delighted the large and fashionable audiences of the Empire theatre, New York, for so many months —is deserving of particular attention for its several instances of exceptionally ingenious stage-craft. The second act, which represents the hothouses or nurseries of a skilled gardened, is a literal copy of the greenhouses owned by J. P. Morgan, Jr.

When a play received the universal endorsement of press critics and the theatre-going public in general on its initial performance, there is certainly much merit in it, such was the verdict accorded the first presentation of the massive scenic production —"A Desperate Chance," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre Christmas afternoon and night. The play is based upon the troublous times of the Biddle Brothers in and around Pittsburg. No individuals are presented, only types. Beginning with the arrest, imprisonment, escape and final death of the villains, the author shows the villain in a new garb with great hypnotic power over the gentler sex. The management has supplied a production that is seldom seen on any stage, as to detail of staging, electrical and mechanical effects and the large cast employed.

Scene in "A Desperate Chance," at New Plainfield Theatre Christmas Matinee and Night.

An unusual amount of interest has has been manifested by our theatre-goers over the approaching return engagement in this city of "Running for Office," described as a rural musical play from the pen of one of America's most prolific young writers of witty lines and tuneful tunes, Geo. M. Cohan. Mr. Cohan has already given to the stage some of its successful plays and some of its most delightful music. His recent great success as the author and star of "Little Johnny Jones" has placed his name upon the top most pinacle of popular writers. "Running for Office" was first produced by Mr. Cohan three years ago and since that time has been so successful and so well liked by amusement seekers everywhere that its popularity is destined to continue for many seasons to come. The play contains over fifteen of Mr. Cohan's most pronounced song hits which the amusing loving public of America are now most familiar with. There has been an unusual demand for seats which augers well for a crowded house when it is presented Saturday afternoon and evening, January 6.

What proves to be one of the most interesting features in the melodramatic field this season is the new play by Langdon Mc.Cormick entitled "How Hearts Are Broken." The action of the piece takes place in Maine, and many unique characters are introduced, such as the foolish country boy whose laughing muscles are loose, the old blind musician and his daughter, the gossiping old woman who speaks ill of everyone, the honorable naval officer and the good-hearted judge, as well as the sweet but unfortunate heroine who are all interesting types. An excellent cast to portray them has been engaged for the production's appearance at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night.

In refreshing contrast with the cheaply sensational claptrap of some plays of alleged heart interest is "On the Bridge at Midnight," Klimt and Gazzolo's comedy drama which will be seen here next Thursday night. The story is the frank, honest, and natural narration in play form of the search of a blind mother for her stolen child and her experiences, and, exciting and sometimes tinged with pathetic humor, grip the attention of audiences from start to finish. It is moreover a wholesome story and there are few characters on the stage that have won wider popularity than German and Reddy. The scenery is remarkable and of course reaches a climax in the setting that gives the play its name showing, with faithfulness in detail, the huge lift bridge over the Chicago River, scenes along that city hidden stream, and a steamer passing through the draw. The company is far above the average.

If it be true that "everybody loves a horse," and "All the world loves a lover," then the ultra-sensational conditions under which Theodore Kremer introduces the horse in his new far western melodrama, "A Race for Life," and the heart-stirring and magnetic manner in which he portrays love and its trials and endearments, will make his latest play even more popular and successful than its many predecessors; which is all that either box office or public can reasonably require. The P. H. Sullivan Amusement Company, who will present the new play at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night, have set, staged and cast it with that liberal and intelligent regard for general effect and realistic detail always so conspicuous in their many productions.

In one scene of "The Girl of the Golden West" Miss Blanche Bates wears a pair of white satin high-heeled slippers which are supposed to be too small. As a matter of fact Miss Bates has a small foot, and the diminutive bottines she wears on the stage fit her perfectly. The business of the scene requires her to limp, as if the slippers pinched her, and she does it with such naturalness that it is difficult to believe it acting. A few nights ago in that scene she did not act. She drew on the slippers hurriedly and walked across the stage. At the first step something in her right slipper caused her to limp in reality, and she was nearly lamed bebofe she was able to remove it and see what had hurt her. It was a cartridge from her 44 calibre pistol —the pistol to which she refers when she jumps up and cries: "Oh, gee! I'm sitting on my gun!" She does not know to this day how the cartridge got into her slipper, but she could not help smiling bitterly when David Belasco said to her, at the end of the act: "I never saw you play that tight slipper scene better."

PHILATELY;
What It Is and What It Teaches.

Mr. Ernest R. Ackerman.

Not only collectors of postage stamps but the public in general will be interested in the following article on Philately contributed by Ernest R. Ackerman at the request of The Daily Press. It is safe to say that no man in New Jersey is as well qualified to discuss the subject as he is and it is a question whether there are a score of men in the entire country, excepting those engaged in postage stamp collecting as a means of livelihood, who have devoted so much time and expense to it.

When he was yet a small boy, Mr. Ackerman formed the nucleus of his magnificent collection, which today is contained in more than two dozen albums. During his trips around the world he has found much enjoyment in examining famous private collections, attending exhibitions held by philatelic societies, viewing the assortments of dealers and conferring with men who have spent fortunes in gathering stamps of rare value.

On several occasions, Mr. Ackerman has received medals and ribbons as prizes for the collections he has had at public exhibitions in this country and abroad. His collection of the issues of Norway and Sweden won for him a prize not long since, and he has also received an award for his collection of stamps of the U. S. possessions, which is very hard to surpass anywhere.

That philately is the hobby of the Lawrence Cement Company's busy president would be readily recognized upon visiting Mr. Ackerman at his "den" in his fine residence in West Eighth street. The wall paper of that room is entirely composed of uncancelled postage stamps of a South American Republic, and there he is "at home" with a collection of stamps that he would not part with for any price.

(By Mr. Ernest R. Ackerman.)

Probably none of the many hobbies which have come into existence during the last fifty years has attracted so much attention as that of collecting specimens of the postal and revenue issues of the various countries of the world. This is known today as stamp collecting or philately. The encyclopaedias, at least those that were published twenty years ago, have little or nothing to say on the subject, for stamp collecting was then such an infant that it was considered not worth recognizing; but the time is doubtless approaching when a degree of attention will be paid to the pursuit by historians that can hardly be realized by those who are now living.

We cannot call stamp collecting an independent hobby, for it is rather a development of the enjoyable occupation that has interested the world for centuries, that of "numismatics" or coin collecting. Few people know that the word "philately" is derived from the two Greek words "philos," love, and "atelia," exempt from tax, hence a collection of articles on which tax has been paid.

Boys are not the only ones who are interested in stamps, though they probably constitute the larger part of the number of collectors, since the finest collections are owned by people of maturer years. Among those who have large and valuable collections we can count the Prince of Wales, M. Philipp la Renotiere, whose mother is the Duchess of Galleria; the Prince of Siam, Members of Congress, and of the English Parliament, Ministers and Consuls in all parts of the world.

There are at least 300,000 collectors of stamps in this country, but, as by far the larger number of stamp collectors live in Europe, it is safe to say that there are at least 700,000 persons in the world who are interested in the hobby. If we assume that the average value of a collection is only $20.00 each, we have at once $14,000,000 invested in this study. This is a very low average, for some collections are worth from $250,000 to $400,000 each. In New York City alone there are probably fifty or sixty dealers in stamps; one firm, the great house of Stanley Gibbons, of London and New York, has a paid-up capital of $582,500, and the National Stamp Dealers' Association that existed five years ago represented a capital of $1,000,000.

While stamp collecting has existed but a few years, the increase in values during that period on various stamps has been almost fabulous, and could a collector of the period of 1860 have used the same foresight in stamps that the Astors did in real estate, their profits today would have been equally as great.

The postage stamp was first issued in Great Britain on the 6th of May, 1840. Although Americans are generally the first to adopt any new suggestions, it was not until the 1st of July, 1847, that this country issued stamps under National auspices, although the postmasters of Brattleboro, Millbury, Baltimore, New York, St. Louis and New Haven had stamps prepared and issued at their own expense before that time. While Great Britain, however, was the country to take the initiative as regards postage stamps, Austria introduced the postal card, in 1873, and the United States gave the newspaper bands in 1857, but the East Indies introduced the telegraph stamp.

In sending out copies of the fifth edition of their Universal Standard Catalogue of the Postage Stamps of the World, the publishers accompany it with this information:

"The following statistics, compiled from the catalogue, may not be uninteresting. The figures comprise only standard varieties of postage stamps, and do not include revenue or telegraph stamps or post cards, letter cards, stamped envelopes or wrappers.

"The total number of all known varieties of postage stamps issued by the governments of the world up to the present time is 19,242.

"Of this number, 5,916 are apportioned to the British Empire and 13,326 for the rest of the world. Dividing the totals amongst the contients, Europe issued 4,089, Asia 3,628, Africa 4,005, America 4,585, West Indies 1,510, and Oceanica 1,425.

"The Republic of Salvador has issued more varieties of postage stamps than any other country, the number being 450. Next in order comes the United States, then Spain, followed by Nicaragua, the Philippines, Uruguay, Victoria, Cuba and Mexico.

"Poland and Wadhwan have each found a solitary specimen suffice for their postal needs."

The real credit for the introduction of the postage stamp belongs to Sir Rowland Hill, although several parties have lately attempted to transfer to themselves the honor which belongs to him. But this introduction of the stamp is not without its romance, and the prettiest story in connection with its advent is related by a writer in one of the popular magazines of the day.

Over fifty years ago a traveler was passing through the Lake district in England when he stopped at an inn where a postman was delivering a letter to a young girl. As she turned it over and over in her hand, he noticed that she appeared to be very dejected, for she had asked the price of the postage upon it, and when she found that it was one shilling, she sighed sadly, shook her head, said she had no money to pay for it, and with tears in her eyes returned it to the postman. The traveler, who was of a kindly disposition, inquired of the girl who the letter was from, and finding it was from her brother, he offered to pay the postage, and it was only with considerable reluctance that the girl allowed him to do so. After the postman had departed, the traveler, impressed with the girl's demeanor, asked what was the reason she did not want to receive the letter. She replied by saying that the letter was from her brother and that certain marks on the outside gave her all the information she desired, but the letter itself contained no writing. "We are so poor," she said, "that we have adopted this mode of correspondence. Now, that is the reason I did not want you to pay for it."

This incident caused the traveler to put on his thinking cap to try and see if he could not devise some means whereby to stop the frauds then being practiced on the internal revenue by people who would communicate with each other by letter, but who would not pay for the privilege of so doing. Soon afterwards the postage stamp appeared, as the result of the thinking of the traveler, for the same was Sir Rowland Hill, and, the English Government agreeing with his views, appointed him secretary to the postmaster general.

As a means for instructing and educating the young, there is no way that it can be done with apparently so little effort and with such good results as by collecting stamps, for they teach history, geography and languages, and gives the boys who work to increase their collections by exchanging or selling their duplicates an insight into business operations which they might otherwise not have an opportunity to learn so soon. A collector in this city, when he was fifteen years old, made quite a large addition to his collection in this manner. At that time the P. O. Department in Washington, in response to numerous inquiries, looked up their old discarded plates, brushed them up and had struck off several thousand impressions from the original plates, which they sold to collectors at face value, but most of the issues were disfigured by the word "specimen" printed on the face of them. Two of the dies, however, could not be found, so the Government had new dies engraved, which were in many points widely dissimilar to the originals from which they were copied. Several of the later issues, however, especially the beautiful issue of 1869, were prepared with gum, the word "specimen" was not printed on them, and thus they were made valid for postage. The Government, having provided a desk in the office of the third assistant postmaster general, an official circular was prepared, giving a list of all the varieties which were procurable, and thus started in to supply collectors with the genuine article at face value. The various issues were usually sold in sets, but a provision in the circular informed collectors that "two dollars worth or over of any one value could be obtained at one purchase." This collector, being aware of this fact, procured 200 one-cent stamps of the obsolete 1869 issues and affixed them to his circulars as a means of prepaying the postage. The novelty of receiving an obsolete stamp which was worth to a collector who did not know how to otherwise obtain it several times it face value, was a novelty to say the least, and the result was that he made several good acquaintances with collectors in far away places which doubtless he would not otherwise have made. Wishing, with his small capital, to obtain as large a number of stamps for his money as possible, as quantity and not quality was what he was aiming at then, he addressed a letter to the Postmaster General of Spain, enclosing him a twenty-five-cent fractional currency note, requesting him to send him 500 unused one-quarter-cent de peseta Spanish stamps. It requires twenty of these stamps to equal the value of one cent of our money, so quantity was surely here obtained, and it was the means of securing to him in the end a very fine quality of all the stamps of Spain and her dependencies, for it seems that the Postmaster General of Spain was himself a collector and asked his young correspondent if he could supply him with some United States stamps which were lacking in his collection, sending the American collector a list of what was wanted. Naturally this collector was very much pleased to have so prominent a person as the Postmaster General of Spain for his correspondent, and so he sent him the very best assortment of his duplicates, together with the desired stamps as soon as possible, and in due course of time received a magnificent assortment of the stamps of Spain and the Philippine Isles that gladdened his heart. There was now but one difficulty connected with his correspondence and that was that the Postmaster General could only correspond in Spanish, while the collector was only familiar with English, and as the Spaniard said he could not write English, the only thing to be done was for the collector to learn Spanish, which he tried to do with the help of a dictionary and various phrase books, until he could correspond sufficiently well to make his wants known to his foreign correspondent. The pleasant correspondence which was thus commenced continued for several years. Thus the incentive to study a foreign language was started by his stamp collection, and it was but one of the many good accomplishments which followed in its train.

Perhaps a few words about the process of making stamps may be of interest. They are, as a rule, printed from steel plates, on which 200 stamps are engraved. They are also printed with hand presses instead of by steam, as other printing is done. After the plate is well inked, the paper is put on, the impressions taken, and after it has dried these sheets are gummed with a gum of peculiar composition, consisting largely of a powder of dried potatoes, which is better than gum arabic, as it does not cause the gum to crack or make the stamps curl up. The paper is of a peculiar texture, and especially the last two issues of our revenue stamps were printed on hair line paper similar in texture to that used in printing bank notes. These sheets, when printed and gummed, are placed on little racks, which are fanned by means of large fans worked by steam power; then the stamps are put in between sheets of pasteboard and pressed in hydraulic presses which apply a pressure of several hundred tons. Each sheet up to this time has contained 200 stamps, but now the sheets are cut in half by girls with large shears, for machinery might destroy too many of the stamps. They are next perforated and then are again put under hydraulic pressure, after which treatment they are made up into packages ready to be sent away to fill the many orders from the 78,131 different postoffices in the country. If a single stamp in a sheet is at all mutilated, the whole sheet is burned. Yet, notwithstanding the great care that is taken, we often find specimens with double perforations or perforated obliquely, and sometimes not perforated at all. In 1869, when the Government issued that beautiful set of two-colored stamps, the fifteen, twenty-four, thirty and ninety cent were printed in two impressions and much care had to be taken in feeding the half-printed sheets to the machine, so as to get the second impressions printed correctly, for if the sheet was placed under the press upside down the result would be that the two impressions would not conform to each other and the stamp thus produced would have its centre surrounded with a frame in exactly the opposite way to that intended by its designer. In spite of the fact, however, that each sheet is counted eleven times, the fifteen, twenty-four and thirty-cent sheets were printed with reversed centres and escaped detection, these stamps being now the choicest prizes in our collections. The same thing happened with the Pan-American issues of 1901, and the one-cent stamp with reversed steamer is worth $17.50, while the two-cent with the engine reversed is worth $20.

At a meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society, held in September of this year, fifty stamps were shown which were valued at $23,000, and included in this lot was a fine five-cent Hawaii of the first issue, unused, which was valued at $2,000.

The rarest stamp in the world and of which but one copy is known, and that a poor specimen, is the one-cent British Guiana of 1856. If another copy is found, it is safe to say that more than one collector would be willing to pay $10,000 for it, provided the copy was a fine one. The best known of the great rarities is the Post Office Mauritius, so-called because the words "Post Office" were inscribed on one side of the stamp instead of the words "Post Paid." They were designed and engraved by a local watchmaker in the Island and were issued in 1847. Of the 1,000 stamps issued, only twenty-two copies are known to exist today. They are worth from $5,000 to $8,000 each, according to condition. Of the two-cent blue of the 1851 issue of Hawaii or Sandwich Islands a dozen copies are known to exist, and a specimen of this rarity is worth $3,200. Of an issue of 2,000 copies of the eighty-one paras, the postage on a heavy letter in Moldavia, only 693 copies were sold by the postoffice, but an unused copy of this stamp has sold for $1,750, not very long ago. The Prince of Wales paid £1,450 (equal to $7,250) for a 2d. unused Mauritius of the first issue.

Some of the recent notable pieces which have been sold in America include the fifteen-cent and thirty-cent of the 1869 issue of the United States with inverted centres, unused, with gum, and, collectively, these stamps stand practically as unique, although two other copies of the thirty-cent are known in unused condition, but not as fine as this copy. These two stamps were sold for $5,500, and, as an interesting sidelight on the value of something which is really unique or pracically so, to all intents and purposes, we might say that this pair could unquestionably be sold today at an advance of a thousand dollars or more, as several of our largest collectors would be very glad indeed to have this particular pair.

Mr. Duveen, of New York, the well known art connoisseur, has a collection mounted in seventy albums which is said to be valued at $400,000. Sir W. B. Avery, a scalemaker, of Birmingham, has one of the finest general collections known and which cannot be worth less than $250,000. M. P. Castle, the vice-president of the Philatelic Society, of London, is one of the keenest of English collectors. He sold his collection of Australian stamps in 1894 to Stanley Gibbons Co., Ltd., of London and New York, for $50,000, and then started a collection of European stamps only, which consisted of sixty-seven volumes and for which he realized the sum of $150,000 in 1900.

In his natty little volume on Philately, "The A. B. C. of Stamp Collecting," Melville gives the following table of the sales of famous stamp collections, from 1876 to 1900:

Date.	Collector.	Countries.	Amt. Realized.
1876	Ehrenbach	German Empire	£ 6,000
1878	Cooper	General	3,000
1882	Philbrick	General	8,000
1882	Image	General	3,000
1885	Burnett	General	1,000
1888	Bros. Caillebotte	General	5,000
1890	Hughes-Hughes	General	3,000
1894	Castle	Australia	10,000
1894	Philbrick	Great Britain	1,500
1894	Harrison	United States	1,330
1897	Ayer	G'ral (dispersed gradually)	45,000
1897	Legrand	Part of Gen.	12,000
1898	Pauwels	General	4,000
1900	Castle	Europe	27,500

To these might be added the Nankivell collection of Transvaal, the Earl of Kintore's collection, and others recently acquired by Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., W. H. Peckitt, etc. Mr. Melville, as an instance of money profitably invested in stamps, recalls the fact that Mr. Hughes-Hughes spent only £69 on his collection and eventually sold out for £3,000, or $15,000.

The method of supplying the smallest collectors with additions to his collection is by sending out what is known as approval sheets. This is entirely a mechanical process, and, by various systems now in use, many thousands of young collectors are served with dispatch and care. The larger concerns sending out approval sheets have trays containing fifty little boxes, which correspond to the fifty stamps on a sheet. These stamps are made up by the hundred, and when a sheet is returned with stamps lacking, it is merely necessary to take a stamp from the corresponding box in the tray which the sheet represents and refill the empty space.

From the approval sheets the small collector gradually grows into sending a "want" list to various dealers, and, in a few instances, the dealers' stocks are kept very carefully made up, so that at a moment's notice they can tell if they have any stamps desired.

Still a further way of meeting collectors' needs has been developed in the last few years, by representatives of some of the stamp concerns traveling through the country with the rarer stamps; but in these instances, for the most part, they carry just the greatest rarities. This branch of the business has been growing very rapidly and single sales of $25,000 and upwards are known from this source.

The premier society of stamp collectors is the Philatelic Society of London, which was founded in 1869 and for over thirty years has held regular meetings in the winter time without a break. On its membership roll are three princes, several earls, baronets, judges, barristers, doctors, officers in the army and navy, besides many well known merchants. For the past twelve years this society has published a monthly journal which contains technical articles besides giving the latest information concerning new issues and discoveries.

An international exhibition of postage stamps will be held from the 23d of May to the 1st of June, 1906, in Horticultural Hall, in London. The chief patron is His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and the vice-patrons are Lord Stanley, postmaster general; Righ Honorable Austen Chamberlain, late postmaster general; the Marquis of Londonderry, the late postmaster general; and the Duke of Norfolk, also the late postmaster general. Twenty-nine philatelic societies in all parts of the world have endorsed the movement and the exhibition will probably represent stamps of a value exceeding a million dollars.

Already America is striving for honors at this exhibition, the first American entry received being that of a resident of Plainfield, whose famous collection of the stamps of Norway and Sweden has won the highest possible awards whenever it has been shown in competition, both in Europe and America.

TO INVITE NOTABLES TO BIG SAENGERFEST

PRESIDENT, GERMAN AMBASSADOR AND GOVERNOR TO BE ASKED.

In anticipation of the twenty-first triennial saengerfest, to be held in Newark next June, under the auspices of the Northeastern Saengerbund, elaborate invitations will be sent to President Roosevelt, the German ambassador at Washington, Governor Stokes and Mayor Doremus, of Newark, to be present at the festival of song. The invitations, which are engrossed on white vellum, are enclosed in morocco leather covers with an interlining of white watered silk. The invitation reads as follows:

"We take great pleasure in inviting you in the name of the Nordoestlicher Saengerbund of America, to our twenty-first triennial saengerfest, to be held in the city of Newark, N. J., June 30 to July 5, 1906, and would esteem it a great honor to be favored by your presence.

"Singers of all the States of the Northeast will assemble on this occasion to compete in song for valuable prizes, including the well known 'Kaiser Prize,' presented by his majesty, Emperor William II., of Germany. A united chorus of six thousand voices, as well as selected soloists and orchestras of high reputation, will be heard at two grand concerts, July 2 and 3. Knowing that you take a great interest in music and song, which you have shown through your presence and most remarkable address at the festival at Baltimore on June 18, 1903, we sincerely hope that you will be able to spare a few hours of your most valuable time and encourage again the humble efforts of our organization by your presence at Newark to awaken in the hearts of our people the ideals and the love of song and music."

The invitation is signed by Carl Lentz, as president of the Saengerbund; Adam Obst, as secretary, and John J. Plemenik, as secretary of the festival. Theodore Henninger, of Brooklyn, president of the United Singers of New York, prepared the invitation, the ones to Freiher Speck von Sternberg, the German ambassador; Governor Stokes and Mayor Doremus being similar to the President's.

Major Lentz, Dr. Louis Weyland, of New York, vice-president of the Saengerbund; Dr. Obst, Karl Kuhl, of Philadelphia, recording secretary, and August Goertz, the treasurer, who is also president of the local United Singers, together with Carl W. Heilman, Dr. Oscar Thum, John J. Plemenik and John J. Goering, members of the local committee of singers, will form a committee to deliver the four invitations in person to the addressees.

In response to overtures from the United Singers, the German-American Central Association voted to cooperate with the former in arranging the preliminaries for the saengerfest.

MADE HER MAKE SOUP.

Actress Rebelled and Now She Is Suing for Divorce.

Because she refused to do housework "unbecoming a lady and an actress," Mrs. Laura B. Hauser, of Newark, who is seeking a divorce from her husband, Gustav Hauser, Jr., alleges she was subjected to extreme cruelty. Mrs. Hauser, who was Miss Stem before her marriage in Paterson in 1896, is a native of Brooklyn. She is twenty-six years old, while her husband is a few years her senior. She was a vaudeville artist when Hauser met her, and she has been practicing her profession since her separation from ther husband.

Hauser formerly conducted a saloon in Hoboken, and it was there, she alleges, trouble took place. Mrs. Hauser testified that her husband compelled her to make soup for his bar, and when she protested trouble followed. She left him last May.

Vice Chancellor Emery adjourned the case to January 9, 1906.

Child Burned to Death.

Left alone by his mother, who had gone to a near-by grocery store, William Bingle, three years old, was burned to death yesterday in his home, No. 293 River street, Paterson. The baby had pulled red-hot coals from the fire with a poker, and his dress was ignited. William Richter, a neighbor, saw smoke coming from the house. Thinking the house was on fire, he ran into the kitchen and found the child on the floor unconscious. The boy died before a physician could be summoned.

HOW TO EXPRESS CHRISTMAS GIFTS

THAT IS, IF YOU WANT CAREFUL HANDLING AND EXPEDITIOUS DELIVERY.

The express companies are now entering a period of extreme activity, the Christmas season always bringing with it an increased volume of business, due to the numerous gifts that Christmas time exacts nowadays from friends and relatives.

To a large proportion of the public the express companies during the Christmastide assume the character of an accommodating personal medium whereby the annual exchange of presents is effected, and the efforts of the express officials are now directed toward providing means for the expeditious and careful handling of packages intrusted to their care. Frequently the delays in delivery are unjustly charged to the express companies, but are due to the fact that shippers do not take the proper precautions in preparing the packages for shipment and in the addressing of same, and the following suggestions are given, which, if followed, will assist the express companies in the prompt and safe handling of packages, and prevent delays, complaints and add to the enjoyment of the recipient and giver:

Articles placed together in the same receptacle should be so packed that the frailest article will not be injured, as a great number of shipments are sent long distances and necessarily require frequent handling en route, so that the express companies are frequently blamed for damage which is primarily the result of improper packing.

The use of bandboxes and other large pasteboard boxes, unless crated, should be avoided as much as possible.

Boxes and other packages containing fragile articles, or articles necessary to handle under certain conditions, and which would be damaged by moisture, etc., should be marked "Fragile," "This side up." "Keep dry" or "Handle with care," as the case may be.

Money should never be placed in packages containing merchandise.

All small packages containing jewelry should be sealed and the contents stated at the time of forwarding.

All packages should be plainly marked in ink, boxes with marking ink or crayons, and the street and number of the consignee's residence or place of business, when known. The county should also be included in the address of shipments destined to small towns. If the consignee is not a permanent resident or the local address is not known the package should be marked "To be called for." The name and address of the shipper should also be marked on the package.

The use of tags should be avoided whenever possible. Card marks, to which the feminine mind so strongly runs, are liable to be rubbed off, which causes a delay in delivery or the possible loss of the package.

If old boxes are used, care should be taken to see that the old marks are thoroughly erased.

Old Man Peddles Apples, Though He Says He Is an Heir.

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 22.—John Nichols, a farmer, came to town yesterday to peddle apples, and when his cart was empty he dropped into the Superior Court on a matter of business.

The peddler is gray haired and bent. He said that he is heir to a fortune estimated at $80,000 in cash and has a share in real estate in New Yorrk valued at $500,000.

"Judge," he cried, "all I get out of this is $12 a year spending money. My folks think that is enough for any man of my station. Of course the farm keeps me in pork and beef and vegetables, but I want to come to town once in a while and spend money, and a dollar a month isn't enough. So I have to peddle apples to make both ends meet."

Nichols lives in the family homestead in Greenfield Hills. The family is an old one that immigrated here 200 years ago, and built up a fortune. The estate, valued at nearly $750,000, has been tied up by litigation, so that a division has been impossible, for many years. The old man said that his sister, Susan, has charge of the property, and he has begun suit against her for an accounting.

NO HONOR AT ALL IN TRADE TODAY.

Dean Johnson Says Business Morality Altogether Lacks a Standard.

"The trouble is not that there is a low standard of honor or morality in business, but that there is no standard at all," said Dean Joseph French Johnson, of the New York University School of Commerce, last night, to a Cooper Union audience.

"Well meaning men," he said, "often are at a loss to determine whether a certain profitable policy is honorable or dishonorable. There is no unanimity of opinion with regard to the rightness and wrongness of many of the most common commercial and financial transactions.

"Until we have business men who have been trained in the right methods of finance, the management of our banks, our insurance companies and our great corporations will be subjected to wholesome criticism. Things will be done in the dark which ought not to be done."

Dean Johnson said he was a pessimist as to the permanent betterment of conditions as a result of the insurance revelations.

TOO MUCH JOY LEADS MOTHER TO SUICIDE.

After a Reconciliation with Son, Banker's Widow Seeks Lake.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—The joy of reconciliation with her son, who for twenty years had lived in Germany, estranged from his mother, is believed to have proved too much for Mrs. Bernard Rosenberger, widow of a former banker. Her clothing was found on a deserted stretch of the lake beach Wednesday night, and the police believe she drowned herself. The body has not been found.

Before leaving home the aged woman placed in her servant's hands the first letter received from her son in twenty years. It is concluded in tender terms and announces his intention of visiting home with the wife whose marriage to him caused his mother to disinherit him.

After the letter was received, Mrs. Rosenberger made a will leaving her wealth to the son and daughter-in-law. The son was for several years on the stage with his wife, who is said to be of a noble Bavarian family.

GUILTY ON 1 COUNT, TECHNICALLY SO ON 3; ALL SO TRIFLING THAT COUNCIL IMPOSES NO PENALTY

Chief Kiely Practically Vindicated of the 21 Charges, Some of Serious Nature, After a Long and Hard Fought Trial in Which Put Some Accusers in Bad Light.

SWEAR LEE WAS DRUNK

Vindicated of every charge touching his morality and his efficiency as an officer, Chief Kiely emerged from his trial at midnight last night a happy man indeed. He was adjudged guilty on four counts; in three of them his guilt was termed purely technical, and his judges ruled that the circumstances surrounding all four did not justify any penalty.

The verdict was unanimous. No one but the councilmen who took part in the three-hour discussion of the evidence in executive session knows what passed behind the closed doors, but every one of the nine members who have sat on the case voted "aye" to the resolution that brought the chief from under the cloud. It was one of the councilmen accused of strong prejudice against him—Mr. Murphy—who offered the resolution.

The charges under which the chief is found guilty are numbers one, two, three and nineteen. One, two and three referred to the release of prisoners without bail or hearing; of these he was adjudged "technically guilty." Count nineteen covered his attendance at the meeting room of the Get-together Club, in the Hotel Waldorf upstairs room, "a place where liquor is sold." He was declared innocent of drunkenness, conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, conniving at John Goff's violation of the law, disobedience of orders, incompetence, and allowing political influence to control the disposition of prisoners at the station house, all of which were charged in the other counts.

The case closed at 9:45 last night, after a session lasting, with an hour-and-a-quarter recess for supper, from 4 o'clock until then.

Frank J. Blatz was called to the stand first after Council convened. He was questioned with regard to the debt claimed by Frank Linke against the defendant. He said:

"The defendant came to me about the bill and said he'd been bothering him about it. I advised him not to pay it. He came to me again and said he would rather pay it than be bothered any more about it. He gave me the money and I paid it for him. I went to Linke's and saw Mrs. Linke. Told I came to pay the bill, and wanted an itemized statement. She said if I wanted a statement I could go to Mr. Tyler, who had the bill for collection. The amount was $59.22. I offered her that and she said it was not enough. That the bill was $60.27."

By Mr. Marsh:

"Did Kiely deny he had received lager beer, whiskey and champagne as charged in the bill?"

"He said they were for his wife."

"Necessaries, eh?"

"He said these had been paid for, and he said after he paid one bill he told Linke not to charge him with any more goods, but to get his pay at the house."

Sergeant Fredrickson was next sworn. He said he remembered when John Nelson was released from jail. That McCardell came into the station house at nine o'clock and asked if Nelson was there. Witness said: "I don't know, I will go and see."

"I came back and told him Nelson was there," continued the witness. "He asked me if I had seen the judge there. I said no. He went out. About ten o'clock he came in again, handed me a slip, and said 'Read that.' It was a release from the judge for Nelson, until the next day at nine o'clock. Nelson was sober enough to go out, so I unlocked the door and told him to come out. McCardell said to Nelson, 'You go home now, and behave yourself.' I put the slip in the chief's desk, as I always do, to show what had occurred. Sometimes these orders of release come from the judge by telephone, if responsible persons are locked up and have friends who go to the judge about them. At this time I don't recall if the chief was there. I remember Mr. Lee was there among others."

"Do you know of any prisoner being released without an order by the judge, mayor or president of the council?"

"I don't know of any. I know I never released any that way."

"Do you remember, on March 25, 1904, when the chief came into the station house?"

"Yes, it was about 5:30 a. m. I was sitting at the desk, when the chief and Mr. Lee walked into the station. The chief said, 'Good morning, sergeant.' Officer McGinley was by the door. The chief said, 'What are you doing here?' McGinley answered, 'I am waiting for a car; we've off duty.' The chief walked toward the gate in the courtroom, saw Kelly and Hamilton on the benches, and asked 'What are you fellows waiting for?' They said, 'A car to go home.' The chief said, 'Then you might as well hitch up the horse, and all drive home.' He said, 'Come on, Kelly,' and started out first for the barn. Hamilton came later. I said, 'Mr. Lee, you'd better get out there, or you won't get a ride home,' and he walked out."

"What was Kiely's condition? Intoxicated?"

"I say he was not."

"Did he wear any decorations?"

"No. I saw Mr. Lee have some flowers on, and asked him if he had been out in a rosebush. I saw no wreath on the chief."

"Did you ever hear the chief instruct officers about the Goff place?"

"Yes, on several occasions. In the evening when the men lined up to go out, he would say, 'Look out for the speakeasies.' He said, 'I want you to do your duty without fear or favor,' and he would lecture them sometimes."

At this point Mr. Reed showed a paper in Roundsman Flynn's handwriting which was a statement made on Sunday, September 3, 1905, by John W. Kiely, who stated he had had three drinks of whiskey at Goff's that morning, in company with three men from Newark. Sergeant Fredrickson stated that this man Kiely had been locked up, and in the evening, who sober, asked to be let out. The sergeant had said no, and continued, "John, if you stayed away from Goff's you wouldn't get into this trouble," to which the man replied, "Sergeant, I want to make a statement about this."

Mr. Marsh, interrupting:

"Why should we have a statement from a drunken man?"

Mr. Reed: "I want to show that the officer was getting evidence."

Fredrickson continued: "We were instructed by the chief, when he went on his vacation, to do his best during his agsence to get evidence against Goff."

"Now sergeant, I want you to pause and reflect before answering this: Did you, on the morning of Mach 25, when the chief came into the station house, say to Peter Hamilton that you had seen the chief drunk many times, but never so drunk before?"

"No, I certainly did not."

Patrolmen Arthur McGinley and John Kelly testified to the condition of the chief on the morning of March 25, when he entered the station house with Robert L. Lee, and said that he was not intoxicated. Kelly described the ride in the patrol wagon to the chief's house. He said there was no zigzagging of the wagon, and that the chief drove in the regular way; and that after leaving the chief at home, he drove Mr. Lee to his home.

Kelly and McGinley corroborated the sergeant as to the floral decoration on Mr. Lee. The chief, they swore, had no such adornment.

Michael Lavaratt, Central Railroad detective, was the next witness. He said:

"I was in the terminal station at Jersey City early in the morning on March 25, 1904. At about two o'clock the matron of the ladies' room told me that there were some men in the room who would not get out. I went to see about it, and met Vanderveer, who also said the men were in there. One was Chief Kiely, who said, "I have a sick man in here,' and the chief and I marched him out to the police office. The man had a big string of flowers around his neck. He was taken with a fit of vomiting. I pulled some of the soiled flowers off his coat. I came in a few times during the night to look after him, and about four o'clock both men went out. I knew the chief, and that was the reason I cared for his friend. Otherwise I would have locked him up. I did the talking to the men while they were there. Vanderveer did not talk to them while I was there, for it is my business to look after the whole station."

By Mr. Marsh: "How many witnesses have you sought to influence in this matter?"

"None, so far as I know."

"Didn't you go to Harry Wyckoff, clerk in Chief Dougherty's office, and try to make him forget what he had said about Kiely being drunk in your room? What did you tell Wyckoff?"

"I told him that Chief Kiely had a man drunk in his office, and only for the chief being a friend of his I would have locked him up."

"Aren't you a friend of Kiely?"

"No more than the other chiefs. I deal with them all."

"He has done service to your road, hasn't he?"

"I don't know. He's done none for me."

Patrolman Florence McCarthy, an officer detailed to detective work, was the next witness. He testified to being present when Sheridan and Newman were released. He also testified to being detailed to the West End by the chief, who told him to pay particular attention to the Goff place, to get evidence of illegal selling. He produced a number of names of people going to the place, and told of his difficulty in getting names, because of the number of strangers living in that section—workmen in the shops from out of town. He made a list of those he knew on each Sunday, during July and August and gave it to the chief. "One evening," he said, "while preparing cases for the May term of court, the chief called back Officers Vanderweg and Flynn as they were going out to their detail in the West End, and lectured them for not having gotten evidence in the Goff case, while the rest of us were getting evidence in other cases. The chief's general instructions were to look after al suspected places, and especially Goff's, and he often said to us, 'Do your duty without fear or favor.' While I was looking for evidence in the West End I saw a man who was a stranger, and asked who he was, but no one seemed to know. Two days later I got to talking with him. I reported this to the chief, and asked him if he had a man in the West End looking after Goff. I said, 'There is a man there who is either a detective or a crook. He knows too much for an ordinary man.' The chief said he had no one there, but maybe Mr. Tyler had. He said, 'I'll call him up. I was present when the chief talked to Mr. Tyler over the telephone, asking him if he had a man in the West End. His words to Mr. Tyler were, 'If you say you have no man there, then I'll find out what he is doing there. Of course if you have a man in the West End, I don't want to spoil your game.' The chief sent me to see what the fellow was doing. That was about July 16 to 17.|"

By Mr. Reed: "What did you ever do on the instructions of the chief about getting a list of government licenses in Plainfield?"

"I saw the deputy revenue collector and showed him my badge and introduced myself. When I asked him for the list he said that the rules of his office would not permit him to give names of those having retail government licenses."

Roundsman John J. Flynn followed McCarthy on the stand. He testified to being on the Goff post from January to June 25, last year, and during that time the general instructions of the chief were to look after all suspected places. Special instructions were to get evidence for the May term of court against Goff. This he said, was difficult to do, because many who went into Goff's were boarders, and others were strangers from the shops. The witness testified also to turning in a list of names that he had gathered from watching people go into the place.

Thomas O'Gorman, driver of the patrol wagon, was the next witness. He is on duty from seven p. m. to five a. m. If the patrol wagon went out between those hours, he said, he was the one to go with it, together with what officers might be on reserve. He said that the wagon was not out with the chief at the midnight train of April 29, 1904, and that the chief was never carried drunk in the wagon.

Patrolman Morris Higgins took the stand after O'Gorman. He told of the instructions from the chief to watch the Goff place, and said he was transferred from the East End to the

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

In spite of sceptical haltings and positive denials let us press to our hearts today more closely than ever the truth that the Babe of Bethlehem was the Son of God, the incarnation of the Almighty Maker of heaven and earth. Let us read the gospel story just as a little child reads it, with no more doubt and no more questioning. That is the only way to get out of it life and peace. And by the grace of the Holy Spirit, may it be granted to every one of us to experience a reincarnation of God in our hearts and lives, that shall transfigure our character and make us so pure and so transparent, and so full of beauty that the glory of the Lord will shine through us upon a sinful, suffering world.

"Though Christ a thousand times
In Bethlehem be born,
If He's not born in thee
Thy soul is still forlorn."

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss,
Pastor of First Baptist Church.

DREW PERFORMANCE PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

"DE LANCY" A CLEVER COMEDY WITH BRILLIANT DIALOGUE.

The largest and most fashionable audience that has yet assembled in the New Plainfield theatre was present last night when John Drew, the Lyceum theatre favorite, and his company presented Augustus Thomas' successful comedy, "De Lancey." From every standpoint it was a successful performance. The spectators were highly delighted with the cast and the brilliant dialogue, and the box office record for receipts was broken, the sale reaching $1,159.75. Mr. Drew pleased, as he always does, and those who had witnessed his work in other plays declared the part of "Jim De Lancey" fits him better than anything he has ever undertaken.

The scenic mounting was a feature of the play, especially the setting of the second act. It showed a conservatory and hot house, an exact copy of the nurseries at the country home of J. P. Morgan, Jr., which required an entire car to transport.

Mr. Drew and several members of the company were entertained after the performance by former Mayor Charles J. Fisk at his home on West Seventh street.

TAX COLLECTOR LEE DENIES HE WAS INTOXICATED.

Declares Testimony at Kiely Trial Was a Cowardly Attack on Him.

Editor The Daily Press:

I have been informed that at the hearing of the charges against Chief Kiely yesterday afternoon and last evening testimony was offered by the defense that it was I who was intoxicated at the Jersey City station and at police headquarters in this city. This is not true, and is a cowardly attack upon me without being given an opportunity to go on the witness stand and prove its falseness, as I had offered and stood ready to do upon learning the above facts. Will you kindly publish this communication.

Very respectfully,
ROBERT L. LEE.
Plainfield, Dec. 23, 1905.

A $3 Jag.

Michael Gartlend, arrested last night for drunkenness, was fined $3 in the city court this morning.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT—The Unspeakable Gift.

The significance of Christmas is the meaning of a gift. It is the season when presents pass freely from hand to hand. But the centre of Christmas is not the Christmas tree. The central thought is a divine thought and its real inspiration a redemptive provision. Christmas comes from Christ—etymologically, organically and historically. There is a celebration because there was an incarnation. The Son of God became the Son of Man. This supreme gift of God to the race is described by the statement that it is indescribable. It is "the unspeakable gift." A gift which is indefinable in its essence, inexhaustible in its provisions and in its results defies computation and record.

CLOSED UP THE YEAR

Borough Councilman Present Report and Hear Others From Officials.

RE-ORGANIRE JAN. 1

Messrs. Arnold and Humble, Retiring from the Body, Warmly Thanked by Mayor Smalley.

According to its annual custom, the borough Council met last night to wind up the year's business and plan for the reorganization that follows the retirement of old members and the entrance of new ones. James K. Arnold and J. P. Humble were tne ones to lay down the robes of office that will be taken up next month by Clifford McGee and Edward P. T. Smith. The new Council will hold its first meeting in the chambers on the afternoon of January 1 at 3 o'clock.

Most of last night's session was taken up with the hearing of annual reports and the most important of these were as follows: By Chief Marshal Weiss—Number of arrests during the year, 151; fined, 86; discharged, 47; committed, 18; total amount of fines collected, $589. By Chief Howard F. Woolston, of the fire department—Total number of calls during the year, 58, divided as follows: Still alarms, 15; false alarms, 12; regular alarms, 22; wash and drills, 7; Park Club specials, 2. By Overseer of the Poor Fred Becker—Total receipts for the year, $1,179.22; disbursements, $1,071.46; balance, $126.76. The clerk's report was read in a summarized form and he was instructed to procure bids for printing it.

It was reported by Mr. Van Winkle that the Mair property, over which there had been a dispute as to the location for taxing purposes, was really in North Plainfield township. Accordingly, he motioned that the assessment imposed by the borough be lowered from $350 to $50, as but onesmall section came under North Plainfield's jurisdiction. This was carried out and the owner's tax bill will be rectified accordingly.

Mayor Smalley announced that the Somerset street widening matter and tne removal of the Cooley dam in Stony brook would be considered at the reorganization meeting. He spoke of the retirement from the councilmanic body of Messrs. Arnold and Humble, and warmly thanked both for their faithful services. Mr. Arnold responded with a few words.

A pemit was granted Edward Sebring for the erection of a frame house on Grove street at Prospect place, and another was granted the New York & New Jersey Telephone Company to open a trench on Park place. Mayor Smalley reported that the pipe for the West End avenue storm sewer had been ordered and that it would be delivered in a few days. The cost, he said, would be much below what the councilmen had thought it would.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

Jesus, whose advent we celebrate, holds first place in the world. Nineteen hundred years have come and gone; fifty-seven generations lived and died; great men stepped upon the stage, and off it, a few are remembered, nearly all forgotten. He holds higher place than ever, and is first in the thought and heart of all men.

He is the first personage of all time, because he struck the chord of love and played the anthem of peace.

Why did He come? He tells us: "To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I might bear witness unto the truth." "I am come that ye might have life, and ye might have it more abundantly."

"The Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." "I am the resurrection and the life." "I live, and because I live, ye shall live also."

Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons,
Pastor Grace M. E. Church.

SOME HOLIDAY EVENTS IN CITY AND BOROUGH

VERY LITTLE DOING OUTSIDE OF THE CHURCHES ON MONDAY.

Aside from the usual Christmas celebrations in the churches and the homes, there will be little doing on Monday of a public character. The Salvation Army will furnish dinners to the poor in headquarters at 7 o'clock tonight, and the Gesang and Turn Verein will have a Christmas tree at Saengerbund Hall tomorrow afternoon.

The Boys' Club of the Y. M. C. A. will have a Christmas dinner at the club on Sycamore street, under the direction of Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary. There will be no public entertainment at the Y. M. C. A.

The circulating department of the Public Library will be closed all day Monday, in accordance with the usual custom. Persons desiring books to read over the holiday should call at the library this afternoon. The reading room will be open Monday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock.

There will be but one mail delivery from the postoffice Monday morning, and the postoffice will close at the usual morning hour on holidays. There will be no issue of The Daily Press.

Death of Mrs. Abram Whitlock.

Mrs. Eliza P. Whitlock, wife of Abram V. Whitlock, died this morning at her home, 1707 West Front street, following an illness extending over a period of one year. She was a resident of this city for many years. She is survived by a husband, a married daughter and two sons, one residing here and the other in New Brunswick.

Benevolent Council Initiates.

Six candidates were initiated in the mysteries of Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., last night, and four applications were received. During the evening addresses were made by Past Councilor H. G. Runyon and the new members.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

If I must restrict myself to one out of the multitude of thoughts that come to every Christian, on the return of Christmas, I would select the thought of "the everlasting love of God." A preacher cannot preach or think of that subject without a text, and therefore my mind runs back to that most precious declaration, "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." There is a tendency in some minds to minimize the lessons and blessings of this grand festival to a merry-making for the children. They ought to be made as happy as we can make them; but it should be borne in mind that the loving Father gave this gift of His only begotten Son to the world, and therefore every man, woman and child should rejoice and give thanks to God that Christ the Lord was born on Christmas Day.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Methodist Sunday-school held its Christmas exercises last night in the church. The large audience room was prettily trimmed with evergreens and holly, while in one corner was an immense tree laden with presents for all. The programme consisted of carols and a Christmas cantata, "A Christmas Feast." During the evening Santa Claus arrived and helped distribute presents and enjoy a good time with the children. Before leaving he presented the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hoffman, with a neat little purse as a token of appreciation from his parishioners for the good work he is doing.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be held at the usual hours. In the morning at 10:45, Rev. T. Moore-Smith will preach a Christmas sermon; special music will also be rendered by the choir. A song service will be held in the evening instead of the usual preaching service. The pastor will give a short talk upon that ever popular church hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee."

Frank Corrona, who is employed in the foundry of the Walter Scott Co., Plainfield, was painfully burned on his right foot Thursday, while pouring metal in a mould. The injured man was brought home and while no serious results are looked for he will be confined to the house for some time with the injury.

The members of the Baptist Sunday school hold their Christmas exercises tonight in the church. Besides carols, a cantata, "The Counterfeit Santa Claus," will be rendered.

Monday will be the one day of the year. From the present outlook the Plains will enjoy a prosperous Christmas and a Happy New Year.

The work on the annual township report was started last night by the Township Committee. The report must be ready by Jan. 1.

All the children on roll now (about 60) were present; also a few of the parents. The veteran received $8.60, for which he seemed very thankful.

A letter of thanks was recently received from Miss Kimbal, president of the Children's Home. This was in appreciation of the generous Thanksgiving gifts from the school children to the Home.

Rehearsals and other mysterious doings are taking place quite frequently now. Come to the Xmas entertainment at chapel and help the good cause along.

The well put down on the school grounds last year and the piano this year are both great benefits to the school. What will be the next improvement?

The Bradbury piano purchased for the school about two months ago has been well tested and is giving the best of satisfaction.

SOME REASONS.

Why Plainfield People Should Follow This Valuable Advice.

Because the proof is in Plainfield.
You can easily investigate it.
Not necessary to experiment
With some untried remedy.
Profit by the experience of a citizen.

A. C. Lazzi, stone-cutter and carver, of 244 East Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For several years I was troubled with a distressing backache and with pains in the region of the kidneys. My head also ached severely and the secretions from the kidneys were not at all natural. I tried several doctors and some so-called kidney remedies, but none gave me any relief, and as my case became more and more persistent, I became somewhat discouraged because I could find no relief. I saw an advertisement regarding Doan's Kidney Pills and got a supply at Randolph's pharmacy. Soon after taking them my troubles vanished like the mist and since then I have felt stronger and better in every way."

Handsome Catalogue.

The Drake Business College received a few days ago a thousand handsomely illustrated, sixty-four page catalogues for 1905 and 1906. They contain the photographs of the forty teachers and principals, and the names of the eleven hundred students in attendance. These catalogues, bound in dark green covers with ragged edges and white cord, present a fine and attractive appearance. They give the location of the different Drake Schools in New York and New Jersey; also the different Drake Employment Offices in New York where hundreds of the students receive their positions. They describe in minute form the different departments and subjects taught in both the day and evening schools.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

"Make bare thy mighty arm, give us a Messiah like the Caesar," was the wish of the Jews, and they dreamed of smitten enemies. But God was wiser than their wish. He revealed a power before which that of a Caesar is but impotence. Search over all the world, examine all the kings, warriors, poets, philosophers, or teachers that the world has produced; never in all the earth has been seen a power which could cope with human grief, save this small baby arm thrown out across the straw, this love of God in Christ.

NO PENALTY IMPOSED

West End on August 22 to get after Goff, the chief telling him he wanted a good list of names for the fall term of the grand jury. He said he got quite a list. He said the chief was always preaching about speakeasies. He testified that he was on reserve April 29, 1904, subject to call at the police station, and was the one to go with the wagon and driver between seven p. m. and five a. m., and that the wagon did not go to the depo that night or to get the chief at any time.

By Mr. Marsh: "You have a pretty good memory, Higgins?"

"You thought so, Mr. Marsh, when I did some work for you. You said I was a regular Sherlock Holmes."

Patrolman Charles Flynn testified that he was on the depot beat April 28, 1904, his duty being to meet all trains and see who got on and off. He said he never saw the patrol wagon come to the depot to take the chief away. He said it couldn't have come there without his knowing it.

Patrolman Dennis O'Keefe testified to instructions from the chief to keep an eye on Goff and take the names of men going into his place for evidence for the grand jury. He said the chief told him also to look after Britton's place. He also turned in a list of names.

Henry J. Gaffney, of the Central Railroad police force, testified to having been at the station house at nine o'clock on the night of April 28, 1904, and saw the chief there and talked with him. The chief was in his street clothes. That bit of testimony was offered to offset that of James E. Martine, who swore to his identification of Chief Kiely as the man who, he thought, was loaded into the patrol wagon on that night. Mr. Martine testified that his attention was attracted to the man in question because his companions wore dress clothes.

This testimony ended the afternoon session. The Council adjourned at 6:30, and recovened at 7:45.

Chief Kiely took the stand in his own defense, and was under examination and cross-examination for more than an hour.

Among the questions put to the chief was:

"To your knowledge, chief, was any man ever released from the jail without an order from the judge, mayor or president of the Council?"

"No."

"Were you ever criticised by any superior officer for permitting men to be released from jail on an order?"

"No."

"What about discharging two unknown moulders in March, 1904?"

"Two moulders were arrested at that time. One worked at Scott's and I don't know where the other worked. If they were discharged it was not by the order of Mr. McCardell."

"Were you in the Jersey City station on March 25, 1904?"

"Yes."

"With whom?"

"I was with Mr. Lee. I met him in New York."

"Were you intoxicated?"

"No sir."

"How did it happen that you were there?"

"We missed the one o'clock boat, and I stayed to care for Mr. Lee. I did not care to leave him."

"What occurred there?"

"It was cold in the station. Mr. Lee was cold and sick, so we went into the ladies' waiting room; on one else was in there. The matron came and said we would have to go out. I said we would as soon as I could get my friend away. Just then Vanderveer came in, and said, 'You'll have to vacate right away.' He and Mr. Lee had some words. I said to Vanderveer, "He's all right, he's a councilman from Plainfield. He won't do you any harm.' He said, 'I'll call an officer.' A railroad officer came in and I said, 'Hello, Mike; will you assist me with this man?' We got on each side of Mr. Lee, and took him to the office, and stayed until the early morning train."

"Did you have any flowers or buttonhule bouquets?"

"No."

"Did Mr. Lee?"

"He did."

"When you went on the train at Jersey City did you have words with Vanderveer?"

"No sir."

"What did you do when you got to Plainfield?"

"Mr. Lee and I went to the station house."

"What did you do there?"

"I met Sergeant Frederickson and Officers McGinley, Kelly and Hamilton. I asked, 'Is anything doing?' They sad no. I asked McGinley why he was there so late. It was about 5:25. He said he was off duty and waiting for a car. I walked through the wicket, and on the bench were Hamilton and Kelly. I asked them what they were doing there. They said they were waiting for a car. I replied, 'Well, so long as you are waiting for a car, and there is nothing doing, me might as well hitch up and take the boys home.' I went to the barn, snapped the harness on, and Kelly came out, and soon after Hamilton came out. We all got in the wagon and rode away."

"Were you intoxicated?"

"No, sir."

"What did you do when you got home?'

"I told Kelly to drive Mr. Lee home. I asked him if he could drive, not knowing his experience with horses. Going home I did not drive out of an ordinary trot. We never zigzagged from one side of the street to the other."

"Were the flowers on Mr. Lee's coat removed before coming to Plainfield?"

"No, they were still there. I wanted to take them off, but he wouldn't let me do it."

"On April 29, 1904, you heard it stated by Mr. Martine that you came from the train in the patrol wagon?"

"I did not."

"Did you ever get off at the station intoxicated?"

"I've never been intoxicated since I've been chief?"

"Tell us about the Get-together Club?"

"I've been there, if that's the name of it, but not often. I was not in the habit of going there, and when I did it was only after leaving the station house and on my way home."

"Have you been there in company with your superiors?"

"Yes."

"Were you ever criticised by them for it?"

"Never."

"Were you ever told you were off duty after leaving the station house?"

"Mr. Tyler said when I left the station house to go home that I was off duty. It was only then that I went to the club."

"Where is this club held?"

"It is in a dining room and parlor."

"The meetings are not open to everyone, are they?"

"No, sir."

'Ever go there in uniform?"

"Never."

"Do you owe M. J. Cashin anything?"

"No."

"Did he ever make a claim on you?"

"No."

"When did you hear of this claim first?"

"When the charges were served on me."

"Why did you not pay Linke's bill originally?"

"My wife said, shortly before she died, that she owed nothing. She had money with which to pay her bills, and I did not feel I owed it."

"Why did you pay it finally?"

"I heard that Mrs. Linke had given the bill to Mr. Tyler to collect, and to avoid any trouble I paid it."

"Now, Mr. Kiely, tell the Council what passed between you and Mr. Tyler after he was appointed chairman of the police committee?"

"I believe it was about the second Sunday in January that we talked over police matters. Mr. Tyler was anxious to do everything for the department and asked me for suggestions. We met on several occasions. He was anxious to better the department in every way, and I tried to assist him in every way. We talked up to the small hours of the morning many times. On the third meeting he said, 'Now, chief, aren't you a little prejudiced against me from what you have heard?' I replied, 'No; I've heard rumors, but I don't take those things for granted.' He said, 'Chief, if you don't think I'll do the right thing by you I'll resign now.' He said he was informed that Goff was selling without a license and was told that I would not make an arrest because of Mr. McCardell. I said, 'Mr. Tyler, no one owns me; I'll arrest anyone who is guilty. My hands are clean. I'd arrest you, or the Mayor or anybody, if the occasion arose.' I talked with him about the Goff matter, and told him of the difficulty of getting evidence in such cases, and how Mr. Marsh and the prosecutor had tried and found it very hard. I said the way to do was to get frequenters of the place, but perhaps a better way was to hire detectives and get them into the shops, and thus learn all about it. I told him that Mr. Marsh would not take paid evidence, and neither would the prosecutor. Mr. Tyler said, 'Yes, chief, your plan is a good one.' He wanted to know why Mr. Marsh did not take charge of the cases instead of taking them to Elizabeth. I said Mr. Marsh had no jurisdiction. I suggested his asking Mr. Hibbard to put a couple of men in his shop and in that way could get into Goff's without trouble. I met Mr. Hibbard later and spoke to him about it, but he did not like that kind of thing. I told Mr. Tyler what he said."

"What do you say of the character of Goff's place prior to his refusal of the license?"

"If Goff was doing business then he was careful, because he was applying for a license. My experience is that a man gets bolder after a license is turned down, and the frequenters of his place more numerous. Then it is easier to get the names. I gave instructions to the ojcers that I wanted to get that man Goff, and I did all I could o get him."

"What occurred at the meeting of the police board on June 30?"

"Mr. Tyler called me upstairs and said, 'Chief, here are two men who say they have evidence that Goff is selling without a license.' I said 'Mr. Bullock, if you have the evidence I am glad to get it. I will prosecute him.' And I said the same to Mr. Higham. I added, 'This talk about protecting Goff, I' mtired of; if you have evidence, give it to me.' Mr. Tyler said, 'This man Goff must be gotten. Get the evidence to prosecute him.' I went on about it. Mr. Tyler never told me to do otherwise than I was doing."

"Did you believe Mr. Tyler fully understood your explanation of the advice from the corporation counsel and from the prosecutor?"

"I thought he did."

"TOWN TOGGERY SHOP," 119 Park Ave

"Had you done all that could be done by a man of your position to convict Goff prior to May, 1905?"

"Yes, sir."

"How many names were turned in by the police as frequenters of the place?"

"About seventy."

"Mr. Tyler says you told him you had no evidence?"

"He may have misunderstood my meaning of the word evidence. I had two detectives prior to May last who got into a number of places. I told Vanderweg and Flynn to go out and get Goff. If he was doing business, I wanted evidence. Vanderweg was on the post some time, but got no names. I did not have enough names in May to present to the prosecutor. Officer McCarthy reported to me that a suspicious man was in the West End, and said he was either a detective or a crook. He asked if I had anyone here, and I said no, but probably Mr. Tyler had. I called Mr. Tyler up, and asked him if he had anyone in the West End working on the Goff case. He said no. I said, 'If you have a detective, I won't spoil your game,' and he said no. 'Well, I said, 'I will find out what he is doing.' Later he asked if I doubted him about having had a man in the West End. I said I had no reason to doubt him. I had spoken to him of detectives and did not know but that he had put some one on there."

"Had you a chance to explain any of the charges against you before they were brought?"

"No."

"Where were you on April 29, 1904?"

"I was in the station house, and recall Detective Gaffney's coming to ask me if I had done anything about arresting the parties who put a dummy on the railroad tracks."

Cross examination:

"You understand that the law is higher than the councilmen; the Mayor or the judge, don't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"You know that the charter of the city prescribes police duties? Don't you know that your duty is to lock up a man when he is arrested and keep him?"

"Yes."

"Didn't you know it was a violation of the law to release a man on a telephone order?"

"I consider the Mayor and the judge my superiors."

"Now, chief, all I have to say is that if Council believes it is true that you had an order in writing and that you thought you were within your privilege in releasing prisoners, I still think you guilty of a violation, but that you should be dealt with leniently."

"I was advised several years ago that unless the board required otherwise, not to work under the law requiring $100 bond for releasing prisoners held for minor offenses."

"How often has Mr. McCardell called on you at the station house?"

Occasionally."

"On March 25, 1904, had you had drinks in New York?"

"Yes."

"How many kinds of stuff?"

"Maybe three."

"When you got to the station you were feeling pretty good, weren't you?"

"Yes, quite good."

"Mr. Lee had a lot, too, didn't he?"

"Yes, some."

"Were you taking care of him?"

"Yes."

"What time did you get here?"

"About 5:15 a. m."

"You would have walked but for Lee, wouldn't you?"

"Yes."

"You hitched up the horse to take Lee home?"

"Yes."

"Why didn't you take off Mr. Lee's decorations?"

"I couldn't without a scrap. He was a councilman and I didn't want to raise a fuss."

"How many times have you been to Windham's?"

"Occasionally."

"You paid your shot?"

"Yes."

At this point Mr. Marsh addressed the Council. He said the result of the trial seemed to rest upon the credibility of the witnesses. Then he called Mr. Tyler in rebuttal.

"Mr. English testified that you said to him that you didn't care anything about the Goff place, anyway, or Kiely either, but wanted to use the raid for political effect. Did you make that statement to Mr. English?"

"I did not, sir."

"What did you say to Mr. English in that interview?"

"I remember very well that I did not say that and could not have said it, because of a peculiar matter which occurred in connection with the conversation. The whole conversation, Mr. Marsh, was extremely confidential, and was so stated at the beginning."

"You relieved Mr. English from the seal of confidence," said Mr. Marsh. "Mr. English disclosed what took place, and you are legally and morally free to speak, and I request you to do so."

"I explained to Mr. English," revisitsumed Mr. Tyler, the purport of my visit was to get a warrant for John Goff. I went into the details of the political situation here to show him the importance of extra secrecy, because, I explained to him, that if the matter were taken before a justice of the peace, even in Elizabeth, let alone Plainfield, it was very likely to get to the ears of McCardell or the chief. I told him I was investigating the department and we must find out what was going on, and find out now. It was in that connection that I mentioned the matter of the political situation, and he said o me, 'I have a young man here in the next room who was a former emplaye of mine and studied law in my office; you can trust him as implicitly as you can trust me. But he said, 'Mr. Tyler, I am not willing that my official position should be used for political motives or political purposes'—I don't remember the exact words he used. But I remember distinctly today as if it were but five minutes ago—because of the indignation I felt at the time. I arose from my seat and said to him, 'Mr. English, I resent the suggestion that I would allow my own position or yours—I, as chairman of the board of police of Plainfield—to be used for any such purpose as you suggest. And it was on the strength of that statement that Mr. English took me into Mr. Kelly's room for the purpose of getting the warrant and carrying out the raid.

"Now, I do not want to accuse Mr. English. I simply say that Mr. English is mistaken in his interpretation and recollection."

"Now, Mr. Tyler, wholly apart from your oath, on your honor as a man," asked Mr. Marsh slowly, "is it true that you started these proceedings merely for political effect? If it is, I wish you to release me from the case. I want a distinct and categorical answer to that question."

"That is the farthest from my thoughts, Mr. Marsh. Anyone who knows me, knows that. It was in connection with his statement about the use of his office for political purposes, and my reply resenting the suggestion, he turned to me in a very friendly way, with a smile, and said, 'Well, Mr. Tyler, I speak of it because it has been a matter of great annoyance and excessively disagreeable to me, that there is political intermeddling with my office, and I cannot keep it out. I have wished and sought to have the Governor appoint me a judge so I could get out of it."

"Get out of what?"

"Get out of his present position. And he told me in the confidence and the friendliness of the interview, and I speak of it only since one part is out now, and all must come out."

Mr. Tyler was the last witness. The case was submitted without argument, and the Council retired to the committee room. That was exactly at 9:45.

At least half of the spectators who crowded the chamber waited patiently to hear the verdict. Politicians, from Andrew McCardell to the humble crumb-hunter, were prominent in the waiting crowd, divided into knots, discussing the tesitmony and the chances for acquittal. Mr. Tyler emphasized his claim to the impersonality of the charges, so far as he was concerned, by circling among the organization men. He gave Chief Kiely a warm and lingering handclasp immediately after the Council retired, and stood talking to him for some time. The chief seemed to be in good humor; his cheerful smile as not dimmed even when Mr. Bullock shook hands with him.

At 12:45 the councilmen filed into the chamber and took their seats. President Daniel's gavel fell, and Mr. Murphy ros eto offer the resolution disposing of the case.

"Before a vote is taken," said President Daniel, "I request the audience, no matter what our action may be, to refrain from any demonstration whatever. Please favor us to that extent."

The resolution was a long one, full of formal phrases, and it was not until the clerk neared the end of his reading that the waiting crowd knew what had been dealt the chief.

"We find him technically guilty on counts one, two and three," read the verdict, "and guilty on count nineteen. We find him innocent of all the other counts. And, in view of the circumstances we find that no penalty is called for."

The resolution was put without comment, and three seconds later the accused official was freed from every taint of alleged misfeasance.

His friends found him standing in the hallway of the floor below the chamber, at the doorway of Mr. Reed's office. Warm congratulations were showered on him. A little group of bluecoats stood about him and they looked almost as happy as he did himself.

One of the first things the chief did after hearing the verdict was to hurry to the telephone to tell the news to an anxious little woman in the house on Fifth street, to which he is alleged to have driven in the patrol wagon on the morning of March 25, 1904. No newspaper man has learned how she took the news, but it is not so very hard to imagine.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

The Babe of Bethlehem, born among the lowly, gives first audience to the toilers from the hillsides. So His Church gives widest welcome to the toilers of today, to guard and guide the innocent, to stimulate and encourage the repentant, mindful ever that His angels sang the story of His mission—"Glory to God, peace to men."

With Christmas greetings, sincerely yours,

Father B. M. Bogan,
Rector of St. Mary's Church.

"Hail to the Chief!"

As the annual celebration of Christ's nativity falls on Monday there will be no issue of The Daily Press on that day.

"That's another step in your education," was the terse comment of Mayor Buckle to Councilman Tyler after the Kiely verdict was announced.

Chief Kiely's vindication is but an instance of failure to prove many absurb charges made from time to time against those in power. So crystalized have some rumors reflecting on those in political control that they are accepted facts. Here was an opportunity afforded to show indirectly at least how awfully corrupt Plainfield is but the attempt fell flat for lack of evidence worthy of credence. Plainfield is fairly well blessed so far as its municipal government is concerned and it only takes a little investigation such as that made at the Kiely trial to bring out the fact.

The borough Common Council held a meeting last night that in one sense of the word was similar to its hundreds of other sessions, and yet will be memorable for one thing. It marked the retirement from that body of one of the most faithful members it has ever had—James K. Arnold. For seven years he has been a councilman and during every one of them his aim has been to perform the duties devolving upon him carefully, conscientiously and with credit to the people who placed him in office. That he succeeded no one will deny, and his going will leave a gap that will be hard to fill. Not once during his long term did he miss a meeting, but with him it was not a mere matter of answering "here" when the roll was called. To attend a session meant work, and those who have followed the proceedings of the borough fathers know that James K. Arnold labored for the municipality as few men care to. As chairman of the street committee there was always something for him to do, and he did it, sometimes to the exclusion of his own business. North Plainfield has a name throughout the State for possessing well constructed thoroughfares, and a good part of the reputation is due to his efforts. In commenting on his retirement last night, Mayor Smalley expressed regret at his departure, and besides personally complimenting him, declared that the taxpayers owe him a vote of thanks—not only for what he has given them, but for what he has saved them. Mr. Arnold is not the kind of a man who would encourage adulation, but he has that vote and he becomes a private citizen in the full knowledge that his worth has been appreciated. Councilman Humble also retired last night, but he had been in office but a short time and had not the opportunity to distinguish himself as did his colleague. For all that his service merited the thanks bestowed upon him by the chief executive.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

A central thought at Christmas time should be God's redeeming love. This was unfolded in the babe, the boy, the man: Jesus, the Christ of God. That revelation sanctifies motherhood, glorifies babyhood, ennobles boyhood, and consecrates manhood and womanhood to high and holy service. Christmas is a time for joy, but not for folly. It is a time for gifts, useful and needful, not for extravagance and foolish show. The atmosphere of Christmas should be religious in the largest and best sense of that word.

ACTOR ABBOTT DAVISON KILLED BY HOTEL MAN

PREPARED HIS LAST VAUDEVILLE IN THIS CITY.

George Abbott Davison, a widely known and successful actor who had a host of friends in this city, died at Gaffney, S. C., last Saturday from the effects of a bullet wound inflicted upon him by John Hasty, proprietor of a hotel at that place. The body was brought north and the funeral was held yesterday from his brother's home at Richmond Hill, L. I. It was attended by several Plainfielders.

Davison was in vaudeville for many years with Miss Inez Mecusker and the last sketch they presented, "A Fair Trial," was rehearsed in this city and first presented to the public at the Central theatre, then conducted by William Schorb. While in Plainfield, Davison and Miss Mecusker became widely acquainted and the former, being a Knight of Pythias, frequently attended the meetings of Perseverance Lodge. At one of its entertainments three years ago he sang "I'm Tired" in such an effective way many of those present have never forgotten it.

In the past year Davison had been starring in "Nothing but Money." At Gaffney, the hotel man insulted a woman member of the company and Davison and another actor, Milan Davison, demanded an explanation. Hasty whipped out a revolver and killed Bennett instantly. Davison lingered for several days but there was no hope for him from the start. The murderer narrowly escaped lynching.

BUY BIRTHPLACE OF THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

House Acquired by Home Club Will Be Presented to the Nation.

The Roosevelt Home Club, of New York, whose membership extends throughout the country and in whose roster are the names of many prominent men as honorary members, has announced through its president, Roderick Begg, of No. 31 Irving place, New York, that the club had at length accomplished the object of its formation—the purchase of the birthplace of Theodore Roosevelt.

The house is an old-fashioned structure standing at No. 28 East Twentieth street, New York, and has been occupied by the club as its meeting place since the organization formed a year ago in October.

The purchase price was $60,000, to which Andrew Carnegie, Henry C. Frick, Gen. Horace Porter, President Eliot, of Harvard, Henry Clews, Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, and many other prominent men subscribed. It was said that Henry C. Frick gave $10,000 of the purchase prise.

The Roosevelt Home will be presented to the nation with due formality within a few months, and will be preserved in its present condition as a historic spot. An effort was made by the club to get possession of the original furniture of the house, but it was found that this was scattered and the idea was given up.

A $5,000 Dwelling.

E. S. F. Randolph, of Grant avenue, has purchased the S. H. Thuebel plot, at Grant avenue and West Fifth street, and will erect a $5,000 dwelling upon it as soon as the West Fifth street house is finished. Mr. Randolph's plot now consists of 250 feet on West Fifth street and 110 feet on Grant avenue and the grounds will be laid out in one lawn in the spring with two houses on Grant avenue and one on the Fifth street side.

Celebrated Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Nelson, formerly of New Market, celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding at their home in Roselle on Wednesday night. There was a large number of guests from this city, Dunellen and New Market.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

The very best way to celebrate the advent of Christ is to open our hearts to Him, and allow Him to continue to do, through us, the work which He began to do when He was here upon earth, and for which He came into the world, viz.: to lead men out of their sin and sorrow, to God and to eternal life.

SMASHED FORMER HUSBAND ON JAW.

Knocked Wealthy Man Down When He Refused to Support Daughter.

Philadelphia, Dec. 23.—As her former husband left the Desertion Court, in the City Hall, Wednesday, Mrs. Agnes D. Nagle planted a blow on the point of Mr. Nagle's jaw, driving his hand against the door jamb. But for the interference of her lawyers the furious woman would have continued the attack on the dazed man.

The episode occurred when Mrs. Nagle sought to compel Theodore M. Nagle, who divorced her several years ago, to support and recognize the paternity of her daughter. Mr. Nagle married again and repudiated the daughter. Judge Davis adjourned the case.

Mrs. Nagle and her daughter left the court, but waited till Mr. Nagle came out. The attack was so unexpected that Mr. Nagle made no attempt to defend himself. He is said to be worth many millions of dollars.

Mrs. Nagle lives in a fashionable hotel and keeps a well appointed stable.

DIAMOND RECORD BROKEN.

Precious Stones Worth $36,000,000 Imported This Year.

Washington, Dec. 23.—A statement issued yesterday by the Department of Commerce and Labors says: "More than $36,000,000 worth of diamonds and other previous stones have been imported into the United States during the present calendar year, which is by far the largest importation in the history of the country.

"The high-water mark in earlier years was $28,500,000 in 1903, while 1904 showed $27,750,000. In the ten months ending with October the total is $31,000,000, more than in any full year prior to 1905.

"It is possible that the value of diamonds alone brought into this country during the present year will be nearly $30,000,000, and the 'other previous stones' approximately $7,000,000. The value of uncut diamonds imported into the United States in 1905 will exceed $10,000,000."

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

Joy is the keynote of Christmas time. The limitations of our language make it impossible for finite mind to adequately express the joy that came with the birth of the Christ child. The angels announced the advent with a song of joy. It was the joy of a Saviour's birth, the joy of a Saviour's life. It fills the world with happiness and drives away all strife. The coming of Christ has brought a joy that all manhood may share. In the home where Christ is loved, true Christmas joy is there.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

The great thought of Christmas now is to make presents. The wise men from the East made the Lord—not one another—a present of gold frankincense and myrrh. That present helped carry Him to Egypt. If the wise men of today did the same, it would carry the Lord to every city and village of the world. And His promise could be fulfilled—that He would come when the gospel is preached in all the world. Matt. 24:14.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT

On the first Christmas Day, the story says that only a few found the King. They went back to live their lives with happy hearts thenceforth, however, and thereby blessed the world. Today thousands kneel before Him. To how many other thousands will the gladness in their hearts go forth? If we have seen Him, we, too, will shed a spirit of blessed happiness upon others.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Hi Henry's big minstrel troupe is the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight. The company numbers fifty singers, dancers and comedians who are helped out by massive sets of special scenery. The troupe gave a parade at noon that made a good impression.

The season's greatest melodrama, "A Desperate Chance," founded on the escape of the Biddle brothers from the prison at Pittsburg, will be the offering at the New Plainfield theatre Christmas afternoon and night. It contains an interesting plot and is full of dramatic action and thrilling climaxes. The company is a capable one and include numerous specialty artists.

Charles Zimmerman and Harry G. Sommers announce that Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon are now starring in a new comedy entitled "The Lightning Conductor," and that they will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Tuesday night. It is in three acts and a prologue. All the scenes are laid in France. The production is to be elaborately and realistically mounted in order to preserve, if possible, the atmosphere of the country where the action takes place. Two immense touring cars are said to be prime essentials in the staging of the play. The prologue will show one moving at the rate of sixty miles an hour.

"How Hearts Are Broken," a stirring emotional melodrama in four acts written by Langdon McCormick, which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night, is said to be one of the best offerings of the season. The management has taken great pains to select a competent company to portray the variety of characters introduced, and the special scenery, properties and electrical effects carried by the organization are complete in every detail.

That nothing succeeds like success, promises to find added proof at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night when the P. H. Sullivan Amusement Company's notably complete production of Theodore Kremer's latest melodramatic hummer, "A Race for Life," is presented. Kremer has made so many creative theatrical appearance that it is beyond our receptive capacity to keep tabs on all of them, but we hazard the impression that in his super-heated and spectacular race for fame and fortune, this is his first appearance on horse-back, and, judging from the past performances of his new play he has not lost the trick of getting into a "pocket," and knows just when and where to apply the spur of action and the whip of sensation.

Public Press Praise Hippodrome.

Public and press are unanimous in their eulogy of "A Society Circus" at the New York Hippodrome. It is the most gorgeous and magnificent production in the annals, modern or ancient, of the stage. As metropolitan critics said after viewing the wonderful spectacle, "adjectives fail and metaphors pale," in describing this greatest of productions. It is impossible of adequate description. It must be seen to be appreciated. London, Paris, in fact no European capitol has ever conceived anything that can even compare with "A Society Circus." A departure from the accepted ideas of theatricals; original in detail; teeming with action from the opening unto the end; gorgeously beautiful in costume and stagecraft; charming with its music and trained chorus; thrilling in the wonders of the circus acts; the greatest production has two features that stand pre-eminent and unexcelled. They are the wonderful ballet "The Song of the Flowers," and the transcendingly beautiful tableau, "The Court of the Golden Fountains." This last is the most magnificent spectacle ever seen on any stage in the world. It compels admiration because of its superlative beauty and is a fitting end to this, the greatest of all theatrical successes.

New York's Coming Poultry Show.

Entries with Secretary Crawford, of the New York Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association, ensure another success for its seventeenth annual exhibition, which will open at Madison Square Garden, on Tuesday morning, January 2, and give New York, for the week ending January 6, a show that is always welcomed, and is important to breeders of poultry, fanciers of pigeons and raisers of pet stock, in this country and abroad, and to the public. Added to this, the New York Cat Show, under supervision of the Atlantic Cat Club, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, will be seen in the Concert Hall of the Garden, and the high-priced cats have an audience of their own, as a part of the whole. Standard breeds of fowl, fancy birds, a multitude of pigeons, exhibition yards of families of birds, incubators, and equipments for the poultry yard will be shown to the best advantage, while the canary and caged bird section will be under the auspices of the New York Ornithological Society. The Pet Stock Department with its rabbits and cavies is an attraction to the ladies and children; so are the pretty bantams. In fact there is something for everybody to admire from 9 a. until 10:30 p. m., at half dollar admission.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Fore-runner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundancy.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

FUNNY FASHIONS.

Some of the winter fashions are going to be mighty foolish for a girl earning wages to follow. There will be every chance for her to make herself conspicuous and ridiculous if she has a mind to.

A girl in the street today was both. Her hat, which was perched on the top of an enormous pompadour, was of the most fly-away order. It had so many wings on it that it was a wonder it did not fly off her head, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Her waist was a cheap white lace and she wore a string of pearls around her neck.

Her skirt was of thin black material, and the underskirt was far too scant for the outer.

She had patent leather shoes on with heels three inches high.

She is employed in an office, and that was her business costume.

Every man she passed stared at her and turned to look after her. The glances were not those of admiration.

Her clothes were conspicuous, unladylike and unbecoming.

It's a bad plan to buy a thing just because it happens to be stylish. The wise girl chooses what is becoming and sets her own styles.

When she can have but a limited wardrobe it is a great mistake to have her things so conspicuous that everyone will get to know them. The last thing a well-bred young woman wants to be is conspicuous. Loud dressing is almost as bad as loud behavior.

Do not spend all your money on your hat and dress and not have enough left to have a warm coat. The most bewitching hats will not do you much good if your nose is red.

Buy sensible, heavy-soled shoes, and keep your feet warm and dry. Patent leather is only for "dress" occasions.

If you are a girl who goes to work, bring all your common sense to bear on the question and put temptation in the way of foolish fashions behind you.

CAPTAIN KIDD'S TREE BLOWN DOWN.

Said to Have Sheltered Buried Treasure for More Than Two Centuries.

Rahway, Dec. 23.—The old pepperidge tree whose history dates back over two hundred years was blown down in the heavy gale of Wednesday night. It stood by the bend of the Rahway River, on what is now the Bracher property. Every man in Rahway who was a boy here fifty years ago used to dive from its branches into the swimming hole, where the water was twenty feet deep.

During the days of Captain Kidd, the older residents say, the pirate came sailing up the stream one night in a vessel laden with half a million dollars in gold, contained in chests, which were buried under this same old tree. The piratical old captain was accompanied by only one sailor. After the boxes had been placed in the ground, fearing the man might turn traitor, the captain shot him to death, and, placing the body on the chest, buried the gold with the dead man as guard. Ever after that no colored people, or other superstitious persons, would go near the tree after dark, saying that at midnight, in the full of the moon, they could hear the moans and groans of the dead man's spirit.

The whole field about there has been dug up over and over, searching for buried treasure, but never more than a few doubloons were ever found. Many believe today that the marshes and bed of the river cover untold moneys placed there by Captain Kidd and his men.

BRIDEGROOM 72 TAKES A BRIDE OF 68.

The Dominie Who Married the Couple Thinks That They Acted Wisely.

Casper J. Westervelt, seventy-two years old, a widower of two years, and one of the best known residents of Hackensack, and Mrs. Caroline Bogert, a widow, sixty-eight years old, of that place, were married Tuesday evening by the Rev. Herman Vanderwart, of the First Reformed church, to which Mr. Westervelt has belonged many years. The bridegroom has been connected with the Hackensack Water Company a long time and served as their local superintendent several years.

Shortly after celebrating his golden wedding two years ago Mr. Westervelt lost his wife. Since that time he has complained of being lonesome, having no children to cheer him.

Mrs. Bogert crossed his path and her jovial disposition made a favorable impression upon him. Despite her age, she is well preserved and attractive and the match was soon made.

"I think Mr. Westervelt used excellent judgment in selecting Mrs. Bogert as a life companion," said Dominie Vanderwart yesterday to a reporter. "She is an attractive woman and has had three offers of marriage since her husband died."

The wedding was a quiet one, the bridal party being taken to the First Reformed parsonage in carriages without attracting attention.

CALLS THE PRESIDENT FRIEND OF MORMONS.

High Churchman, In Convention, Says He Prays for Roosevelt Every Day.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Dec. 23.—At a conference of the high priests of Cache Otake, of the Mormon church, at Logan last night, James Hobb, a prominent churchman, created a sensation by denouncing the enemies of Senator Reed Smoot.

"Think of it!" he yelled. "Every Democrat on that committee of opposing Smoot, and every Republican is supporting him. But let them fight him. They dare not oust him. That grand, good man, Roosevelt, is our friend, and I pray for him every day. He will not allow Reed Smoot to be removed."

Burglars Took Luncheon in House They Robbed.

Montclair, Dec. 23.—A bold daylight robbery took place in Montclair yesterday afternoon, when thieves entered the home of F. W. Hawthorne, at 95 Valley road, and ransacked it from top to bottom, carrying off many articles of value. Some of the things taken were a woman's gold watch and chain, a boy's watch and chain, a diamond stud, three valuable stickpins, one of which was an heirloom; a gold chain, solitaire diamond, cluster diamond, two solitaire studs and a diamond scarfpin.

The silverware was in plain sight, but was not disturbed. The robbers had no trouble in getting into the house. Mrs. Hawthorne and her children went to New York on a shopping tour and the servants were out. The key was left in the vestibule for her son. The thieves evidently took their time, for they ate heartily of cold turkey before they departed. The stolen articles were valued at more than $1,000.

FINAL CROP TOTALS FOR 1905.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Final returns to the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Agriculture from regular and special correspondence, supplemented by reports of special field agents, show the production of the principal farm crops of the United States in 1905 to have been as follows:

Corn, 2,707,993,540 bushels; winter wheat, 428,462,834 bushels; spring wheat, 264,516,655; oats, 953,216,197; barley, 136,651,020; rye, 27,616,045; buckwheat, 14,585,082; flaxseed, 28,477,753; rice, 12,33,436; potatoes, 260,741,294; hay, 60,531,611 tons; tobacco, 636,033,719 pounds.

The average weight per bushel is shown to be 56.3 pounds for spring wheat, 58.3 pounds for winter wheat and 32.7 pounds for oats.

Pretty Workbasket.

That medium-sized Japanese straw bathing hat makes a pretty work basket. The crown is dented inward, making a receptable, when lined with satin or silk, for sewing implements; scissors kept in place by a band of ribbon sewed into the lining; a pin cushion attached also to the lining; and a pad for needles. The hat is bound with ribbon and the edges are curled up all around, further carrying out the workbasket idea. Red satin is very pretty for lining one of these hats, and pale blue, light green or yellow all combine with the tint of the straw also.

Hazing Cadets to Be Tried.

Annapolis, Dec. 23.—In view of the decision by Attorney General Moody that midshipmen cannot be dismissed from the academy by the Secretary of the Navy on the recommendation of the superintendent, there is discussion here as to whether several midshipmen dismissed during the past few years cannot by legal action compel their retoration to the service. The court martial in the case of Midshipman Trenmor Coffin, Jr., of Tennessee, and Warren A. Van Derveer, of Mt. Holly, for alleged connection with the hazing of Jerome P. Kimbrough will begin shortly after Christmas.

$10,000 for Collection of Taxes.

Elizabeth, Dec. 23.—The Board of Aldermen has voted to appropriate $10,000 for the collection of taxes. As there were only fifteen out of the twenty-four members of the board present the main object for which the special meeting was held, namely to order payment of bills to city employes, sho the latter could have their wages for Christmas, proved a failure, as no claims could be ordered paid unless there were eighteen members voting in favor of the bills. Another meeting, and final meeting, will be held December 27.

Wickes Gets a Year.

Thomas Parmley Wickes, the lawyer, known also as "Lewis Jarvis," who was convicted of attempted blackmail, was sentenced yesterday afternoon by Justice Rogers in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court in New York to one year in the penitentiary. Drs. Flint and McDonald, who examined him as to his sanity, reported to the court that they found him "now mentally sound."

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Life's pathway will be brighter if you use Thorp's foot relief. It is a household remedy.

Music for all occasions is furnished by A. F. Naylor, East Fifth street. And music of the best character.

A. E. Hoagland, Park avenue, is an expressman who gets your packages to where you direct them on time.

William Hand & Sons, of East Second street, do a general trucking and moving business. Only experienced men are employed.

The reputation of the Kensington Hotel for comfort and cuisine has spread all over the State and the Metropolitan district.

Bring anything in the way of a machine repair job to the Valantine Gas Engine Company, Sycamore street. It will be done right.

A. LeVine, of Watchung avenue, will clean and press your clothes so that they will look as good as new. His prices are reasonable.

Expert carpentering. That is what M. D. O'Keeffe, West Fourth street, does. He will work for you faithfully and charge no more than is right.

If you feel dull and dispirited take a Turkish bath. It will whip up the blood and clean out all waste. Brookside Sanitarium, Somerset street.

There is nothing so foolish as throwing away a skirt because it is faded or soiled. Mary A. Brown, West Second street, can dye and clean a skirt so it will look like new.

There is no better, purer or richer cream and milk than that sold by Marchant Bros., North avenue. Deliveries exactly as ordered and always on time. Deal with them once and you will always do so.

The young man who has not started a bank account is doing himself a wrong that may lead to great suffering in the future. Put aside something, if only a very little, regularly; and put it in the City National Bank.

Look over the Christmas offerings for shoppers at Peck's West Front street. It will delight you with its variety, and the values will appeal to you. The shoppers who throng Peck's do not pass through without buying.

The best depository for a savings account is a trust company, firmly established, prosperous and growing. Such an institution is the Plainfield Trust Company. Its special savings department has all the good features of the old savings bank, and methods of liberality that are peculiar to itself.

Purity in the goods sold, full weight and cheapness are the three things that have made the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, West Front street, so popular with the housewives of Plainfield. There is no store where better goods are sold, no place where the measure is so liberal, and no place where the prices are so near the unbelievable.

If the least bit in doubt as to where to secure Christmas gifts, visit Woodhull & Martin's handsome store in East Front street, and examine the attractive stock of goods. The selection of a gift is very simple when you see the desirable stock in every department. You can get something, reasonable, for every member of the household. All the goods are guaranteed to be the best and give satisfaction. The firm has prepared for a holiday rush and big crowds are visiting the store every day.

Beer Makers for Reform.

The New Jersey State Brewers' Association in special convention in the Krueger Auditorium in Newark yesterday, denounced in strong terms the existence of disorderly houses, and pledged itself to support any effor to stamp out such places. Colonel Dennis F. Collins, of Elizabeth, introduced a resolution denouncing the evil, and pledging aid to the municipal authorities in stamping it out. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

The world stands in need of peace. The disquietude, the restlessness, the remorse which comes from sin; the suffering from loss and grief—these and countless other foes are enemies to calm repose, serenity and inner content of the soul.

The Saviour Christ's message is "peace on earth," and as soon as men bring their wills into conformity with God's and His Son's teaching, then, and only then, can mankind know "the peace which passeth understanding," the peace which Christ Jesus came to earth on that first Christmas to bring.

"If any man will do his will he shall know of the doctrine—the doctrine of Christian peace."

Rev. George A. Warner, Rector Church of the Holy Cross.

Don't Gamble With the Future.

You say you can save for your family without the aid of Life Insurance. How long could your family live upon what you have already saved? Better make it certain and put your money in Life Insurance.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT

The listening world hears again the story of the birth of Jesus at Bethlehem of Judea. Never before did the world listen so willingly. No poet, bard or historian can tell a sweeter story. It is indeed as heavenly music to humanity's heart. Steadily Jesus wins His way and increases His power in the world, and the day must surely come when the words of the apostle shall be realized in fact —"that in the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in the earth and things under the earth, and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father." Hail oh happy day! Hasten Thy coming!

Rev. George Mooney,
Pastor Monroe Ave. Church.

SKETCHES OF OUR REPRESENTATIVES

MOST OF THEM ARE LAWYERS OR BANKERS AND SOME ARE BOTH.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—In the Congressional Directory, printed copies of which are issued shortly after the opening of every session of Congress, appear biographical sketches of the Senators and Representatives. These sketches are furnished to the committee on printing by each Senator and Representative, so that they practically represent each individual's opinion of himself. One of the longest sketches is that of Senator Chauncey M. Depew, and it caused no end of comment four years ago when the directory had the fact of his marriage to his present wife before that event had taken place. One of the shortest biographical sketches is that of John Welborn, of Missouri. It is only three lines in length.

There is not much egotism in the sketches of the New Jersey delegation. That concerning United States Senator John Kean recites the fact that he was born at Ursino, near Elizabeth, in 1852; that he entered Yale University, studied law, and was admitted to the New Jersey bar in 1877. It tells of his election to the Forty-eighth and Fiftieth Congresses; that he is president of the National State Bank of Elizabeth; vice-president of the Manhattan Trust Company, and elected to the United States Senate in 1899 to succeed James Smith, Jr., and re-elected in 1905.

The sketch of Senator Dryden is also brief. It tells of his birth in Maine in 1839; of his entering Yale University and being obliged to leave on account of ill health and of his graduation in 1865. It is stated that he founded the Prudential Insurance Company in 1875, becoming its first secretary, and in 1881 its president. It is also stated that he is interested in large financial enterprises, and was elected to the United States Senate in 1902 to succeed the late William J. Sewell.

Representative R. Wayne Parker tells his story in eight lines and a half. Born in Newark in 1848; graduated from Princeton University in 1869; admitted to the bar in 1870; a member of the Assembly in 1885 and 1886; elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress and every subsequent Congress.

Nineteen lines are devoted to his life's story by Representative William Halsted Wiley. He was born in New York City in 1842; served through the Civil War, took the degree of civil engineer at the Rensselaer Institute at Troy. He was engaged in the mining business, and finally went into business with his father. While a judge at the International Exposition at Brussels in 1897 he received the decorated order of Leopold from the King.

Exceptionally brief are the biographies of Representatives Loudenslager, Gardner, Howell, Fowler, Wood and Allen. Of Mr. Loudenslager it is stated that he was born in Cumberland county in 1852; that he engaged in business in Philadelphia; was elected county clerk in 1882 and re-elected in 1887 and to the Fifty-third Congress and continuously ever-since.

John J. Gardner, affectionately known as "Old Brains," was born in Atlantic county in 1845 and was elected to the Fifty-third Congress and continuously ever since. That is all his biographical sketch has to say. His service in the Assembly and State Sepate are modestly omitted, as well as his work on the Industrial Commission.

Representative Benjamin F. Howell was born in Cumberland county in 1844; served through the Civil War in a Jersey regiment, the Twelfth; was elected surrogate of Middlesex county in 1882 and re-elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress, and thereafter.

Representative Wood was born in Wilkesbarre, Pa. He was graduated from Princeton University, is a member of the New Jersey bar, was elected to the New Jersey Legislature in 1899 and 1900, and served as a commissioner to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. He was elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress.

Charles N. Fowler was born at Lena, Ill., in 1852. He was graduated from Yale University and from the Chicago Law School in 1878. He was elected to the Fifth-fourth Congress and continuously since.

Henry Crosby Allen was born at Paterson in 1872. He was graduated from Yale University and from the New York Law School, and was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress, defeating William Hughes.

Representative Marshall Van Winkle was born in Jersey City in 1869. He comes of an old Knickerbocker family, his great-grandfather having been Peter Van Winkle, an old New York merchant. He was admitted as a lawyer when 21 years of age, and was appointed counsel to the Tax Board, and then Assistant Prosecutor of the Pleas. He was defeated for Congress in 1900, but was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress in the new ninth district, defeating Allan Benny.

Of the ten Congressmen the only Democrat is Allen L. McDermott, who was born in South Boston, Mass., in 1854. He is a lawyer by profession, and the sketch tells of the public positions he has held, such as Corporation Counsel, 1879-1883; District Judge, 1883-86; president Jersey City Board of Finance, 1883-86; member of the State Board of Taxation, 1884-86; member State Assembly, 1880-81; State Senate, 1899-1900; Corporation Counsel, 1904 to date, and elected to Fifty-seventh Congress and thereafter.

Of the two Senators and ten Congressmen seven are native born, Senator Kean, Representatives Loudenslager, Gardner, Howell, Allen, Parker and Van Winkle. Four were graduated from Yale, Senators Kean and Dryden and Representatives Fowler and Allen, and two were graduated from Princeton, Wood and Parker. Seven of the twelve gentlemen are lawyers, Senator Kean and Representatives Wood, Fowler, Allen, Parker, Wiley, Van Winkle and McDermott. Three of the delegation are bachelors, Senator Kean and Representatives Wood and Allen. Representative Howell is a banker, Representative Wiley a civil engineer and business man, and Representatives Loudenslager and Gardner plain, every day business men. Senator Kean should be considered as a banker, as he does not practice law, although he was graduated from a law school, and Representative Fowler does more business in the banking line than in the law.

Social Events at the Casino.

The second dinner-dance under the auspices of the Plainfield Country Club will be held at the Casino, tonight. There is every indication of a large attendance and the patrons will be afforded the privilege of dancing, pool, billiards, bowling, and card playing. Good music will be furnished. The dance scheduled to be held at the Casino next Saturday night has been postponed until New Year's night.

Christmas at St. Mary's School.

The pupils of St. Mary's Parochial School held their Christmas festival yesterday morning in the school building, when an informal programme was presented. There was singing of appropriate music by the children, distribution of gifts among the children and Sisters and a few words of Christmas cheer from Father Bogan.

Major Lentz Re-elected.

In spite of all opposition, Major Lentz was re-elected chairman of the Essex County Republican Committee last night. He had 118 votes on the first ballot and Latham Anderson, Senator Colby's friend, seventy-six, while William Mungle had one vote, which was subsequently withdrawn. It was a great and unexpected victory for Lentz.

MEEKER'S PENALTY $150

Common Council Amicably Settles Dispute With Tardy Street Contractor

GIVEN MORE TIME

Next Meetings Subject to Call—Year's Business to Be Wound Up—Minor Matters.

When Common Council returned to its regular order of business at the conclusion of the trial of Chief Kiely last night, a petition was received from C. M. Meeker, who has certain contracts for macadamizing streets, asking that another extension of time to December 26 be granted to complete the work. In return for this extension Mr. Meeker agreed to accept $4,577.03 for his work, which is $150 less than the contract price. Mr. Wilson, chairman of the street committee, to whom the matter was referred, offered a resolution which was adopted, granting the petition with understanding that $150 be deducted from the amount to be paid Mr. Meeker.

Considerable time was wasted in discussing the question of adjourning to December 29, to receive the reports and close up the business for the year. Mr. Wilson, who has the southside sanitary sewer ordinance in tow and who wants to secure its final adoption, asked the members to agree to a special meeting for the third reading and thus make it possible to conclude the matter this year.

Mr. Tolles took exception to Mr. Wilson's haste, adding that further consideration of the improvement is necessary. He said that the expenditure of $55,000 and the issuance of bonds should not be acted upon too quickly, that the Common Council had been issuing bonds too fast, and he favored the plan to let the ordinance go over until next year.

Mr. Wilson continued to urge favorable action, station that he had talked with Charles J. Fisk about the sewer and he referred to the need of such a sewer for the hospital, which he considered most important.

Mr. Tolles stated further that Street Commissioner Gavett was not satisfied as to the best method of installing pumping stations and until this and other essential points were settled he would oppose the improvement.

It was the opinion of President Daniel that the last meeting for the year would be a very busy one and he did not think it would be possible to act upon everything. Something would have to go over until next year. City Treasurer W. F. Arnold said that he hoped to have the reports in the finance department ready for presentation at the next meeting.

The motion to adjourn to Friday night, December 29, was lost, Councilmen Higham, Hibbard, Wilson and Daniel voting in the negative, and Councilmen Tolles, Frank Randolph and Gloak in the affirmative. The matter was left this way and the meeting will now be held subject to call.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing for the appropriation of $6,000 for sewer improvements, and on Mr. Higham's motion John P. Dengler, the official stenographer during the trial of Chief Kiely, will be asked to furnish two copies of the testimony to the Common Council.

J. B. Coward, F. J. Skinner and Elston M. French communicated with the Common Council relative to tax matters and they were referred to the finance committee.

Street Commissioner Gavett reported that twenty-four sewer permits were granted from November 1 to December 13. It was after 1 o'clock this morning when the business was concluded and the meeting adjourned.

Councilmen W. S. Tyler and W. S. Bullock, who waived their right to sit during the trial of Chief Kiely, did not resume their seats when the Common Council returned to regular order of business, although they remained until the adjournment. Near the close of the meeting Chief Kiely, who, in the meantime had heard the verdict in his case, entered the room and shook hands with each member of the Common Council, receiving the congratulations of every one.

It was also a "ladies' night," the wives, sisters and sweethearts being invited. A committee, of which William Creveling was chairman, was in charge of the programme.

FACTS CONCERNING WHAT THE OTHER HALF OF THE MUNDANE SPHERE READS

Libraries and others have lately furnished interesting information concerning the reading of the "very poor." The facts gathered and commented upon are encouraging and significant.

A London writer, giving the results of a personal investigation, says that "an increasing percentage of those who live by manual labor is taking to serious reading." In the districts inhabited almost entirely by the very poor of London, the demand for superior forms of literature is greater than in the suburbs of the British capital, where a higher standard of living and comfort is the rule. And it appears that the London poor are particularly interested just now in the social and political literature and in popular science.

Such an improvement in the reading habits of the "lower poor" of London is justly declared to be one of the bright signs of the times. In the first place, access to good books is a source of much happiness and joy, and in the second place there is the chance that "from below may come the solution of those problems of poverty which have hitherto proved insoluble from above." To the very poor, housing, involuntary idleness, industrial peace, are matters of life and death, not questions of either abstract of philanthropic moment.

An American would not discuss the subject in exactly the same way, but in their essence these observations are, of course, of general application. By a curious coincident, the report just published by the New York Public Library discloses for that city, a marked improvement in the quality of books circulated in the poorest and congested district similar to that noted in London. The percentage of fiction noted in London is relatively small, smaller that ever before, and "the lowest reported by any of the prominent libraries in America," not excepting the Boston library, which has till lately held the position of leadership in this respect.

The increase has occurred in such branches as science, history, miscellaneous literature, biography and travel. If any one had planned a campaign for the elevation of the reading habits and tastes of the very poor, he could hardly have aimed at better results.

To what is the improvement due? To the cumulative work of the schools, newspapers, periodicals. To the overshadowing importance of the social and economic problems now "up" for solutions.—Chicago Record-Herald.

CHURCHES CELEBRATE CHRIST'S NATIVITY

Great Feast Day of the Christian Calendar is Formally Observed by Protestants and Catholics in the City and Borough.

SOME FINE MUSIC

Sunday-Schools Also Commemorate the Natal Day of the Saviour By Holding Appropriate Exercises.

In all the churches, save the Roman Catholic and the Protestant Episcopal, Christmas was formally observed on Sunday, elaborate programmes having been arranged for the celebration of the feast day in most of them. The Episcopalians and the Catholics followed the ecclesiastical calendar by commemorating the festival yesterday. Many of the Sunday-schools also observed the day.

Grace P. E. Church.

Beginning at 7 o'clock, Grace P. E. church held three services to mark the celebration of the feast yesterday. At 7 and 8 o'clock there were communion services; and at 10:30 o'clock a full service of morning prayer and communion, with a sermon by Rev. E. V. Stevenson, the rector. The services were largely attended. The altar was decorated with flowers and greens.

The rector's sermon was appropriate to the season. His text was Timothy 1:3:16. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Freeman, the organist, sang the Christmas anthems with unusual spirit and effect. The music was a decided feature of the service.

St. Mary's Church.

Five masses marked the celebration of the Feast of the Nativity at St. Mary's R. C. church yesterday, at 5:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30 and 10:30 a. m. At 5:30 and 10:30 the celebration was solemn a high one; the others were low. The children's mass was at 9:30. The church was filled at every service.

At the high masses Father Bogan, the rector, was celebrant; Rev. Mr. John Butscher, of Seton Hall Seminary, deacon; Father Frederici, subdeacon; and Father Delahanty, master of ceremonies. Rev. Mr. Butscher is a Plainfielder who is on the eve of his ordination as a priest—he is already in the deaconate—and his participation in the celebration was a feature of much interest to the parishioners.

Father Bogan preached the sermon. He dwelt on the influence of Christ on man, of His power to sustain the struggling sinner and His power to reward.

The church was handsomely decorated. A augmented choir sang at the high celebrations, and the children's choir had violin accompaniment. The music was notable.

St. Joseph's Church.

The celebration of the feast at St. Joseph's R. C. church, North Plainfield, began with a solemn high mass at midnight. The service drew a congregation that taxed the capacity of the church to its limits; worshippers were forced to find room as best they could in the aisles.

Father Miller, the rector, was the celebrant; Father Gabriel, a Passionist, of Hoboken, was deacon; and Father Schandel was sub-deacon. Father Miller extended a Christmas greeting to his people, wishing them happiness in this life and eternal happiness in the life to come.

Three more masses were held in the daylight hours—at 7:30, 8:30 and 10:30. The first two were low masses, and the last a solemn high celebration. The children's mass was the one at 8:30. The music was unusually fine, rendered under the direction of James Baily and A. E. LaPorte. The chancel was strikingly decorated, masses of cut flowers being prominently displayed.

Trinity Reformed.

Christmas was appropriately observed at Trinity Reformed church Sunday morning and evening, when special programmes were presented. The chorus choir was augmented by a number of voices, and was assisted by an orchestra comprising Dr. Berg, 'cello; George Spier, R. W. Barnes and Kenneth Stuart, violins; Elmer Wheeler, flute, and Miss Lillian A. Force, piano. A. L. Titsworth presided at the organ. The anthems by the choir, as well as the orchestral selections were features and greatly enjoyed.

The church was attractively decorated with green roping, while about the pulpit platform were banked palms and potted plants. This pleasing arrangements was the work of Harry Crawford, H. C. VanEmburgh, Chauncey F. Colthar, Miss Cora Laire, Mrs. Leonard F. Smith, Mrs. Frank Storr and Miss Annie Searing.

In addition to the special music there was a strong and impressive discourse by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, on the subject, "The Need of a Saviour."

The morning programme was as follows:

Orchestral prelude, "March de Concert," Laurendeau; Old Hundred, Guillaume Franc; anthem, "Te Deum in B," Thomas, choir; response, Gounod; Gloria, Alzamora; Lord's Prayer, Hoyt; offertory anthem, "And There Were Shepherds," Williams; anthem, "Let Us Now Go Even Unto Bethlehem," Simper, choir; orchestral postlude, "Priest's March,' Mendelssohn.

Miss Bessie Martin sang the offertory solo.

The evening service for the Sunday-school began with an orchestral prelude, "Overture Der Freischutz," followed by Christmas carols, a special service entitled "The Priceless Gift," by Geibel. This was given by the members of the Sunday-school. While Superintendent F. E. Smith had general charge of the exercises, Mrs. Josie M. Tier, as superintendent of the primary department, had supervision of the programme by that department. The children acquitted themselves with great credit to themselves as well as their teachers.

There was an exercise by the Misses Elsie Tier, Helen Roberts, Gertrude Schleif and Agnes Mantz from the junior department and recitations by Miss Madeline Strader, Rosomond Rogers, Ralph Martin and Miss Helen Woolley, and "The Christmas Story," from memory, by the junior department.

This programme was given by the primary department:

"Christmas Blossoms," Grace Vail, Marion Woolley, Louise Seader; recitation, "Stories I Know," Adelaide Cole and Clara Lee; exercise by twelve beginners, "Gifts for Jesus," Edna Smith, Ruth Freeman, Lillian Laurie, Margaret Smith, Mabel Laurie, Wilma Tier, Helen Reynolds, Esther Kellogg, Howard Willett, Arthur Sebring, Helen Scribner, Leroy Leland; vocal solo, Hilda Bennett; recitation, "Dear Christmas," Beatrice Tier; address of welcome, Jack Rogers; song, "Gladdest Day of All the Year," primary department; exercise, "Christmas Chimes," Margaret Hope, Madeline Blair, Lillian Schleif, Ella Porter; recitations, "Just Before Christmas," Raymond Stevens; "A Christmas Song," Vivian Dunn; "Christmas Cake," Edson Day; "The Truth of It," Dorothy Martin; song, "The Bells Are Merrily Ringing," primary department. Interspersing the above numbers there were carols by the entire school and the exercises were concluded with an orchestral postlude, "Amicitia March," by Wiegand.

W. C. Leek led the singing.

Park Avenue Baptist.

Attractive Christmas programmes were presented at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Sunday. In the morning the chorus choir, under the leadership of Robert Lowry, sang several anthems and the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn, delivered a Christmastide sermon.

The Sunday-school exercises were held in the afternoon at 2:45 o'clock and were attended with many features. The church and Sunday-school were decorated with roping, boughs and Christmas bells, the color scheme being red and green. Miss Florence G. Hawkins, superintendent of the school, presided.

The programme included carols by the school and primary department, recitations by Mary Hale and Edith Lowry and an exercise by members of the primary department. A feature of the musical service was the Sunday-school orchestra, which will be a permanent organization. It is comprised of G. W. V. Moy, Stuart Freeman, Martin Stutsman, Miss Arline Brown, Miss Marjorie Brown and Whitney Frazee. They accompanied the singing of the carols.

Miss Arline Brown gave a recitation and there were cornet solos by Whitney Frazee, followed with selections by the young women's choir. Miss Cora Brokaw, Mrs. Lyon, Roland Treadwell and Charles VanWinkle gave duet and quartette selections. An emblematical exercise entitled "The Christmas Friend," was given by the following: The Misses Alice Brown, Marjorie Brown, Ruth Stryker, Autumn DeLany, Isabel vonBrakle, Edith Whitney, Edith Lowry, Florence Moffett and Edith Lyon.

The members of the Christian Endeavor Society and Sunday-school brought books and toys to be dis-

COLLEGE MEN ORGANIZE

Members of Delta Upsilon Perfect Club of the Fraternity in This City.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Formation Marked by a Banquet at Truell Inn—Social Meetings to be Held Periodically at Members' Homes.

Following plans laid out at a meeting several weeks ago, college graduates of the city and vicinity who are members of the Delta Upsilon fraternity held a banquet at Truell Inn Saturday night, and perfected the organization of "The Delta Upsilon Club of Plainfield." Thirty names were placed on the membership roll and the following officers were elected: President, Rev. L. R. Howard, Williams; vice-president, Morris J. Thompson, Rutgers; secretary, Robert V. Hoffman, New York University; corresponding secretary, Lindsey Best, Hamilton; treasurer, Fullerton Waldo, Harvard. The officers will constitute the executive committee.

The membership represents nine of the thirty-eight chapters of Delta Upsilon, Williams, Harvard, Hamilton, New York University, Colgate, Rutgers, Swarthmore, Columbia and the College of the City of New York. Seventeen of the organizers are Plainfielders and it is probable that this number will be largely increased before the next meeting, which will be at the home of Lindsey Best in February.

The banquet was typical college affair and lasted from 8:30 until shortly before midnight. Rev. L. R. Howard, Williams '98, acted as toastmaster, and the following toasts were offered: "The Fraternity of Delta Upsilon," Fred M. Crossett, New York '84; "Delta Upsilon of Plainfield," Lindsey Best, Hamilton, '89; "A Word from the Under-Grad," Harold Nomer, Williams '06; "Delta Upsilon at Columbia," J. T. Tubby, Columbia '96; "Delta Upsilon at Harvard," Fullerton Waldo, Harvard; "Delta Upsilon Everywhere," Morris J. Thompson, Rutgers. The club is to hold banquets every year and will hold social gatherings periodically at the homes of members. Inquisitor Hughes and District Attorney Jerome, of New York, were made honorary members and the club will be present in a body at the dinner to be tendered them by the New York Upsilon Association in January. Among the members of the local club are LaRue Vredenburg, of Somerville, State bank examiner, and Goldwin Goldsmith, of Maplewood, editor of the Delta Upsilon Quarterly.

Delta Upsilon was organized at Williams College in 1834, and it is a significant fact that the mother chapter has the second largest representation in the Plainfield club.

CHIEF KIELY SAYS HE WILL ENFORCE LAW.

To Act Rigidly Under Ruling of the Common Council on Minor Prisoners.

Chief of Police Kiely stated this morning, in reply to a query from a reporter, that the ruling of the Council on the counts covering the release of prisoners from the city jail without a hearing, in his case, marked the course he must pursue in holding prisoners charged with minor offenses. Nobody charged with drunkenness will be permitted to leave the jail until heard before either the city judge, or, in his absence, the mayor, or, in his absence, the president of the Common council. Prisoners arrested for other minor offenses must put up $100 bail, or wait until the court gets around.

"There is no other course for me to follow," said the chief. "It has always been customary, so far as I know, to let responsible people out of a cell when vouched for in what seemed a proper way, but this decision changes all that. The law is there, and the finding of the Council is equivalent to distinct orders that it must be observed to the letter."

May Build Up-to-date Market.

A report from an authoritative source states that Ira L. LaRue, the local real estate man, is negotiating for the plot of ground opposite Woodhull & Martin's and a property on East Second street, on which to erect an up-to-date market house. There is also a rumor that it may be extended through to North avenue. The details of the plan have not yet been given out, but there is every reason to believe that a structure similar to the Newark market, but with a much handsomer front, will be erected in the event of the land being purchased.

SOMERSET COURT OPENS

Justice Garretson and Judge Schenck on the Bench When Grand Jury Charges is Made.

AFTER SPEAK-EASIES

General Round Up Ordered—Court Says Watson Should be Indicted for Murder If Facts of Killing Are True.

The December term of the Somerset County Courts opened at Somerville this morning, with Justice Garretson and Judge Schenck on the bench. There was a large attendance in court. The Grand Jurors from North Plainfield are William R. Robinson, Andrew Lutkins, C. Frank French, John J. Clark and John C. Betzold.

Justice Garretson recited the story of the assault case in Warren street, North Plainfield, several months ago, when James Christopher lost his life as the result of stab wounds inflicted by Rev. James A. Watson. He said that "when a defendant does an unlawful act, whereby bloodshed results in death, it is your duty to indict for murder."

Watson and Christopher, both colored, resided at the same address and as a result of a quarrel over the use of a stove for cooking purposes, the men engaged in a fight. Christopher was frightfully cut and slashed and died as he was being taken into the hospital.

Justice Garretson also instructed the Grand Jury to investigate the liquor laws and any alleged violations. The court granted licenses to Joseph A. Blatz and R. A. Bohren, of North Plainfield.

The Supreme Court case of Stonewall Jackson against the New Jersey Central Railroad, in which Reed & Coddington represented the plaintiff and Alvah A. Clark, Esq., of Somerville, the defendant, was amicably settled out of court.

The case of George Lees against Albert Wickman, of the borough, is on the calendar and ready for trial. George W. V. Moy, Esq., represents the plaintiff.

SALVATION ARMY SENDS DINNERS TO 100 HOMES

CHRISTMAS CHEER, UNCOOKED, FOR 500 PEOPLE DISTRIBUTED IN BASKETS

The Salvation Army distributed 100 uncooked Christmas dinners to poor people. Each dinner was enough for five people, so that half a thousand hungry ones got their Christmas cheer from the army.

The dinners were distributed Saturday night, after a brief special service in Salvation Army Hall. Bearing the cards that entitled them to the dinners, men, women, boys and girls, of all creeds and colors, gathered at the hall at 7 o'clock. Prayer was offered by Ensign Magee, and he delivered a brief address. His talk was practical and sympathetic. The service closed with the singing of the doxology, and the dinners were packed in the baskets the ticket-bearers had brought with them.

Eleven things went into each basket: A plump chicken, a loaf of bread, potatoes, a big yellow turnip, a cabbage, one-quarter of a pound of coffee, sugar, nuts, candies, five oranges and a copy of the Christmas War Cry, with a colored supplement. The dinners were distributed uncooked in order that all the members of the families reached might enjoy them. When a public dinner as held and served from the tables, some one member of the household, as a general rule, has to stay home, and gets no more Christmas cheer than if the others were not being fed. Another feature of the basket distribution is that in families where economy is practiced the dinners are quite likely to tide over the larder for two days.

Stanley Dawson a Local Visitor.

Stanley F. Dawson, of Columbus, O., for many years an attache of the business staff of Ringling Brothers' circus, accompanied by his wife, is spending the holidays with his old-time friend, W. J. Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre. He enjoyed a drive about the city yesterday and afterward promised that the big show would visit Plainfield next summer.

Rev. McCrea at Y. M. C. A.

Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, was the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. His subject was "He is Able." The speaker dwelt at length on the great power of Christ manifested in all His work. Instrumental and vocal solos were rendered by Otto Muller, 'cello, and Miss Cornelia Sampson, soprano.

GIVES BOOKS TO LIBRARY

Young Men's Christian Association Donates 246 Volumes to Public Institution.

MANY VALUABLE ONES

Are the Remnant of the Old "Plainfield Library Company"—Now Being Catalogued.

The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. has turned over the association's library to the Plainfield Public Library. The books have been examined by the librarian, and 246 volumes have been especiall selected. These are now being classified and cataloged, and will soon be available.

The wisdom of this decision on the part of the Y. M. C. A. is without question, as the Public Library has the facilities for caring for these books and making them of practical use. As an illustration, the books had not been in the library any time at all, when, by the aid of Poole's index, an elusive bit of information wanted by a patron was found in one of the books presented, an early volume of the American Whig Review.

Among other valuable matter selected was a set, unfortunately not quite complete, of the London Literary Gazette, 1819-1849, inclusive. Other individual volumes of especial interest or value are as follows:

Labaume's Circumstantial Narrative of the Campaign in Russia in 1816. This is the description of an eye witness of Napoleon's campaign in Russia, and the burning of Moscow. The writer says: "It was by the light of the burning of Moscow that I described the sack of that unfortunate city. Pierced by the cold, tormented with hunger, a prey to every accumulated horror; uncertain at the rising of the sun whether I should see its setting rays, and doubtful at night whether I should witness tomorrow's dawn, every thought seemed concentrated in the ardent desire to live, that I might perpetuate the memory of what I had seen."

Kendall's Narrative of the Texan Santa Fe Expedition, and an account of the capture of the Texans. The character of the Texan expedition was commercial, with the ulterior intention of bringing the eastern portion of New Mexico under the protection of the then president of Texas, Gen. Lamar. As the text and the quaint engravings both picture a phase of life in the West which no longer exists, besides the interest of the narrative which is considerable, the book has real historical value.

Silliman's "Remarks made on a short tour between Hartford and Quebec in 1819" is a book of carefully recorded observations and also contains much historical matter relative to the country through which he passed, the murder of Miss McCrea, Gen. Burgoyne's expedition, etc. The quaint old prints add much of interest.

Robinson's Memoirs of the Mexican Revolution, including a narrative of the expedition of Gen. Xavier Mina, published in 1820. This is a work of much historical value, as it is based on the journal of Mina's English commissary general, and upon the personal experiences of the author, whose mercantile visits to Mexico were ended by his imprisonment and deportation to Spain under circumstances which perhaps explain his severe strictures upon the acts of those who were trying to put down the revolution.

Pitkin's Political and Civil History of the United States, 1828. Prof. Catterall, of the University of Chicago, says of the author and his work: "Pitkin was an industrious, careful scholar who wrote from original sources. His work is marked by accuracy, judicial temper, excellent judgment and exhaustive research; is still useful, though largely superseded by later histories built upon material then inaccessible. The style is dry and uninteresting. Valuable appendices are found in both volumes."

Foote's Africa and the American Flag. The author was lieutenant of the U. S. brig Perry, on the African coast in 1850-51. This is a valuable contribution to the history of the African slave trade, and its observations on the manners and customs of Africa make it of real value. It is illustrated with excellent lithographs.

Other books of especial interest are Sanderson's Lives of the Signers; and early Life of Penn; Church's History of King Philip's War, published in 1827; and account of the yellow fever epidemic in Memphis in 1878; Spooner's Dictionary of Art; and George's Oberland and its Glaciers, with photographic illustrations. There werealso a number of first editions of American writes, a number of volumes which will be of value chiefly in reference work, and a number of duplicate books of value in

ELKS PLAY SANTA FOR 500 CHILDREN

TREAT THEM TO ENTERTAINMENT, CANDY AND ORANGES.

The true Christmas spirit was exemplified by Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., Saturday afternoon, when 500 poor children of the city were its guests at Reform Hall. Through the kindness of the Organized Aid Association tickets of admission had been given out where they would be most appreciated and Plainfield has never seen a happier crowd of youngsters than the one that was on hand before the doors opened.

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk and City Judge William N. Runyon marshaled them into their seats and then for two hours they were treated to a wonderful entertainment provided by New York artists. "Iouna the Great Juggler," with his marvelous tricks, made their eyes grow large with amazement; Professor Charles Scheck mystified them with his feats of magic and then the funny antics of Winans and Cassler, a musical comedy team, made them shriek with laughter. When this part was over, everyone was given a pound box of candy and one of the nicest oranges that could be bought.

The committee from the Elks that had charge of the affair consisted of former Mayor Fisk, Herbert Buxton, John H. Cose, Maze Edwards, John J. Kenney, Charles A. Reed, William C. Smith, Edward M. Van Buren and W. F. Williams. They were assisted in the distribution by Judge Runyon, Clarence Teel, Frank Boos, Thomas M. Muir, George Johnson, S. P. T. Wilbur and Elmer D. Cutting.

HEAVY TAX RECEIPTS IN PAST TWO MONTHS

TOTAL COLLECTION FOR THE PERIOD REACH $244,922.60.

Tax Collector Lee breathed easy today after undergoing during the past week one of the busiest periods the local office has ever experienced. All through November and December he was kept on the go constantly, and his total collections for that time, ending Saturday, were $244,822.60, just $51,019.52 more than for November and December, 1904. By way of comparison, in November, 1904, the receipts were $35,636.46, and in November, 1905, $48,032.36; in December, 1904, they were $196,790.24, and in December, 1905, $158,166.62.

In one day, December 20, checks and money to the amount of $59,000 were passed through the collector's window, and the total for that day and the two days previous was $100,000.

Mr. Lee and his assistant, Frank Dunham, sent out 12,000 tax bills and besides receiving this money took care of sewer and macadam assessments. For the sewers during December the payments were $13,556.80, and for macadam, $7,505.21. The franchise taxes received this year were as follows: Public Service, $1,607.59; telephone, $179.56; water company, $909.79; Postal Telegraph, $21.

Chicken Thieves at Sunswick Farm.

Rufus Delafield, owner of the Sunswick Poultry Farm at South Plainfield, today offers a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the chicken thieves who robbed his hen houses Saturday night. The nocturnal visitors sawed a large square hole out of one of the coops and crawled through, catching thirty fine fowls. Mr. Delafield has one of the largest poultry farms in this section, at the present time having 1,000 laying hens.

Hunt Postponed.

Because the ground was too hard the members of the Watchung Hunt Club gave up its scheduled hunt yesterday morning. The club was to have started from the kennels on Rahway road and followed the hounds to Metuchen and back. It has been arranged to hold a hunt on Saturday.

Criterion Club Dance.

Invitations have been issued for the Criterion Club dance, to be held at the Casino Thursday night, January 11.

—During the month of December, in order to demonstrate the value of its service, The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company will arrange to give a free trial of telephone exchange service in residences in the Plainfield exchange. A free trial of extension station service in residences or business places is also offered. Application may be made for this service to District Manager C. W. Runyon, 333 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. WATER SUPPLY MYSTERY

A LIMESTONE CAVERN

Body of Water of Unknown Dimensions—Discovery Made By Digining Rod.

Prof. Arthur Poole Raymond, an English civil engineer, who recently visited here to make inquiry concerning the mysterious water supply of this city, according to the New York World, has suggested to the Engineers' Association, of which he is a member, that a remarkable discovery might be made if the authorities of the New Jersey town could be induced to sink a shaft or to make an excavation wide enough to afford an opportunity for observing the tidal flow in the subterranean lake or river that furnishes the daily supply and is apparently inexhaustible.

There are a few old residents of this city who, to this day, remember hearing their grandparents tell of a mysterious underground lake discovered in the Watchung valley by an Indian in the latter part of the last century, but the story now is only a vague legend.

In 1855, when the country where the city now stands was largely farm land, the attention of engineers was attracted by the ease with which water could be obtained almost anywhere in the valley by sinking a well. It rarely was necessary to bore deeper than thirty-five feet, and for many years, as the village grew and the population increased, all the potable water came from these driven wells.

Just after the close of the Civil War a stranger appeared in the valley and announced that he desired to make a topographical survey in the interests of a Russian scientific society in St. Petersburg. He was unquestionably a man of polish and education, speaking English fluently and proving by his conversation a wide knowledge of the ancient mechanical principle of hydraulics, in which he appeared to be particularly interested.

In the spring of 1866 the stranger, who gave the name of Ignatz Zamatoff, and was known to the farmers as the professor, invited two men who lived half way between this city and Elizabeth to take a tramp with him through the valley, as he had made a discovery which would be of interest and perhaps profit.

The professor carried with him a divining rod made of a witch hazel twig bent in the form of a hoop, with long crossed ends. He explained that the purpose of the rod was to discover the presence of water, and the method of operation was to grasp the ends with the hands so they would serve as an axis, the loop part to project forward horizontally from the body.

Walking slowly with the twig held in this position, he said that if he Murray, Jr. Music will be furnished by Austin and the supper by Mrs. Hellstrom. On Thursday night the dancing class of the Plainfield High School, under the direction of the teacher, Mrs. Westcott, will hold a reception and dance.

The dinner-dance scheduled by the Plainfield Country Club for Saturday night has been postponed to New Year's night, owing to the dance at the Park Club. The affair will be very elaborate and one of the most brilliant of the season.

County Registrar Smith Ill.

Frank H. Smith, county registrar of deeds, who was taken seriously ill on Saturday, is much better today and is able to sit up. He contracted a heavy cold that aggravated a long-standing trouble of the stomach. Mr. Smith was confined to his bed Saturday, Sunday and yesterday and his physician has been in constant attendance. It is believed that he will be able to return to his office the last of the week.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

A number of the young people of the Methodist church have arranged to take part in the watch night service at the Monroe Avenue church, Plainfield, next Sunday.

The Sunday-schools of the Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist churches will hold their Christmas celebration tonight. Trees will be the features of all the affairs.

Large congregations attended the services at all the churches Sunday. Christmas decorations were in place, and all the pastors preached on nativity.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Grieb held a family reunion at their home yesterday. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Grieb, of Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peters have returned home from their wedding trip. They are living temporarily in Plainfield.

Frank Kean is rapidly recovering from the effects of his severe injuries. He will leave the hospital in a week or two.

There was a Christmas service at Holy Innocents' church yesterday morning. The communion was celebrated.

Mrs. P. J. Carroll, of Newark, has returned home after a stay with her mother, Mrs. Hannah Roantree.

Mrs. Emma R. Foss, of New Rochelle, N. Y., has returned home after a visit to relatives here.

Plans are being made by the young people of the borough for a New Year's dance.

Miss Mary Baldwin was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Melick, of Alton, yesterday.

E. M. Lockwood has moved into the house on First street which he recently rented.

William Tabb, of Port Reading, visited friends in New Market yesterday.

Miss Fannie Jenner has returned from a visit to friends in Trenton.

W. R. Hetfield's house, Greenbrook, has been repainted.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Christmas Day here was observed by the usual feasting and merry making in the homes. No outdoor sports were held. The Brookside Gun Club failed to get together for their usual holiday sport at the traps. The only church services held was at All Saints' Episcopal church, service being held at 10:45 in the morning. The other churches observed the day on Sunday, both Rev. T. Moore-Smith, of the Baptist, and Rev. Mr. Hoffman, of the Methodist church, preaching Christmas sermons at the morning services. In the evening at the Baptist church, a special song service was held, the choir, under the direction of L. D. H. Gilmour, rendering Christmas carols and other special music. The pastor, instead of preaching the usual sermon, gave a talk upon that old favorite church hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee."

"A Counterfeit Santa," the Christmas cantata rendered by the members of the Baptist Sunday-school at the Christmas exercises held Saturday night in the church, was enjoyed by a large audience. The church was prettily trimmed in yuletide attire, while the usual tree, to gladden the hearts of the younger members, was there, loaded with presents for all, from the pastor down to the youngest member in the infant class.

One good thing—the old-fashioned winter holiday raffles for turkeys and chickens is gradually disappearing. The local resident who in the past has started out with the intention of bringing home a turkey for twenty-five cents has learned that he can buy several turkeys for what the one used to cost him.

This is the last week of the open season for rabbits, the law being up on Saturday. The local hunters have had an uninterrupted season this year; not a single snow storm has marred the sport.

The Township Committee meets again tonight for the purpose of preparing the annual township report, which, according to the new law, must be ready by January 1.

Miss May Adams, who has been spending two months with Mrs. W. R. Buckley, of South avenue, has returned to her home at Brimfield, Mass.

The warm weather of Thursday and Friday broke up the ice on the ponds and put an end to the skating which had been enjoyed for a week.

The Suburban bowling team is scheduled to roll the J. Edward Clark Club team, of Elizabeth, tonight on the Suburban alleys.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ryno and family, of Park avenue, have returned to the Ackerman property on Westfield road, near Graceland.

Miss Kate Munroe, of Washington street, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Mary Munroe, of Montague avenue.

Fanwood Council, R. A., meets tonight in the Library rooms.

AT THE GROSZMAN SCHOOL.

Pupils Had a Jolly Christmas Entertainment Saturday Night.

The Christmas exercises at the Groszman School for nervous and atypical children were held at the school on Watchung Crest Saturday afternoon. There was a large large number of guests from many distant points and this city, including parents of the children. The programme comprised songs and recitations by the pupils; tableaux, representing the "Cradle Songs of Nations," leading up to the Madonna idea, and a Christmas play, "The Lost Reindeer," with songs and calisthenic dances. The pupils performed remarkaby well.

Other features of the programme were soprano solos by Miss Marguerite Steinberger, of Brooklyn. There was also a short address by A. Lueder, of New York, followed by the appearance of Santa Claus and the distribution of gifts to the children. The pupils who did not return to their homes remained at the school and poined in an old fashioned German Christmas eve celebration Sunday night. Most of the scenery used in the tableaux and the play was especially sketched for the occasion by Jonas Lie, the well known artist.

An elaborate Christmas cantata will be given by the members of the Bible School of the Park Avenue Baptist church on Thursday night.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Feast day services will be held at Grace P. E. church tomorrow and Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Services of devotions will be held at St. Mary's and St. Joseph's R. C. churches this week. The feast days observed are not days of obligation.

Rev. Dr. John Egar, of Rome, N. Y., one of the prominent clergymen of the Central New York diocese, preached at the evening service in Grace P. E. church Sunday. A large congregation heard him.

Owing to the sudden illness of Miss Lillian A. Force she was unable to preside at the piano at Trinity Reformed church Sunday night, in the rendition of music by the stringed orchestra. Her place was filled by Miss Hazel Martin.

The annual Christmas entertainment of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Sunday-school will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for the primary department and in the evening at 8 o'clock for the main school.

The officers of the Park Avenue Baptist church have arranged for a stage to be run every Sunday afternoon between Netherwood and the church to carry the children and others living in that part of the city to and from the church. It will be a free stage for those wishing to attend this Sunday-school.

The Christmas entertainment for the primary and junior departments of the First Baptist church Sunday-school will be held in the lecture room Thursday afternoon and in the evening the pupils will present a cantata, "Old Fashioned Christmas." This will be under the direction of William Holmes, of the church choir.

The Christmas entertainment at the First Presbyterian church will be held in the chapel Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock for the primary department and in the evening at 8 o'clock for the main school. The evening programme will include an entertainment by Rankin, the juggler and bass solos by Ferdinand C. Iglehart, Jr., of the choir. Clifford A. Braider, organist, will have charge of the music.

Mrs. Colby's Christmas Gift.

Mrs. Everett Colby, of Orange, wife of the State Senator-elect, and who was formerly Miss Edith Hyde, of this city, made a Christmas gift of $5,000 to the New Jersey Orthopedic Hospital Saturday. The money was given without reservation, to be applied according to the judgment of the managers of the institution. Mrs. Colby has become greatly interested in philanthropic work and she and her husband make frequent gifts of this nature.

CHURCHES CELEBRATE

tributed among poor children.

A pleasant feature was the presentation by George E. Hall, assistant superintendent, on behalf on the church and school, of an Oliver typewriter to the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn. The recipient responded with appropriate remarks. Service was held in the church in the evening, the pastor preaching a Christmas sermon and the choir rendering several anthems.

Crescent Avenue.

John E. West's cantata, "The Story of Bethlehem," was given at the evening service in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. It was rendered by the regular church quartette, composed of Miss Grace Carroll, soprano; Miss Sinn, contralto; Rhys Thomas, tenor, and Mr. Stanley, bass, assisted by a chorus of twenty singers from this city and New York. William P. Dunn presided at the organ. The quartette and chorus also sang at the morning services. In both instances the congregation was large and the Christmas sermons by Dr. Zelie were much enjoyed.

In the afternoon, the pupils of the Sunday-school held exercises appropriate to the day, recitations and the singing of carols being features. The primary department, in charge of W. D. Murray, took a prominent part.

Bethel Chapel.

The Sunday-school of Bethel chapel held its exercises Sunday afternon with Superintendent A. W. Duxbury in charge. Addresses were given by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie and Rev. W. S. Hubbell, D. D. Flute solos were contributed by Walter Sampson, assisted by Miss Carrie Elliott on the piano and the school song Christmas carols. The regular Sunday-school entertainment will be held Thursday night.

Monroe Avenue.

The customary Christmastide exercises were held by the Monroe Avenue church Sunday-school Sunday morning. Mrs. Saums had charge of the kindergarten department and Miss Wenzel the primary, members of both giving recitations. Clarence Hume rendered violin selections and Rev. George Mooney delivered an address. The church was prettily decorated with Christmas greens.

At the regular morning and evening church service, Mr. Mooney occupied the pulpit and preached Christmas sermons, while Christmas hymns were sung by the congregations.

First Baptist.

Christmas exercises of a special character were held at the First Baptist church Sunday morning and afternoon, when the large chorus choir sang several anthems and the Sunday school rendered a programme comprising carols and recitations. Howard M. Case, organist, had charge of the music, and Miss Florence Wohlfert, of Westfield, assisted on the violin. Miss Conger presided at the piano. The church was attractively decorated with greens, a feature being a large start placed in front of the organ and illuminated with many incandescent lights.

At the morning service the programme opened with a prelude, organ and violin, followed with an anthem, "Sing and Rejoice;" song and response, anthems, "O Sing of God" and "I Desired Wisdom," by the choir; (sentence) "Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin," violin, organ and choir. The pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, then delivered an impressive Christmas sermon. The offertory solo was "Calm on the Listening Bar," by the choir, and the service closed with a postlude, organ and violin. The solo parts during the service were taken by Miss Louella C. Harris, soprano; Mrs. F. M. Ward, contralto; William Holmes, baritone, and George Smith, tenor.

The exercises under the auspices of the Sunday school were held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and were in charge of Superintendent George H. Batchelor. The programme opened with a prelude, "Cavitida," organ, violin and piano. A carol by the school was followed with prayer and Scripture reading, an anthem, "O'er the Hills," by the choir and responsive reading, led by Assistant Superintendent George F. Brown.

There wasa primary class song, "The First Christmas," followed by a recitation, "Only a Baby," by Edith Rickert. A song, "Natal Day," by the junior department, preceded a recitation, "The First Christmas," by members of the primary department, and the singing of "Sweet Story of Old," by the same department. The school sang "'Tis Winter." "Welcome, Christmas," and "Christmas Giving," were recitations given by Ralph Smalley and Lawrence French. The offertory number, by Miss Wohlfert on the violin, was "Tes Adieux," the offering being for the King's Daughters' Day Nursery, to be opened January 1. After a recitation, "How We Keep Christmas," by girls from the junior department, there was an address to the school by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the church. The exercises closed with the singing of a carol, the benediction by Pastor Chambliss and an organ postlude.

First Presbyterian.

Special Christmas music by the choir, together with instrumental selections on the piano by Miss Clara Van Fleet and the violin by Martin A. Korff, comprised the programmes at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning and evening. The music was in charge of Clifford A. Braider. The choir, Fredinand C. Iglehart,

TUBERCULOSIS.

Dr. T. Bassett Keyes, of Chicago, read at the International Congress of Tuberculosis, St. Louis, 1904:

"I shall now give my results in the cure of Tuberculosis by the subcutaneous injection of oil. The oil which I have selected in the treatment of my cases has been Olive Oil of a very HIGH GRADE, thoroughly sterilized, using OLIVE OIL in PREFERENCE to other oils on account of its being non-irritating and very readily accepted by the system. I give my results thus early, believing that the cure of tuberculosis is solved and that by so doing, many lives will be saved. I hope and trust that physicians will at once take up this method of cure."

"SFAX" Virgin Olive Oil is ABSOLUTELY PURE, with its natural, rich, nutty flavor. Ask this brand to your grocer for table use. Ask your physician to investigate for medicinal use.

POOR BOYS EAT XMAS DINNER AT Y. M. C. A.

FED TO PLETHORIC STATE AS GUESTS OF ASSOCIATION JUNIORS.

Carrying out an annual custom, the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. gave a dinner to the poor boys of the city yesterday afternoon. Fifty hungry fractions of the other half were given their chance at a plethoric array of turkey, cranberry sauce, fixin's and ice cream. They improved the chance.

The dinner was served in the small hall of the Y. M. C. A. building, at five separate tables. As far as the association officers could discover, they gave invitations to practically every gamin in the city who would otherwise have gone without any Christmas cheer at all. All the newsboys were there. When the boys came into the hall at 5:30 o'clock they found their plates piled high with feast things, and ready for the onslaught. There were no formalities except grace, and as soon as that was said the boys fell to, urged on—although they didn't need much urging—by an older boys of the association who sat at the table as the host. Members of the department waited on the tables.

There was nothing in the affair to dampen the ardor of the guests. There were no speeches, and only a certain amount of quiet was requested. The boys had a great time and showed it plainly. When the dinner ended the boys were dismissed, with an extra orange to take home and suck in contemplative reminiscence.

25th Annual January Bargain Sale.

The splendid economies that L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, offer to their January bargain sale, which opens next Tuesday, are the thermometers by which households and individuals will regulate mid-winter expenditures and lessen their outlay for many a present and future want. This event, the twenty-fifth of its kind, is a remarkable demonstration of a great store's ability to sell reliable staple and seasonable merchandise in great quantities way below market value. Suuch enterprise—for enterprise it is—finds its source in aggressive business methods. The past months—more prosperous than ever before in the firm's history—have not only placed its stocks in a condition to yield many clearance lots, but also allow the purchase of surplus merchandise from makers, wholesalers and importers. The result is tha the "Bee Hive" offers also the "plums" of such purchases. The store remains closed Monday. The sale opens Tuesday next at 8:30.

Second Dinner-Dance.

The dinner-dance held at the Casino Saturday night under the auspices of the Plainfield Country Club was even more successful than the first one of this series. There are new about sixty-five subscribers and on Saturday night there were about eighty present. Twenty-five members had dinner prior to the dance, and there were many private suppers served afterwards. During the evening the guests enjoyed dancing, "bridge," billiards, pool and bowling. The festivities were concluded shortly before midnight. The next dinner-dance will be held on New Year's night, the date being changed so as not to interfere with the dance at the Park Club on Saturday night.

Whiskers and Gas Jet Burn Santa.

Atlantic City, Dec. 26.—B. Frank Bullock, of North Virginia avenue, attiired as Santa Claus, last night lost his mustache, singed his hair and sustained severe burns when his whiskers blew over a gas jet. Mr. Bullock had covered his ordinary clothes with cotton, sprinkled with diamond dust, and put on a mask and wig and then a tall top hat, covered with cotton, to represent snow. He then reached up to the gas jet to turn it off and prepared to go into the house. His cotton whiskers touched the gas jet and were a mass of flames in a moment. His family ripped a strip of carpet from the floor and threw it about the burning Santa Claus and extinguished the fire.

Special Council Meeting.

It is the intention to call a special meeting of the Common Council for Friday night, so that Chairman Wilson, of the street committee, can call up on third reading the south side sewer ordinance, with the hope of final adoption. All of the members are not convinced that this ordinance should go through this year, believing that the 1906 members should have an opportunity of considering it. Reports for the year will be presented at this meeting.

O. H. Munger, of New Haven, is the guest of E. W. Poinier, East Second street.

WATER SUPPLY MYSTERY

passed over a hidden spring where there was a flow, no matter how slight, the rod would fly up and strike him in the chest.

This exactly was what happened. The loop of the rod flew back with great suddenness and force and continued to do so at intervals so long as Zamatoff walked to the southwest, but remained immovable when he walked due north or due south.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that under our feet is a great body of water which has a tidal flow." It runs apparently from the northeast to the southwest and is probably 150 feet beneath the surface."

A few weeks after that the Russian, who had made many elaborate plans and drawings, left the valley and in a few years he was forgotten, but his specific prediction was verified absolutely twenty-five years later without the use of a divining rod or any other occult method. It was determined by sinking a number of test wells that this city really did rest on a crust which covered some vast volume of water.

The region which covers this subterranean cavern or river is a level valley seven miles long and from three-quarters of a mile to two miles wide. The official report which appears in the "Transactions of the American Society of Civil Engineers" says that in the year 1890:

"Active measures were taken and pipe wells were sunk on a plot one and one-quarter miles square, east of the centre of the city. A stratum of clay about thirty feet thick, underlaid by gravel, was discovered. There was a flow of water, apparently from the Watchung Mountains. Twenty wells were sunk, two compound surface condensing duplex-plunger pumps were put in, and a yield of 3,000,000 gallons a day was developed. This was pumped into a wrought iron standpipe 140 feet high, through a twenty inch interior tube rising five feet above the top, so that the water thus is aerated."

Later corroboration of the existence of the subteranean lake or river came in a report made by Louis L. Tribus, an associate member of the Society of Civil Engineers, in which he said the Plainfield water supply "came from an underground stream flowing southwesterly."

The curious part of this strange storage house of nature is that rainfalls, no matter how copious, have no effect upon it whatever. Neither is it affected by drought. The only time since the waterworks have been in operation when a long dry spell seemed to exert any influence was in 1891. There was a slight diminution in the supply, but it lasted only a few days, and the regular volume was resumed and that before the drought was over.

The water is the clearest and purest in this part of the country. Analysis shows it to be absolutely without contamination of any kind. The temperature is the same winter and summer—about 9 degrees above freezing.

No attempt has been made to ascertain the depth of the lake, but it is known to have a tidal flow, because a chip dropped into one place will be pumped out at another, but always to the southeast.

R. R. Disaster Averted.

An eastbound Atlantic City flyer, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, narrowly escaped being wrecked near Elizabeth, yesterday morning. The cylinder head of a large engine drawing the westbound Chicago Limited, blew out. The heavy piece of iron landed on the main eastbound tracks, but the train proceeded slowly to Rahway, where a change of engines was made. The Atlantic City flyer was about due and a large force of men was quickly summoned to remove the iron from the tracks. The gang had just completed the task when the flyer whizzed by at sixty miles an hour. The iron was so hot that it burned the men's hands severely.

Xmas at Muhlenberg Hospital.

The annual Christmas festivities were enjoyed at Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday afternroon, when the members of the Woman's Auxiliary Board provided appropriate and useful gifts for the patients and all employes of the institution. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, made a short address during the informal exercises.

Court Watchung, Independent Order Foresters, will meet Tuesday, January 2, at which time the officers for the ensuing year will be installed. The matter of electing a court organizer will also be discussed.

LONG SEEMED HAPPY ON LAST CHRISTMAS.

Gave Merry Greeting of the Day to Death Watch and Jail Officials.

His last Christmas on earth proved a merry one for Charles Long, the condemned murderer of Matthew Cunningham, yesterday, to all outward appearances. He arose early in the morning and was apparently in the best of spirits. He wished the death watch a merry Christmas and gave the same greeting to the Mercer county jail officials.

Long ate his Christmas dinner with relish and told the jailers that it was a splendid one. He talked and laughed with the death watch the greater part of the afternoon and said he was feeling fine.

The doomed murderer seems to realize his position because he remarked to one of the jailers that this would be his last Christmas on earth.

Long is becoming quite religious, and is extremely earnest in this matter. He anticipates the daily visits of the Rev. Father Whalen, who is administering to his spiritual needs. Two sisters of charity also visit him frequently. Plans for the execution will be completed after January 1.

WILL STRIVE TO ABOLISH CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

Hanging in Hudson County Jail Arouses Citizens to Prepare Legislation Bill.

Jersey City, Dec. 26.—As a result of the brutal exhibition at the hanging of the colored murderer, Edward Tapeley, in the Hudson county jail last week, the Rev. Emile A. Meury, pastor of the Second Reformed church, and Assemblymen-elect Herman A. Berg and Theodore L. Bierck, were at work yesterday drafting a bill to be introduced at the next session of the Legislature for the abolishment of capital punishment.

Tapeley, before he was executed, made an agreement with several of the witnesses to the execution to give a signal if he remained conscious after the trap was sprung. Those who saw the hanging, including the attending physician, all agree that Tapeley fulfilled his promise, showing that he was conscious for some time after his neck had been broken.

Those who were at work on the bill yesterday had nothing to say for publication, except that it would take several days for them to prepare it.

Christmas Drunk Fined.

Harry Donnelly, suffering from too much Christmas cheer, was arrested yesterday by Officer O'Keefe. Judge Runyon made it $3 or ten days. He paid.

There will be a Danish meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow evening, with preaching by Rev. Kaer.

the circulating department.

A book label appears on many of the older books, testifying to the existence of a library in Plainfield previous to the present public institution, and to the Y. M. C. A. library, going back as far as 1846. This label gives rules governing distribution of books, and is headed "Plainfield Library." At that time a payment of $1 a year was required, and a fine of three cents imposed for overdue books, and the library was open on but two afternoons in the week. These books bear also the stamp "Plainfield Library Co."

It will be interesting to the present generation to know that this library, the forerunner of our present library, was housed in the office of Dr. Stillman. O. B. Leonard, of this city, since the presentation of the above books, has given the library the original draft of the "Certificates of Incorporation of the Plainfield Library Company," showing the first trustees to have been the following: James C. Ayers, William M. Jennings, Hugh D. Vail, Elston Marsh, Dr. C. H. Stillman, Zachariah Webster and George Sheldon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. St. John, of Watchung avenue, left Asheville, N. C., yesterday for home.

Heavenly Rest P. E.

The was one full service at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Clinton avenue, yesterday morning, at 10:30. It was well attended. The chancel was attractively decorated with greens and flowers. The sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Dupee, the new rector.

Faith Chapel.

Instead of joining with the First Baptist church Sunday-school in its Christmas service on Sunday afternoon, as usual, the members of Faith chapel held its own services at the chapel at that time. L. W. Randolph, the superintendent, was in charge, and conducted the opening exercises, assisted by U. B. Crane. There were carols by the school, a welcome address by Roy Hafner. A feature was the reading of a poem, written by the late Craig Waldron, and read by Miss Conger.

The rest of the programme included an anthem by the choir, recitations by Lilliam Handt and Helen Myers and an address by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson. Tonight the Sunday-school will hold its annual Christmas entertainment.

All Souls' Unitarian.

The feature of the morning service at All Souls' church on Sunday morning was the sermon by the pastor, Rev. A. C. Nickerson, and a vocal solo by Alex Van Oss, accompanied on the organ by Stephen Haff. There were no special exercises by the children, but the Sunday school will enjoy a Christmas party tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 at the home of the superintendent, Warren Travell, of Third place.

Warren Chapel.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey occupied the pulpit at Warren chapel morning and evening and an increased choir provided special music. The children held their exercises in the afternoon and beside having carols and recitations they were addressed by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie. The chapel was prettily decorated with Christmas greens.

First M. E.

A large congregation at the First M. E. church enjoyed the special music at the morning service in the First M. E. church, while Dudley Buck's Christmas cantata, "The Coming of the King," was given in the evening. On both occasions, Rev. Dr. McCrea preached Christmas sermons.

The children's exercises in the afternoon were enjoyed by a gathering of parents and friends and comprised the singing of carols and recitative numbers. Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, who had charge of the primary department, rendered a solo and Rev. Herbert Welch, president of Ohio Wesleyan University, gave an address.

Grace M. E.

At the regular church services in Grace M. E. church, the music was in charge of Miss Alice Carrol, organist, while Miss Winifred Carroll was the soloist. Dr. Parsons preached both morning and evening.

The children who took part in the programme in the afternoon, as arranged by Miss Mary Steiner and Miss Della Voehl, were the following: Recitations, Kenneth Giddes, Roy Taynor, Edna Mantz, Blanche Stout, Elizabeth Voorhees, Russel Story, Mildred Hardin, Evelyn Nelson, Bessie Nelson, Eva Nelson, Phoebe Titus, Gladys Brokaw, Lena Mobus and Etta Bodenheimer; song numbers by Hilda Story, Etta Bodenheimer, Edith Lippincott, Lena Mobus, Eva Taynor and Elizabeth Voorhees. Carols were sung by the entire school and an address was delivered by Dr. Parsons.

Christmas Birthday Surprise.

A birthday party was tendered Miss Mattie Smith, of 20 Steiner place, by thirty-five of her friends last night. The affair was a surprise, arranged by Miss Annie Rupert and Miss Frances Newman. Games, music and refreshments were the features.

Holy Cross P. E.

Three services were held at Holy Cross P. E. church yesterday morning, at 6, 8 and 11 o'clock. Communion was celebrated at each service. The congregations were large, particularly at 8 o'clock. The church was lavishly decorated with wreaths and green ropes. Rev. Mr. Warren, the rector, preached a Christmas sermon from the text "Peace on earth, good will toward men." The music was striking.

St. Stephen's P. E.

Christmas gifts for the rector, Rev. A. S. Peck, marked the main service at St. Stephen's P. E. church, Netherwood, yesterday. After the 11 o'clock celebration of the communion, which was largely attended, Mr. Peck was presented with two handsome stoles by Adam Hill, on behalf of the vestry; Charles Suhr, the organist, presented him with a sermon holder, for the choir, and a surplice was presented on behalf of St. Faith's Guild.

Rev. D. L. Morgan, of New York, conducted the service, and the early celebration of the communion at 7:30 o'clock. There was a good sized attendance at the first service. The church was attractively decorated. The music was unusually fine and formed a distinct feature of the observance.

MRS. HARRY THAW IN A BUTCHER'S "AD."

Former Chorus Girl May Sue for Use of Her Picture in "Beauty and the Beast."

Pittsburg, Dec. 26.—"The Beauty and the Beast," an art calendar printed in Elizabeth, N. J., is commanding cabinet photograph prices and more, nothwithstanding it bears the advertisement of Haudenshield & Co., butchers. It may involve the publishers in a damage suit, because the "Beauty" is recognized as Mrs. Florence Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, former model and show girl, wife of Harry Kendall Thaw, Pittsburg millionaire.

The calendar shows a beautiful girl reclining on the skin of a polar bear. The head of the "Beast" remains attached to the pelt, and the cheek of the beautiful woman is pressed against the jowl of the brute.

There seems to have been no design on the part of the butcher to make capital of the Thaw social sensation, for he confessed that he was at a loss to know why his calendar became so popular the first day that he could not hand the mout fast enough. It was all explained when an agent of the Thaw family called at the shop and demanded the entire edition.

At first the butcher refused and was inclined to be defiant. But when the agent threatened arrest and offered to pay a good price for all that were left he surrendered what remained. Then the agent went out to buy up the copies that had been given away. People are holding on to them, and few who possess the picture will admit it.

Death of Mrs. Blanche Wilson.

Mrs. Blanche Wilson, wife of Ramsey Wilson, died at her home on Richmond street, last night. She was twenty-six years old and is survived by her mother and three children. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

$3 Fine for Drunk.

James McCann, arrested for helpless drunkenness, was arraigned in the city court this morning. He paid $3 to get out.

Children's Home Christmas Tree.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

With a plot that never loses its grip on the audiences and a scenic achievement that made the production famous "On the Bridge at Midnight" has won its way among the most successful American plays and its coming to this city on Thursday night will arouse unusual interest. The completeness and excellence of the scenic equipment has been steadily maintained by the owners and managers, George Klimt and Frank Gazzolo, and they are touring the attraction this season with an exceptionally strong company, including two of the best comedians in the country for the two characters which are the particular hits of the performance, the professor and the bootblack. Plenty of humor makes "On the Bridge at Midnight" a most entertaining drama and the bridge scene is always immediately recognized as a masterpiece of stage ingenuity as well as a realistic picture of deep and fine melodramatic interest. At the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night.

In his new melodrama, "A Race for life," booked for presentation at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, Theodore Kremer has gone as far afield as the mountain wilds of California for melodramatic material and strongly typical characters, and the result is said to be by all odds the most novel, thrilling and romantic piece of stagecraft he has constructed for the entertainment of his hosts of admirers. There are four acts pronounced full of stirring plot, intense dramatic action, liveliest comedy, mirthful mechanical devices, and wild and breezy atmosphere, and to each a well-founded climax, each succeeding one more telling than its predecessor, and as full of super-sensation and combined racy and radical comedy as love, hatred, jealousy, greed, brutality, treachery, trustworthiness, Irish wit, Chinese antics, dynamite and unadulterated deviltry can load them.

The big success, George M. Cohan's musical play, "Running for Office," will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday, January 6. For brilliant, catchy and tuneful airs, Mr. Cohan holds the first premium among the American song writers. In "Running for Office," his successful efforts are "The Football Girls," "Sweet Popularity," "They Are Hypnotized," "Kid Days," "Root for Riley," "Flirtation on the Beach," "I Want to go to Paree, Papa," "If I Were Only Mr. Morgan," "I'll Be There at the Public Square," "Reubens on Parade," and others all of which have caught the public fancy. The production is splendidly mounted with the original production used in New York during the long run of the piece in the Metropolis.

"How Hearts Are Broken," a new four act play by Langdon McCormick, which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, is an emotional melodrama full of startling situations and strong heart interest. The heroine is best on every side by wicked men and gossiping women, but is finally extricated from her dilemma by the aid of an old blind musician, who is an interesting character all through the play. The management has furnished a capable company of about twenty people, all carefully selected as to their fitness for the roles they portray and special new scenery has been prepared.

Another of the high class productions that Manager Counihan has procured for the New Plainfield theatre will be seen tonight. It is "The Lightning Conductor," in which Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon are starring. It is replete with dramatic interest and wonderful mechanical effects, one of them showing an automobile traveling at sixty miles an hour.

New District Passenger Agent.

About a month ago W. C. Walsh resigned as district passenger agent of the Central Railroad of New Jersey to engage in other business. The new appointee is C. K. Armstrong, who has been district passenger agent of the Burlington road at St. Paul. Mr. Armstrong has had many years experience in the railroad business, and comes into the new field with many new ideas, and is looked upon favorably by railroad men in general.

LITERARY.

It is true that the musical side of London society, with is streak of Bohemianism and its necessary toleration of foreign ways and professional manners, is far less typically English than the sporting side or the political side or the Philistine side; so much so, indeed, that people may and do pass their lives in it without ever discovering what English plutocracy in the mass is really like; still, if you wander in it nocturnally for a fitful year or so as I did, with empty pockets and an utter impossibility of approaching it by daylight (owing to the deplorable decay of the morning wardrobe), you have something more actual to go on than the hallucinations of a peasant lad setting his foot manfully on the lowest rung of the social ladder. I never climbed any ladder: I have achieved eminence by mere gravitation; and I hereby warn all peasant lads nto to be duped by my pretended example into regarding their present servitude as a practicable first step to a celebrity so dazzling that its subject cannot even suppress his own bad novels.—Bernard Shaw in the January Metropolitan Magazine.

McClure's Magazine begins the new year with a number filled with American activity and decency. From the first article telling of the daily life of probably the most consistently active man in the country, the President, to the editorials at the end which preach the gospel of decent, upright living, there is not a page bare of either instruction, appeal, or healthy entertainment. Lincoln Steffens writes of Mayor Mark Fagan, of Jersey City. Ray Stannard Baker presents the third article of his series, "The Railroad on Trial," making astonishing exposures this time of the strange, devious methods of the big shippers to hold up the railroads and the public, and to gobble wealth from both through the private car abuses. Henry Beach Needham in an article illustrated with rare portraits and photographs of Mr. Roosevelt tells of the routine of the President's life, of the marvellous amount of work he manages to accomplish in a brief time, and of the diversity of his interests. The Reminiscences of Carl Schurz continue, dealing with the vital events from which the present German Empire drew its life. Stewart Edward White begins in the January number a new series of short stories, woven together by a slight chain of narrative, with the title "Arizona Nights." Each story is to be complete in itself. "Uncle Jim's Yarn, the Indian Story," the first of the new series, borrows life from the out-of-doors; "it breathes rough health and contentment, and is full of the true spirit of the West.

WANTED TO USE RAZOR AT PLAINFIELD THEATRE.

Mason Jackson, a Colored Waiter, Objected to Being Ejected.

Mason Jackson, colored, a waiter, displayed a jag in the gallery of the New Plainfield theatre last night, and was thrown out by Property-Man Jack Rafferty. Jackson was enraged and went away swearing vengeance.

He went to the house of his employer, where his things were, and armed himself with a razor. He made no secret of his intention to go back to the theatre to make trouble. He indicated the sort of trouble by flourishing the razor. His employer made no attempt to dissuade him, but telephoned to the police as soon as he left the house. When Jackson reached the theatre he found Officer O'Keefe waiting for him. O'Keefe had a club and a husky physique to offset Jackson's desire for trouble, and the waiter went to the jug without undue fuss.

He had nothing to say in palliation of his offense this morning in the city court, and Judge Runyon made it $10 or twenty days. He paid. His razor was confiscated.

Bread Supply Exhausted.

The bread supply of Plainfield ran out yesterday noon. Not a baker in town had a loaf left by 12 o'clock. The bake shops turned the usual number of loaves out, but big dinners and the demand for fowl stuffing ate up the supply to a famine finish. Housewives who found the level of the broadbox going down after noon found it impossible to raise it, search as they might.

PASSING OF SHIPYARD

Death of an Big Industry That For a Time Flourished.

NOTED VESSELS BUILT

A Cruiser, A Monitor, Gunboats, Torpedo Boats Among the Number Constructed at Elizabeth.

The sale of the Crescent Ship yards, announced last Friday, marks the passing of what was once an important ship building industry in Elizabeth. The pioneers of the Crescent enterprise were Charles E. and Samuel L. Moore, who in 1854 started in business on Bond street, below Front street, in that city, where they continued until 1869. Then Charles E. Moore withdrew from the firm and Douglass G. Moore became a partner, the new firm name being S. L. Moore & Son. The Samuel L. Moore & Sons' Company was incorporated in 1886 with Samuel L. Moore, president; Douglass G. Moore, vice president, and Miller F. Moore, secretary and treasurer. The Crescent Iron Works was adopted as the name of the establishment. In 1886 the property on Front street, running north from Marshall street to a point between Fulton and East Jersey streets, was purchased and extensive improvements made. The buildings were enlarged and additional machinery installed. The first vessel constructed there by the S. L. Moore & Sons' Company was the Bancroft.

In 1894 Lewis Nixon, who was superintending constructor of the plant of the Cramp Shipbuilding Company, at Philadelphia, resigned his position with the Cramps and leased the Crescent shipyard from the Moores. The plant had been idle for two years. Lewis Nixon conducted the yard independently until 1900 when the United States Shipbuilding Company was formed and the Crescent was taken into the combination. When the company got into financial straits the Crescent went into the hands of a receiver in 1903, since which time the yards have been practically closed.

All the vessels in course of construction or undergoing repairs at the time had been seized by order of the courts and the working force with few a exceptions was discharged. Soon after the seizure the authorities of the Brooklyn Navy Yard sent two powerful tugs over to the yards at night and stole the cruiser Chattanooga, which was about completed, and towed her over to Brooklyn, despite the protests of the sheriff, who was in control. The Chattanooga is one of the six protected cruisers built at the yards of the company.

The Annapolis the first composite gunboat built for the United States Navy, was constructed at the Crescent yards. Before leaving the vessel after the trial trip, Commodore, now Admiral, George Dewey, president of the trial board, remarked to those standing about him as he wrote a dispatch to the naval authorities at Washington, stating that the trial was "most satisfactory," "it is not customary to use adjectives in such dispatches, but really, this time it cannot be helped. She deserves them."

The monitor, Florida, and the torpedo boats, Nicholson and O'Brien, were also built there for Uncle Sam's Navy, and the Holland, the first of the submarine boats designed by John P. Holland, was built there.

Two gunboats for the Mexican navy, the Tampico and the Vera Cruz, as well as some of the fastest yachts afloat in these waters, slid down the ways into the waters of Staten Island sound from the Crescent yard.

The steam yacht Freelance was built here for F. Augustus Schermerhorn, of New York, and the Yacht Czarina, for Mr. Bryant, of New York. Probably no yacht in America has attracted more widespread attention than the Josephine, built at the Crescent yards for P. A. Widener, the traction magnate of Philadelphia.

The first vessel turned out at the Crescent yards after Mr. Nixon took charge was the Elizabeth, named in honor of the city, and was built for the Standard Oil Company.

Today the yards present a deserted appearance, in sharp contrast to the bustling scenes witnessed there a few years ago, but if the plans of the new owners do not miscarry, the doors of the old buildings with new additions and new machinery, will soon be thrown open to many employes.

Horse Was Unruly.

The horse attached to Edward M. Devine's coal wagon became fractious yesterday afternoon on Washington street, and tried to break up the roadway. It did succeed in smashing one of the shafts and most of the harness. It started to run away, but was checked by a muscular man halfway down the block.

7TH DAY BAPTISTS ENJOY XMAS FESTIVAL

DR. MAXSON HAS CHARGE OF THE PROGRAMME.

The members of the Sabbath school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church enjoyed their Christmas festival in the parlors of the church, last night. Dr. Henry M. Maxson, assistant superintendent, had charge of the programme. The church was decorated with greens and red bunting.

The programme compgised vocal solos by Miss Elizabeth Stillman, of Westfield, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson and piano solos by Miss Mabel Maxson.

A feature was the reading of the story of "The Night Before Christmas," by Mrs. James E. Kimball, and illustrated with tableaux by the children of the primary department. After this part of the programme Mrs. Johnson gave a violin solo.

The price of admission to the entertainment was one red apple and these together with other useful articles, as well as a contribution of money voted by the primary department, will be given to the Children's Home and poor children. At the conclusion of the programme the committee from the Sabbath school served refreshments and a social hour was spent.

JUDGE VAIL LENIENT ON AUTO OFFENDER

PETER CRON GETS OFF ON A SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

In the Court of Special Sessions at Elizabeth, this morning, sentence was suspended on Peter Cron, charged with excessive speed of his auto and running down a woman on Broad street, Elizabeth, several weeks ago. Mr. Cron was sentenced recently to thirty days imprisonment, but his counsel secured his client's release on a writ of error. The writ was returnable this morning, and his counsel made a strong plea for a modification of the sentence, declaring that the defendant was eminently respectable and that he had no intention of violating a law. In a large measure he contended the accident was unavoidable. Judge Vail announced that he would suspend sentence, adding that in the future any person brought before him and convicted of a similar offense, would get the full penalty.

William Mackey, who pleaded guilty last week to two charges of flim-flamming merchants of Elizabeth, was sentenced to three months in the county jail on each charge, the sentence to run concurrently. Mackey worked the game of visiting a shop, making a purchase and in paying the bill would make the money disappear mysteriously and then claim that he knew nothing about it. He made a pathetic plea for a suspension of sentence, claiming that if sent to jail his wife would have to work hard to support the family. It was learned that Mackey was an old offender.

PASTOR JACKSON'S FAREWELL.

Mt. Olive's Special Service on January 14.

The annual meeting of the Mt. Olive Baptist church for the election of deacons and trustees and transaction of other business was held last night. The deacons chosen for the coming year are D. W. Brown, William Phillips, Peter Gordon, Nathan J. Pollard, Abner Hancock and William Burton. Armstead Jackson, Samuel Seay and Edward Martin were added to the board of trustees.

It was voted to appropriate the necessary sum for the transportation of the New York choir which will furnish music at the farewell service of Pastor Jackson on Sunday, January 14. Resolutions expressing the congregation's appreciation of the pastor's services were also adopted. It was announced that Rev. J. E. Harris, of Newport News, Va., will be the preacher on Sunday.

On Friday night, January 12, the regular covenant meeting will be held and the annual reports of the treasurer and various societies will be presented. On Sunday, January 7, there will be communion and baptism by the pastor.

FOURTEEN CONFIRMED AT NETHERWOOD CHURCH

WORDS OF CHEER FOR ST. STEPHEN'S FROM BISHOP SCARBOROUGH.

Bishop Scarborough confirmed a class of fourteen candidates at St. Stephen's P. E. church, Netherwood, last night. The service was largely attended.

The bishop was assisted by the rector, Rev. S. C. Peck, and Rev. Dr. Neilsen, in conducting the service. Mr. Peck presented the candidates. The class was composed of three girls, two boys, three men and six young women.

The bishop's sermon was marked by encouraging comment on the work of the parish. He complimented the rector on the prosperity of his charge, and the way in which it is growing. He spoke of the future of the parish and the possibility of a new church. He was very hopeful of securing a new church, and urged the people to work for that end. The future of the parish, he said, was very good.

The music of the service was unusually good. An anthem was finely sung, with A. E. Sprowl in the solo work.

YOUNG MAN TO GET FORTUNE NEXT MONTH

GEORGE L. BABCOCK WILL BE 21 IN JANUARY.

George L. Babcock, son of the late George H. Babcock, attains his majority next month and arrangements are now being made to dissolve the trusteeship of what is known as the Babcock estate. This was formed after the death of his father. The trustees are William M. Stillman, Joseph A. Hubbard and J. Bennett Clarke. They manage and control the estate.

Notice is now given that on January 31 the account of the executors and trustees under the will of the late George H. Babcock will be stated and audited by the surrogate with a view to settling up the business of the estate. After this is done the trustees will be discharged and George L. Babcock will come into his share of the big estate and will probably assume the management of it.

The largest part of the real estate in this city is the Babcock building, while there are a number of other properties here and elsewhere, including Alfred, N. Y., and in the West, to be considered in the settlement.

It is understood that upon Mr. Babcock attaining his majority and the settlement of the estate, that Asa F. Randolph and Joseph A. Hubbard, of this city, will be retained as his advisors in the management of his estate.

Mr. Babcock is now a student at Alfred University, in which his father had a large interest prior to his death, and which has been maintained by the estate. Upon the settlement of the estate, Mrs. Babcock, widow of the late George H. Babcock, will also receive her share. It is not likely that there will be any radical changes made by Mr. Babcock or his mother, that the interests as heretofore will be continued.

First M. E. Programme.

The primary department of the First M. E. church Sunday-school will hold its Christmas entertainment in Vincent chapel Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This will also include the beginners and cradle roll departments. The main school entertainment will be held in the evening at 7:30 o'clock. Moving pictures will be the chief attraction, while there will also be an exchange of gifts. The galleries will be reserved for the parents and friends of the school.

Funeral of Mrs. Jeppe Sorensen.

The funeral of Mrs. Jeppe Sorensen was held last night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Johnson, of East Third street. It was conducted by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. The floral tributes were numerous. Interment was made at Somerville this morning, the pall bearers being Benjamin Eddy, Clarence Rittenhouse, Thomas M. Muir and George Graves.

At Mt. Olive Church.

Christmas exercises were held at the Mt. Olive Baptist church Sunday night under the auspices of the Sunday-school. The programme comprised the singing of carols, recitations and selections by the choir, while the pastor, Rev. Dr. E. E. Jackson, preached a Christmas sermon. The Christmas entertainment will be held Thursday night.

Collegian Will Lead.

Richard Lovell, of Yale, '08, will lead the first boys' meetings of the new year at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday, January 7.

CONSTABLE'S BLACK EYE

Although the Discoloration Faded Many Weeks Ago Pierce Still Seeks Satisfaction.

KEEPS AT GRAND JURY

One Jury Wouldn't Indict the Puncher, But He Has Hopes of the New Body—Started a Tort Suit, Too.

Determined to get satisfaction for a black-eye, Constable Robert Pierce, of New Market, has called the attention of the new Grand Jury of Middlesex county to a case in which the old Grand Jury refused to indict, and is doing all a complainant and an officer of the law can do to bring the indictment about. In addition to that, the constable has started a suit in tort against the author of the discoloration tht marred his optic.

The source of the discoloration lay in the fist of Abner Coriell, Jr., a well known young man of Dunellen. He wielded the fist one day last August and ever since then Constable Pierce has been seeking satisfaction. He says he will keep on seeking until he gets it.

Pierce had just served a subpoena in a civil suit on Coriell, when the blow was struck. Coriell didn't want the paper and refused to take it. Pierce laid subpoena and fee on Coriell's folded arms and walked away. Coriell followed him and expressed his feelings in unshorn language. After a little of that excitement his feelings gave way entirely and he landed a thump, with scientific accuracy, on the constable's right optic. Constable Pierce's feelings became ruffled at that point and he reached for his billy. He was hampered by an umbrella and a package of meat, however, and Coriell was out of reach before the billy could be brought into play. Since then the constable has carried with him a consuming and unsatisfied thirst for satisfaction.

The night of the clash Coriell surrendered himself and the case was sent to the Grand Jury. The constable thought his day was coming, but the Grand Jury, after considering the facts and other things connected with the matter, refused to indict. Pierce was so put out by the failure to indict that he almost said things unbecoming an officer and a servant of the courts.

But he comes of fighting stock, and the incident was not closed. He waited until the present Grand Jury was drawn and then he laid the facts before Judge Fort. Judge Fort is regarded as the personification of rugged justice in Middlesex county, and Pierce has hopes that something will drop on young Mr. Coriell when this jury gets through its labors.

Made wise by his experience with the other jury, however, the constable has decided that everything in the way of satisfaction shouldn't be left to the grand jurors. Hence, the suit in tort. He has assured himself that Coriell makes money enough to give value to a judgment and has almost more hopes of satisfaction from that source than from the jury room.

"I'll have satisfaction for that blow, if it takes me all my life," said the constable, with emphasis, this morning. "I have been a constable for thirty-one years, and this is the first time anything like this has happened to me. I don't intend to pass it over."

The constable is too simple-minded a man to say "Re-e-e-e-venge!" about a thing like this, but that is what his face looked like as he went away.

LOTUS GLEE CLUB.

Will Appear at Y. M. C. A. Monday Night.

The Lotus Glee Club, which will appear with Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith in the Y. M. C. A. star course on Monday evening, January 1, was organized in 1881-2. Of the present quartette Charles L. Lewis, of this city, is the oldest member, having joined the club in 1884. They have traveled and given concerts in every State this side of the Rocky Mountains, with two exceptions, and have had three London seasons.

The club enjoys a unique distinction from other quartettes, having the prestige of a distinguished European success in addition to its high rank among leading American organizations.

The club has always been noted for its ensemble work and its perfect blending and shading, and the artistic character of its singing is due in no small measure to the admirable method of the conductor, Frank J. Smith, who has been with them from the beginning.

Boys Gym. Exhibition.

The Y. M. C. A. juniors will give an exhibition of their regular class work in the gymnasium next Monday morning at 11 o'clock. A basketball game will be a feature of the programme.

The piece to be given is "Sunset," by Jerome K. Jerome, and it will be presented by Miss Louise Saunders, Mrs. S. Fullerton Weaver, Miss Van Deventer, Walter M. McGee, Clifford W. McGee and Morgan T. Townsend. Rehearsals for the play have been held weekly for some time and a successful production is assured.

The patronesses for the afternoon reception will be Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, Mrs. Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Henry C. Irons and Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows.

The events at the club this week include the annual Christmas dance on Thursday night and an informal dance on Saturday night, both of which will be largel attended by society folk from the city and borough.

SEWER ORDINANCE MAY BE HELD UP

COMMON COUNCIL MAY NOT PASS IT FRIDAY NIGHT.

It is improbable that the ordinance providing for the south side sanitary sewer and pumping stations will be adopted on final reading by the Common Council at its special meeting Friday night. As Councilman Tolles stated at the last meeting, Street Commissioner Gavett is not satisfied with the proposed method for installing the pumping stations, and furthermore J. O. Osgood, the consulting engineer, is still undecided as to several material matters in connection with the suggested improvement.

There are two or three systems under consideration for the operation of the pumping stations. These include compressed air and electricity.

While it is true that the councilmanic street committee, as well as Commissioner Gavett and Consulting Engineer Osgood, have been discussing the scheme for some time, several councilmen do not feel sufficiently acquainted with the details to vote an expenditure of $55,000.

GIFTS FOR PASTOR AT XMAS FESTIVAL

REV. AND MRS. MUSSON RECEIVE PRESENTS AT FAITH CHAPEL EXERCISES

The distribution of handsome and useful gifts, the singing of carols and an entertaining and instructive sketch by Speedon, the character artist, together with instrumental numbers, combined to make the annual Christmas festivities at Faith chapel last night a delightful one to the members and friends of the chapel and Sunday school. The auditorium and class room were filled to overflowing with people and all joined enthusiastically in the programme, under the direction of Superintendent L. W. Randolph.

After the opening exercises by Mr. Randolph, a recitation by Lillian Handt and a carol by the school, Speedon entertained with character songs and some clever sketch work with the crayon. He greatly amused all, especially the children. His work throughout was of a high character.

There was a cornet solo by Whitney Frazee, accompanied by Clifford A. Braider on the piano, after which Superintendent Randolph, assisted by Frank Stewart, assistant superintendent, distributed gifts. Rev. J. W. Musson, the pastor, and Mrs. Musson, were the recipients of a Morris chair, a hugh stocking filled with numerous useful articles, a silk pillow and a handsome quilt made by the Ladies' Aid Society and bearing the names of a great many persons who contributed toward it. This netted $100 for the chapel work.

W. A. Conger, the organist, received a solid oak chair, and Mr. Randolph was presented with a costly umbrella by Mr. Stewart, on behalf of the school. The primary and infant departments received books, dolls, and all received boxes of candy. There were also special gifts to U. B. Crane, Chris. Utzinger and Mrs. Oblinger, for faithful work performed during the year.

Throughout there was a happy expression of good fellowship on the part of pastor, superintendent and members of the chapel and school. Clifford A. Braider presided at the piano during the evening, accompanying in the singing of carols and for Speedon and Whitney Frazee.

Assistant Superintendent Frank Stewart received a gold watch chain and charm from the members of the school. The children brought potatoes, apples and other things which will be sent to the Children's Home today, thus inculcating the spirit of giving as well as receiving.

MARKET FOR PLAINFIELD

Plan For Such an Institution to Be Located in East Front Street.

MR. LA RUE'S SCHEME

To Run Through to Second Street and to Be Similar to Those Found in Many Larger Cities.

Back of the announcement made yesterday that Ira L. LaRue, the local real estate agent, had secured an option on the plot of ground on East Front street opposite Woodhull & Martin's, is a plan that will probably mean a great change in property in that section. Associated with Mr. LaRue are several Plainfielders who have in view a scheme to build an up-to-date market on the ground extending through to East Second street and eventually over to North avenue. In the event of the project reaching a successful culmination, which will undoubtedly be brought about, the building boom in that section will be given added impetus.

Open markets are a feature of many of the several cities in New Jersey, and large cities in other States, particularly in the South. Mr. LaRue has devoted considerable time to studying them, especially the one at Newark. He has held the idea for one in Plainfield several years but there has always been a difficulty in getting a proper site. The one on East Front street seems to offer every advantage and the option was secured as soon as it was feasible.

When spoken to about his plans today, Mr. LaRue stated they were not at a stage where much could be said of them but that he hoped to have things in shape within a short time. Tentatively, he said, it was his purpose, as leader of the movement, to secure the East Front street property and the plot east of Fire Headquarters as the needed site. The building to be erected, he said, would surpass anything of its kind in this section and would be an ornament to the streets at either entrance.

According to his idea it can be three stories in the main, connected by a one-story structure. The upper part could be made into flats with stores beneath, while the connecting link could be used as the market proper, with stalls ranged along as is done in the New York markets.

Frank M. Bacon has been associated with Mr. LaRue in negotiating for the property.

ORRA S. ROGERS WEDS; MISS HUBBARD HIS BRIDE.

Quiet Nuptial Ceremony at Lockport, N. Y., Today.

Mrs. Ella Burdick Hubbard and Orra S. Rogers, of Madison avenue, were married at the home of the bride at Lockport, N. Y., today, in the presence of the near relatives and intimate friends. The couple will go to the home of the groom's parents at Alfred, N. Y., for a visit, after which they will come to this city to live.

Mr. Rogers is well-known here. He has been very active in religious work, being identified with the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., also the work at the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

WHO IS WILLIAM HEERAN?

No Trace Here of Crooks' Victim Who Says He's a Plainfielder.

A man giving his name as William Heeran, and his address as 612 South avenue, this city, was picked up in front of a saloon at Seventeenth and Walnut streets, Newark, yesterday, suffering from the combined effects of knockout drops and a fractured skull. He recovered consciousness enough to give his supposed name and address and to state that he took one drink in the saloon and remembered nothing after that, and that he is a diamond merchant and carried $600 worth of gems in a bag when he went into the saloon. Neither money nor jewels were found on him.

No trace of a man named Heeran, or anything like it, could be found in the city this morning by Daily Press reporters. The tax books show that 612 South avenue is a vacant lot, surrounded by vacant lots.

Getting Church Census.

In preparation for its series of special services, which will begin early in January, Hope chapel is having a census of the West End taken. The data is designed to show who in the district go to church and where they go; those who don't go and where they would go if they went; and those who have no desire to go at all. The information will enable the workers to make an intelligent personal canvass of the section. The census covers the district between New street, Rock avenue, First and Sixth streets.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Nearly a dozen young people of this place have parts in the cast of "The Pirates of Penzance," which is to be presented by William Holmes, the vocal instructor, at the Casino, Plainfield, with amateur talent. Among the Dunellenites who will be seen in the opera are Miss Mabel Cole, Miss Edna Baldwin, Miss Edith Boice, Miss Emma Craig, Miss Josephine Dealaman, Miss Mary Baldwin and Sydney Craig, Miss May Brower and Aaron Brown, of Piscataway, will also take part.

One of the important things to be done by the new Council at its first meeting will be to appoint a recorder. There is little doubt that the present incumbent of the position, David S. Campbell, will be returned to office. Judge Campbell has administered police court justice with rare wisdom and discretion, and no change could be for the better. It is understood that the judge is willing to continue in office, although he has made no public announcement of that fact.

Six new members were taken into the Presbyterian church Sunday. They were admitted on confession of faith. The new members are Mrs. Charles Dodwell, Benjamin Dodwell, George Apgar, Miss Meta Pennock, and Mr. and Mrs. Evans, of Church street. Mr. Apgar and Mrs. Evans were baptised after admission.

Collector G. W. Day is treasuring a letter of congratulation sent to him by County Collector David Serviss. The congratulations were extended because Mr. Day turned Dunellen's taxes into the county treasury before the money of any other municipality had been paid over. Sayreville got second place.

The children of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist churches held their Christmas festivals last night. Grown-up members of the church were at the affair in large numbers. They passed off pleasantly, with programmes of recitations, music, and distribution of gifts.

The agitation for improved lighting has taken such form that the attention of the Council will probably be directed to it at its meeting next week. The borough fathers can bring the company to terms if it will, at least on the renewal of weakening lamps.

Supt. Campbell, of the P. S. C., Plainfield, inspected the new manhole and as much of the main as he could see from that vantage point yesterday.

Street Commissioner Staats has completed his work of getting the streets scraped and cleaned for the winter.

The heating and ventilating apparatus at the Whittier School has been repaired and put in first-class shape.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Siriski entertained relatives from Raritan at dinner Christmas Day.

Miss Annie Ace is entertaining Miss May Somney, of East Stroudsburg, Pa.

Court Dunellen will hold a postponed meeting tomorrow night.

Miss Alice Fenner spent Christmas with friends in Brooklyn.

M., has elected the following officers for the coming year: Councillor, Richard Hart; vice councillor, Squier Reick; conductor, Harvey Goodman; warden, Harvey Wade; treasurer, William Jamison, corresponding secretary, Ernest Clark; financial secretary, George H. Johnston.

The work on the improvements to be made at the Newark Orphan Asylum Home at Mountainside has been started and will be rushed through so as to have the place ready for the children in May of the coming year.

The two days' auction sale of the household goods and farming utensils of Thomas Molloy at Glenside Park started today and will continue tomorrow.

Fanwood Council, R. A., met last night in the Library rooms. The annual installation of officers will take place at the first meeting in January.

The police appropriation carried at the last election was so small that the local police department is practically out of business for a time.

Albert Gibbs, formerly a resident here, but now of Bayonne, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gibbs, of Park avenue.

Miss Lizzie Demott, of Gladstone, N. J., has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Norman Dunn.

The Township Committee meets tonight in the town rooms.

PERSONAL.

Tenadore VanCleef, of East Millstone, is visiting relatives in this city for a time.

Edward Blair, the orderly at the hospital, has recovered from an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Giles, of East Fifth street, spent Christmas with friends at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bayard Hawthorn, of West Front street, are entertaining relatives from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius vanHerwerden, of South avenue, are entertaining their relatives from Philadelphia.

John Carney, who has been living at Monticello, N. Y., during the past three months, has returned to the borough for the holiday season.

Among the enjoyable family reunions in this city on Monday was one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Babcock, of Clinton avenue.

Charles B. Brown, assistant State secretary of the Y. M. C. A., had his Christmas dinner with his sister, Mrs. J. T. Pray, of East Fifth street.

TWICE-TOLD TESTIMONY.

Plainfield People Are Doing All They Can for Fellow Sufferers.

Plainfield testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Plainfield who suffer from bad backs and kidney ills. Lest any sufferer doubt that the cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills are thorough and lasting, we produce confirmed proof—statements from Plainfield people saying that the cures they told of years ago were permanent. Here's a Plainfield case:

Rhoda A. Martin, of 24 Jackson avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I had pains in my back and lions for about a year or more, no doubt caused by my kidneys being out of order. I felt it more in the morning, just after getting up or if I did any stooping or lifting. Notwithstanding the fact that I took all kinds of medicines, I never found anything which helped me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at L. W. Randolph's drug store. They not only removed the pain, but they strengthened me in other ways." (Statement made in January, 1901.)

Statement Confirmed.

On July 22, 1905, Mrs. Martin's daughter said: "The testimonial given for publication four years ago was true in regard to the benefit my mother derived from Doan's Kidney Pills, and today she is as ready and willing to repeat what she therein said as she was after using your medicine."

WELL FITTED.

After you've been suited as to style and have tried a Watson suit on, it is then that the fit will appeal to you. So cleverly have the Watson tailors cut the arm holes, modeled the shoulders, and fitted the collar, that you'll be proud to admit a custom tailor couldn't do better. The sort of style you'll find in the Watson made suit demands the attention and skill of the most competent tailormen—that the Watson suits have had. Besides they've had care in all the little things that lead to perfection.

When you can get authentic style and workmanship of the kind usually employed by the best custom tailors, and save money too in the bargain, it does seem as though you ought to put the Watson suit to the proof, doesn't it? They'll stand any test you can think of. Suits $10 to $25.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

(By Merry Tom)

Mrs. Paul Barnett, whose husband broke his leg during a performance here, is a member of the cast of "How Hearts Are Broken," that comes to the New Plainfield theatre tonight. Mr. Barnett, who is able to get about on crutches, will be included in the audience.

Several more big productions have been booked for the New Plainfield. Among these for early appearance are Willie Collier, in "On the Quiet;" Robert Mantell, in "Richard III.;" the Jeffersons, in "The Rivals;" Florence Bindley, in "The Street Singer;" "The Mummy and the Humming Bird" and "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots."

"The Barnum of them all" will be in town on February 15. That's the date set for the local Elks' big minstrel show, and it promises to be second only to Lew Dockstader and his company.

Former Mayor Fisk is doing great work in helping along the publicity end of the amateur production of "The Pirates of Penzance," to be given at the New Plainfield theatre on February 20.

A man gave me a reason the other day that may be the right one for the recent failures of Augustus Thomas. It was that Mr. Thomas has lived long enough in Paris to catch the French declamatory style of dematurgy and Americans demand action from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

For the second time in its history, the Ethical Society of Harvard University has asked a woman to address it. The lady so honored is Mrs. Fiske, and she will talk to the society on "The Ethics of the Theatre."

Walter Sherwin, the young Plainfielder who has been playing lead in "The Life that Kills," has returned home. The show closed in New Britain, Conn., after the Christmas night performance.

"Johnny" Galvin, of this city, who has been starring in "A Bell Boy" for the past two seasons, is "making good" through northern New York State and western Ontario. He now has a company of thirty people, who are carried in an up-to-date combination baggage and sleeping car.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

That people like to be amused is shown by the notable success of "Before and After" at the Manhattan theatre, New York. This "laughter play" by Leo Ditrichstein is drawing large audiences to this house, and has not only justified the good words said of it in the metropolitan press, but promises to achieve a notable run. The period immediately preceding the holidays is a trying one to the theatres generally, but "Before and After" has steadily been enjoyed at the Manhattan by large audiences, which fact promises a great vogue hereafter. There have been so few plays of comedy of the farcical type in New York this season that "Before and After" comes to fill a decided public want, and the gusto with which it is enjoyed augurs well for its long continuance. It has been a long time indeed since such a play has been so well acted as this is. The company is one of the cleverest that could be assembled in this country, and the union of clever actors and a medium worthy their efforts shows the natural result of prime public appreciation.

Henry E. Dixey starts on Monday his final two weeks in "The Man on the Box" at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, which is now known as the "theatre of successes." Every play that Walter N. Lawrence has produced there has been an unqualified success. It was Mr. Lawrence who picked out Mr. Dixey for the star part in this comedy and selected Carlotta Nillson to play the difficult comedy role opposite to him, thereby giving Miss Nillson her first opportunity to appear before New York audiences in a new line of work. As an emotional actress we knew her, but as a comedienne she has been a revelation. Mr. Dixey has never had a role since his first appearance in straight comedy that has suited him as well as the one in which he has been so successful in "The Man On the Box." To follow Mr. Dixey on January 8, Mr. Lawrence has arranged for the first American appearance of Henri de Vries in "A Case of Arson," and the London success, "Lucky Miss Dean." In giving this double bill, Mr. Lawrence believes he has found a novelty which the public will surely enjoy.

Real Opening of Boys' Club.

The Boys' Club, Sycamore street, will reopen January 2, with full classes, after a week's holiday recess. The courses in mechanical drawing, carpentry, moulding and pattern making will be started for the season. Only the carpentry students have been at work so far, and they only to make a new tool room. The school will be able to care for fifty students. At the end of the club year the classes will exhibit their work for the year.

Got $1,000 in Booty.

Burglars entered early Monday the home of Select Councilman William Drumpelman at Rahway and carried off jewelry and cash worth $1,000 and a number of smaller articles. The family were absent from the house, visiting friends a few doors away. When they returned they found the basement had been ransacked and every small article of value was taken. Upstairs the men went through the rooms, scattering the contents of bureau drawers about the floors and taking all the jewelry and small silver articles they could get. They also secured a good sum in cash.

Xmas at the State House.

Flying from the top of the staff on the State Capitol at Trenton Monday, the governor's flag announced that New Jersey, too, was keeping Christmas. The State's way of observing the day was to cease business and permit the officials to remain home with their families—or go visiting with their sweethearts—and in that way participate in the festivities of the occasion. Governor Stokes spent his Christmas at his home in Millville and the other officials followed his example and remained at home.

CAMP BOWSER FIVE PLAYS WITH P. H. S.

THAT IS A MORE OR LESS LITERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE GAME.

Whenever the colleges let their husky children out for a play time, Camp Bowser teams of various kinds, according to the season, spring up in Plainfield and bid defiance to all the rest of the athletic combinations in the city. Camp Bowser, be it explained, is a summer institution composed of Plainfield college youths. They know how to play most games, and play them well.

At present the reigning Camp Bowser combination is the basketball team. If the ice hardens up before the Christmas vacation ends, the C. B. hockey team will be in the field, but just now the glory of Camp Bowser rests with the basketball five. The five met the P. H. S. team yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, and made the champion interscholastic combination look like a twenty-five cent piece in immediate conjunction with a nickel. The score was 35 to 15.

There was nothing much to the game except a difference in weight. The opposing centers represented the keynote to the contest. Ray Biglow, the giant tackle of the Yale eleven, intercollegiate champions, was center for Camp Bowser, and Paul Collier was up against him. Collier is very, very thin. It is impolite to refer to this, but he acknowledges it himself. When Collier tried to block Biglow the unfeeling crowd laughed. This was wrong, because Collier did his best, even if Biglow didn't. The erstwhile tackle didn't have to. He only had to wiggle himself a little and the colliding youth fell away as if he had tried to push a cyclone to one side. The other Camp Bowserites had hardly any more trouble.

Bowser didn't loaf to any noticeable extent, however. What the High School boys lacked in weight they made up to some extent in speed, and Bowser had to work in order to keep the boys in proper subjection.

The game was good sport for the spectators, no matter what High School thought. Doane and the Freeman boys played well.

The teams lined up as follows:

W. Schoonmaker ..... S. Freeman
Howard ..... Doane forwards.
Biglow ..... Collier center.
R. Schoonmaker ..... H. Freeman
T. Howard ..... Caldwell guards.

10 YARD RULE FAILS.

No Scoring Under New Rule Suggested to Open Play.

Wichita, Kan., Dec. 27.—The first actual test of the proposed football rule which makes it necessary to gain ten yards in three downs was tried here Christmas Day. The proposed rule was tested in a game between the Washburn and Fairmount elevens, and so far as could be gathered from the play was a flat failure. No scoring was done in froty minutes of play, and only seven first downs made during the entire game. At no time was the ball far from the center of the field except directly following a punt. A little more than a month ago the same teams played a fairly interesting game, Washburn winning by 11 to 6.

The play yesterday was far different from that seen in the previous match, almost all the attempts to gain were made at the ends and the much desired "open play" was attempted again and again without practical results.

Few attempts were made at line plunges, in every instance the backs going in the line after they had made all but a yard or two of the required distance by end runs. Ten times in each half Fairmount was forced to punt, and Washburn kicked eighteen times during the game.

Except through punts neither team was able to get within fifteen yards of their opponents' goal, and the game was played entirely in the center of the field.

Corps Leaders and Bowling.

Two meetings of unusual interest to Y. M. C. A. young men will be held at the association Thursday night. Walter Cahoone, Edward Neal and Harry Scull will meet to arrange tests for the appointment of leaders, and C. B. Koons, F. A. Martin, G. H. Whitney and A. L. Jeffery will meet to fix on the details of the proposed bowling league.

Plainfield, N. J., December 27, 1905.

The Jersey Central's new time table is a step backward in the service heretofore accorded Plainfield. Complaints continue to be made. Will the management heed them?

Councilman Wilson should not be so persistent in his endeavor to rush through the sewer extension proposition. Undue haste may prove costly to the city and would serve no good purpose whatever. There are, as is well known, several important details yet being considered by Engineers Gavett and Osgood, and they should be settled before the Common Council goes any further. On that ground, if on no other, the city fathers can well afford to postpone action on Friday night.

Undoubtedly many will strongly disagree with the published opinion of the rector of Grace Episcopal church, Jersey City, that church fairs are only graft games and are to be condemned for that reason alone. Few indeed, however, would take exception had the clergyman in question stamped as such the soliciting of advertisements for a church magazine. The victim of this form of graft is the merchant. He must present a pleasant front and allow himself to be mulcted, although he knows full well that he gets no return for his money. "I must either say 'yes,' or someone of them will take away his patronage," is the way he reasons to himself. It is nothing less than a hold-up in nine cases out of ten, but one that the victim submits to silently and will not discuss after the deed is done. For that reason the church magazine which does not resort to such a practise is to be heartily commended.

PRINTED A $6 BILL.

Girl Discovers Queer Mix-Up of Plates for $1 and $5 Notes.

Washington, Dec. 27.—A unique series of combination national bank bills was printed a few days ago at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, which is being called jocularly "the new six-dollar bills" among the employes of the bureau.

A plate maker by mistake issued to a printer a plate for one side of a one-dollar bill and a plate for one side of a five-dollar bill instead of the two plates of a five-dollar bill. The work went on all right for about an hour when the girl who assisted the printer in washing the plate after each impression discovered that the bills as printed called for $1 on one side and $5 on the other, and she gave a shriek that stopped every press in the room and sent cold chills running up and down 300 spines with the thought that some accident had happened and some one was hurt.

One hundred sheets of bills had been printed and these were duly burned, and the fact fully established by affidavits that are now snugly on file in the achives of the Treasury Department.

TRAIN STRIKES BUS, ONE DEAD, 3 DYING

TEN YOUTHS HURLED FROM VEHICLE AT FREEHOLD, N. J.

Ten young men riding in an omnibus from Freehold to Avon at little after midnight yesterday morning were hurled into the road, one of them being killed and the rest severely injured, when their vehicle was struck by a Pennsylvania train at a grade crossing. The half-score men formed the Avon basketball team and had been in a contest with the team of Freehold, at the armory in the latter town, previous to their homeward journey. All were in jolly mood and they were whistling and singing when the crash came.

The crossing over South street is not protected by the gates at night, and on this account the 'bus was driven directly into the path of the oncoming freight train. The wagon was smashed to kindling wood, and not an occupant escaped injury.

John Banneman, twenty-two years old, of Avon, received a fracture of the skull and died as he was being hastened to a hospital. Immediately after the accident the locomotive of the train which had done the damage was detached and hitched to a caboose, in which the injured men were taken to the Monmouth Memorial Hospital, at Long Branch. Drs. Forman and Brown, of Freehold, accompanied the patients. Two of them are considered to be mortally injured.

Howard Schofield, twenty-one years old, also of Avon, as were all the injured men, received a fracture of the skull, and is not expected to live. Robert Apgar, twenty-one, received concussion of the brain. Leon Apgar, his brother, was similarly injured, and his life is despaired of. Albert and Joseph Barrett, brothers, twenty and twenty-two years old, received severe scalp wounds. Henry Dolan and Samuel Hampton were wounded about the head and shoulders.

Aaron Savidge was the engine driver and Jacob Snedecker the conductor of the train. No action will be taken until the inquest has been held by the Coroner.

BEATEN BY THIEVES WHO FIRED HOUSE.

Aged Man Crawled from Home and Was Found Unconscious by Neighbors.

Flemington, Dec. 27.—Entrance was forced Monday night into the home of Gervas Smith, fifty-five years old, of Erwinna, near Frenchtown, by a band of outlaws, who demanded the whereabouts of his cash and valuables. When the information was denied he was beaten until he was unconscious.

Leaving their victim in a helpless condition, the ruffians ransacked the house. To hide their crime the torch was applied to the building, after which his assailants fled, leaving the old man to burn with his home.

When Smith regained his senses the flames were burning briskly, and in a few moments all avenues of escape would have been cut off. With much effort he crawled from his home.

He lived alone, and when neighbors who saw the building burning hastened to the place they found Smith lying near his home in a semi-conscious condition. Dr. Nash, of Frenchtown, was hastily summoned and dressed his injuries. He was suffering from many cuts and bruises. The wounds were evidently inflicted with a club. Smith can give no description of the outlaws. His condition is serious.

DIES AT HOSPITAL DOOR.

Man Becomes Insane from Worry Over Sick Daughter.

Morristown, Dec. 27.—Worn out by long watching over the bed of his daughter, nineteen years old, Patrick Scally died yesterday morning in a rather tragic manner. His daughter, Mary, has been a puzzle to physicians for several years. She has been in an infantile state for months at a time in the last four years. She came out of the last childish state about a month ago, and at that time Scally was almost broken down from worry.

About two weeks ago his employer, for whom he had worked twenty years, died, and this left him without a position. He at once became nervous, and ten days ago disappeared. He was not seen again until Christmas night. He said he did not know where he had been. He lay on his bed all day yesterday. This morning he arose, shouting that he was going crazy. He rushed for the hospital, and just as he reached it he fell on the steps. Miss Scally, who has been in normal health for some time, has had a relapse.

McCarter Won't Talk on Steffens.

Thomas N. McCarter, president of the Public Service Corporation, and his brother, Robert H. McCarter, attorney general of New Jersey, both of whom were subjected to criticism by Senator Steffens, in the latter's article in the January number of "McClure's Magazine," refused yesterday to discuss any phase of the matter.

Mr. and Mrs. David Kenney, of Rockview avenue, spent Christmas with friends in Elizabeth.

ANTI-HANGING BILL TO BE MADE A LAW

SENATOR WAKELEE AND ASSEMBLYMAN BERG TALK OF AN EARLY MEASURE.

State Senator Edmund W. Wakelee announces himself as unalterably opposed to the hanging of Mrs. Antoinette Tolla, under sentence to die at Hackensack January 12, and Mrs. Anna Valentina, whose case is in the United States Supreme Court, and declares he will use every influence at the coming legislative session to have the gallows immediately abolished. If his plan succeeds a bill will be rushed through the Legislature at the opening of the session on January 9.

Senator Wakelee hopes the Legislature will act quickly enough to save them. He expects some member of the lower branch of the House to introduce the bill.

"I am not only anxious to abolish hanging," he said, "but if the people of New Jersey want capital punishment done away with, they can count on my support. The recent hanging in Jersey City has resulted in many advocates being won over to the agitation for electrocution in place of hanging. Such horrible spectacles as that should not be countenanced.

"It happens that I live in the county where two murderesses are under the death sentence. The thought of subjecting them to such a terrible torture as the wretch Tapely suffered is abhorrent."

For months, persistent efforts have been made to save the two women from the hangman's noose. Governor Stokes, to whom an avalanche of protests has gone, has declared himself powerless to intervene, as the law, as it exists, must be obeyed.

Not only are the legislators enlisting in favor of the movement, but the prosecutors in several of the counties announce themselves as heartily in sympathy. These comments show the increasing wave of sentiment in favor of the agitation.

William J. Crossley, prosecutor of Mercer—"I am unqualifiedly in favor of electrocution in capital cases in New Jersey—this from the standpoint of humanity."

R. J. Shaplin, Assemblyman, Mt. Arlington: "I am in sympathy with any move looking to the substitution of electrocution for hanging."

B. Frank Buck, Assemblyman, Millville: "I do not believe in capital punishment."

Samuel Atkinson, prosecutor, Burlington: "I favor a law giving juries in capital cases the right to determine whether the accused should suffer death or life imprisonment."

Thomas H. Thropp, ex-sheriff of Mercer: "There is no question but electrocution is the most modern and scientific means of execution."

County Prosecutor S. B. Herr, of Hunterdon county, took the view that the average man fears hanging more than electrocution, as it is considered more painful and ignominious.

"Therefore," he said, "I doubt the wisdom of a change."

Assemblyman-elect Herman A. Berg, of Hudson county, has drafted a bill to abolish capital punishment in New Jersey, and will go to Trenton to ask Governor Stokes to grant reprieves to all condemned murderers until the Legislature shall have acted on the question. Mr. Berg says he is acting in response to a widespread public sentiment.

In speaking of capital punishment, the Governor said said he was asked on Christmas Day h ne was in favor of substituting death by electricity for hanging for condemned murderers, and he replied that he was in favor of the substitution of any method which was more humane than the present method.

100 YEARS FOR A TRENTON BANK.

Story of Career of Banking Company, in Which State Is Shareholder.

Trenton, Dec. 27.—The Trenton Banking Company, whose bank on South Warren street is one of the leading State financial institutions in New Jersey, completed the 100th year of its existence December 3 last, and is preparing to celebrate the event appropriately.

The charter of the company was granted December 3, 1804, by the Legislature. When it was chartered no other bank existed in New Jersey, except the Newark Banking and Insurance Company. The banking house still occupies the original location, which, at the time of its purchase, was the site of the courthouse and jail of Hunterdon county, of which Mercer county then formed a part. It is generally believed that the Provincial Congress and Council of Safety of New Jersey held their meetings in this buildings, the wall of which still stands in the rear of the present bank. The deed to the corporation for the property bears date of May, 1805. The consideration expressed was $2,055. These figures are in striking contrast to the value of the property at present, which is over $100,000.

Newsboys' Santa Claus.

The enterprising young merchants who cry "Wuxtry" along Broad street, Elizabeth, were not sorry for the coming of Christmas. They were remembered in many ways. Their chief benefactor was Lawyer P. H. Gilhooly. The former judge gave twenty-three newsboys, all who applied, each an order on a local dealer for a good pair of shoes. Nickels and dimes and coin of a higher demonination went the way of the little old men. Prosecutor English had them lined up near his office. He picked out one of the brightest in the lot and commissioned him to distribute coin amonk them.

Church Door Fell on Woman.

Orange, Dec. 27.—Mrs. Melville Walters met with a peculiar accident which, it is feared, may result fatally, while attending a Christmas entertainment in the Methodist Episcopal church in Glen Gardner Monday. The congregation was leaving the church after the services when one of the large sliding doors in front of the church fell on Mrs. Walters, striking her on the head and shoulders and knocking her down. She was attended by Dr. Edgar Hunt and then taken to her home. It is feared her skull is fractured.

Strained His Back.

Charles Josephs, a helper at Pond's, was hurt at the shop yesterday morning, in lifting a heavy casting. He strained one of the muscles in his back and became so stiff that he needed assistance to get home.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

What proves to be one of the most interesting features in the melodramatic field this season is the new play by Langdon McCormick entitled "How Hearts Are Broken," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The action of the piece takes place in Maine, and many unique characters are introduced, such as the foolish country boy whose laughing muscles are loose, the old blind musician and his daughter, the gossiping old woman who speaks ill of everyone, the honorable naval officer and the good-heatred judge, as well as the sweet but unfortuhate heroine who are all interesting types. An excellent cast to portray them has been engaged.

William L. Roberts, the author of many successes, never wrote one that more immediately and fully satisfied the public than "On the Bridge at Midnight.' It has far surpassed his own expectations and constantly won enthusiastic praise. He set to work to write his best play and when Messrs. Klimt and Gazzolo saw the possibilities of the bridge scene they decided to make it without a rival on the stage and did so. The result of the work of producers and author is a powerful drama, slightly but genuinely melodramatic without cheap sensationalism and scenically unforgettable. It is full of pathos, romance, fun and wonder, and will be seen in its entirety at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night.

There are sounds of flying melodramatic hoof-beats in the air, heralding the approach of Theodore Kremer's "A Race for Life," the new play to be produced by The P. H. Sullivan Aumsement Co. at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night. This time the popular author of staged and storied sensation and comedy has gone to the ranch and racecourse for inspiration, and among the strenuous folk of border regions for characters. Even the thoroughbred beauty of a box stall is called upon to play a most dramatic and important part, and to meet the perils of poison, dynamite and steel, employed by skulking scoundrels. She wins out, and the play promises to do the same.

Howard Kyle, whose reputation as a star actor of the first order has long ago been established, is meeting with unqualified success in the poetic drama entitled "Mozart," which was especially written for him by Ivy Ashton Root, a niece of Secretary of War, Elihu Root. It will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. The play is said to abound in romantic interest as well as in exciting episodes in the life of the famous composer, and to afford Mr. Kyle all the advantages necessary for the display of those artistic talents which have endeared his portrayals of "Nathan Hale," John Ermine of "On the Yellowstone," and other characters to the playgoing public.

There are sixteen characters of all types in Owen Davis' new and successful play, "At the World's Mercy," which is making a tour of the country under the management of A. J. Spencer. Mr. Spencer has, it is stated, given the play an elaborately handsome production and as most of the people Mr. Davis presents in his play he has personally known it is only fair to suppose that the varied types are well and faithfully drawn. "At the World's Mercy" comes to the New Plainfield theatre New Year's Day, matinee and night.

Every day we hear about great "Broadway" successes in New York and that thoroughfare has become the Mecca of the theatrical business. If a play is a success on Broadway, it points to almost certain success on the road. But there are points of New York, off Broadway, where occasionally a big hit occurs. "Running for Office" not long ago at the Fourteenth Street theatre, the home of many great successes in the past, was in the nature of a triumph and all New York flocked to the down town district to see and be a witness of a success off Broadway. "Running for Office" was the second setting which George M. Cohan had given to himself and the members of his famous family, and for three months the play ran to the utmost capacity of the theatre, a tremendous capacity of the theatre; a tremendous box office showing each night to attest its popularity. It will be seen here at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday, January 6.

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.

Is Rivaled by Human Hair Where Dandruff Is Eradicated.

Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Whoever has need of a barber, needs a good one. William B. Randolph, Watchung avenue, is the barber of barbers in this city.

Brokaw's creamery on East Front street is headquarters for pure milk, cream, butter and eggs, and the public is invited to inspect the store.

Worth & Marsh, of Somerset street, carry a full line of general hardware. When in need of anything visit their store or call them up on the 'phone.

A good way to start the New Year would be to begin buying your coal at Boice, Runyon & Co.'s yards. None better mined and the price is right.

Rugg & Cline, the West Third street coal dealers, secure the best coal and every customer receives the quality well screened and at low prices.

The Grandview Meat Market, Somerset street, has a full array of holiday poultry. Tenderness, flavor and price are what you consider the thing in poultry.

W. W. Dunn is a grocer of many years experience and will give you every satisfaction. His stock is kept entirely new and he charges nothing but honest prices.

Kirch & Zimmerman, of Somerset street, cash grocers, invite a share of your patronage. The firm's stock of goods is the best and the prices will meet every pocketbook.

S. Frucht, the West Front street sporting goods and bicycle dealer, calls attention to some very good bargains he is offering. You can save money by buying at his place.

Call Smalley Brothers over the 'phone and ask them about that Berkshire sausage they make and sell. There is nothing like it in the local market—everybody who has once used it says so.

Nothing finer for a New Year's gift or a belated Christmas gift to a smoker than the Exquisite and Gem cigars made by M. C. Dobbins, Park avenue. The Exquisites are clear Havana and make a rich smoke. Special holiday boxes of 25 and 50.

Of course the Christmas gift season is over, but husband, father or brother may need gloves, cravats, handkerchiefs or underwear, and the place to get them is at James R. Blair's Park avenue haberdashery. He has a fine assortment of each and makes a specialty of the Hawes hats.

Shirley & Johnston are now fully established in their new quarters in the Babcock building and are better enabled than ever before to display their large stock of rugs, carpets, mattings, shades, etc. Their store is one of the best of its kind in the State and they invite the general public to drop in and look around.

Only a few days remain when Hill & Shupp, the dry goods firm, will retire from business. There is still an opportunity to secure many bargains at unusually low prices. These goods are being sacrificed to make room for the new stock of goods that will be put in by the new firm of A. E. Force & Co., who take possession the first of the year.

REFORM, THE KEY NOTE OF STOKES MESSAGE

JERSEY'S GOVERNOR WILL AGAIN URGE LEGISLATURE TO LIMIT FRANCHISES.

Although Governor Stokes' forthcoming annual message to the Legislature is closely guarded, his attitude on several important issues now agitating the public mind are so well known that a number of recommendations he will make can be accurately forecasted.

A reformer since his first appearance in public office, Governor Stokes differs from the Chief Executives in some of his sister States to whom reform has been eleventh-hour repentance to escape the wrath to come.

For years the Governor has favored limited franchises, the proper restriction of trusts incorporated under the laws of New Jersey; a tax on these corporations that use the public highways, consistent with the great value of such franchises. In his last message these subjects were dealt with in no uncertain tones, and the message now in course of preparation will reiterate the recommendations of last year.

It is believed that he will advocate limited franchises as a matter of home rule right in various counties, calling attention to the fact that these franchises are getting more and more valuable, and that they are eating up the assets of the people without any adequate return.

Being an ardent advocate of enriching the municipalities from the wealth of the State, it is likely that the Governor will discuss in his coming message measures for helping the people in paying their municipal bills. One of these ways is to cut off entirely the State school tax. At present it is 17 cents on $100, made so by over $1,000,000 of railroad and corporation franchise taxes being distributed to the various school districth. The Governor is likely to advocate the use of more State moneys to the total elimination of this tax on the people.

The Governor has been stpdying the multiplying of municipalities by the operation of the borough law and the consequent increase in municipal expense through many political offices, and he is likely to say something about this matter in his message. In fact, he intimated strongly to a committee the other day that he would do so. He cannot see that it would help the taxpayers of the State to eliminate their school tax and then allow them to run into greater taxation through the forming of unnecessary boroughs.

While on the subject of schools, the Governor is likely to treat in his message of the selling of riparian lands of the State. These lands are pledged to the use of the State school fund, and the moneys for their rental or sale must go to that purpose. While the riparian commissioners have rented much land, some of it has been sold, and the Governor is opposed to this sale because the land soon becomes of great value.

The Governor will urge on the Legislature the purchase of a 25,000-acre tract of land in Atlantic county for a State forestry preserve, and he will thank the legislators for coming to his views about small offices in the Legislature instead of padding the salary account with useless pages, etc.

There will be one paragraph in the message which will strike terror to the vote buyer. The Governor has decided that corruption in influencing elections must cease in New Jersey, and has set his hand to the task of stopping bribery in every form. He believes that the use of money for vote buying is the worst evil that can creep into politics, because it will sooner or later undermine institutions.

How he will treat this subject is not known, but it is thought that he will advocate making the attempted briber or he briber the guilty party alone. This is likely to be done, so that the bribed can be forced to testify against the bribe given. At present, both are under the ban of the law, but get excused from testifying against each other on the ground that answers would tend to degrade and incriminate.

The Governor will surely call attention to the fact that the large surplus in the State treasury is tempting, but that he will not countenance any schemes that smack of graft to abstract money therefrom.

BIRTH, MARRIAGE AND DEATH RATES IN NEW JERSEY

According to the annual report of Dr. Henry Mitchell, secretary of the State Board of Health, just submitted to Governor Stokes, the number of deaths in New Jersey during 1904 was 35,298, or 17.14 per 1,000 of population. The report says these are the highest figures in the past seven years, due to increased mortality among children.

The report includes a summary by counties and the statistics for Mercer county are as follows:

Deaths—Total number in 1904, 1,757; increase over 1903, 95.

The number of births in Union county was 1,969, which is an increase of 101 over the preceding year. In Somerset there were 467, a decrease of one.

In Union county there were 741 marriages, just 48 less than the previous year, while in Somerset there were 172, or 50 less than the preceding year.

In all 1,812 people died in Union county, that number being 174 more than in 1903. 428 died in Somerset. That was an increase of one over the previous year.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

"Looking Backward; What Have I Learned This Year?" will be the subject of the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church Friday night. Mrs. Wheaton S. Lowry will be in charge.

The Sunday school of the Park Avenue Baptist church will observe next Sunday, the last one in the year, with an informal programme, including messages from absent friends, short talks on the work of the school during the past year and plans for the coming year. There will be special music by the Sunday school children.

A Christmastide thought.—Let us ask ourselves at this Christmas time: "What is Christmas to me and what am I to Christmas?" May we open our hearts to the Christmas spirit, the spirit of love, joy and peace, which knocks at the door of our lives today, and we shall have a glorious Christmas.—Rev. Theodore Englund, pastor Swedish Pilgrim church.

The Episcopal Church has never encouraged sermons at funerals and limits remarks that are made to general terms, and the other churches are following the example of omitting addresses. They are being forced to this, in fact, by the requests made by the surviving relatives, who object to the eulogies for one cause or another, and there is a sensible abatement of the feeling that prevails against attending funerals, as a result of this change. When one is certain that the services will be limited to a prayer, the reading of some of the beautiful chapters of Scripture which are used at burials and to, perhaps, some simple music, the greatest objection to the funeral service disappears.—Newark Call.

A Christmastide thought.—The modern Christmas may be justly characterized as a time of unbounded liberality, it seems indeed to be almost epidemic at this season of the year. In this particular we have doubtless rightly appreciated the significance of the first Christmas, when in return for God's unspeakable gift, wise men opened their treasures and presented unto Him gifts; gold, frankincense and myrrh. Heaven's pandora box of blessings was first opened on that glad Christmas morning; it was the tiny hand of Bethlehem's babe that undid the fastening and spilled the contents upon the earth. But the best gift that earth received that day was the babe himself, for, now, He has become to all the world the wonderful, counsellor, the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace. In heaven and earth liberality is the Christmas virtue.—Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., held its final meeting for the year last night. At the next meeting in January the newly-elected officers will be installed. The officers of the Women's Relief Corps will also be installed that night.

Charity Ball Plans.

Carpenters are now at work inclosing the spacious verandas at the Casino for the charity ball to be held Friday night. These will be fitted up as dressing rooms and will be steam heated and made comfortable in every way. The supper will be served in the billiard rooms and bowling alleys by Mrs. Lena Hellstrom. Two orchestras will be engaged, thus furnishing continuous music for dancing.

Bar Association Director.

Counsellor Frank J. Blatz, of the First National Bank building, was elected a director of the Somerset County Bar Association at its annual meeting in Somerville yesterday. The association met after court. William Stelle, of Somerville, is president; H. K. Gaston, Somerville, vice-president; N. Y. Dungan, Somerville, treasurer; Miss Mary M. Steele, Somerville, secretary. C. E. Case, of Somerville, is Mr. Blatz's co-director.

George Becke Non-Suited.

The damage suit of George Becke against the New Jersey Central ended in the Somerset County Court at Somerville this morning with a nonsuit. The plaintiff sought to recover for the loss of a horse killed on the railroad.

Mrs. Parse to Speak.

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union tomorrow afternon will be led by Mrs. E. A. Parse. Her subject will be "Current Events." All are welcome.

COMPETITIVE MEDLEY.

To Be Feature at a Sunday School Festival.

The Christmas entertainment at the Congregational church under the unspices of the Sunday school will be held tomorrow night. There will be the singing of carols by the school and a primary class exercise. A feature will be a competitive medley as follows:

"A Giving Cantata," Mrs. Philip Suffern's class; impersonations, Frank O. Bristol; "The Toys' Rebellion," by Mrs. Updike's class. The characters will be as follows: Toy, Noah; two French dolls, wax doll, rag doll, Dinah, walking doll, scrapbook fairy, sailor boy, tin soldier, jumping jack, Kris Kringle and children. Scene—Kris Kringle's workshop.

Those present will be asked to vote at the close of the programme, giving their opinion as to the best entertainment. This will be followed by the distribution of gifts.

THE AUTO DRAMATIZED.

A Bubble Wagon One of the Features of "The Lightning Conductor."

The racing drama, the bicycle drama and the steamboat drama have been on the boards for years, and now it is to be the automobile drama. A bubble wagon plays an important part in the play "The Lightning Conductor," that was presented at the New Plainfield theatre last night, with Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon in the leading roles. Another large and fashionable audience witnessed the production and bestowed liberal applause upon the the competent cast.

The scenic mounting of the play corresponds with great detail to the locale and excited much favorable comment. In the first act an automobile, supposedly going at a high rate of speed, is shown, the effect being produced by revolving scenery, woods, roads and hills flying by so fast the eye could hardly follow them.

Hauled Down Flag.

Paulsboro, Dec. 27.—Excitement ran high in Paulsboro yesterday when Archie Davis and Jesse Wilkinson, leading several hundred people, ordered Tony Servillo, a keeper of an Italian boarding house, to take from the top of his flag pole an Italian flag which had been placed there to celebrate Christmas. Davis and Wilkinson represented the Order of Junior American Mechanics, who do not allow any foreign flags on poles unless the Stars and Stripes are placed above.

$45 for Day Nursery.

The offering received at the Christmas service at the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon, netted $45 for the King's Daughters' Day Nursery, whichis to be opened on January 1. Generous support for this charity is being received and those in charge will appreciate assistance of any kind which will make the nursery a success.

Timbo Social Club Elects.

At the annual business meeting, last night, the Timbo Social Club elected the following officers: President, John J. Gaffney; vice president, John Powers; secretary, William Dowd; treasurer, Erwin Y. Neighbor. Reports for the year were presented and showed the organizations to be in excellent condition every way.

Williams vs. Coddington.

The case of Lewis A. Williams against Joel Coddington, of North Plainfield, on contract, will come up before Judge Schenck and a jury in the Somerset county court this term. The suit is for the recovery of money alleged to be due on books purchased by the defendant. F. J. Blatz is counsel for the plaintiff.

An Elaborate Calendar.

By far the most elaborate calendar for 1906 that has come to this office is one sent out by William Jeffery, the wide-awake Park avenue real estate broker. It is called the "Mother Goose Calendar" and is both beautiful in design and gorgeous in coloring.

Holiday House Party.

Miss Frances Harris, of Clinton avenue, is entertaining a number of friends from Hopewell, her old home, over the week. The guests were entertained at a Christmas party Monday night and a watch party will be held New Year's eve.

Funeral of Mrs. Wilson.

The funeral of Mrs. Blanche Wilson, wife of Ramsey Wilson, will be held from her late home on Richmond street, tonight at 7 o'clock. The interment will be at St. John, province of New Brunswick.

BALDWIN'S DOUBLE SWAP GETS HIM INTO TROUBLE.

Exchanged Horses Without Consulting Man With Whom He Had Traded.

Charles Baldwin and George Feller, both of the borough, each own a horse and last week they decided to make a swap. Feller was fully satisfied with his end of the bargain and so was Baldwin to all appearances until last night, when he suddenly decided that he would rather have the animal he traded away to the one he held. Without stopping to see Feller about it, he entered the latter's barn last night and removed the horse, putting Feller's old one in the stall.

Feller compared notes this morning and when he learned what had been done, went before Justice Smalley and swore out a warrant for Baldwin's arrest, charging him with stealing the horse. Baldwin was arrested in the city by Patrolman Higgins and turned over to Chief Weiss. He was held in $200 bail for a hearing next week.

Thirty Days for Higgins.

John Higgins, a mason, 42 years old, 12 Stone street, North Plainfield, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Overbaugh for drunkenness. In court this morning several people who know Higgins well volunteered testimony that disclosed him as a man with an incurable thirst for rum and a record for jags. Judge Runyon sent Higgins to the county jail for thirty days, to sober up.

Game Cancelled.

The game scheduled between the Oriole five of New York and the Y. M. C. A. basketball team for next Saturday night has been cancelled. A game of some sort will be arranged in its place.

FIGHTING TREE SCALES

Expert Starts Crusade Against the San Jose and Cottony Maple Pests.

RESULTS ARE GOOD

Liquid Sprayed Over Trees on Capt. Doane's Property—Somewhat of an Experiment—Work to be General.

George T. Powell, president of the Agricultural Experts' Association, of New York State, aided by his assistant, Percy Nelson, commenced the work today of spraying for the destruction of the San Jose and cottony maple scales which have found to be rapidly destroying fine shade trees in the city.

The work was started this morning at the home of Captain Doane on East Sixth street, between Franklin place and Richmond street. The expense of the work on his own property will be borne by Mr. Doane. The method is to reach the top of the trees by a long ladder and with a big force pump spray the limbs with a solution somewhat similar to that which has been found to be efficacious in killing the San Jose scale. With the cottony maple it is an experiment, and for this reason Mr. Powell is particularly anxious to note the effect. This morning the work was very satisfactory. As the solution was spread over the limbs the fine atoms of liquid saturate the cottony maple scale.

The presence of the cottony maple scale, as well as that of the San Jose, was brought to the attention of Councilman Murphy, chairman of the lights and trees committee, and through his efforts Mr. Powell became interested in the work. Mr. Murphy secured an appropriation from the Common Council for the purpose of having a solution sprayed on the trees affected by these scales.

Arrangements were also made to spray trees on private property at the expense of the owner and as stated the work was begun at Captain Doane's residence today. Mr. Powell has never used this solution for the cottony maple, but he feels convinced that it will be as effective in destroying this scale as that of the San Jose.

It is Mr. Powell's plan to send portions of limbs treated with the solution to Cornell University and Rutgers College, where they can be examined microscopically to determine definitely the number of scales thereon and to learn something as to the growth and nature of them. There appears to be no doubt but that the solution kills the cottony maple scale and this being an experimental stage, the results will be watched with unusual interest.

The work will be continued in this city as far as the city appropriation will permit and wherever private property owners desire.

CHRISTMAS TREE AT THE CHILDREN'S HOME

MANY VISITORS WITNESS THE DISTRIBUTION OF GIFTS.

The annual Christmas festivities at the Children's Home was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when the tree was lighted and the children had their usual good time. There were many visitors and they enjoyed the occasion fully as much as the little ones. Mrs. M. E. Kimball, president of the Children's Home Association, was in charge, assisted by Mrs. Hendrickson, the matron, and other members of the association.

Promptly at 4 o'clock, when the tree was lighted, the children marched into the room singing a Christmas carol. Miss Winifred Carroll presided at the piano. The tree was generously filled with useful gifts to delight the heart of every one of the twenty-two children. There were books, toys, games, stockings, handkerchiefs and each child received an envelope containing two five-cent pieces, together with oranges, candy and other good things.

A pleasant feature was the presence of several children who during the past few months went out from the Home and who returned for the festivities.

Among those who assisted in making the affair a success were Mrs. W. E. Dunn, Mrs. E. P. Williams, Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, Mrs. J. C. Peck, Mrs. O. B. Leonard, Mrs. Francis deLacy Hyde and Miss Serrell.

At Christmas time there were some special gifts to the Home which will help very much in carrying this worthy charitable work on to further success and the association has much cause for thankfulness for the kindly way in which the Home has been remembered.

HEERAN WILL RECOVER

Wife Hastens to Bedside of Diamond Merchant Who was Given Knockout Drops.

HIS VALUABLES GONE

William Heeran, of 654 South avenue, who, it is claimed, was drugged and robbed of $600 worth of gems in Philadelphia yesterday morning, as told exclusively in The Daily Press, is not in as serious condition as first supposed, according to relatives here. Late yesterday afternoon during a conversation between Mrs. Heeran and Philadelphia friends, Mr. Heeran was able to speak to his wife. Mrs. Heeran left last night for Philadelphia, and was joined there by her brother from New York. Mr. Heeran is at the home of a Mr. Schriner, a friend,, at 1434 Frankford avenue having been moved there from the Polyclinic Hospital. It is said that he will recover.

Before leaving for Philadelphia, Mrs. Heeran declared that her husband is strictly temperate and never touched liquor of any kind. She was convinced that he had been drugged by someone with the intention of robbery.

Mr. Heeran has been engaged in the jewelry and diamond business for himself during the past year and this called him away from home a great deal of the time. Being in poor health he went to Philadelphia Tuesday morning intending to combine a trip to his physician and one of business.

According to the Philadelphia police he was given knockout drops in a saloon on Fifteenth street, near the Broad Street Station. His senses, Mr. Heeran is alleged to have told them, left him at Seventeenth and Walnut streets. When he came to he found the following things missing:

A pocketbook containing $50 in money and two 1,000 mile railroad tickets and the following jewels: One lady's horseshoe hat-pin, twenty-five chip stones, value $75; one diamond stud, 2¾ carats, valued at $200; one ring, 1¼ carats, value $125; two ladies' ruby rings, diamond settings, value $100, and a three stone ring, 1½ carats, each $110.

Mrs. Heeran was quite emphatic in her declaration that her husband did not enter a saloon. She added that his habits were always steady and that he was strongly adverse to the saloon and liquor. She verified the statement as to the $600 worth of gems and the amount of money in his possession.

Mr. Heeran was formerly employed in a jewelry house in New York. At that time he lived in Brooklyn. About a year and a half ago he moved to this city, at first occupying one of Daniel Dugan's houses on East Sixth street. A year ago he leased Charles Hand's house at 654 South avenue. Since coming to this city he married Miss Christofferson, of Richmond street, who at one time was a member of the local corps of the Salvation Army and very active in its work.

Golf at Baltusrol.

At the Baltusrol Golf Club the course was fairly crowded all day on Christmas, some fifty players driving off from the first tee. At Englewood, North Jersey, Roseville, Plainfield and Forest Hill there was no lack of enthusiasts out. Tournament committees are now regretting that they had not extended their competitions up to the first of the year instead of ending with Thanksgiving Day. They based their actions on past experiences, taught by the severity of the last three winters. A year ago the country was buried beneath a foot of snow, and every golfer that could possibly get away was heading for the South. The open winter has induced golfers to remain North, and many are here who for years have spent the Christmas holidays in warmer climes.

Party for James Lynch.

A party was given yesterday afternoon at the home of William Brown, on Plainfield avenue, in honor of James Lynch, who is on his two weeks' vacation from Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass. Supper was served at 5 o'clock, and the following hour was delightfully spent in playing games and vocal and instrumental music.

Friends' Xmas Celebration.

The annual Christmas festival at the Friends meeting-house on Watchung avenue, will be held tonight. There will be the usual programme of recitations, followed by the presentation of gifts and serving of refreshments.

800 LBS FELL ON HIM

Laborer Narrowly Escapes Instant Death, a Falling Casting Pinioning His Leg.

SHOWS GREAT COURAGE

Accident in the Chipping Department of Potter's Today—Doctors May Save His Leg.

Pinned beneath a heavy casting weighing 800 pounds, Amos Ryno, employed as a laborer in the chipping department of the Potter Press Works, sustained a compound fracture of both bones of the right leg at the ankle this morning, and he may lose his foot in consequence. Ryno was removed to the hospital at once and Drs. E. W. Hedges and F. B. Cregar were hastily summoned. The broken bones were wired and everything possible was done in the hope of saving the foot.

Mr. Ryno was busy at his work when the large casting slipped from its position and fell on his leg. The man's screams attracted the attention of fellow workmen and a gang of men was summoned and put to work removing the casting, it being impossible to release the leg in any other way.

Although suffering intense pain, Mr. Ryno did not lose his nerve once while the casting was being removed and he retained consciousness until put under an anasthetic at the hospital for an operation. The physicians believe that the foot will be saved.

Mr. Ryno is fifty-seven years old and resides on Centre street, Dunellen. He is married.

BARRED OFFICER OUT

But Conroy Was Not Discouraged and Afterward Broke Into Mr. Armstrong's Store.

LEVIED ON STOCK

Action Brought By Landlord Clifton Who Holds Mortgage on Goods and Claim for Unpaid Rent.

In an effort to give notice of distress proceedings brought by Charles B. Clifton against Michael Armstrong, the plumber, Special Officer John Conroy experienced all manner of trouble, yesterday afternoon, and finally had to break into Armstrong's place on Park avenue to carry out the law.

Armstrong has been Clifton's tenant for a long time and according to the landlord, has neglected to pay his rent. The arrears at present amount to $180 and in addition Clifton holds a chattel mortgage on Armstrong's stock for $500. Failing to secure any satisfaction for his claims, he sought the services of Counsellor Isaac P. Runyon and the lawyer deputized Officer Conroy to levy on all the goods in the plumber's place.

Conroy obeyed instructions, but when he reached the store, the front door was locked. Armstrong was inside and the officer's demands for admittance was unheeded. He tried every method known to bluecoat science to get inside but all to no purpose. Armstrong held the fort and Conroy was forced to withdraw and seek further instructions.

A consultation between Counsellor Runyon and Mr. Clifton followed, and then Justice Mosher was sought out for a distress warrant. Armed wit hthis all hands returned to the Clifton building and stalked to the back door. They discovered everything securely locked, but a few moments' work sufficed to break open a door and entrance was gained. Armstrong was not in, but the goods were levied on and the owner acquainted with the fact. The distress proceeding holds good for ten days and unless all claims are satisfied the stock will be disposed of.

Armstrong also experienced trouble of the same nature from another source. It is alleged that his delivery wagon has not been paid for, and P. A. Van Fleet, of Somerville, who sold it to him, came down after it Tuesday. The rig was standing in front of the store and he drove away with it without stopping to say anything about it. Clifton's distress covered the rig also, but it is understood that he and Van Fleet have reached an agreement as to its disposal.

RECEPTION GIVEN BY MR. AND MRS. ROGER F. MURRAY IN NIECE'S HONOR.

A brilliant society event of last evening was the reception given at the Casino by Mr. and Mrs. Roger F. Murray for their niece, Miss May E. Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray, Jr., of West Fourth street. It was the occasion of Miss Murray's formal introduction to society and it also brought together her former schoolmates, many of whom are now in college and are home for the holidays.

Miss Murray received with her parents and Mr. and Mrs. Roger F. Murray. The early part of the evening was devoted to sociability and at 9:30 o'clock the dancing began. Music was furnished by Austin's orchestra and an attractive programme was rendered. Each number received an encore and it was nearly 2 o'clock this morning when the dancers wended their way homeward. At midnight supper was served by Mrs. Lena Hellstrom.

There were about 250 guests, including a majority of those socially prominent in the younger set. Miss Murray carried a handsome bouquet of American beauty roses and she gracefully bore the honors bestowed upon her by her many friends.

The Casino was attractively decorated for the occasion, the Christmas colors, red and green, prevailing. There was a profusion of green roping and southern smilax, while about the stage there was banked palms and potted plants. Behind this foliage the orchestra was seated.

Every detail of the affair was carried out in pleasing fashion. The dance cards were unique. On the cover was the initials of the debutante in monogram.

INDICTED FOR MURDER

Rev. J. A. Watson, Negro Preacher, to be Placed on Trial For His Life.

KILLED J. CHRISTOPHER

Colored Minister Slashed Victim, Severing Two Arteries—Defendant to be Tried at January Term.

Rev. James Allen Watson, the itinerant negro minister, was indicted for murder by the Somerset County Grand Jury, yesterday, for the killing of James Christopher, another negro, in North Plainfield, October 28. He will be arraigned for trial during the January term of court.

Watson and his alleged victim occupied the same house on Warren street and quarrelled over their right to use a stove in the kitchen. Christopher's wife joined in the quarrel and a rough and tumble fight followed in the kitchen, finally shifting to the front part of the house, the combatants tumbling out on the porch.

Max Michaelson, a neighbor, swore before the Grand Jury that he had separated the negroes and that Christopher walked down the street. Michaelson held the preacher who drew a razor from his pocket and exclaimed: "I've got a razor and I am going to cut that nigger." When Michaelson saw the weapon he released his hold. Watson ran after Christopher, he said, and slashed him on both arms. Both cuts severed large arteries and Christopher died as he was being taken to Muhlenberg Hospital.

In his plea before the jury, Watson claimed self defense.

It is reported that Alvah A. Clark will be assigned by the court as counsel for Watson. Until the appointment is made no date will be set for the prisoner's arraignment.

BANK'S ARRANGEMENT MADE WORK FOR CARRIERS

SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS HAD TO BE MADE TO CANCEL THE 4,000 STAMPS.

One of the biggest batches of mail matter handled at the postoffice in the Christmas rush came from the City National Bank. The institution sent out 4,000 combination pencil and penholders as its concrete Christmas greeting to depositors and friends.

Special arrangements had to be made to handle the batch because the bank wanted the gifts delivered on Christmas day. They were sent out in ordinary letter envelopes at letter rates.

In order to facilitate the disposition of the holders, the 4,000 envelopes, stamped and addressed, but minus the contents, passed through the cancellers' hands two nights before Christmas. They were then returned to the bank and the clerks there enclosed the holders and sealed the flaps. They were all delivered on time Christmas Day, but they added noticeably to the work of the carriers. The latter will make faces yet if the City Bank's Christmas souvenir is made a subject of conversation in their hearing.

Grand Chaplain, I. O. O. F.

By a process very unusual in the proceedings of New Jersey Odd Fellows, Rev. Benjamin C. Lippincott, of North Long Branch, is to be made grand chaplain of the order. He was the choice for that position of Grand Master Wesley B. Stout at the late session of the grand lodge, but at that time he was not a past grand, and on that account was not eligible to grand lodge office. He was, however, the noble grand of a lodge in his home city and this afforded a solution of the problem. By a special dispensation of the grand lodge he is to be permitted to resign from the place of noble grand, with past master honors. Then, about January 15, he will be appointed as grand chaplain. He will succeed Rev. Dr. J. K. Manning, of Trenton.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Judge Campbell went into one of the local hotels recently to talk over a personal matter with a man inside. "You'd better not stay around this place," said the proprietor quietly to the recorder. "Why not?" asked the judge. "Well, this isn't a place for a man in your position to be at. You'd see too much!" The judge has stayed away from that hotel since. "But I don't have to go into his place to see things," says the judge. "I can hear 'em plain enough from the other side of the street."

Theodore Apgar and William Kunz will take their places in the Council at the first meeting of the new year next Thursday. They were elected to succeed Councilmen Schneider and Randolph. The new Council will have one vacancy to fill—that created by Councilman Fredrick's resignation. No names have been mentioned on the street as to the probable choice. The new member will certainly be a Democrat.

The township people are still wondering what has become of the Piscataway Water Company. Nothing has been heard of the corporation since it jollied the committeemen into giving it a franchise. At that time it gave out the impression that work on the mains was to commence immediately.

Constable Robert Pierce is something of a real estate agent nowadays. Within a short time he has sold N. B. Smalley's hall in South Plainfield and a $3,500 property in Plainfield for Emanuel Schloss, of that place. Both deals were very lucrative for Mr. Pierce.

It will interest Dunellenites to learn that the coming Newark Conference of the Methodists will be held in the present charge of Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, formerly of the Monroe Avenue church—the West Side church, Jersey City. Mr. O'Donnell is well known here.

Honors in the way of accessions to membership since the revival now lie about even between the Baptist and Presbyterian churches. Until last Sunday, when the latter church took in nine members, the Baptists were in the lead by something like ten.

The Board of Education will meet Tuesday night. When the reports are handed in the public will learn what the diphtheria case at Mr. Meseroll's house cost in the way of extra fees for substitutes.

Joseph Royster, arrested for whooping things up in a glad Christmas spirit two days too late, was fined $3 by Judge Campbell in the borough court yesterday. Joseph works in the brickyard.

Uncle John Tingley is confined to the house with a sprained ankle. The sprain is a bad one and is mending slowly. It will be some days before Uncle John is seen on his rounds again.

The petit jury, on which Harry Garretson and Charles Wyhuskey are serving, adjourned to January 8 yesterday. Mr. Wyhuskey sat on a criminal trial yesterday.

The work on the Piscataway roads has been stopped for the season. The contract will be taken up again in the first days of spring and rushed to completion.

Garretson & Gray will start the spring work with all new contracts. They cleaned up all the outstanding contracts before they shut down.

Robert Pierce sold a horse to Dr. Jenkins, of Plainfield, yesterday. He is said to have received $200.

The trustees of the M. E. church are scheduled to meet Monday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Services are being held every night this week at the Methodist church. Rev. Mr. Hoffman has charge. The attendance has been very encouraging and the meetings may be continued during the coming week.

The last visit of Santa Claus for the year of 1905 is scheduled for tonight, when the members of All Saints' Episcopal Sunday-school hold their Christmas exercises in the church.

Miss Anna Bruchmann, who has been spending Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bruchmann, of Mountain avenue, has returned to her home at Newark.

La Pere Beekon, of Worcester Academy, Worcester, Mass., is spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Beekon, of the borough.

Mr. and Mrs. John Alberts, of Westfield avenue, have been entertaining relatives from out of town over Christmas.

New York, Dec. 28.—The seventeenth annual exhibition of the New York Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association will open in Madison Square Garden Tuesday, January 2, and continue for the rest of the week. They are from nearly every State in the Union. New Jersey will be represented by birds from more than 100 fanciers of choice poultry breeds.

Lincoln Steffens Upon Mayor Fagan.

Lincoln Steffens has an article in McClure's Magazine for January, which is just out, describing the career of Mayor Mark Fagan, of Jersey City, in terms of high praise, and narrating many incidents in the Mayor's fights with the corporations and with Boss Dickinson. Frequent allusions are made to "Tom" McCarter and to the operations of the Public Service Company in politics, and it is alleged Thomas N. McCarter made threats, in which he claimed that his brother, Attorney General Robert H. McCarter, would not do certain things which he opposed in connection with legislation desired by Jersey City. The charges against the McCarters and against those connected with the Public Service are of a grave character, and it was said that they might be brought before the Legislature for investigation.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

WHAT WOMEN DO.

Miss Jessie Ackerman, a missionary, recently put on a diver's suit in Ceylon, and brought up from the paars, or pearl oyster beds, seven valuable pearls.

Mrs. Peary, during the several Arctic expeditions whereon she accompanied her husband, became an expert and fearless walrus hunter.

The Marchioness of Tweeddale is a good locomotive engineer. She it was who ran the first train over the Forth Bridge.

Joanna Maestrich, of Berlin, was for eight years Oporto's champion bull-fighter. The young woman, furthermore, was beautiful. In 1903 she won the first prize at the Lisbon beauty show.

Jenny Carey, of Muckford, Ind., saved from wreck a train containing a party of distinguished Frenchmen, and received from the President of France the medal of the Legion of Honor.

Women disguised as men have often served as soldiers. The following inscription is on a tombstone in the English town of Brighton: "In memory of Phoebe Hassel, born 1713, died 1821, aged 108 years. She served for many years as a private soldier in many parts of Europe, and at the battle of Fontenoy, fighting bravely, she received a bayonet wound in the left arm."

THE SALAD BOWL.

Odd Bits of

Brandied cherries, nuts, citron, orrange peel, little dabs of cocoanut, and shredded candy are good in classical Nesselrode puddings because their flavors are blended. Thrown haphazard into wine jelly or on top of puddings or into the meringue of pies they represent the decadent in cookery, says the Philadelphia Telegraph.

In Salads and Desserts

Particular generic dishes are becoming a lost art. Cocoanut and oranges are an ideal combination, which may be improved by having wine added to it, for the reason that it may need more juice and that it blends with the flavor. Whipped cream answers the same purpose in making more liquid. But when bananas and bits of jelly are put in the dish becomes a mongrel. Pineapple, anything but the juice, is equally out of place on account of being a meaty fruit, too much like the cocatnut.

Many Fastidious Families

Have lately deserted the caterer for their smaller affairs, and are employing a woman, whose dishes are beautiful and delicious, a result which she gets through making an art of simplicity in such things and not overloading.

"No, Indeed, I Do Not Put

Two or three kinds of nuts in my chicken salad," said the woman, "and it is doubtful if I add them at all. They are good with apples, but should be used scantily or not at all in a Waldorf salad, where the combination of celery and apples is sufficient. A salad of halved white grapes and tiny leccture hearts, if dressed with a white mayonnaise of oil and cream, is not only sufficient unto itself but is impaired by having nuts, cherries, and any other 'happen to haves' added to it. Such a combination is not good cooking."

HIGH DIVERS ARRESTED AT THE BIG GARDEN.

Charged with Misdemeanor in Doing Acts Which Endanger Their Own Lives.

Arthur Holden and Harry A. Harmon, professional high divers, were arrested in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night, charged with misdemeanor in performing acts which endanger their lives.

The men are under engagement to dive seventy feet from a platform in the rafters of the Garden into a rubber tank filled with water. It was Holden's turn to dive. When he started to climb to the platform Sergeant Gleason arrested him.

Harmon was sent for. While the police were guarding the rope ladder by which the divers usually ascend he went upstairs to the top balcony and climbed out on the rafters. The police shouted to him to come down, and come down he did with a splash, head first, into the tank. Then he was arrested. Both men were bailed at the Tenderloin police station.

$350,000 TO DRIVE OUT MOSQUITOES.

Professor John B. Smith is Preparing a Bill for the Legislature.

Professor John B. Smith, of Rutgers College, State entomologist, said yesterday that he would prepare a bill to be introduced into the Legislature asking for an appropriation of $350,000 to be used in driving mosquitoes out of the State.

There is now an enactment on the statute books which gives municipalities the authority to make an appropriation to eradicate the pest, but so far only $25 has been put out by municipalities for this work.

Professor Smith says that he believes the work should be done. His idea of ridding the community of the pest is in draining the marsh lands and thus deprive the mosquitoes of their breeding places. Professor Smith has put a great deal of study on the subject.

There were no marriages and the young men said that the girls were having too good a time. TRENTON IS SHY OF THE LAWMAKERS

LENTZ PUTS QUERY AS TO COLBYITES STAYING IN ESSEX COUNTY.

Trenton, Dec. 28.—Both Speaker-to-be Samuel K. Robbins, of Burlington, and Randolph Perkins, of Union, who received the Republican caucus nomination for leader of the House, were her yesterday. They found a few of the members of the Assembly in the corridors, and all appeared to be anxious to get the speaker-to-be off in a cornor by himself and talk earnestly with him on an apparently absorbing topic. This topic was generally taken to be the committees, but neither the speaker nor the members would tell what they said about it.

When asked if he had decided yet what positions on the committee he would give the Essex, Hudson and Union men, who withdrew from the caucus, Mr. Robbins said he had only decided upon one place, and that was the chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee, and that he would give that to Mr. Perkins. This is the chairmanship which always goes to the leader of the House.

Ernest R. Aackerman, of Plainfield, the Senator-elect from Union, was also a visitor to the State House. He said that he was passing through Trenton on his way to Philadelphia, and stopped off to see if there were any members of the Legislature at the State House. He had no views to express upon the coming session or any prospective laws.

Major Carl Lentz, who was here to attend the meeting of the State Board for Equalization of Taxes, was congratulated on all sides upon his victory of Friday night, when he defeated Lathrop Anderson for chairman of the Essex Republican County Committee. The Major was evidently pleased with the congratulations he received from his fellow members of the board and the statesmen in the corridors, but refrained from passing any comment upon his opponents.

When told by a Newark man that the Colby men had said that they intended to keep up thei rorganization known as the Republican Committee for Limited Franchises and Equal Taxation and continue the fight against his leadership of the party in Essex, he asked if the Colby men who voted for Anderson at last Friday's meeting and are members of the limited franchise and equal taxation committee, intended to remain in the county committee. He was referred to Mr. Martin's statement on Friday night that he would remain in the committee as long as he had a fair show and was told that it was understood the Colby men would stay.

"Well, what will they do with that section of the county committee constitution which says no member of the committee shall do anything detrimental to the party?" asked the Major.

He was told then the Colby men considered that the maintaining of a separate organization under existing circumstances instead of being detrimental was for the best interests of the party. The Major made no reply to this.

LITERARY NOTES.

Lippincott's Magazine sends hearty New Year's Greetings to its readers all over the world. And may they be happier for reading twelve numbers of the magazine during the year 1906. The Jaunary issue contains Marie Van Vorst's new novelette, "The Master of Craven." This tremendously strong tale is bound to excite—and abundantly satisfy—a wide interest wherever the name of Van Vorst is known among all classes. The author is American through and through, though she spends much time in Paris, whose atmosphere is productive of the good fiction that comes straight to the hearts of her own countrymen. Of the half-dozen short stories which follow "The Master of Craven," each one possesses a delightfully distinct significance and individualism. "The Door to the Right," by Baroness von Hutten (the creator of "Pam"), is a clever social problem storry; "Jack's Bill-Board Girl," by Norval Richardson, is a humorous theatrical story; "The House on Fayette Street," by a new writer of considerable originality, Jane Belfield, is about "Fancies, a Dragon, a Lover, Goldfish, and a Rose;" "A Missionary Appropriation," by Edith Morgan Willett, is a burglar story, concerning a portentiously funny merchant and his wife; "The Atonement," by Luellen Cass Teters, is a humorous story of love and superstition; and "The Strike in the Clarion Office," by Carloine A. Huling, is a striking "strike" story connected with a newspaper office. "Is a Surplus More of a Menace than a Surety?" by a financier who calls himself simply "W. L.," is likel yto provoke no little argument by readers in the business world. "W. L." contends that "A moderate surplus may be allowed as a wise provision to meet some unusual percentage of loss without impairment of capital, but the only other good excuse for a surplus is that in some States the capital only is taxed, and in the form of a surplus additional capital is secured free from taxation." The verse of the month is attuned to the spirit of "a sunbeam in a winter's day;" and the "Walnuts and Wine" department makes its bow to its many friends—and a Happy New Year!

The new volume of The Popular Science Monthly, which begins with the January number, opens with an illustrated article on the recent visit of the British Association to Africa, by Professor E. W. Brown, of Haverford College, who was one of the guests from the United States invited to accompany the association. The article gives an interesting account of a trip, quite unique in the history of scientific societies, some four hundred members having gone from Great Britain to South Africa for this meeting. Dr. Oscar Veblen, of Princeton University, contributes an article on the foundations of geometry, in which he explains the relations of the geometry of Euclid to a development which for the first time threatens to supersede the principles laid down two thousand years ago. Dr. Charles Kelser Edmunds, professor in the Canton Christian College, describes the content of Chinese education and the examination system which, after such a long history, was abolished in September last. A. H. Brooks, well known for his explorations in Alaska, gives an account of what has been accomplished by the United States Geological Survey in that territory. A very fully illustrated article, by E. G. Montgomery, of the University of Nebraska, describes the origin and growth of an ear of corn. T. D. A. Cockrell, of the University of Colorado, contributes a sketch of Spencer Fullerton Bairdfi the grandfather of American zoology. Professor J. J. Stevenson, of New York University, discusses intercollegiate athletics from the point of view of an experienced university professor. There are shorter articles on the convocation week meetings of scientific societies, the Nobel prizes and the determination of sex.

In Success Magazine for January, Cleveland Moffett begins the second series of his powerful articles on "The Shameful Misuse of Wealth." He devotes his attention this month to the great and increasing concentration of riches in the hands of a few wealthy families, and shows how these immense fortunes are rapidly becoming so colossal as to baffle the imagination and defy the utmost efforts of the owners to spend even the income. A man of towering intellect, he says, springing up in the next generation, backed by the accumulating billions of some great family, might wield a power greater than that of emperors and potentates and sway nations at his will. This second series promises to be of even greater interest than the first, which attracted so much attention a year ago. Juliet Wilbor Tompkins contributes the second of her series of studies on child labor, entitled "Turning Children Into Dollars," depicting the hardships and the impositions endured by the million and a half of children who are stunting their lives by long hours of labor in the factories of this county. "Hughes—the Great Modern Inquisitor" is a character study, by J. Herbert Welch, of the man who is pursuing the insurance investigation with so much vigor. In "Ben Franklin—America's First Self-Made Man," by Hosmer Whitfield, the bi-centenary of Franklin, which occurs on January 17, is noted with a study of the character of the great patriot and the inestimable services which he rendered this country. A short resume of the progress of the present theatrical season in New York is illustrated by special photographs of a number of the leading actresses.

J. J. Hill to Retire.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 28.—The rumor that J. J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad, is to retire from active work on the first of the year is confirmed, though the announcement may not be made on the first day of the year.

JOHN DRYDEN SAYS NONE OF 'EM WILL DO

OPPOSES FEDERRL CONTROL OF ALL INSURANCE BILLS SO FAR INTRODUCED

Washington, Dec. 28.—Senator John F. Dryden, of New Jersey, has little confidence in the bills thus far proposed to regulate the affairs of insurance companies.

There is a bill by Senator Millard, of Nebraska, which proposes to create the Department of Insurance under the Department of Commerce and Labor, with a commissioner of insurance at a salary of $5,000. Representative Butler Ames (Mass.) has a bill, Representative Fred Landis (Ind.) has a bill patterned after Senator Millard's, and Representative Morrell (Pa.) has introduced one to require life insurance companies under penalties to return fifty per cent. of the premium money paid on any policy that may lapse. Representative Robinson has a joint resolution to appoint a committee of Congress to investigate insurance companies.

Senator Dryden favors Federal control, but is specifically opposed to Representative Ames' bill and sees defects in the bill by Representative Charles Russell Davis, of St. Peter, Minn., providing in principle that insurance companies not living up to certain regulations prescribed by Congress should be deprived of the use of the United States mails.

"Neither bill would, in my judgment, reach the evils complained of," said Senator Dryden. "By the provision of Colonel Ame's bill, as it has been outlined to us, no company would get a license to do business in the District of Columbia, the Territories or the islands, unless it lived up to a certain federal code for the states. Even if the larger companies would seek to secure licenses to do business in the District of Columbia and the Territories, with the idea that such a license would enhance its standing in the States, such a law would not reach the many bad companies constantly springing up and defying the laws in the States.

"There is a class of these companies that do business in a given State till dirven out of it by the insurance authorities. Then they move to another State, continuing operations as long as they are tolerated and then moving on again. What would they care for such a law as Colonel Ames proposes?

"But it is a question whether the law, if enacted, would have a very great effect upon the larger companies. I suppose most of them are doing considerable business in the territories and the islands, but compared with their entire business it is only a drop in the bucket, and it would probably prove impracticable to regulate the operations of these companies in the States by prescribing regulations applicable directly only in a much smaller territory.

"The bill to exclude insurance companies from the use of the mails unless they observe certain federal regulations, as proposed in the bill by Representative Davis, is along the same lines as a bill introduced over a year ago. We held extended hearings on that bill before the committee on postoffices and post roads. For one thing, it would place enormous power in the hands of one official, the Postmaster-General. I should not think it advisable to permit any one man to say whether the insurance companies of the country should be cut off from mailing privileges.

"I see but one way to regulate insurance companies by the government, if they are to be regulated at all. That is through the power given to regulate interstate commerce. I hold that that would be constitutional, but am well aware of the difference of opinion on that point and that it would have to be settled by the courts."

Love Letters Cause Divorce.

Supreme Court Justice Giegerich, of New York, without leaving the bench, decided to grant a divorce to Alvin T. J. Ritterhoff, and dismissed the counter suit for separation brought by Mrs. Ritterhoff. The case has attracted much attention, inasmuch as the corespondent himself, Fred Finacom, testified against Ritterhoff's wife. It also came out in the trial that Mrs. Ritterhoff wrote letters signed "Cap," which were read in court.

Fugitive Admits Forgeries.

Columbus, Ind., Dec. 28.—Frank McNeal, who left Columbus when his brother exposed one of his forgeries last week, has written his creditors telling them they hold forged paper. He also mailed a deed to the county auditor, transferring all his property to his sister-in-law, but under the circumstances the deed is worthless. McNeal's forgeries, mostly of his brother's name, amount, so far as disclosed, to $24,300.

Jap Ship Launched.

Tokio, Dec. 28.—The armored cruiser Teukuba, the largest warship ever built in Japan, was launched Tuesday morning. She is 440 feet long, 75 feet beam and 25 feet draught. Her tonnage is 13,750, and her engines are of 20,500 horse-power. The destroyer Harikino, 380 tons and 600 horse-power, was launched at Kobe yesterday. She carries six quick-firing guns and has two torpedo tubes.

Plainfield, N. J., December 28, 1905.

The annual charity ball tomorrow night promises to surpass that of last year, both in the splendor of its details and its patronage. As the undertaking is for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital, there has been a ready response to the invitation to purchase tickets.

The editor of the Paterson Press says that the newspapers that are adversely criticising Everett Colby, have not yet gotten acquainted with that gentleman. We don't know of anybody who really has.—Trenton State Gazette.

And yet the Trenton paper seems to give out the impression that it is pretty well acquainted with the New Jersey-Machine-Buster.

URGES HIS CLERGY TO AID BREWERS.

Bishop McFaul Commends Col. Collins' Resolution.

Bishop James A. McFaul, of the Trenton Roman Catholic Diocese, in a letter to the papers in that city, urges the clergy to aid the brewers in enforcing Col. D. F. Collins' resolution to drive depraved men out of the saloon business, and says that if the increase in the consumption of beer has a tendency to decrease the use of stronger beverages, then the brewers are doing beneficial work.

In reference to the resolutions introduced at the State Brewers' Association, Bishop McFaul says:

"There can, however, be no ground for disputing the position assumed by the State Brewers' Association. If the resolution introduced by Colonel Dennis F. Collins, representing the Peter Breidt Brewing Company, of Elizabeth, which was unanimously adopted by the convention, be reduced to practice, many of the crying evils existing, especially in our large cities, will be abolished.

"I have been informed that several resorts of vice, in Trenton, could not exist, except for the power of the breweries. If this is true, consistently with the above resolution, they owe it to themselves to see that no house, which is now law-abiding and respectable shall be permitted to dispose of their goods. In other words, they should employ all their influence to drive the lawless and depraved out of the saloon business.

"In this work, I am sure, the clergy, irrespective of creed, the police, and every respectable citizen, will cheerfully lend assistance."

MRS. DUKE TO FIGHT BY MEANS OF APPEAL.

Contests Decision Placing Tobacco Manufacturer Husband as Legal Resident of New Jersey.

Mrs. Lillian N. Duke, who is being sued for divorce by James B. Duke, a tobacco manufacturer, yesterday gave notice through her counsel of the filing of an appeal from the recent decision of Vice Chancellor Pitney, who overruled her plea that the New Jersey Chancery Court had no jurisdiction in the matter. The claim was made that Duke did not have a legal residence in New Jersey.

By the filing of the notice yesterday the decision of Vice Chancellor Pitney is token to the Court of Errors and Appeals for review.

WORK COMMENCED ON FAST LINE CUT-OFF

WILL SAVE 2½ HOURS IN RUNNING TIME BETWEEN TRENTON AND N. Y.

Perth Amboy, Dec. 28.—Work on straightening the line and cutting down the running time on the trolley road from Camden to New York has been begun under the direction of Stern & Silverman, of Philadelphia, acting in harmony with the Public Service Corporation. An air line is being built between Milltown and Elizabeth, which will save fourteen miles of riding and two and one-half hours between Trenton and New York. The new line will be twenty miles in length, and will be completed in time for summer travel.

The operation will be costly, as the entire twenty miles will run over private right of way 100 feet wide. A concrete bridge, 1,500 feet in length, one of the greatest of its kind, will be built over the Raritan River. It will have a 200-feet steel draw span.

Heretofore the absence of this straight-away line has been a great drawback to speedy travel between Trenton and New York. At present riders are compelled to make a sweeping half circle from Milltown to New Brunswick, thence to Bound Brook and to Elizabeth, making the ride from Milltown to Jersey City four hours long. The straightaway ride from Trenton to Milltown at present is twenty-four miles, which is made in fifty-eight minutes. Over the twenty miles of new work the time for the etnire distance will be cut down two and one-half hours.

One of the next improvements to be made in this service is to cut down the running time between Camden and Trenton. It is probable that rights of way will be obtained wherever they are necessary and a double track express service built within a year or two. The traffic on the line between the two cities is growing constantly, as is the demand for more rapid transit. The first attention, however, will be paid to improving the service between Trenton and New York, because of the growing commuter travel out of Jersey City.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

(By Merry Tom.)

"Little Johnny Jones" and the big cast that has presented George Cohan's best musical piece for the past two seasons, is one of the offerings for next month at the New Plainfield.

Chairman Counihan, of the Elks' minstrel committee, is in Philadelphia today getting pointers from the veteran blackface artist, Hughey Dougherty, who has been principal comedian with Frank Dumont's aggregation for many years.

"Mozart," the play founded on the life of the great composer, which is to be seen here Saturday afternoon and night, had its premiere in Harrisburg Monday night. It was witnessed by a packed house, many New York notables being present, and from press notices, it will be one of the season's best dramatic offerings.

"How Hearts Are Broken," at the New Plainfield last night, was without exception the best drama of its class that has appeared in the city this season. The company is composed of artists who know their business and the scenic effects, though not of the "blood and thunder" style, were very good. A realistic rain storm and a shipwreck at sea were among the features.

A tall young man, of slight build, with a sombre face and high brow, walked into the lobby of the New York theatre the other night with a ticket for "The Mayor of Tokio" in his hand. The doorkeeper was about to tear off the coupon when one of the theatre employes said, "Don't take that ticket. He just bought it from a speculator." The ticket was returned and he was told to "go away." "But I am a friend of Mr. Carle's. If you will send in my card to him——" "Say, we hear that story every night," was the reply; "take my advice and go away from here while you are all together." The tall man went to the stage door and sent his card to Mr. Carle. Presently he came back with a note to the doorman. It read: "Please admit Mr. George Ade and accept the ticket he offered." Mr. Ade was admitted.

JAMES H. HYDE SAILS TODAY.

Going to Paris to Remain for an Indefinite Period.

James Hazen Hyde sailed this morning on the La Lorraine for Havre. He will go to Paris to occupy his residence on the avenue Henri Martin for an indefinite period.

Mr. Hyde has closed his house, No. his chief valet, his secretary, C. T. Williamson, and his butler with him. His French secretary left three weeks ago.

Mr. Hyde went on board the steamer last night and found in his stateroom a mass of violets from a Fifth avenue florist.

Trolley for Ocean Grove Camp.

Ocean Grove, N. J., Dec 28.—The Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association is about to introduce a trolley read into the camp meeting grounds. Application will be made next week to the Asbury Park Council for a franchise to extend the proposed trolley through Bond street and Bangs avenue, across Main street to the main depot. The road will be exclusively under the control of the association, and be a continuation of the Asbury Park trolley system.

TEACHERS KICK OVER RETIREMENT FUND.

Revolt Can Be Averted Only By Smothering Discussion of the Subject.

Unless officers of the State Teachers' Association, which opened its fifty-first annual convention at Atlantic City yesterday afternoon, can smother the attempt to bring the subject of the teachers' retirement fund before the session today there is danger of a dissension that may result in half of the 600 members who are in attendance seceding from the organization.

Higher officials in the schools of the State have long objected to the retirement fund being discussed before the association at its annual meeting, and these men will make a strong fight today to off-set the possibility of a quarrel over the manner of procuring the fund.

A month ago these exponents of higher education at a meeting of the State council of education threatened to retire from membership in the State Teachers' Association of the squabble over the merits of the fund as again allowed to creep in at this session.

The members of the commission, which controls the retirement fund, are Judge William R. Codington, of this city; Charles H. Hartshorn, of Jersey City, and Professor Byron C. Matthews, of Newark.

POISON ENDS HIS DEBAUCH.

Boy Attempts to Prevent Elizabeth Parent from Taking Paris Green.

Elizabeth, Dec. 28.—As the outcome of a Christmas debauch, Adolph Kellar, a carpenter, died Tuesday night at the Elizabeth General Hospital, after taking a dose of paris green. The man swallowed the poison in the morning, at his home on Morris avenue, after a quarrel with his wife. When his condition was discovered a couple of physicians were summoned and they worked hard for some hours to save his life. He was finally removed to the hospital, but died half an hour after reaching there. The suicide was fifty-seven years old and leaves a family.

Kellar's son, fourteen years old, saw his father taking the paris green and struck the bottle, knocking it out of his hand. It was too late, however, as the man had swallowed a fatal quantity. Kellar was for years in the employ of the Standard Oil Company at Bayonne. He resided for several years in Elizabeth, but for some time had been living in Union Township, near Townley Station.

He leaves a widow and five sons. One of the latter, a milkman, is a patient in the Alexian Hospital here, slowly recovering from an operation for appendicitis. Kellar's body was removed to Jensen's morgue.

NO PASSENGER ON LIMITED.

From Jersey City to Pittsburg Not a Ticket Was Punched.

It was made public yesterday that the magnificent limited train on the Pennsylvania Railroad made the run from Jersey City to Pittsburg Christmas Day without a passenger on board.

It left Jersey City at 11:44 a .m. without a passenger, stopped at Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Altoona and took on no passengers, and went into Pittsburg at 9:35 passengerless. It is the first time in the history of the road that such a thing has happened.

The train carried a conductor, two brakemen, a baggagemaster, engineer and fireman, a Pullman conductor, three porters, a matron and the dining car force of chefs and waiters. The passing of an express train through Pennsylvania on the Pennsylvania Railroad without a fare is unprecedented in the history of the company.

Suit for $10,000 Damages.

Elizabeth, Dec. 28.—A suit for $10,000 damages has been brought in the Union County Court here by Patrick Tully, of this city, against the United Electric Company of New Jersey. The plaintiff was a motorman in the employ of the Public Service Corporation, and on the night of June 11, 1905, while on his run from Aldene to Elizabeth, was knocked from his car and, as he claims, crippled for life by coming in contact with a live broken electric light wire which had fallen across the feed wire of the trolley comany. One end of the electric light wire, highly charged with electricity, hung down over the track on which Motorman Tully's car was running. It is claimed the accident was due to the negligence of the defendant corporation in not having its wires properly secured.

Will Force Hens to Lay.

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 28.—Within a short time Prof. Jaffa, nutrition expert at the State University, believes hens will lay eggs according to programme, whether they want to or not, instead of refusing to work for so long a season every year that the price of eggs mounts up to famine rates. Prof. Jaffa is conducting experiments which he expects will be concluded by January 1. He announced yesterday that his researches have justified his belief that he would be able to control the moulting period of hens, which normally begins in the middle of the summer and continues into September, October or November.

NOT A FORGERY TO SIGN NAME OF ANOTHER.

A Decision of Interest to Purchasers of Cut-Rate Tickets.

Archibald C. Newburn, a traveling salesman, who was arrested on a charge of forgery in signing the name of George E. Whitcomb on a railroad ticket to Indianapolis, issued to Whitcomb by the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, the Lake Shore line, and the "Big Four" Railway, and was held in $1,000 bail for trial by Magistrate Barlow, was taken before Justice Leventritt in the Supreme Court, in New York, yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus sued out by Lawyer Benjamin F. Spellman, and was discharged from custody.

Lawyer Spellman said that the ticket was issued to Whitcomb at a reduced rate and he had to sign the ticket, on which was a statement that he should bind himself to sign his name thereto whenever requested to do so by the proper officials of the various companies.

When Whitcomb had purchased the ticket at the Union offices of the railway companies he was watched and was seen to talk with Newburn, who was waiting for him outside the office. Newburn was shadowed, and when he presented the ticket at the Grand Central station, New York, he was asked to sign his name on it. He signed the name of George E. Whitcomb, and was promptly arrested on the charge of forgery. Several hearings were held by Magistrate Barlow, and Newburn was finally held.

Lawyer Spellman said that Whitcomb, when he transferred the ticket to Newburn, authorized him to sign his name to it whenever asked to do so by the railroad officials. He therefore could not be held to have committed forgery. Mr. Spellman also maintained that Newburn could not even be charged with fraud in connection with the matter, as the ticket entitled the person named to transportation, and the fact that another person traveled upon it did not defraud the railways of anything.

Assistant District Attorney Johnston argued that Newburn had committed forgery, and was therefore rightly held. Justice Leventritt held that no forgery had been committed, and directed Newburn's release from custody.

New Money Order System.

The new money order system will not go into effect here until February 1. It was expected that the new system would go into effect January 1, but it has been put off until the old blanks run out. The new money order blanks will be somewhat different from the old ones, and it will be impossible for swindlers to raise the amount, as has been done extensively throughout the country. The amount of money will be written in full and not in figures as heretofore. The new system has been in effect in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Newark and other places for some time.—New Brunswick Home News.

Comes Across "Moonshiners'" Plant.

Rahway, Dec. 28.—Councilman George H. Laing, who has just returned from a pleasure and business trip through the South, says that while in Alabama, hunting, he came across a "moonshiners'" den, in which there were countless kegs of liquor. He says he reported the matter to the authorities and then left for home.

Dec. 31: "What Have I Learned This Year?"—Deut. viii, 2-20.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

"All the way which the Lord thy God hath led thee." It is well to do some thinking at the close of the year, just as Moses reviewed with the Israelites their journey through the wilderness. We have each one of us had a varied experience during the twelve months past. Some of it has been hard to bear. Other things have far more of pleasure than we could have anticipated. We may not have realized as we passed along that there was any hand guiding our affairs. Sometimes it has seemed as if mere chance alone governed things, they went so perversely, but as we look over the whole field from the present vantage point we can be sure that there was a guiding hand directing all our affairs. God has led, and we should not forget all the way in which he has led. There is purpose in His dealing with us. He has hedged up our way in some directions and opened it unexpectedly in others. There is much of mystery we could not penetrate at the time and some that we perhaps do not yet understand clearly, but there is an abiding consciousness that God has led and that it is all right.

I see not a step before me;
God tenderly shades my eyes,
And every step of my pilgrim path
He makes new scenes to arise,
And every joy He sends me
Comes as a sweet and glad surprise.

The lesson of life is strikingly expressed in this passage. God has led us in the way He has in order to humble us—that is, not to put us to shame and crush the spirit. Humility is a different thing from that. It is the opposite of proud self sufficiency and arrogance, which is fatal to all peace and extremely dangerous in indulgence by such creatures as we are in such a world as this, where we know so little and the mistakes may so easily be serious in consequence. Humility begets a reliance on the power and goodness of God. That gives peace and assurance of safety. Has not the past year shown us so many times and in so many ways our need of better judgment than our own and a stronger protection than we could exercise? How all this brings us back to God and proves what is in the heart. It not only reveals what manner of spirit we are of, but it also develops in us new traits of character.

All that we have passed through has confirmed us more certainly in the attitude we have had toward the commands and will of God. Are we more teachable and tender hearted than a year ago, or have we felt ourselves hardening under the stress of circumstances?

Some seem to think that every difficult and painful passage in life they have to encounter is somehow an injustice toward them on the part of God, as if He is under obligation to make everything pleasurable for them and the failure to do so is depriving them of rights.

We not infrequently hear people speak of the mysterious dealings of God in the death of friends, as if God was punishing them when they have not deserved it. Whoever has such a view of life and circumstances would best read the book of Job very attentively and also this chapter in Deuteronomy frequently and come to a better conception of the mode of God's dealing with us.

Out of it all let us learn to walk in God's ways the coming year more faithfully and diligently than we have done in the past and trust with unwavering confidence that He will lead us rightly and safely and bring us home to Himself all in His own good time.

God's Eternal Purpose.

The waves of the ocean spring up, we know not where or why. They come careering past us, the very emblems of resistless power. They subside and are lost among the succeeding waves. In like manner, on the vast sea of human life, individuals, then empires, mysteriously emerge. They raise their ephemeral forms conspicuously high, overwhelming whatever stands in the way of their march. They also subside and are lost, but the unfathomable abyss of humanity still remains, and God's eternal purpose moves on toward the accomplishment of the determined end.—Draper.

They are never alone that are accompanied by noble thoughts.—Sir Philip Sidney.

Happiness is not in having what we like, but in liking what we have.—Henry F. Cope.

The essence of Christianity is not imitating Christ, but trusting Him.—P. T. Forsyth.

He is great who is what he is from nature and who never reminds us of others.—Emerson.

Keep steadily before you the fact that all true success depends at least upon yourself.—Theodore Munger.

It is the work of a philosopher to be every day subduing his passions and laying aside his prejudices.—Addison.

The wealth of man is the number of things which he loves and blesses and which he is loved and blessed by.—Carlyle.

Art thou a beggar at God's door? Be sure thou gettest a great bowl, for as thy bowl is so will be thy mess.—John Bunyan.

If you are poor and weak and helpless and of little account, these are only extraordinary reasons why God should care for you.—John G. Stevenson.

Carve the face within, not dress it from without, for whoever would be fairer illumination must begin in the soul. The face catches the glow only from that side.—W. G. Gannett.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.
Is the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.

If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 31.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Looking backward. What have I learned this year?—Deut. viii, 2-20.

Edward Bellamy's "Looking Backward" was in reality a looking forward. Before looking back he placed himself in the distant future and then prophesied what were to be the social changes from the present to that future. Our looking backward on the last day of the year 1905 is, however, to be of a different character. We are actually to look back upon the 365 days of the year and to recall especially what God has taught us as the days have gone by. Looking backward in this sense should be a profitable exercise. The memory is one of the most marvelous attributes of mind that God has given to us, and we should use it for our advancement in spiritual things as well as in secular affairs. Many will recall the successes and failures of the past year, its gains and its losses, but will give little thought, if any, to God in these remembrances. Yet God in His Word teaches us a different doctrine. Of this fact we have an illustration in the passage selected for our study. The children of Israel upon their entrance into the land of Canaan were instructed to remember how God had led them—"And thou shalt remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee these forty years in the wilderness." And to us, the children of God, there comes the command on this last day of the year, "And thou shalt remember all the way the Lord thy God hath led thee these 365 days of the year 1905."

God had led us. His leading may not always have been evident to us, nor may we have understood all His dealings with us, but He has led us all the way and in the way that has been for our good. This does not mean that the way has always been pleasant and desirable. Israel was often afflicted in the wilderness, as we are in the journey of life to our heavenly Canaan. God's people were humbled, they were made to suffer hunger and to meet hardships and difficulties, but God's hand was in it all. He humbled them that He might exalt them. He caused them to hunger that He might feed them. He afflicted them that they might seek comfort and consolation in Him. He weakened them that they might realize that their strength was in Him. As you look over the past year do you recall dark days, difficult roads and times of affliction and distress? If so do not argue that God has not been with you, but be convinced that He has been and that even in these things He was manifesting His glory and administering to your good. Then recall as against these things the bright days, the days of plenty, the successful achievements and the manifest blessings of God, and be filled with submission to His will and gratitude for His goodness.

Gratitude for the blessings of the past should inspire obedience for the future. With the command to remember there is also the exhortation to obey, "Therefore thou shalt keep the commandments of the Lord thy God to walk in His ways and to fear Him."

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xxiii, 1-6; xxxix, 1-5; xc, 12; cxix, 81-88; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; John ix, 4; I Cor. vi, 19, 20; Eph. v, 15-21; Col. iv, 1-6; II Pet. iii, 8-14.

The "Plus" Sign In Our Work.

This mathematical sign is an excellent one to appeal to every effort we put forth in these days. In mathematics it is the sign of addition. In Christian Endeavor it is the sign of "increase." And just at this particular juncture in God's heavens this sign is in the ascendant. A large Endeavor society—"plus." That means larger than ever, by the grace of God. Missionary enthusiasm—"plus," meaning still greater enthusiasm. Splendid intermediate and junior societies—"plus." The call to improvement, enlargement, betterment, expansion, is as natural as breathing and as insistent as your heart beat. "Anywhere, so it be forward." There are no statics in Christian experience. Life is ever pushing onward and outward and upward. You say you had a fine society last year. Very good. Press on to a better one this year. This year does not look back into last year for its model, neither does this month look to last month for its ideal. These conceptions of what we ought to be and what we may become lie just before us. They are to be wrought out in living, loving, everyday characters in the months to come. —Rev. J. Webster Bailey, President of the Indiana Christian Endeavor Union, in Christian Endeavor World.

Maker of Character.

I like Christian Endeavor because Christian Endeavor makes character. I like it, too, because it makes Christian character, and there is no currency in this world that passes at such a premium anywhere as a good Christian character. The time is going by when a young man or a young woman has to apologize for being a Christian. Christian character swings wide open every door of opportunity to the young men and the young women of the United States.—William McKinley.

I suppose that the basis of Christian Endeavor is the consciousness of Christ in the hearts of Christian workers.—Dr. Hume.

To Christian Endeavorers.

You serve with zest
Your cause—the best
That any may espouse;
It is your plan
In every man
The highest to arouse.

—S. W. Gillilan, "Christian Endeavor Welcome" poem in Baltimore American.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

A host of special attractions have been secured for the Eden Musee of New York City, and during the season the Musee will be replete with novel and amusing features. A new figure of President Roosevelt has been added to the famous group of Rulers of the World. It is the most characteristic figure in the whole group, and represents the President just about to deliver a speech. Another addition to this famous group is a figure of the new King of Norway in full court costume. Many other additions have been made to the wax groups, and there are almost daily rearrangements and alterations. In the Winter Garden an elaborate entertainment is taking place practically throughout the day and evening. A large collection of new moving pictures are shown hourly with a change of pictures each hour. These pictures are the most elaborate ever displayed, and are shown at no other places except the Musee until after the Musee has discarded them. Each afternoon and evening the new Hungarian orchestra renders an appropriate concert of classical and popular music. Each member of the orchastra is an artist, and the combined talent represents the most perfect Hungarian orchestra in the country. Many interesting stage features in the shape of special attractions are shown each evening.

COUPLE NEVER EXCHANGED WORDS EXCEPT IN ANGER.

For Nine Years Husband Lived in Little Room at Top of House—Wins Divorce for Daughter.

Buffalo, Dec. 28.—An action for separation has been brought by Mrs. Charles F. Ford. The couple were married in 1879. For nine years they lived in the same house without exchanging words except in quarrels. The bitterest clashes invariably occurred on Christmas or Thanksgiving.

The family lived in a fourteen-room house, and the husband during the nine years occupied a little room just under the roof, where he smoked, cooked, ate, washed dishes and enjoyed his own company, even using an entrance and exit exclusively his own. In return the wife and those of the five children who sided with her boarded up all entrances to the remaining thirteen rooms through which the husband might trespass. A referee recommends a separation.

The case of Clara Sitz, an incompetent, against her husband, William E. Sitz, for divorce, was fought and won by Adam Schell, father of the wife. The woman has been mentally deranged for five years, during which time the husband is accused by his father-in-law of having committed the statutory offense. Schell maintains he feared that in the event of his death Sitz would get a slice of the property which would be bequeathed to Mrs. Sitz.

ROYAL ARCANUM TO APPEAL.

Supreme Council Will Fight Gaynor's Ruling to the Highest Court.

Boston, Dec. 28.—W. O. Robson, of this city, supreme secretary of the Royal Arcanum, said yesterday that the Supreme Council's legal representatives had decided to appeal from he decision of Justice Gaynor, of New York, the effect of which is to nullify the new rates in effect since October 1.

The secretary says that the council has no intention of abiding by any decision against the new rates until it has been taken to the highest tribunal. The Supreme Court of Massachusetts will give a hearing on January 15 on a petition for an injunction against the supreme officers respecting the new rates.

Taxation Question.

Trenton, Dec. 28.—In compliance with a section of the creating act, requiring the State Board for the Equalization of Taxes to investigate the method adopted by local assessors in the assessment of real and personal property in this State, and to ascertain wherein existing tax laws are defective or are improperly or negligently administered, to the end that they make such corrections as are necessary and report to the Legislature, the board resolved this morning to hold a series of meetings at various county seats.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

In these theatrical days of so much tomfoolery and frivolous offering, it is positively refreshing to note with what uniform success the poetic drama "Mozart" is meeting, hence it is not at all surprising to note the profound interest in evidence here respecting the forthcoming production of a play founded upon the exciting as well as romantic features in the brief career and sad ending of the world's most cherished composer. Howard Kyle, upon whom falls the burden of greatest responsibility, in order to impart fidelity to the noble character, has an enviable record as an actor of distinguished accomplishments. Those who especially recall his fine portrayals of "Nathan Hale," and John Ermine in "On the Yellowstone," will cheerfully testify to this, and it is therefore small wonder that Maurice Campbell has selected so earnest a student of dramatic art to interpret so charming a work. The author of "Mozart" is Ivy Ashton Root, a niece of the Secretary of War, Elihu Root, and fine credit has been accorded her efforts, while much praise has been bestowed upon the manner of the play's presentation. It will be at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night.

One of the great big genuine successes of the present year is the massive production of "At the World's Mercy," Owen Davis' latest offering to the stage, so it is stated. The action is said to bristle with dramatic incident cleverly told and cunningly devised with a strong love interest well sustained until the final curtain and interspersed with many delightful and clever comedy situations. From a production standpoint it is extremely doubtful if anything has been seen in a long time which can approach the scenic investiture of this play, and the mechanical and electrical effects are reported to be little short of marvelous. "At the World's Mercy" is to be presented at the New Plainfield theatre New Year's afternoon and night.

No musical play presented in the past dozen years has commanded so much dignified attention as "Running for Office," a rural musical comedy from the pen of Geo. M. Cohan, who at the present time occupies most of the public eye as a writer of song, verse, and play. "Running for Office" while one of the early successes of Mr. Cohan is regarded by many as one of the best conceived and most brilliantly written of all the Cohan successes. It tells the story in a brisk lively Cohaneseque manner of the trials and tribulations of a candidate for office in the rural districts. The complications and the excitement of a country political election have given Mr. Cohan much scope for many amusing situations, and all those who are familiar with this brilliant young writer's aptitude for grasping comedy possibilities will readily conceive what an amusing farce Mr. Cohan has made out of "Running for Office." It will be at the New Plainfield theatre Jan. 6.

All persons in this community who have not been fortunate enough to see "On the Bridge at Midnight," Klimt and Gazzolo's famous play, have no idea of the wonderful accuracy with which great structures and their operation can be imitated on the stage. The brige scene, which gives the play its title, was a revelation even to Chicagoans, who have the original, the great jack-knife bridge, in their city. At firrst the bridge itself was a subject of doubt and even engineers said it would be impracticable. After it proved its great worth and perfect mechanism the idea of giving an adequate reproduction of the stage aroused the doubters, but Messrs. Klimt and Gazzolo triumphed over all difficulties and when the play was produced in Chicago doubt immediately turned to adimration. The bridge opened its great valves like the original and ships passed through. "On the Bridge at Midnight" will be at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

From the echoes of metropolitan opinion it must be inferred that in his new four act play of California ranch and race track, "A Race for Life," to be produced by the P. H. Sullivan Amusement Co. at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, Theodore Kremer has struck a big bonanza, from both a box office and melodramatic point of view. The scene of action is romantically laid in the wildly picturesque region buttressed by the Sierra Nevada Mountains, admitting of grand and beautiful scenic effects, of which we are assured very accurate and artistic advantage has been fully taken. The plot and action are not overloaded with a superabundance of characters and no doubles and dummies are introduced to kill time and fill space.

C. N. Bliss, Jr., to Wed.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., of New York city, son of the Treasurer of the National Republican Committee, New York, and Miss Zaidee Cobb, of Washington, D. C. Miss Cobb was introduced to society in Washington two years ago.

Honor for Choate.

Albany, Dec. 28.—Joseph H. Choate is to be the next president of the State Bar Association. Mr. Choate will be elected at a meeting of the association to be held here in January. He has been selected by the nominating committee of the association.

CHURCH'S ANNIVERSARY

Monroe Avenue M. E. Congregation to Observe Date of Its Formal Institution.

ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

Order of Services for the Day—Special Covenant Meeting at Night —Brief History of the Parish.

The services to be held at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church on Sunday will be of unusual interest. They will mark the anniversary of the constitution of the church and exercises appropriate to that event as well as the observance of New Year's eve will be held.

In the morning at the usual hour the pastor, Rev. George Mooney, will preach an anniversary sermon. There will be the Sunday school session in the afternoon. The special services will begin at 9 o'clock at night, when the Epworth League will take charge of a meeting which will last for one hour. Walter M. McGee will be the leader and will read the history of the church, which has been prepared by N. Mansfield Smith.

At 10 o'clock there will be the celebration of the Lord's Supper and reception of new members. The pastor will preach a short sermon at 11 o'clock and at 11:30 there will be a covenant meeting, during which there will be prayer and testimonies from the members and friends of the church. All of the societies of the church will unite in these services.

Monroe Avenue church has had uninterrupted success since its organization and has steadily increased in membership and usefulness. It was first organized as a chapel through the efforts of the late James McGee, one of its chief benefactors throughout his life. Rev. Herbert B. Munson was first called as pastor. He remained about a year, when Rev. William C. O'Donnell was called. During the first year of his pastorate, in 1895, the organization was constituted a church and Mr. O'Donnell was made the regular pastor. He remained with the church until the close of 1899, when he accepted a call to the West End Avenue church, Jersey City, where he is still pastor. When Mr. O'Donnell left, Rev. John MacMurray, who is now in the Jersey City district, became pastor of the church. Under these pastorates the church increased in membership and much good was accomplished. Mr. MacMurray served as pastor from 1900 to 1903, when Rev. George Mooney succeeded him and is still the pastor. Under his guidance the spiritual interest has increased and today the church is one of the most active in the city.

The Sunday school is the largest among the M. E. churches in the city and borough, it being 346. The Sunday school membership of the First M. E. church is 286 and that of Grace M. E. church 226.

The members of this church are doing a good work and in the closing hours of the old year there will be a review of the past year's work and a prospective view of the coming year.

Probes Railroad Contract.

There was a seven hour session yesterday afternoon and last night of the Common Council committee in Newark, which is investigating a contract between the Lackawanna Railroad and that city for the track elevation and depression work of the former, for which Newark defrayed about $600,000 of the cost. W. A. Howell, of the City Engineering Department, testified in regard to the preliminary stage of the contract making, admitting that he depended largely upon the figures provided by the railroad engineers.

Find Skeleton and Old Pennies.

While workmen were digging a trench at Claremont and Randolph avenues, Jersey City, yesterday, they dug up the skeleton of a woman. Two mouldy copper pennies bearing date of 1817 were found near the bones. The streets were part of a farm, and it is supposed that the skeleton was probably that of a woman employe buried in a corner of the farm and forgotten.

WILL KEEP UP THE ANTI-LENTZ FIGHT.

Senator-elect Colby Says His Followers Are Not at All Cast Down.

Senator-elect Everett Colby yesterday announced that plans for the fight against Major Carl Lentz and his followers to be conducted by the element of the party he represents would include the retention of the quarters of the Colby Committee on Limited Franchises and Equal Taxation. Asked if the assurances of William P. Martin to the Lentz followers that the Colbyites would abide by the decision of the majority of the Republican County Committee would in any way influence the Senator or his followers, he answered in the negative.

"The members will merely remain in the committee," he added. "They will do what is right, of course."

"What is your opinion of the Major's victory?" Mr. Colby was asked.

"The vote of the county committee majority was a vote of the heart and not of the head," he answered. "Major Lentz remains chairman of the committee in spite of the opposition of more than half the Republican voters of Essex county. Those people in the county committee who supported Major Lentz voted for him because they were going to be loyal to him.

"That was a good sign. It illustrates the human element. None of the men who voted for the Major thought he was best fitted to discharge the duties of the office or voted for him because they thought he would prevent a split in the Republican party. But there is no feeling on our part against Major Lentz, personally. There is no spite. We are going to eliminate the ideas that the Major represents. We will go ahead with the fight for another year. We will expect then that the intelligence of people will have overcome their sympathies."

Mr. Colby said he was not at all disheartened at the outcome of the election and said it showed a great deal of good.

LIBBIE GARRABRANT THANKS THE GOVERNOR.

Calls Blessings on His Head for Voting for Her Release from the State Prison.

Trenton, Dec. 28.—Libbie Garrabrant, who a few days ago was paroled from State Prison, where she had been for thirty-three years for murder, sent yesterday the following letter of thanks to Governor Stokes for hiv ote in her behalf as a member of the Court of Pardons:

"Your Honor—I kindly thank you for my liberation. I feel under a great obligation to you. I hope and trust by the help of Almighty God that you will never have the least cause to regret that you set me free. Words fail to express my thanks and how grateful I am. I was received very kindly by all my friends. I have a nice home and everything is done to try and make me forget my sorrowful life.

"Your Honor, please excuse me for not writing to you before this. I could not compose myself long enough to get at it. Let me say again, I thank you for your sympathy and I appreciate what you have done for me and may God's blessing rest upon you. I remain, your humble servant,

"LIBBIE GARRABRANT."

SUFFRAGE LEAGUE FINDS A MODEL LAW

PLAINFIELD WOMEN ENDORSE A PROPOSED CHILD LABOR ACT.

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, at its meeting at the home of Mrs. David L. Thompson, of Rockview avenue, adopted a resolution authorizing the secretary to write to the Senator and Congressmen urging the passage of a model Child Labor Law proposed for the District of Columbia. The friends of child labor legislation hope to see the bill passed by the present Congress when it reconvenes.

A copy of the law was read by Mrs. William H. Riley and it was considered to be an excellent one and of a pattern that will meet the present-day needs in solving the question of child labor.

Mrs. Charles E. Ryder presided at the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. David P. Hall. Much interest was shown in the current topics' discussion that followed the business meeting, when the child labor law was introduced.

LIBBIE GARRABRANDT AT HOME.

Arrives in Paterson After Her Thirty-four Years in Prison.

Paterson, Dec. 28.—Libbie Garrabrandt, who was paroled last week by the Board of Pardons after serving thirty-four years in the State prison, arrived yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Dougherty. She spent Christmas Day at the home of Mrs. Thomas M. Moore, in Passaic. Mrs. Moore is president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and for years has been one of the most active among the women of New Jersey who worked for the release of Miss Garrabrandt.

Mrs. Moore accompanied Libbie Garrabrandt from Trenton. They traveled from Newark to Passaic in a trolley car, but none recognized the white haired woman who has been in prison since she was a girl of seventeen years.

As she passed the old Court House Libbie Garrabrandt recognized the stone structure and the big lawn in front of the jail adjoining, where hundreds of women gathered to sign a petition for the commutation of her sentence after she had been condemned to be hanged. Miss Garrabrandt will meet her mother in a few days.

ALDERMEN BOLT CAUCUS.

Conference of the Democratic Majority in Elizabeth Board.

The caucus of the Democratic majority in the ex-aldermanic board, of Elizabeth, which will meet New Year's night for organization and a distribution of the offices, was held Tuesday night and, as expected, broke up in a row. President George C. Ford and four of his aldermanic supporters bolted the caucus when they found that Colonel Dennis F. Collins, leader of the opposition, had ten votes for his candidacy as president of the board. There was one absentee from the caucus. That was Alderman William D. Delamater, who is a Ford man. These, however, would only give the latter six votes.

In the present mixed up state of affairs anything now is likely to happen between this and New Year's Day. It is hinted the bolters may enter into a deal with the seven Republicans and give the latter the excise commissioner and perhaps one of the two city physicians to be elected. This combination, if successful, would control the organization of the new board, as it would have thirteen votes to the other faction's ten.

TWICE ENGAGED, SUES HIM.

Brooklyn Young Woman Asks $50,000 for Alleged Breach of Promise.

Declaring that after being engaged to her twice, Henry Martin had finally refused to marry her, Miss Ella L. Miller began an action yesterday for breach of promise in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn. She seeks damages in the sum of $50,000.

Miss Miller says that Martin, who became acquainted with her in the spring of 1903, urged her to marry him, and when she consented they became engaged and announced it to their friends on May 15, 1903. They had a quarrel and the match was broken off, but on March 21 of this year the engagement, she asserts, was again announced. However, before the date set for the wedding, she says, Martin told her bluntly that all was over between them.

CORTELYOU'S RULING.

Postmaster General Cortelyou has ruled that newspapers printing the results of card euchre parties where prizes are given shall be excluded from the mails only in cases where such affairs charge an admission fee. Parties where the card players are not required to present tickets do not come under the ban.

The attorney general for the Postoffice Department says that the rule will not be made to work injury to any worthy enterprise, but adds that it will be best for the press to refrain from printing lists of prizes of affairs where admission fees are charged.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will entertain Marcus L. Ward Council, of Newark, tonight. An interesting programme has been prepared for the visitors. Recently Franklin Council was the guest of the Newark council and this is a return visit.

The programme is to be furnished by New York talent, the committee having engaged several well known artists. Mayor Fagan as Santa Claus.

Jersey City, Dec. 28.—Mayor Mark M. Fagan, of this city, was Santa Claus yesterday at the headquarters of the Fifth Ward Republican Club in Monmouth street, but he didn't wear any disguise. More than 1,000 children pushed and squirmed and wriggled and squealed in front of the small building, and six able-bodied policemen had their hands full in preserving order. The Mayor is known to every child in his home ward and nearly all of them addressed him as "Mark" when they could get near enough to take gifts from his hands.

TRIES TO KILL WIFE, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE.

Warren County Man Shoots Woman and Then Commits Suicide by Throwing Himself Into Quarry.

Delaware, Dec. 28.—Because his wife refused to obey his command to remain away from a Christmas celebration held in the Baptist church at Portland, near here, Benjamin J. Williams, a slater, fifty-seven years old, twice shot her with a double-barreled shotgun at their home at Slateford, on the Pennsylvania side of the river.

The first charge took effect in her back below the left shoulder, and the second charge passed through her hat. It is thought she will recover. Thinking her dead, Williams turned the gun on himself, and then completed the work by throwing himself in an abandoned quarry hole, where the body was found by searchers in several feet of water. Williams, it is asserted, was insanely jealous of his wife, who was fifteen years his junior.

At the December term of the Northampton court Williams was accused of disturbance of the peace by his wife. He was discharged, after being put under bonds to keep the peace. He leaves four children.

PUBLICITY RULE FOR PARDONS AND PAROLES.

Court to Consider Proposed Regulation for Applicants for Clemency.

Trenton, Dec. 28.—The Court of Pardons yesterday granted a parole to Fred Voight, of Union, sentenced to two years for robbery in 1904.

Fine was remitted in the case of Francisco Ralumbo, of Hudson county, convicted of robbery last June.

This disposed of all the cases for the present term of court except the penitentiary cases, which were laid over for consideration at a session late yesterday afternoon.

Of the applications made during the term forty-seven were dismissed; nineteen laid over for consideration at the next term; eighteen paroles were granted; one pardon allowed, and two fines remitted.

After concluding the consideration of the penitentiary cases the court intends to take up the new rules drafted by Judges Dill and Green and laid over from last week. The most radical suggestion in the rules is one designed to give publicity to all applications for pardons or paroles before the case is considered by the Court of Pardons. The proposition made by the committee is that every applicant for clemency shall be required to publish a notice of such application in a newspaper published in the county seat in which he was tried for at least two weeks prior to filing his application.

Provision is also made that notices of such applications shall be served upon the prosecutor, and if the crime was committed in a place other than that of the county seat such notice must also be served upon the chief of police or principal police authority of such place.

Although the rules have not been considered by the court as a whole, it is understood that there are some objections to this method. One is that in some cases an insurmountable obstacle might be put in the way of a friendless prisoner seeking a parole by requiring of him an impossibility.

It has been suggested that this difficulty could be overcome by having the advertising done by the State, which could prepare the necessary lists from the applications made before each term.

The idea of the committee in drafting a rule compelling publicity was that an opportunity would thereby be given to all persons interested and caring to do so to present such reasons as they might have as to why clemency should or should not be exercised.

RUM DUMS COST COUNTY A PILE OF MONEY.

Perth Amboy's Activity in Sending People to Insane Asylum Needs Investigation.

The annual visit of the Lunacy Committee of the Middlesex Board of Freeholders to the Trenton Insane Asylum was made yesterday.

As a result of their inquiries, they discerned that Middlesex county has an undesirably large showing of insane folk in proportion to the population, in fact there are no less than 223 of them. Middlesex contriubted one of the largest contingents sent in by the counties, and judged from the standpoint of population this county is the most prolific of any in insanity. The discovery was so alarming that a certain amount of hesitancy was experienced in diving too deep into the inquiry, but investigation was turned towards finding out from what part of Middlesex the insane applicants for admission mostly came. This resulted in giving Perth Amboy credit for the leading contribution.

Along this line of inquiry the fact was unearthed that most of the Perth Amboy lunatics were of the bad rum order. The committee asserted this to be a fact within their own experience, but did not say whether it was experience of the rum or of the patients.

The last candidate for admission was Peter Griffin, of Perth Amboy, and it was confidently asserted that he just had an ordinary attack of snakes, which can be brought on at any time by even a small absorbtion of Perth Amboy fire water.

TRAIN RUNS OVER MAN.

Elias Apgar, of High Bridge, Badly Injured While Walking Tracks.

High Bridge, Dec. 28.—While walking along the Central Railroad tracks on his way home Monday night, Elias Apgar, about forty-five years old, of this place, was struck and run over by a passenger engine and tender. The wheels passed over his left leg below the knee and the toe of his shoe on the right foot. His left leg was crushed and bones protruded from the flesh. The right foot escaped injury.

Apgar was near his home when the accident occurred. He was brought to the station, where Dr. W. C. Alpaugh and Dr. Hackett bandaged the injuries and he was taken to the Easteon, Pa., Hospital, where the limb was amputated. Apgar was employed as a team driver by the Taylor Iron and Steel Company.

About one year ago his brother, Ebenezer Apgar, of Cokesbury, while gunning, accidentlly shot his right leg off and died at the Easton Hospital a few days afterward.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVALS

Sunday-Schools Entertainments in Many Instances More Elaborate Than Ever Before.

CAROLS AND GIFTS

Addresses, Recitations and Readings on the Programmes—Xmas Trees at Several Celebrations.

Christmas festivals were held in many of the local Sunday schools yesterday afternoon and last night, the junior departments in one or two instances having their celebration in the day time. Following are brief accounts of these exercises:

Park Aveune Baptist.

The Sunday-school room of the Park Avenue Baptist church was crowded to overflowing last night, when members of the school presented a Christmas cantata entitled "Santa Claus' Defenders." The music was catchy, the characters amusing and everyone had a good time. Miss Florence G. Hawkins, superintendent of the school, was in charge. Miss Mary Clark presided at the piano. After the cantata, candy was distributed to the school and presents to the primary department.

The characters for the cantata were as follows:

"Mr. Discontent," Joseph M. Hawkins; "Harry," Herbert Brokaw; "Herman," Albert Hardcastle; "Grimmy," newsboy, Martin Stutsman; "Amos," Will Doane; "Baker," Augustus Nash; "Edith," Arline Brown; "Maggie," waif, Mary Hale; "Nita," Elinore Stutsman; "Peace," Nettie Stillman; "Amelia," Miss Florence Smalley; "Good-Will," Miss Anna Clark; "Love," Miss Alice Brown; spinsters, "Martha," Miss Violet VanWinkle; "Ann," Miss Elma Runyon; "Jane," Mrs. Charles Steiner; "Sue," Miss Cora Brokaw; old ladies, the Misses Bessie Giles, Emily Runyon, Olive DeLany, Elmira Runyon, Louise Harral, Georgie Chamberlin, May Kelly, Mrs. Mary Mawhinney; "fairy sylph," Miss Mabel Stutsman; "magic dolls," the Misses Isabel von Brakle, Mary Hale, Jessie Hale, Florence Moffett; "queen of sprites," Miss Arline Brown; chorus of winter sprites; "sailor boys," Will Boys, Harry Thompson, Augustus Nash, Albert Hardcastle, Edmund Templin, Harry Douglas, Stuart Freeman and Howard Freeman.

Joseph C. Martin was Santa Claus, and distributed gifts. During the entertainment a chorus comprising eighteen girls, sang several selections.

Congregational.

A long and varied programme, amid decorations unusually striking, marked the entertainment of the Congregational Sunday-school last night. In addition to carols and the primary exercises there was a medley by four of the advanced classes, who presented programmes of their own arrangement for the honor of having been the most entertaining. The decorations were very striking, a noticeable feature being a profusion of Southern smilax.

The carols and the primary class exercises were first. In the exercises Russell Tomlinson, Wesley Burrett, Harold Tomlinson, Donald Updike, and Carter Goodrich took part; Esther Hellstrom and Helen Weseman sang the solo parts in a slumber song.

The competitive medley opened with "A Giving Cantata," by Mrs. Phillip Suffern's class. The cast represented sorts of givers—Red Cross nurses, grocerymen and the like—and each brought in some useful article, which will be sent to the Italian mission in New York in which the church is interested. Those who took part in the cantata were: Martine Weeks, Emma VanAlstyne, May Mattison, Marguerite Fischer, Mabel Runyon, Amy Winant, Katherine Day, Harold Tomlinson, Phillip Phillips, and Wesley Barrett.

The second offering in the competition came from the classes of Miss Fuller and R. D. Rice in combination. Frank O. Bristol, a clever entertainer, appeared for them in impersonations.

Mrs. Updike's class presented "The Toys' Rebellion," the scene of which was laid in Kris Kringle's workshop. Those who took part were: Harold Millar, Marjory Phillips, Ethel VanZandt, Myra Emmons, Lillian Cronkite, Ethel Noe, Maud Emmons, Vreeland VanAlstyne, Helen Palmer, Marion Winant, Roy Fuller, Lloyd Fischer, Holmes Clawson, Helen Weseman, Ethel Hellstrom and Ruth Fuller.

Gifts for the pupils were presented by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, the pastor. Prizes for perfect attendance during the year were given to Nettie Steiner, Myra Emmons, Emma VanAlstyne, George Dean, Stanley Bates. George Dean, who is sexton of the church, was presented with $10 in gold by the school.

A collection for the Italian mission was taken, and this will go with a lot of useful things contributed by the school and church members.

First Baptist.

The members of the primary and junior departments of the First Baptist church Sunday-school had their Christmas entertainment yesterday afternoon. A programme of recitations and songs by the little ones helped to pass an enjoyable time. Mrs. J. A. Powlison, superintendent, assisted by Miss Edith Cairns, superintendent of the junior department, and the other teachers of the school were in charge. A feature was a Christmas tree which was lighted after the entertainment when gifts were distributed to the children.

This programme was presented:

Opening address, Edith Rickert; song by the primary department; recitation, "Days We Love Best," Edna White, Dorothy Lunger, Elmer Rickert, Harold Martin, Elsie Moore and Elma Coons; recitation, "Christmas Greeting," Florence Coons; "A Question," Dorothy Hall; song, primary class; piano duett, Lawrence and Elmer French; recitation, girls from the juuior department; recitation, Gertrude King; song, May VanCamp and Loraina Dunn; song, junior department; song, Mildred Weiss, Dorothy Lee, Anna Sherwin, Erma Dobbins, Caroline Gernert, Mary Buchanan, Helen Vanderhoef and Catherine Endress; piano solo, Elmer French; recitations, Junior VanDeventer, Edith Rickert, Florence Neal; song, primary class; recitations, "Kris Kringle," Lawrence French, Herbert Hillman and Emma Mantz; song, "Happy New Year to You," school.

Then followed the distribution of dolls to the girls and hockey sticks to the boys.

The entertainment for the main school was given in the evening, when under the direction of William Holmes, members of the Sunday-school presented a Christmas cantata entitled "The Old Fashioned Santa Claus." It told of the perplexities of Santa Claus in deciding upon how he should make his annual visit. Whether he should use an auto, bicycle or reindeer and sleigh, much to the delight of the children.

The various parts were exceptionally well taken, the characters being as follows:

Santa Claus, William Holmes; Annabel, Miss Josephine Serrell; Jack Frost, Elmer D. Cutting; Alfred Tennyson Longfellow Jones, Stanley Robins; Sammy Slim, Lawrence French; Silas Stout, Ernest Conover; Amy, Miss Violet VanWinkle; Ethel, Miss Beulah VanWinkle; elfs, Elmer French, Harold Martin, Ralph Smalley; flower girls, the Misses Elizabeth McGee, Marion Rocap, Carrie Demler, Alice Drake, Julia Marx and Helen Pierce; fairies, Emeline Manning, Lillian VanWinkle, Mabel Douglass, Loraine Dunn, Lillian Fountain, Florence Neal and Elizabeth Winn; bootblacks, Russel Miller, Herbert Hillman, Malcomb Krewson, Egbert Fountain. Besides those mentioned there was a large number of children from the primary department who took a general part and helped to make the cantata a success. The music was very attractive and the solo parts taken by the leading characters as well as the chorus won much applause.

After the entertainment there was distribution of candy under the direction of the assistant superintendent, Frank Jones, assisted by Harold Serrell.

Trinity Reformed.

The little folks of the primary department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school fully enjoyed their Christmas exercises held in the lecture room of the church yesterday afternoon. The affair, which was in charge of Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent, assisted by the teachers, was very informal.

The programme comprised recitations by Jack Rogers, Raymond Stevens, Harold and Alfred Willett, Theodosia Vail, Louise Seader, Grace Vail, Ella Porter, Lillian Schleif, Clara Lee, Vivian Dunn, Madeline Blair, Margaret Hope and Beatrice Tier. There were also piano solos by Ernest Stevens and Elsie Tier.

After the entertainment there was a general good time and distribution of gifts. The girls received sets of glass dishes and the boys received games. After the serving of refreshments the happy affair terminated.

In the evening the main school and its friends gathered in the lecture room and were entertained by clever musical artists and an impersonator from New York. Superintendent F. E. Smith was in charge of the affair.

The first part of the evening was occupied by Haley and Bond, who gave a programme of music on the banjo, bottles, etc. They concluded their portion of the programme with an amusing sketch in which one was endeavoring to engage the other to take the leading part in a drama. There were many ludicrous incidents and the audience was continually kept in good humor.

HIGHWAYMEN GET $5,000

Masked Men Hold Up Paymaster on Lonely Road Near New Brunswick.

ROBBERS ARE ITALIANS

Men Heavily Armed—Victims Had No Weapons and Were Soon Overpowered—Searching for Highwaymen.

Paymaster William Scheik, of the Delaware Construction and Trap Rock Company, and William F. Harkins, who is also connected with the company, were held up in a carriage on the road to Piscataway, a mile east of New Brunswick, at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning and robbed of $5,000 by five Italian highwaymen, four of whom were masked. The Italians were armed with revolvers, shotguns, and knives. Their victims were unarmed, and could offer no resistance. After taking the satchel from the carriage, the Italians backed away and disappeared in the woods.

Scheik and Harkins had left the city half an hour earlier to pay the laborers who are laying conduits for the Bell Telephone Company at Highland Park.

Following the robbery, Paymaster Scheik raised the alarm, and in a short time all the surrounding towns were notified by telephone and the police of a dozen cities were scouring the country roads in automobiles. Armed parties, made up for the most part of farmers, also started out to beat the woods, in the hope of discovering the fugitives before they reached the railroad.

Three Italians were arrested in Metuchen last night as they were about to board a train for New York. All carried revolvers. Prosecutor Perdine went to Metuchen and talked to the men through an interpreter. Mr. Harkins and Mr. Scheik went there with the prosecutor, but could not identify them.

The men had brass checks identifying them as employes of the Delaware Construction Company. They said they left the company's employ about Christmas, and, knowing that yesterday was pay day, had returned to get their money. Finding that, as a result of a hold-up, there was no money for them, they were simply trying to get back to New York when arrested. They will be detained over night.

The police are now actively at work searching for other Italians in the vicinity of Bound Brook. Four men, one of them carrying at satchel, and the other three armed with shotguns, were seen in the woods near Bound Brook late yesterday afternoon by a peddler, who reported the circumstance to the authorities.

Two Italians carrying shotguns were arrested on a trolley car at Westfield at 11 o'clock last night by two policemen. They made no resistance. They were locked up and searched, but no money was found upon them. The men denied all knowledge of the robbery. They said they were on their way to Elizabeth.

The robbery was one of the boldest ever perpetrated in the State. The highwaymen hid in the woods about the time the paymaster was due with the two weeks' pay for the men employed by the company. Apparently they knew the paymaster and his companion were not armed, for they made no show of concern when Scheik, in response to an invitation to hold up his hands, but his hand to his hip pocket as though to whip out a revolver.

Every man of the five robbers was armed with a revolver, and two of them had guns as well as knives. The attack was made so suddenly that the paymaster had no chance to do more than to threaten to pull a revolver, and then he and his companion were overpowered and the satchel containing the money was pulled from the wagon and the men decamped, leaving no one to cover their escape. The paymaster whipped up his horse and soon notified the police.

The police learned that the five Italians had hired a wagon from a milkman, and were driving toward New York. Men were immediately pressed into service, and a chase toward Metuchen was begun. The milkman's horse was sharp shod, in anticipation of the cold weather, and the marks of the shoes were easily seen in the road.

Three miles from Metuchen the robbers made a detour, and the pursuers did not get trace of the horse again, but went on to Metuchen, where the three Italians were arrested later.

It was learned last evening that a strange Italian had been hanging around the works of the construction company all the morning, and until the afternoon. He is a big, burly fellow, and it was such a man who

JOKERS REMOVED HIS BEARD WHILE HE SLEPT.

Now Adam Beek Has to Prove His Identity to His Best Friends.

After hiding his features for three months behind an unusually bushy beard, Adam Beek appeared yesterday afternoon minus his hirsute adornment. It was not his wish that it should be removed, but when he fell asleep in a North avenue place the "fir," as it is called in street parlance, offered too tempting a bait for several jokers.

A pair of shears was hastily secured and sufficient vigorous snips had been given to remove one side of Adam's disguise before he awoke. When he recoverd from his surprise and excitement there was nothing for him to do but visit a barber and have the remnants properly eradicated. Today his friends pass him by without a sign of recognition, and when he does make himself known he has to spend several minutes in denying that he had the beard shaved in order to have the fashionable smooth face.

Drunkard's Murderous Assault.

Following a prolonged debauch, William Tanzer, employed as a laborer by Mrs. Henrietta Sutter, on the mountains, north of Somerville, returned to his home late yesterday afternoon and attempted a murderous assault on Mrs. Sutter and wound up by beating her eight-year-old son, Frank, on the head, and shooting her eighteen-year-old daughter, Lillian, in the leg. After a fierce struggle, Tanzer was arrested by County Detective Totten, who was summoned to the home by a neighbor.

The schedule of tests to be applied to candidates for positions as leaders in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium was decided on by the committee last night. The moves will be on the parallel bars, high bar, rings, and horse. The test will be held January 16 at 6 o'clock p. m. The competition is open to all senior members.

SHOTGUNS SECURE RIDE

Four Men Supposed to be Italian Robbers, Commandeer Beer Wagon,

HOLD-UP NEAR STELTON

Driver for Eastern Bottling Company Compelled to Turn Wagon Into Stage at the Muzzles of Four Guns.

Under threat of death, James McAvoy, driver for the Eastern Bottling Company, of this city, was compelled to carry four men, supposed to be members of the gang that held up and robbed Paymaster Scheick near Benhamtown yesterday, from Stelton to South Plainfield in his wagon shortly after dark yesterday afternoon. The quartette disappeared from McAvoy's sight in the woods near South Plainfield.

McAvoy was driving slowly through Piscataway near Stelton at 6:30 o'clock. Four men jumped from the bushes along the road and surrounded the wagon. They carried shotguns and levelled them at the driver, with a sharp command to stop. They spoke like Italians. The men were not masked, but the last faint gleam of daylight had faded and the men kept their faces in the shadow.

McAvoy looked at the guns and pulled up his horses very promptly. The men ordered him to keep his eyes to the front and clambered into the wagon.

"Drive straight ahead," said one of them in broken English. "If you stop or call out or turn off anywhere we will shoot you—all of us."

McAvoy didn't argue. He drove on, keeping to the road with painful exactness. As the drive progressed the men talked together in low tones. They seemed to be in a state of suppressed excitement, but not panicky. Near South Plainfield they ordered McAvoy to pull up, and got out of the wagon.

"Don't look around," was the next command. "Drive ahead slowly. If we hear you going fast or shouting we will shoot at you."

McAvoy ventured to look behind after driving a short distance. The roadway was deserted and no sound indicated the whereabouts of the quartette. As soon as it seemed safe, McAvoy whipped up and hurried to this city to tell the police of the occurrence. Chief Kiely telephoned to the Middlesex county authorities at New Brunswick.

McAvoy's description of the men is very meagre, but there is hardly room for doubt that they were part of the gang who robbed the paymaster. If they were not in the sextette that held up Scheick, they were accomplices sent out to put the officers on a false track. McAvoy says their accent seemed exaggerated, as if they were using it for disguise.

FRANKLIN COUNCIL, NO. 41, GIVES ENTERTAINMENT.

Laughable Sketch, "The Actor's Troubles," Feature of the Programme.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., gave an entertainment and sociable in its rooms last night, in celebration of a visit from Marcus L. Ward Council, of Newark. The feature of the programme was a laughable sketch, "The Actor's Troubles," in which the principal parts were taken by William J. Firstbrook, Joseph M. Sweeney and John Fritts. Addresses were given by officers of both councils and at the close of a social hour, refreshments were served.

In the business part of Franklin Council's meeting, the following officers were elected: Councilor, Roy DeCamp; past councilor, William J. Hartpence; conductor, J. M. Sweeney; warden, Harry Goeller; inside sentinel, F. M. Leek; outside sentinel, W. J. Firstbrook; sick fund committee, Foster Hartpence; trustee for eighteen months, Wilbur Randolph.

MR. MURRAY DECIDES TO LEAVE FIRE DEPT.

WILL RESIGN AS FIRST ASSISTANT CHIEF IN FEBRUARY.

After having considered the idea ever since his election as collector of taxes, John W. Murray, Jr., has at last decided to resign his position as assistant chief. He will not hand in his formal letter of resignation until February, according to a statement made by him to a representative of The Daily Press this morning.

"When the mayor chooses a successor for me, I will be ready to quit but as far as I know now, Mr. Buckle has not selected anyone for the place," said Mr. Murray. "I've served in the fire department for many years and I think I am entitled to a rest," he added.

Even since 1881, Mr. Murray has been a member of the department and today he is considered an especially well informed man on its affairs. In 1891 he was appointed first assistant chief and has served in that capacity from that time on.

Among those mentioned as possible appointees are Second Assistant Chief Andrew Jennings and Call Man John Cose. Mr. Jennings has been a member of the department for twenty-six years and prior to that time, like Mr. Murray, was a member of the volunteer department. Mr. Cose has been a call man for a number of years.

PARK CLUB HOLDS ITS CHRISTMAS DANCE.

Good Music and Attractive Decorations, Make Scene More Enjoyable.

The Christmas dance at the Park Club, last night, was largely attended by society folk and included many out-of-town guests. The affair was under the auspices of the entertainment committee and the patronesses were Mrs. Francis deLacy Hyde, Mrs. Clifford W. McGee, Mrs. J. Peters Stevens, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. George P. Mellick and Mrs. Percy H. Stewart.

The clubhouse was very attractive in its Christmas decorations of red and green, and especially about the stage was the arrangement effective. Here there was a profusion of palms and potted plants.

VonderHeid, of Newark, furnished the music for the dancing, the programme being a select one. About midnight refreshments were served, after which dancing was continued until an early hour this morning.

E. S. Hunt Promoted.

The Waterbury (Conn.) American, under date of December 22, contains an excellent picture of Edwin S. Hunt, together with an interesting account of his life, with a reference to his recent promotion to the position of assistant treasurer of the Waterbury Savings Bank. Mr. Hunt was born in Charleston, N. H., and was graduated from Amherst College with the class of 1890. For three years Mr. Hunt was a teacher in the Plainfield High School and was graduated from the Columbia University Law School in the class of 1895. He practiced law in New York for six years, after which he went to Waterbury.

P. H. S. Pupils' Dance.

The dancing class from the Plainfield High School held a reception and dance at the Casino, last night, under the direction of Mrs. Westcott, instructor for the class. There was a large attendance of young men and women, including several guests, and the programme was enjoyed by all. Through the courtesy of the management of the Casino, the decorations used for Miss Murray's reception were allowed to remain for last night's affair.

Preparing for Annual Reports.

The Plainfield Board of Health held a short adjourned meeting yesterday to prepare for the arrangement of the annual reports to be presented at the meeting of the Common Council Monday night. Aside from this the only business transacted was the granting of a few permits.

LIBEL TRIAL OF EDITOR

One of the Pleas of Cranford Man's Defense is Stricken Out of Court.

CHARGES PRIVILEGED

Accusations Had Been Made Against School Principal Thomas—Decision of Justice Fort an Important One.

In the case of Wendell M. Thomas vs. John A. Potter, editor of the Cranford Chronicle, an action for libel, Attorney Connolly, of Elizabeth, as counsel for the defendant, has received notice that Supreme Court Justice Fort, sitting in Newark, had rendered a decision granting a motion of the counsel for plaintiff that one of two pleas entered by the defendant be stricken out, on the ground that it was frivolous. The decision is an important one, as it deals with the question as to how far a newspaper may go in the publication of charges against a public official.

The proceedings against Editor Potter were begun about three years ago, and the matter has been fought in the courts ever since. In a brief in support of the plea in question Lawyer Connolly set forth that the plaintiff, at the time of the publication of the alleged libel, was the supervising principal of the Cranford public school, and was under the jurisdiction of the Board of Education of Cranford. On May 31, 1902, a complaint, in the form of a petition to the board, was made by citizens, charging the plaintiff with offenses in the management of the school system which the complainants regarded as sufficient for the board to annul the contract with the principal. On June 3 following, the Cranford Chronicle published the charges against the principal, with letters presented to the board in favor of and against him, without comment. The charges and letters were published in full as they were presented to the board.

Counsel for the defense cited the following rules from the American and English Encyclopaedia of Law as governing the case: "While it has been held that the publication of matter defamatory of an individual is not privileged merely because the libel is contained in a fair report of what occurred at a meeting held for public purposes, yet it seems to be the prevailing rule that proceedings of public interest need not be those of a judicial or legislative body to render a fair report thereof privileged.

"A communication in regard to the character or conduct of a public official is privileged if addressed to a functionary having the authority to redress grievances or remove the official from office."

Counsel for the defense also urged that the question before the court had been settled in our own State by the Court of Errors, which laid down the law as follows:

"Memorials to officers of State respecting the conduct of magistrates and officers, comments by electors upon the character of candidates for office, communications in matters of public interest in which the public generally is concerned, communications in the interest of third persons, or for the protection of the parties' own interest, communications respecting the character of servants, or the credit and responsibility of tradesmen, or made in the performance of social, moral or legal duties, come within the class of privileged communications. A criticism of the public acts of a candidate for office may be inserted in a public newspaper or be proclaimed by circular, but such publicity given to comments derogatory to the character of a servant, or to the financial standing of a trader would be illegal."

Justice Lippincott's opinion of the duties of the press was also cited, as follows:

"In these days and under our civilization it is the duty of a publisher of a newspaper, mindful of his high trust as the manager of a vast power for good or evil, doing it with no evil intent, but with good motives, to at all times publish the truth in relation to public concerns, to publish proceedings and official acts and public conduct of officials, and it is not libelous at any time to publish a fair comment upon persons who submit themselves to public criticism as public speakers and teachers, and all those who come within the range of public characters of this class."

The decision of Justice Fort ends the matter as far as the Supreme Court is concerned, for the present. The case will now come up for trial before a jury at the next term of court.

The New York Tribune Farmer.

The Tribune Farmer has no superior anywhere in this wild world as a publication for farmers and their families. It does not, to be sure, tell how to extract green cheese from the moon, but everything worth knowing about the theory or practice of farming is treated by men recognized as experts in their various lines. But The Tribune Farmer does more than supply such valuable information. It keeps the farmer in touch with all the latest improvements by text and pictures, and pays special attention to the work being done at agricultural colleges all over the country. Besides all this it has features to interest the women folk. The price is $1 a year. For a free sample copy send a postal card to The New York Tribune, New York.

THE FORUM.

History of Boys' Club.

Editor The Daily Press:

Sometime ago there appeared in your paper an article giving a brief history of the Plainfield Boys' Club. In this article more credit was given me for the success of the club than was my due, and no mention was made of those who were the first to think of such an organization. It is more than fitting that they should receive the credit due them.

The idea of the Boys' Club originated in the minds of Mrs. William L. Patton and Mrs. David H. Pond, who later invited A. M. Powell and me to join them in furthering the project. As your article said, we started the club on the top floor of the building known at that time as Rockfellow's corner, where Park and North avenues meet. There we remained for several years. But we were not satisfied; our quarters were inadequate. So with the aid of Pliny Fisk, Charles J. Fisk, James T. Closson and Harry G. Runkle we purchased at a cost of $5,000, including necessary repairs, the building on Sycamore street, formerly occupied by the Bicycle Club. At about this period E. F. Milliken joined us and was instrumental in securing Olaf Saugstad as superintendent of the club. Since then Mr. Milliken has been both a friend in need and a friend indeed.

D. O. Tiffany, for many years our secretary and treasurer, deserves unstinted praise for his untiring effort and zeal in the interests of the club. After he moved to New York J. P. Murray assumed the work, and has proved a worthy successor to Mr. Tiffany.

Besides Mrs. Patton and Mrs. Pond, Miss Erskine and Miss Florence Tweedy took a great deal of interest in the work of the club and helped us materially by coming often to the clubhouse to talk to the boys and to show them how interesting and valuable was the work they were doing.

The man with whom the boys each evening came into personal contact and to whom they looked for their instruction has been Mr. Saugstad. I need not say how faithfully and well he has performed his share of the work and how much of the club's success is due to him.

Thus the club has been running for many years and has done a good work, supplying boys with an education that has enabled many of them to secure valuable positions in work of various kinds.

The time has come now when we think it wise to transfer the Boys' Club property to the Y. M. C. A., and have this estimable organization take charge of the work. Kenneth Robbie, well known to us all, will be the leading spirit in the direction of the club's affairs, and we feel that, with his personal magnetism, which draws both men and boys to him, the Boys' Club will enter into a larger field of usefulness. Mr. Robbie, with the aid of several friends, will give to the boys of Plainfield advantages hitherto denied them. In addition to teaching mechanical and freehand drawing, moulding and carpentering, he expects to form classes in printing, basket weaving and several other branches of work as yet not decided upon.

All of us who have in the past been interested in the Boys' Club, will, I hope, retain the same interest in the future, especially in the matter of yearly subscriptions. I shall do my best to secure these subscriptions, and in this way be still as much interested in the future affairs of the club as I have been in the past.

Very respectfully yours,
W. B. WADSWORTH.

WATCH NIGHT SERVICE AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

Programme for Sunday Night in a North Plainfield Edifice.

Special services will be held at Grace M. E. church on Sunday commemorative of the passing of the old and the arrival of the new year. Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, the pastor, will be in charge. At the morning service he will preach on "The Acceptable Year of the Lord," and in the evening there will be a watch-night service.

This will begin with a service of song to be followed by a platform meeting, with addresses by Dr. H. K. Carroll, S. S. Swackhamer, Raymond Brokaw, W. M. Warren, Andrew Wilson and the pastor. This will be succeeded by the celebration of the Lord's Supper and closing services of the year.

Considerable interest is being shown in the approaching series of evangelistic services to be held by the Rines Brothers, Canadian singing evangelists. These services will begin Tuesday night, January 2, and will be continued every afternoon and evening for two weeks. The evangelists will go to the Calvary M. E. church, the largest Methodist church in New York, for a series of meetings.

Plainfield, N. J., December 29, 1905.

McCarter brothers, Bob and Tom, do depose and say "Perish the thought."

Don't forget to remember your newsboy when he calls on New Year's Day. He will be around bright and early.

James Hazen Hyde has set sail for "Gay Paree." The policyholders of the Equitable should certainly be willing to pay his passage.

The wrecked "machine" of Philadelphia will agree that the name John Weaver for the city's new ice boat is quite appropriate, considering the mayor's recent attitude.

Because the local option people plan to introduce some bills in the coming Legislature an exchange says there promises to be a merry war over the liquor license problem. In other words the temperance people have decided to fight fire with fire.

Congressman Brownlow, of Tennessee, is credited with having introduced 347 bills in Congress already. If he can get them all passed there is nothing his constitutents won't do for him.—Elizabeth Journal.

And what is Congressman Fowler's record?

We laugh at the Frenchman's code of honor, but give little thought to the barbaric customs in vogue at the U. S. Naval Academy, in just the same way that we seem amused at the Chinese woman's habit of pinching her feet and think nothing of the American woman's way of crowding her body into a tight corset.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Loyal Temperance Legion will hold its Christmas festival shortly after New Year's in the W. C. T. U. rooms.

Mrs. Wheaton S. Lowry will conduct the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church tonight.

The Women's Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest has presented its former rector, Rev. Robert Walker, with a handsome picture, "The Madonna and the Child." Mr. Walker is now curate of Christ church, New Brunswick.

Mrs. J. W. Schenck, superintendent of Marconnier chapel, has decided not to withdraw her resignation, sent to the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church some time ago. Next Sunday will be her last day at Marconnier chapel, much to the regret of many families to whom she has endeared herself in her missionary work in and around Oak Tree.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Court Plainfield, Independent Order Foresters, will meet tonight and initiate a large number of candidates. Arrangements will also be made for the installation of officers in January and for the annual entertainment and dance on January 19 in Saengerbund Hall.

Marcus L. Ward Council, of Newark, was late in arriving at the reception given by Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., last night. The car ahead of their "special" broke down near Roselle, and an hour's delay resulted. The visitors did not reach the rooms here until 10 o'clock. Things hummed after that and the visitors made up for lost time.

Flinchites at Play.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wynkoop, of Dunellen, entertained the Flinch Club at their home last night, it being the semi-monthly meeting of the club. A majority of the members are Plainfielders. After a pleasant evening playing Flinch, the host and hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVALS

ing the latter part of the programme with songs and impersonations, all of which were greatly enjoyed. Miss Hazel Martin accompanied on the piano in a very satisfactory manner. The artists for the entertainment were furnished by Harvey R. Thorn.

Following the programme, there was a distribution of candy to every member of the school and home department.

Monroe Avenue.

A large gathering of pupils and parents at the Monroe Avenue church witnessed the presentation of an elaborate cantata, "Santa Claus in Japan." As the title suggests, it depicted the trials and tribulations of the good old fellow in his effort to please the little brown children in the Flowery Kingdom and permitted the introduction of numerous pretty costumes. There were several individual solos and the chorus singing showed careful training.

The characters were taken as follows: Two Americans, Robert Booth and Cora Kennedy; Japanese schoolmates, the Misses Carrie and Sadie Brouwer and Dorothy Manning, Archie Thompson, Jack Gray and Edward Tovell; broomstick fairies, Violet Lindaberry, Ruth Lynn, Otto Moore and Albert Rowe; "Santa Claus," Mr. Dodd; "The Song of the Screen," Ada Thompson, Cora Lee, Bessie Gunzelman, Rhoda Gray, Edith Gray, Maude Mundy and Marion Thompson; "The Lantern Bearers," Florence Brown, Agnes Brown, Mary Matthews, Stella Rink, Eleanor and Ruth Thompson, Minnie Gunzelman, Sadie and Carrie Brouwer and Avis Aldrich; flower girls, Ethel Gerhole, Mabel Lant, Edith Jeffery, Elizabeth Seal, Adeline and Margaret Miner, May Reynolds, Violat Mundy and Ethel Hall.

Theentire school sang carols and at the close of the entertainment candy and oranges were distributed.

The committee which arranged had charge of the affair comprised Rev. George Mooney, Mrs. N. Mansfield Smith, Miss Charlotte Aldrich and Mr. Dodd.

First M. E.

There were two entertainments at the First M. E. school, the primary and junior departments meeting in Vincent chapel in the afternoon and the seniors at night. For the former the programme was as follows:

Song, "Away in the Manger," by the Little Beginners' class; recitations, Caryl Dunavan and Elizabeth Hicks; song, "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," Frank Rowley and Charlotte Skiff; recitation, Norman McGee; song, Edward Crone; Bible verses, Blanche McVoy, Edith Little, Russel Beekman and Hoyt Tomkinson; recitation, Elton Greenleaf; song, "Once a Golden Star," primary class; exercises by Charles McCrea, Edith Little, Russel Beekman and Ruth Lynn. The entertainment was concluded by the children gathering in the center of the room and playing games.

At night the senior department enjoyed moving pictures in charge of W. S. Miller, of New York. Among the films shown were "The Ice Cream Eater," "Drama in the Air," "Indians and Cowboys," "Around Port Arthur," "Fighting the Flames" and "the Great Bank Robbery." In the presentation of gifts Sexton Isaac Kennedy received a $10 gold piece and Miss Gertrude Sharp, the pianist, a handsome chair.

Superintendent James R. Joy was in charge of the programme.

Bethel Chapel.

The Christmas entertainment at Bethel chapel last night consisted of recitations by the Misses Anna and Madeline Fisher and Miss Mabel Potter, songs by a chorus of boys, and the appearance of Santa Claus down the chimney. Upon his arrival he was welcomed with a song by the primary department. Santa distributed useful gifts to all the pupils of the school, while the teachers were not forgotten. A. W. Duxbury, superintendent, was in charge. Ice cream and cake were also served.

Mt. Olive Church.

The Christmas programme at the Mt. Olive Baptist church last night comprised recitations and the singing of carols by the Sunday school. There was a tree and Santa Claus generously distributed presents to the children. Rev. Dr. E. E. Jackson, pastor, and Nathan J. Pollard, superintendent of the school, had charge of the exercises.

Holy Cross Church.

Gifts for the Children's Home were piled at the foot of the Christmas tree of Holy Cross P. E. church Sunday-school, last night. The gifts, in the form of pound packages of various edibles, were brought by the pupils. They were impressed with the beatitude that it is more blessed to give than to receive and they brought the gifts for the Home in place of getting things themselves.

The school held a carol service, which attracted a large congregation. Rev. George A. Warner, the rector, delivered a brief sermon on the Christmas spirit. Boxes of candy were distributed, so that the pupils had a little of the minor blessedness as well as the other kind.

Warren Chapel.

Moving pictures by the Kinetograph Company, of New York, constituted the entertainment at Warren chapel both afternoon and evening. A variety of scenes and actions were shown and both young and old were delighted. One picture, "A Disaster at Sea," was especially good.

held the horse's head while the other four covered Scheik and Harkins with their revolvers.

Paymaster Scheik has been repeatedly warned that it was dangerous to go unarmed, but he refused to carry a revolver. The money taken yesterday was drawn from the bank in New Brunswick about noon and was in small bills and silver suitable for paying off a large force of men.

General Manager Robert A. Montgomery, of the construction company, said last evening that his company would spend any amount of money to capture the highwaymen.

Refreshments were served at the close.

The committee which had the affair in charge consisted of Mrs. George Demarest, chairman; Mrs. William Demarest, Mrs. Gibson Smith, Mrs. Benjamin Moore, Mrs. Newmiller, Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Taynor, Mrs. Hansen and Mrs. Wakefield.

Friends.

The First-day school of the Friends meeting held its annual Christmas entertainment at the meeting-house on Watchung avenue, when the usual interesting programme of recitations and readings was given under the direction of Margaret Vail, superintendent. There was a large gatherings of members of the school and friends.

The programme included recitations by Carlton Vail, Alice Vail, Halbert Hutchinson, Elsie Naylor, Mildred Poole, Helen Poole, Charles Kiederling and Hattie Nischwitz. There were also readings by Margaret Vail, Marjorie Cooley, Mabel Vail, Alveretta Vail.

After the rendition of the programme all adjourned to the upper room where ice cream and cake were served. The members of the school then returned to their accustomed places and received boxes of candy and oranges. An unusual feature this year was a "bag of mysteries." Each member of the school was given an opportunity to pull one of the many strings leading to the large bag, and to their surprise received a present.

The entertainment committee comprised Mrs. Harry G. Adams, Mrs. Elizabeth Ogden, Mrs. Sarah Hutchinson, Miss Margaret Vail, while those in charge of the refreshments were Mrs. Clara Rushmore, Mrs. Cornelia Gavett and Clarence B. Vail.

St. Stephen's P. E.

A carol and prayer service in observance of Christmastide was held by the children of St. Stephen's P. E. church, Netherwood, yesterday afternoon. Rev. A. S. Peck, the rector, delivered a brief address, and distributed boxes of candy to all the children. Every child present, whether a regular attendant or not, received a box. The feature of the unusually pretty decorations was a giant Christmas tree; it was as big a tree as could be gotten into the church.

Grace P. E. Church.

The Sunday-school of Grace P. E. church had a supper last night to mark its observance of Yuletide. The tables were spread in two rooms of the parish house, and covers were laid for 100.

Before the supper, the school held a carol service in the assembly room, led by the rector, Rev. E. V. Stevenson. Books and other gifts were distributed by Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Fleming.

After the supper, which was served by a committee of the teachers, an hour of informal sport was enjoyed, with games and other forms of jollity. The affair lasted from 5 to 8 o'clock.

First Presbyterian.

The primary department of the First Presbyterian church Sunday school held its Christmas entertainment yesterday afternoon in the chapel. There was a programme of recitations and the singing of carols, after which the children received gifts from the Christmas tree. The affair was informal and the little ones had a jolly time of it.

The entertainment for the main school was held in the evening. The chief attraction was H. Warren Rankin, prestidigitator, of Sandford avenue. He is very clever as a sleight-of-hand artist. He mystified and amused his audience for over an hour. A feature of the programme was the singing of F. C. Iglehart, Jr., bass of the church choir. He was accompanied by Clifford A. Braider on the piano. In the afternoon the children received candy and books and in the evening each member of the school received boxes of candy. Superintendent I. B. Hill was in charge.

Grace M. E. Church.

Grace M. E. church had two entertainments, one in the afternoon for the primary department and the other in the evening for the main school. In the afternoon Miss Belle Lunger had charge and a programme of songs and recitations was given. Santa Claus, in the person, of Andrew Wilson, distributed gifts.

At night there was a futher programme of carol singing, recitations and exercises, following a short address of welcome by Rev. Dr. Persons. Santa Claus in this instance was impersonated by Benjamin Schuck, who made plenty of fun with his clever antics. Beside the giving of candy and oranges, teachers and classes exchanged presents.

The committee in charge at night was Miss Mabel Stevens, chairman; Miss Winifred Carroll and Mrs. Giddes.

Crescent Avenue Church.

A professional sleight-of-hand performer furnished the entertainment both afternoon and evening at the Crescent Avenue church. Superintendent William D. Murray had charge of the primary department and which met in the afternoon.

Following the completion of the night programme, refreshments were served by a committee of which Mrs. John G. Foster was chairman.

TEACHERS' PENSIONS NOT PERMANENT.

Commission Tells State Association That New Legislation Is Needed.

Atlantic City, Dec. 29.—The New Jersey Teachers' Association in annual session was told yesterday that the State Retirement Fund intended to provide annuities for members when they have served the State for many years and become unfit for further service can never be made permanent or self-sustaining under existing legislation.

The report was presented by a commission including Judge William R. Codington, of Plainfield; Charles H. Hartshorne, a Jersey City lawyer, and Prof. Byron C. Mathews, of Newark, appointed last year as a result of the persistent charges in the Legislature and by enemies of the pension fund that it had not been established upon a substantial foundation.

Although the State fund has at present an apparent surplus of $84,000, the commission stated that the present law does not yield enough income to make the fund self-supporting. To illustrate this the report declares that the annuities paid annually more than double the fixed dues of the members.

No Mysteries at All.

There is a mystery as to the water supply of Plainfield that some scientists would like to solve, but the authorities of that city are as backward about taking it up as working out the puzzle of the liquor supply at Goff's speak-easy.

To Repeat Cantata.

Dudley Buck's Christmas cantata, "The Coming of the King," given so successfully by the vested choir of the First M. E. church last Sunday night, will be repeated Sunday night.

A CARD OF THANKS.

The officers of the Relief Association thank the kind friends whose generous contributions made Christmas for four hundred and fifty children and nineteen old people a very happy day. At the rooms on the twenty-third were given out bags containing a toy, two pairs of stockings and mittens for each child in the family; small trees with ornaments were sent to a number of homes. In addition the children greatly enjoyed an entertainment in the afternoon at Reform Hall, where they received candy and oranges.

CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to express my sincere thanks to Carpenters' Union No. 155, the Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of Dunellen, Undertaker T. S. Moore and the friends and neighbors for their help and sympathy shown me in my late bereavement. J. S. WHITLOCK.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The P. H. Sullivan Amusement Company will present the big scenic melodrama, "A Race for Life," at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. It is from the pen of Theodore Kremer and is said to be one of his best plays. A specially engaged company will present it.

Howard Kyle, a most estimable actor, who has ever been associated with the higher order of dramatic ventures, will appear in this city tomorrow afternoon and night in the title role of "Mozart," the poetic play, with scenes and incidents laid around the life of the truly great composer, whose venerated name serves to arouse the keenest possible musical interest. Maurice Campbell, who has found a deserving reward for the production of this drama, has surrounded his star with a company of special excellence, and feels satisfied that in the play written by Ivy Ashton Root, Mr. Kyle has found a lasting success.

In "At the World's Mercy," Owen Davis' new and successful play now touring the country under the management of A. J. Spencer, there are said to be more novel effects in stage craft and electrical mechanism than have been seen in a play of this kind; some of the electrical effects are said to be especially startling and one of which shows a man struck by a bolt of lightning. "At the World's Mercy" comes to the New Plainfield theatre New Year's afternoon and night.

An Airship That Can Fly and Kill.

If the latest invention of Louis Gathman, whose gigantic gun has done so much damage, is adopted by our army, the next war will be fought from the skies. Next Sunday's New York World shows in detail the workings of this great weapon—an airship fort. In the same number are the Strange Doings of the Pittsburg Millionaires, A North Pole Honeymoon, Making Over New York, The New Century's First Five Years of Progress, The Man Who Hid on Broadway, a Girl With An Angel Face, etc.

Rowland & Clifford's big scenic surprise, "Over Niagara Falls," with its wealth of magnificent scenery, wondrous effects and superb cast will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre Tuesday night, January 2. The production has been given unqualified praise by the neighboring press and a most meritorious performance may be looked for.

"Too Proud to Beg" is the title of Lincoln J. Carter's latest effort and will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night. The plot is a good one, consistently told in such a manner as to thrill one from the beginning to the finale. It tells the old story but with much newness and novelty, of an unscrupulous character falling in love with another man's wife, has conniving schemes in getting the husband out of the way, his eager words of love to the wronged wife, his reception of scorn and contempt by the noble woman and finally the discovery and his ultimate imprisonment. The cast is said to be par excellent and includes the famous Boylan children and a large company.

There will be presented on Thursday night, January 4, at the New Plainfield theatre, an unusually good dramatic offering in Denman Thompson's play entitled, "The Two Sisters," a home drama of much interest. The author of "The Old Homestead" struck it rich in success, and naturally sought to follow the vein that proved so popular with the public. "The Two Sisters" is proving a close second in success, and probably at the end of the race for patronage will hold its own. The play is no better than "The Old Homestead," but it is fully as good. None of the ordinary devices to maintain the interest of the spectator are resorted to in this play. The cast is excellent and production complete. Special scenic effects are carried with the company, among which are the "roof tops" of New York; the Brooklyn Bridge, Central Park, and hotel office. There should be a crowded audience to witness one of the strongest attractions of the year in this place.

Lotus Glee Club's History.

The Lotus Glee Club since its organization in 1881-2 has had three London seasons, where they sang with great success in concerts with Melba, Eames, Van Zandt, Trebelli, Antoinette Sterling, Patey, Mr. and Mrs. Henschel, Edward Lloyd, Ben Davies, Foli, Sims Reeves, Paderewski and at two concerts in Royal Albert Hall, with Mme. Adelina Patti. Of the present quartette, Charles L. Lewis, of this city, is the oldest member. The club has appeared for nineteen consecutive years under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. of Philadelphia, and is already engaged there for next year. Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith, who is a great favorite in Plainfield, will appear with the club in the Y. M. C. A. star course on Monday evening.

Courts Have Adjourned.

The Somerset County Courts have adjourned to Monday, January 15, when the cases on the docket will be taken up in regular order. The Union County Court has adjourned until next Tuesday.

Installation of Vets.

The installation of newly-elected officers of the Union Veterans' Union and the Women's Auxiliary will be held jointly on Wednesday night, January 3. State officers will attend from Jersey City.

—The Y. M. C. A. will keep "open house" on New Year's Day. The programme in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock will be free to all young men.

KEEP YOUR HEAD UNCOVERED.

The Constant Wearing of a Hat Propogates Dandruff Germs.

There are many men who wear their hats practically all the time when awake, and are blessed with a heavy shock of hair; yet if the scalps of these same men once became infested with dandruff germs, the parasites would multiply all the quicker for lack of air. Baldness would ensue as the final result. Newbro's Herpicide kills these germs and stimulates unhealthy hair to abundant growth. Herpicide is a pleasant hair dressing as well as a dandruff cure and contains not an atom of injurious substance. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

INVESTIGATION.

Investigation shows that the best dressed men of today are stylishly but conservatively clad and that their clothes are not extreme. Their garments not only possess style, but they fit properly, and are made from material that is attractive. To secure garments of similar excellence, it is not necessary to go to the custom tailor and pay custom tailor's prices. There is a better way—an easier way—a cheaper way—it is the way that leads to Watson's.

Your investigation will show you that at Watson's you obtain an overcoat—whether Paddock, the 52 inch or medium length coat of unquestionable style, of fit and workmanship that you can only match with the best of custom work. It will show you besides that the only difference between the Watson made overcoat and the best custom made is in the price, Watson's saving you about $20.00. The same sort of thing you will find is true in regard to the Watson made suit—it is the workmanship, the close fitting collar, the shapely shoulders and the well setting lapels that are marks of superior tailoring.

Your investigation will further show that the Watson assortment of materials is beyond criticism—Kerseys, Meltons, Oxfords, Cheviots, Thibets, Cassimeres and Fancy Mixtures.

NOT TRUE, McCARTERS SAY; R. H. AND T. N. ANSWERING.

They Deny Allegations Made by Mr. Steffens in McClure's.

Attorney General Robert H. McCarter, of New Jersey, issued a statement yesterday in answer to allegations made by Lincoln Steffens in McClure's Magazine that the Attorney General used his office to help the Public Service Corporation, of which his brother, T. N. McCarter, was president.

"The claim," says the Attorney General, "is that, influenced by fraternal promptings, I refrained from doing what I otherwise would and should have done. The seriousness of the charge makes its consideration essential, and I take this opportunity of denying the whole and every part of it, completely and unequivocally. Let there be no mistake about it. There is not one word of truth in the statement, in the suggestion, or the insinuation that any such motive prompted me."

T. N. McCarter, president of the Public Service Corporation, makes a similar denial. He concludes by saying:

"If the motives were as base in this matter as charged it would still be humiliating to think that I should be thought capable of such arrant stupidity as my conduct would indicate if accurately described by Mr. Steffens."

WOULD WIPE OUT NOOSE; ELECTROCUTION FAVORED.

Senator Wakelee May Introduce Bill and So May Also Assemblyman Berg.

It seems doubtful just what sort of legislation is to be attempted at the opening of the session regarding the death sentence in this State. The alleged brutal failure to hang a criminal promptly in Hudson county the other day and the desire to prevent the same sort of sentence being executed upon the convicted women murderers in Bergen county have apparently aroused considerable feeling all over the State, as well as in the localities where the crimes were committed. The Bergen county idea, as represented by Senator Wakelee, seems to be the immediate passage of a measure to insure the abolition of hanging. The aim of Mr. Wakelee does not seem to include the abolition of capital punishment, although he is understood to favor that.

It is understood that nearly every response was in favor of electricity. William P. Martin, Assemblyman-elect from Essex, for instance, replied that as a member of the New York bar he had given the subject considerable study, and was satisfied that electricity was much preferable to the hangman's noose in executions. It would look, therefore, as though there would be little difficulty in the speedy passage of a measure favoring the adoption of executions by electricity. Yet several things should be borne in mind in that connection, it is pointed out. Execution by electricity is much more expensive than hanging, and the apparatus for such a form of execution could not be placed in every county jail. All executions, if the electric process was adopted, would have to take place in oraround the State Prison, at Trenton, just as in New York State they only take place at the State prisons at Ossining and Auburn.

The first cost would be considerable, and might be objected to by the amateur economists who are so thick around the State House. While the sheriffs would probably be relieved to have the danger attendant on hanging removed from among the duties of their office, the State Prison authorities might strenuously object, and Trentonians might not care to have their city the center of executions. If some one wants to object seriously to the passage of a bill such as Mr. Wakelee proposes the delay might be serious to the woman whose death is due three days after the Legislature convenes.

As to the abolition of capital punishment, it will be fought very hard, unless there has been a big change in public sentiment within recent ears. Yet Assemblyman-elect Herman A. Berg, of Hudson county, purposes to make the attempt. He intends to introduce a bill on the opening day providing that imprisonment for life or a long term of years shall take the place of hanging.

"DON'T," SAYS ROOSEVELT.

He Hopes Hat Won't Be Passed for Bridal Gift.

Washington, Dec. 29.—The following statement was given out at the White House today:

"The President's attention having been called to a despatch from Baker City, Oregon, to the effect that a subscription was about to be started for a wedding present for Miss Roosevelt, the President stated that while he deeply appreciated this evidence of good will, he hoped nothing of the kind would be undertaken. In fact, he wished particularly that the proposed collection of funds should not be made."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

To next month's list of big attractions at the New Plainfield, two more were added yesterday. Arnold Daly, the producer of the Bernard Shaw's dramas, is to present his greatest success, "You Never Can Tell," which ran for an entire season at the Princess, New York, on January 20. It will be followed by the Manhattan theatre production of "The Virginian," with Dustin Farnum in the title role.

Former Mayor Fisk and City Judge Runyon, who are at the head of the "Publicity department" of the "Pirates of Penzance," have placed W. J. Counihan in full charge of the billing. He will use special lithographs and window cards to acquaint people from Westfield to Somerville with the merits of the attraction.

Musical Director Andrew G. Carpenter has prepared a special programme of Mozart compositions for rendition at the "Mozart" performances tomorrow.

Jane Peyton, who last year played a grass widow part in "The Earl of Pawtucket," is this season playing a real widow in "The Heir of the Hoorah," which comes to this city January 29.

"In telling funny stories," said Hi Henry, the veteran minstrel who was in this city last Saturday, "what are called local hits seem to catch the fancy of the general public better than anything else. And the purveyor of this line of stage goods must frame up all the points to please a discriminating audience. It must be quick action of the quickest kind, all meat as it were, and to hesitate is to be lost." Hi's remarks were overheard by several of the Elks who will be in the coming show and they will be governed accordingly.

Next week is booked solid at the New Plainfield. The list includes five dramas and George Cohan's musical show, "Running For Office."

Installed Officers.

Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., installed the recently-elected officers last night. A social time followed the installation. There was a large attendance. Dr. D. C. Adams, who is king of the grand chapter, installed the officers.

STREET DEP'T SPENT $32,298 DURING 1905

Thoroughfares Generally Improved Throughout the City Under Direction of Retiring Committee of Common Council.

FAVOR BRICK PAVING

Suggest Competition in Bidding for Street Work — Censure Contractor Meeker—2,352 Buildings Connected With Sewer System.

In return for the $32,298.12 expended for streets during 1905, the Councilmanic committee in charge of that department makes an excellent showing in its annual report submitted to the city fathers last night. Numerous thoroughfares have been macadamized and many others have been graded. Culverts, flagging and cross-walks have been laid and the Richmond street sewer has been gotten well underway. The disposal beds have been improved and enlarged and many other things have been done to better conditions.

The committee makes several valuable suggestions for the incoming committee's use, among which are the extension of the present sewage system by a gravity process for a distance of four and a half miles; the substitution of brick or other hard substance for paving Park avenue in the business section, and competition in bidding on all street contracts.

The report follows:

Plainfield, N. J., Dec. 29, 1905.
To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

We submit herewith our annual report of work done and moneys received and expended on streets and sewers during the year 1905:

Permanent Pavement.

The brick pavement on concrete foundation laid last year on Watchung avenue has given very general satisfaction, though some would prefer one less noisy.

It became necessary to make an opening in the pavement this season to remove some builder's rubbish from a house connection, but the work of filling the hole and replacing the concrete brick was done so thoroughly that there is practically no evidence of the hole.

In case Park avenue is widened from the railroad to Second street, the question of laying a more durable pavement than macadam will have to be decided. Probably the only pavements which need be seriously considered for this city are brick, treated wood block and bituminous macadam. All of these pavements seem to have proved their merit, and either of them would no doubt be satisfactory. Brick would probably cost $2.25 per square yard, bituminous macadam $2.50 and treated wood $2.75 to $3.00.

If the cost of street sprinkling could be provided for in some other way than by taking it out of the street repair appropriation, and if all requests for grading streets should be refused unless accompanied by a subscription from the property owners, the committee could afford each year to lay a section of permanent pavement, which, in the course of a few years, would give the business centre a greatly improved appearance.

New Macadamizing.

The contract let to Charles M. Meeker, late in 1904, for macadamizing, has dragged along in a most unsatisfactory manner. Excuse is made for the contractor that he was delayed by failure to secure slag for foundation rapidly enough to permit him to finish the work within a reasonable time, but the fact remains that the street with slag foundation was completed in a satisfactory manner some time before those constructed entirely of stone were in a presentable condition. It is probable that more competition for such work would be of decided benefit to the city, and we are informed that other contractors will enter the field in 1906.

This work has now been completed and application should be made early in 1906 for the appointment of commissioners to assess the cost.

The sum of $3,014.14 was paid this year as a part of the city's proportion of the cost of the previous macadamizing work; this is in addition to $2,380 paid on the same account in 1903.

Considerable work was done by the city force on the streets included in the macadamizing contract, in order to expedite the work and finish it in a satisfactory manner, and the city steam roller was used by the con-

BALL A GREAT SUCCESS

All Society at the Casino Last Night, For Charity's Sake.

NET PROCEEDS, $1,500

Ball Room Prettily Decorated in Green and Red—Bowling Alleys Converted Into a Charming Supper Room.

The second annual charity ball for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital, held at the Casino last night, was a brilliant success. The ballroom was crowded, and every feature of the affair was perfect. The financial success was as distinct as the social. Not less than $1,500 will go into the hospital treasury as a result of the ball.

The guests numbered over 300. This is more than 100 short of the number of tickets sold, because a good many people who don't dance at Casino functions, but do appreciate what the hospital is doing, cheerfully gave up $5 apiece; some of the people who were there took more tickets than they needed. Very nearly all society was there, and some of the plain people. The spirit of Sweet Charity brooded over the ballroom and the p. p. were not unduly chilled.

The Casino has rarely looked as pretty as it did last night, and never prettier. The ballroom was decorated in evergreens, smilax, California pepper and holly. Red shades over the lights lent a warm touch to the ensemble. The stage was a bower of greens, with a heavy bank of potted plants just in front of the musicians. Austin, of New York, had two bands of seven pieces each playing in the bower. Manager Maze Edwards planned the stage decorations.

Every arrangement was made for the comfort of the guests. All the porches were enclosed and the additional space that resulted was divided into a promenade and separate cloak rooms for men and women. The parlors, decorated like the ballroom, gave the dancers pleasant corners of retreat. The Eureka Quartette, of New York, entertained the loungers with a programme of vaudeville music.

Supper was served between 10:45 and 1 o'clock. The bowling alley was converted into a most attractive supper room. Accommodations for 120 guests at one time were arranged at small tables, and a supper crush was avoided by a system of telephones that enabled a policeman at the entrance to shut out guests when the tables were full. The supper room was under the direction of T. R. Van Boskerck.

The ball ended at 3 o'clock.

KIELY WANTS MORE MEN

BEATS ARE TOO LONG

"Doings of Past Few Weeks Shall Remain a Closed Book," He Declares — Arrests and Their Results.

Chief of Police Kiely in his annual report filed with the Common Council last night asks for an increase of four men on the department's force, giving as his reason for the desired addition the well-known fact that the beats of the policemen are all too big to be covered in a satisfactory manner. In his report, the chief declares that the year has been the most unpleasant for him during all the time he has been connected with the department and that his troubles during the last few weeks will remain "a closed book" so far as he is concerned.

NEW YEAR'S WISHES FROM OUR MAYORS.

When a people are least governed and rightly governed, they are the best governed. I can only hope that Plainfield will be blessed with as good a government in the future as it is now.
JAMES F. BUCKLE,
Mayor of Plainfield.

As coming from the cold side of the brook, I should say that one New Year's greeting in a community that should be under one government is quite enough.

CHAIRMAN BULLOCK'S REPORT SHOWING ECONOMICAL ADMINISTRATION.

Councilman William S. Bullock, chairman of the fire and buildings committee, submitted a report at the final meeting of the Common Council last night showing that strict economy has been adhered to throughout the year in the fire department. The fire department expenses for 1904 were $27,233.57, and for this year $24,457.43.

These figures from the reports of City Treasurer William F. Arnold show that $2,776.14 less money for fire department purposes was spent during the current year than during 1904.

The receipts for the past year were $29,227.30, and several notes were paid off. As far as the committee is able to learn from fire department statistics the financial record for 1905 has not been equaled within the last twelve years. This report states that owing to the policy of retrenchment it has been impossible to undertake certain improvements in the department, the apparatus and equipment. The committee's recommendations are practically the same as those of Chief Doane, which have been before the Common Council before. In conclusion the report is as follows:

"When it is considered that the average expenses of Plainfield's fire department for the year 1905 were but $2,000 per month, and that $1,083 of this was for salaries, leaving $917 for the maintenance of three fire houses, with their dormitories, the care and keep of fourteen horses, the annual hydrant rental of $4,713.14, and the necessary repairs to eleven pieces of apparatus, it will be found that the cost of fire protection for our city compares most favorably with that of other municipalities of our class throughout the country."

MURRAY WILL RESIGN IF JENNINGS IS NAMED.

Second Assistant Chief to be Promoted Soon.

"I would not resign that office in a thousand years unless I knew that Jennings would be my successor," declared First Assistant Chief J. W. Murray, Jr., of the fire department, today. "He's the only man for the place and I feel sure Mayor Buckle thinks so too," he continuted.

Mayor Buckle has not signified what his action will be in the matter. No resignation has been presented to him by Mr. Murray and not until one is will the city's chief executive say who will be the next first assistant to Chief Doane. Second Assistant Chief Andrew Jennings will be the man—that's quite certain.

B. & L.'s New Secretary.

Arthur E. Crone, teller at the City National Bank, has been elected secretary of the Home Building and Loan Association, in place of S. R. Struthers, who has resigned. Mr. Crone's experience in matters of finance makes him especially valuable to the successful management of the association.

Vote of Thanks For President Daniel Only Complimentary Act of Dying Common Council

MUCH ROUTINE WORK

New Tax Collector's Bonds Filed—Buildings Inspector's Report —Lights Committee's Report.

Excepting a vote of thanks tendered the retiring president, Leslie M. Daniel, on a motion offered by Mr. Gloak, there was a notable absence of exchange of compliments at the special and final meeting of the Common Council for the year held last night. Mr. Wilson was anxious to conclude his committee work before retiring, while Mr. Tyler did not appear until later in the evening. Mr. Murphy, another retiring member, was absent, and during the session Charles C. Randolph was excused.

In concluding the business for the year, there seemed to be no end to it, as so many matters had to be acted upon before closing accounts for 1905. The chairman of each committee referred the various petitions in his hands to the 1906 body, and they will all be reported on later.

A fire department note of $4,000, due January 8, 1906, was paid, as were also street improvement bonds aggregating $9,000, with interest, dated November 9, 1903, and issued for three years. A poor fund note of $1,000, due January 8, 1906, was also paid.

The bill of expenses incident to the trial of Chief of Police Kiely was held over for the incoming Common Council, as was also the claim of Patrolman Frank Stillwell for salary, there being some misunderstanding regarding it.

The payment of sewer extension notes aggregating $14,900 was ratified. There are in all about fifteen notes.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that six permits were granted during the past month and a total of 245 for the year. The annual reports of Chief of Police Kiely, Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, the streets and sewers committee, and that of the committee on fire and buildings are all printed in another part of The Daily Press. All of the reports were filed.

Mr. Murphy, through Mr. Gloak, reported that twenty-three additional incandescent lights were erected during the year, and Mr. Gloak, as chairman of the alms committee, presented his report.

Mr. Tolles offered the bonds of John W. Murray, Jr., tax collector-elect, and they were received and filed. The bonds are in the sum of $25,000 and are furnished by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Maryland.

Mr. Tolles also offered a resolution appropriating $100 to verify the delinquent tax list and provide for the expense of reaching those by bills who have not yet paid their taxes. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Higham presented a request from the New York & New Jersey Telephone Company for the right to open certain streets to continue its work of laying conduits. The streets mentioned in the petition include East Front street, East Fifth street, Park avenue, South Watchung avenue and Crescent avenue. On Mr. Higham's motion the petition was granted.

Mr. Bullock reported back the proposed amendments to the building ordinance for further consideration, and he also moved that $35 be appropriated for the purpose of having 250 copies of Chief Doane's report printed for exchange with various chiefs of fire departments. The motion was adopted.

Among matters referred to the 1906 Common Council by Mr. Higham were those relative to the garbage disposal question, city park commissioners and the question of municipal water works. As to the water question, he stated that Corporation Counsel Marsh has the data on the subject and no doubt will instruct the incoming body regarding it.

After the business of the meeting was concluded time was allowed to prepare and adopt the minutes of the meeting. These were read by City Stenographer George B. Wean and adopted. Just before adjournment Mr. Gloak made a pleasant reference to President Daniel's efficient work in the chair and on his motion a vote of thanks was extended. Mr. Daniel expressed his appreciation in a few words.

Police Judge's Report.

City Judge William N. Runyon presented his annual report at the Common Council meeting last night, as follows: Cases considered, 568; fined, 123; sentence suspended, 366; committed to jail, 67; dismissed, 10; sent to the juvenile court, 2. The receipts from fines, etc., were $575, and, deducting expenses, there was turned over to the city treasurer $466.06.

KIELY'S BILL IN DOUBT

His Friends in Common Council Withold Resolution Putting Expense in City.

SIDETRACK IN RECESS

Mr. Gloak Was Ready to Bring the Question Up, But Opposition Checked Him—Communication from the Chief.

Chief Kiely's friends in the Council did not present a resolution binding the city to take over the expense of the chief's defense of the trial on the charges at the special meeting last night. Some such resolution was expected before the meeting, but the things that transpired in the committee room during a recess sidetracked the proposed plan, so far as this Council is concerned.

The chief's friends declare that he should not be compelled to bear the heavy expense of proving himself innocent. Councilman Gloak came to the meeting prepared to present a resolution on the matter.

He called for a recess to discuss the question. It was his opinion, he said, that the present Council should take up the matter and dispose of it. Mr. Gloak carried into the recess with him a communication from Chief Kiely to the Council.

Chief Kiely presented a communication to the Common Council, which was not read, but was given to Mr. Gloak. In this communication the chief set forth the facts regarding his recent trial and its result. He stated that as he had been found technically guilty of certain charges he was willing to deduct $50 from his bill of $845, and it was his request that the city pay the balance, $795. Of this amount $750 is Mr. Reed's bill as counsel fees, and the balance is for the expense of serving subpoenas and other incidentals.

Before he left the committee room Mr. Gloak had changed his mind about presenting his resolution and the chief's communication. From what can be learned of the recess debate there was considerable opposition on the part of some members to the city paying the bill.

After the members returned to their seats Mr. Wilson arose to ask if the Kiely bill was to be brought up at the meeting. Mr. Gloak was on his feet almost before Mr. Wilson finished.

"It is not going to be brought up tonight," he said.

A few minutes after that Mr. Wilson and Mr. Tyler withdrew to go to the charity ball.

When the adoption of the minutes was under consideration President Daniel asked whether Mr. Wilson's query belonged on the record. He was under the impression that the question had not been addressed to the chair. Councilmen Hibbard, Higham and Bullock had understood the question to be so directed, but Mr. Gloak and Mr. Tolles were equally positive the query was directed to Mr. Gloak. The debate waxed lively and Mr. Daniel called for a vote as to the entry.

Councilmen Hibbard, Higham and Bullock voted to put the question on the records, and Councilmen Gloak, Tolles and Frank Randolph voted in the negative. Mr. Daniel decided the tie with an affirmative vote.

COLLECTOR LEE'S LAST DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

Properties Disposed of and the Names of the Purchasers.

Tax Collector Robert L. Lee held his last sale of delinquent property for the year yesterday, when the 1904 list was cleaned up. This was one of the lat duties of Mr. Lee before retiring from office, to be suceeded by Collector-elect J. W. Murray, Jr.

The properties sold and the purchasers are as follows: Hattie L. Gibbons, two properties, Westervelt avenue; E. M. French, Evergreen avenue; George H. Moore, West Fourth street; John Hoofnagle, two properties, were purchased by the city; Plainfield Foundry Company, East Seventh street, purchased by Samuel T. Sarson; twenty-two properties in the name of Charles L. Moffett, were purchased by Mrs. Katherine Embury, of Summit, who holds the mortgage; Jesse G. Burdick, Woodbine avenue, was purchased by Jonathan Clawson.

Miss Ball's Whist Party.

A very delightful bridge party was given yesterday afternoon by Miss Adelaide G. Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ball, at the home on Rockview avenue. Nine tables were arranged through the rooms, which were tastefully decorated for the Christmas season with holly and poinsetta. The prizes, which hung on a pretty Christmas tree, were won by Miss Mabel Van Deventer, Mrs. Whittingham, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Weaver. Refreshments followed the game.

CHIEF DOANE URGES EAST END FIRE HOUSE

More Hydrants in the Business Section and Five Additional Men Wanted For Better Service in the Fire Department.

MANY OTHER NEEDS

More Pressure on Fire Mains or Another Engine—A Pair of Horses Also—His Annual Report.

"Every little bit helps," according to the annual report of Fire Chief T. O. Doane, who gives a detailed list of the department's needs and makes several suggestions for the improvement of the service. A fire house for the East End, higher pressure on the water mains or a new engine, a pair of horses, five more men, a rearrangement of the alarm system, and more hydrants in the business section are some of the more important suggestions made by the chief.

His report in the main follows:

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield.
Gentlemen:

I herewith submit to your honorable body my eighteenth annual report as chief of fire department under your contract for the year ending December 27, 1905, with a record of the number of fires and alarms, the amount of insurance and losses, as near as could be ascertained.

The manual force is divided into two classes—permanent and call men.

There are three engine houses occupied by the department and owned by the city—headquarters, located at Nos. 145, 147 and 149 East Second street; No. 1 engine house, located at Nos. 206 and 208 West Second street, and No. 3 engine house, located at Nos. 730 and 732 West Fourth street. The East Second and West Fourth street houses are in good repair. Considerable repairs have been made to these houses by the members of the department, and the roofs of both buildings have been painted. No. 1 engine has had a new gravel roof this fall. I stated in my report of 1904 that this house needed new front doors, but will now probably need new floors also, and as this is a valuable property and a splendid location for an engine house, I would urge upon your honorable body to give the matter your attention next year.

In my 1904 report I recommended that the aerial truck be repaired and the steel tires be replaced with rubber. I now think that this apparatus will need new wheels, as the present wheels are in a bad condition. This apparatus also needs painting very badly. All the other apparatus, except the spare truck, is in fair condition. But all iron tires should be replaced with rubber, as we have to drive over hose at a fire. For this reason alone it would pay, and they are a great saving of horses, harness and apparatus. They soon pay for themselves.

Hose—The amount at present on hand is 6,500 feet; 4,000 feet are good. The rest should be sold as old hose. At least 2,000 feet of good hose should be purchased immediately.

Fourteen horses are in use in the department, twelve of which are owned by the city. The steamer team is hired by the city and is on call. At night they are stabled in the engine house and the driver sleeps there. This team should be owned by the city, and should be on duty permanently.

About four miles of old wire have been taken out this year and replaced with new wire. For several years I have called the attention of your honorable body to the fact that we need a repeater. Our fire alarm should be divided in six circuits, with a six circuit repeater and a switch board. At present, with nearly 25 miles of wire and 40 fire alarm boxes, we have virtually but one circuit, and in case of trouble on any part of the line, our whole system is out of service until the trouble can be located and repairs made. The fire alarm system is in charge of the N. Y. & N. J. Telephone Company, under the management of C. W. Runyon, and has had the best of care during the year.

There are 320 hydrants throughout the city, an addition of eight this year, with a water pressure of about 75 lbs., except those at Netherwood Heights, where the minimum pressure is about 40 lbs. The superintendent of the Water Company, A. Andrews, has done all that can be

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Some waggish friends left a large wax doll at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Meeker Christmas morning, and their friends now say they are entitled to the $100 prize offered by C. T. Rogers, their landlord, for the first baby to arrive at the house. Mr. Rogers didn't stipulate what sort of a baby would win the prize, and Mr. and Mrs. Meeker's friends say they have a valid claim on the cash.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

One thing is needed badly for the year 1906, and that is street sprinkling. The town has gradually adopted other improvements, until now the one thing lacking to make life pleasant here during the summer months is to have the streets sprinkled, especially the main street, Park avenue, Front street and Mountain avenue. The popularity of the auto has made this improvement an actual necessity. Let's have it.

The Township Committee has about completed the work on the annual township report. The report will be bound in pamphlet form and should be ready for distribution during the coming week.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be as usual, Sunday school, 9:30 a. m.; morning preaching, 10:45; R. Y. P. U. meeting, 7:15, followed by the evening sermon at 7:45.

Our good New Year's resolution: Have The Daily Press left at your house every day. Only 10c per week. This will keep you in close touch with all local news that is fit to print.

The services held each night this week in the Methodist church have been well attended. Rev. Mr. Hoffman will probably continue the meetings during the coming week.

BECAUSE SHE LOVED HIM.

London Police Court Incident Shows Woman's Nature.

Here is a bit of real life from a London police court, says the Chicago News. The prisoner, Albert Williams, was described as a raw-boned young fellow of the usual coster type. He was charged with disorderly conduct, the policeman who had made the arrest testifying that he had found Williams quarreling with a young woman. The young woman had gone away when the officer had requested her to go, whereupon, according to the testimony, the prisoner had rushed after the girl and given he a kick that brought her to the ground. At this point in the trial the young woman herself came forward. She carried her basket of flowers, the contents of which it was her business to sell upon the streets.

"What is the prisoner to you?" asked the magistrate. "Well," replied the young woman, "we keeps each other company. 'E's fond of me, he is." "But does he usually display his affection by kicking you?" inquired the magistrate. "'Yer see, sir, 'twas all my fault," said the young woman earnestly. "Bert ain't ter blime—not a little bit. 'E thort I ought ter carry one basket of flowers, an' I wouldn't. Course, 'e was right, an' I'm to blime." "Why do you go with him if he acts in this way?" asked the stipendiary. The coster's sweetheart looked surprised at the question. "Because I loves 'im," she answered simply. "Don't do anything to 'im, sir; please don't."

So Williams was released, the magistrate telling him he was fortunate in his sweetheart and ought to be kind to her. The sweethearts left the court together, each apparently well pleased with the situation. But the girl carried the basket of flowers.

TESTS PATIENCE.

The Most Patient Plainfield Citizen Must Show Annoyance at Times.

Nothing spoils a good disposition,
Nothing taxes a man's patience,
Like any itchiness of the skin.
Itching Piles almost drive you crazy.
All day it makes you miserable,
All night it keeps you awake.
Itch! Itch! Itch! with no relief.
Just the same with Eczema.
Can hardly keep from scratching it.
You would do so, but you know it makes it worse.
Such miseries are daily decreasing.
People are learning they can be cured.
Learning the merit of Doan's Ointment.
Plenty of proof that Doan's Ointment will cure Piles, Eczema or any Itchiness of the skin.
Read the testimony of a Plainfield citizen.

Thomas Haskard, of 941 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a member of Co. A, First Regiment, N. J. Vols., under Col. Montgomery. I was out in 3½ years of the Civil War, and was wounded once in the leg and once in the neck. During the Rebellion I contracted itching piles and they bothered me off and on ever since. No one who has not suffered from this trouble knows what the irritation is. I tried about every salve, wash and ointment known, in the hope of finding a cure, but nothing helped me until I got Doan's Ointment, and it took just three boxes to put me in shape so I could rest nights, and cured me so that I have been free ever since from any trouble arising from piles."

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

For legal work of any kind consult F. J. Huff, of West Front street. It is always very satisfactory.

Timbo's restaurant on North avenue is one of the best in the State, and popular prices are the rule.

Putnam & De Graw's dry goods store is filled with seasonable goods and the prices are very reasonable.

The Valentine Gas Engine Co., Sycamore avenue, will do your machine jobs as they should be done, Trust them.

The guests at the Kensington Hotel never have anything to complain about. They are well cared for, North avenue.

If you want any plumbing work done call on John J. Leahy, of Richmond street. He does the best work at reasonable prices.

A. F. Naylor, East Fifth street, is ready to furnish good music for any occasion. He will make your "little affairs" successful.

Start the new year by getting your men's furnishings at O. M. Dunham's store on Park avenue. His line is full and complete.

With a snug and growing savings account in the City National Bank you have much to be thankful for. A savings fund is your guarantee of independence of your ability to clinch golden opportunities.

L. W. Randolph, the druggist, is enjoying an exceptionally large holiday trade, because he has the goods that most folks want, whether it be in drugs, toilet articles, Huyler's confections or prescription work. Only reliable goods are sold at this modern pharmacy.

One of the advantages of dealing at the A. & P. Tea Company's store, West Front street, is the big stock on hand. You will always find what you want in the store, and the sales are so rapid that the stock in everything is always fresh—a thing to be borne in mind. The store that sells out its stock three times as fast as another store must necessarily have fresher goods.

SHE OPENED THE WRONG LETTER.

It Told a Wife That the Man Who Wooed Her Had Abandoned His Suit.

Mrs. Lena Peshanik, of No. 9 Newark street, Newark, N. J., was defendant Wednesday before United States Commissioner S. Howell Jones, charged by her neighbor, Mrs. Emma Dietrich, of the same address, with having wilfully opened a letter addressed to her.

While the Commissioner decided eventually that the evidence was not strong enough to indicate that Mrs. Peshanik was guilty of a deliberate violation of the postal laws, the testimony furnished by Mrs. Dietrich and her husband showed how a romance had been nipped in the bud.

Mrs. Dietrich told how she had advertised for work as a housekeeper. One man who answered her advertisement became so deeply impressed with Mrs. Dietrich's appearance that he then and there proposed marriage to her. As Mrs. Dietrich already had a husband, she felt constrained, she told the Commissioner, to refuse the proposal. The letter that was opened by Mrs. Peshanik, it was disclosed, had been written by Mrs. Dietrich's admirer, in which he announced that as there was already one husband who claimed her, she should consider the writer's proposal as having been recalled.

The postman gave the letter to Mrs. Peshanik in the absence from home of Mrs. Dietrich, and the recipient, attracted by the robin's egg blue envelope, did not take sufficient notice of the address to discover that the letter was not intended for her.

After she read it she turned it over to Mrs. Dietrich.

STILLMAN IS RELEASED BY BOARD OF PARDONS,

Ex.-Gov. Murphy, Man He Robbed, Was Willing He Should Be Paroled.

Trenton, Dec. 30.—The Board of Pardons paroled yesterday, by a vote of five to three, Claude Stillman, of Newark, former secretary to former Gov. Murphy, who was sentenced three years ago to ten years on the charge of embezzling between $30,000 and $40,000 from the Murphy Varnish Company.

Former Gov. Murphy expressed his willingness to the court to have a pardon granted. Stillman led a dual domestic life for several years and was regarded as something of a high flyer in New York.

Stillman was a friend of Charles L. Roller, the Newark forger, whose release from prison a few years ago created a sensation.

It was whispered at the time that Roller's release mainly was due to information furnished by him that led to the discovery of Stillman's criminal acts.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Stillman and J. V. Keideling and daughter, of this city, have returned from a visit with relatives at Raritan.

Gray Bros. have entered some of their prize winning stock in the Poultry Show to be held at Madison Square Garden in January.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Thompson, of Belvidere avenue, have returned from a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Meyers Hodge, of Somerville.

STREET DEP'T SPENT $32,298

tractor. The cost of all this work, and rent for the roller at $10 per day, was paid by the contractor, but on the schedule the items are charged against the different streets where the work was done.

Sherman avenue, running west from Grant avenue, was macadamized twelve feet wide and four inches deep, the property owners contributing $198.38.

The amounts paid to the collector as the city's proportion for macadamizing streets are included in those shown in the schedule, and are in addition to those paid from the 1904 appropriation.

Macadam Streets Repaired.

Watchung avenue, parts; East Second street, East Third street, East Fifth street, Evergreen avenue, Belleview avenue, Hillside avenue, Putnam avenue, Belvidere avenue, Berkeley avenue, Charlotte road, South avenue, Woodland avenue, Central avenue, Plainfield avenue, Madison avenue, South Second street, Grant avenue, West Front street, Evona avenue.

Belleview avenue was thoroughly overhauled this season and the Hillside Cemetery Association paid by agreement $792.02, being one-half the total cost of the improvement.

On Charlotte road the property owners voluntarily set curb on both sides of the street and flagging where not already laid. This required correcting the line of the street, and repairing the gutters, which was done in a substantial manner.

General Repair Work.

North avenue, east of Richmond street, needed, as usual, a large amount of work after the freshet of September 3d. This street receives such a flood of water, including a large quantity from the Fanwood cut, that two large storm sewers will be needed eventually to carry off the water without injury to the street.

The overflowing of Green brook in September caused much damage to East Front, East Second, East Third, Berckman and Richmond streets, and this periodical loss must be endured until some improvements are made in the dams and bed of Green brook.

On Evona avenue some additional slag has been placed, but as all the available material at the Pond Tool Works was required on the macadamizing contract, not much progress was made. We recommend that all the slag produced at the works be utilized on the west end streets, so that the washing away of the sand may be prevented.

Grading.

In pursuance of the recommendation of the Committee of 1904, the roadway of Myrtle avenue, extending from Dunellen avenue to Green brook, was excavated through the high ground, and the material removed was used to start the embankment.

Additional filling has since been done by ash-carters, and it is desirable that the work of extending the street be continued as rapidly as possible, so as to be ready for a bridge when the improvements on the North Plainfield side are completed. We suggest that the sidewalks be excavated early next year, and that the material be used for further filling.

Hillside avenue, from Martine avenue to Randolph road, has been almost completely graded, opening up, practically, a new street, which has proved a great convenience for those driving to the hospital from the Netherwood district.

Much needed work has also been done this year on Central street, from East Seventh street to Woodland avenue. The importance of making this street passable for travel has been urged upon the committee for several years, and the result accomplished this season has been highly appreciated. Considerable work still remains to be done on the easterly half of the street, which, we think, should be attended to during the coming year.

East Seventh street, east of Leland avenue, was partly graded on the south side, and more work should be done at this point.

Randolph road, between Arlington avenue and Cedar brook, was not included in the macadamizing ordinance, as a short storm sewer is needed before the street can be permanently improved, but this part of the street has been filled to grade with gravel excavated from the part of the street which was macadamized.

Flagging and Curbing.

Owing to the large expense for macadamizing incurred by property owners on many streets this year, your committee has not felt that it could consistently order flagging in front of the same properties, though it is desirable that many of these walks should be flagged as soon as the property owners can afford it.

No curbing has been ordered except to close gaps on streets nearly completed. The total for the year is:

3,113 lineal feet of flagging.
1,172 lineal feet of curbing.

Culverts.

Considerable work has been done repairing and rebuilding culverts and replacing broken stone covers.

We think that the stone covers now in use should be replaced, as fast as possible, by iron covers. Some progress has been made in this direction, and the benefit of the change may already be noted. When the culverts become filled with ice, it is impossible to raise the stone covers, and this fact caused serious inconvenience last winter in a number of places, the culverts remaining choked until thawed out by warmer weather.

The cast iron pipe at Belvidere avenue and Charlotte road, and the old culverts at West Seventh street and Plainfield avenue, were replaced by culverts with iron covers. Culverts were rebuilt at Woodland and Prospect avenues, at Putnam avenue and Richmond street and at Grant avenue and West Seventh street.

Cross-walks.

Many old and broken cross-walks have been relaid with new stone this year, and the use of high grade, thick, square-edged stones has been extended. The higher cost of this material seems to be entirely justified by its much greater durability and fine appearance, and we recommend its exclusive use in the future.

New cross-walks have been provided at Prospect and Hillside avenues, West Fifth street and Lee place (two), Central avenue and Randolph road, Albert street and Dunellen avenue, Mariners place and Dunellen avenue.

Storm Sewers.

Work has at last been started on the long talked of storm sewer in Richmond street, and fair progress is being made, considering the unfavorable time of year in which it was started. The contractor, Stacy B. Opdyke, Jr., seems to be efficient and conscientious in his work, and when the sewer is extended to East Second street, Richmond street will be freed from the annoying floods to which it has been subject in the past, except during brook overflows. The trouble from this cause, as explained in previous reports of your committee, will have to be dealt with separately.

The Rock avenue storm sewer again caused trouble by a break in the quicksand, which was repaired by relaying a section in concrete. This work was done under the direction of Manager Peterson, of the disposal works.

Street Widenings and Extensions.

Ordinances were adopted and commissioners were appointed for the widening of Park avenue on the westerly side, from West Second street to the railroad, of Sycamore street at East Fifth street, and for the extension of Stebbins place to West Fourth street. The work of the commissioners on these three improvements has been done with great care, and we hope that their reports will be approved by the Common Council, so that the work on the ground may begin early in the year.

Miscellaneous.

Two unusually heavy items of expense this year have been the repair of the steam roller and the cost of removing snow. Last winter the roller was sent to the Pond Tool Works and thoroughly overhauled, with the exception of the boiler, which now needs attention. The repair work at Pond's cost $1,194.60 and supplies and other work have brought the total cost of maintenance up to $1,327.60.

The severe winter caused the expenditure of $1,731.00 for removing snow, of which the street railway company paid $566.57.

While the money paid for removing snow seems to be almost wasted, it is considered a necessity that part of the snow should be removed from the centre of the city, in order that business may not be interfered with.

The street railway company has paid for removal of snow and for work repairing streets, $1,484.70, $92.65 of which was paid for work in October and December, 1904.

The company also paid $1,005.82, assessment for the macadamizing of Woodland avenue.

We are informed that the company proposes to use a large quantity of trap rock for ballasting track in this city during 1906, and we hope this may be done, as the track, in many streets, is in such condition that it is impossible to keep the macadam in repair.

The following streets are in need of repair, some of them seriously so:

Park avenue; South avenue; West Seventh street; West Third street; East and West Fourth streets; Richmond street; parts of West Fifth and West Sixth streets.

Sewers—Disposal Works.

In carrying out the recommendations of the committee of 1904, a contract was let to Richards & Gaston for enlarging the sewage disposal works, and the contract is nearing completion. The work is being well done and the plant, when finished, will be one of the best in the country.

The committee desires to express its indebtedness to Mr. Joseph O. Osgood, who has advised with the committee as consulting engineer, making no charge for his services.

Sewers—Pipe System.

The total number of buildings now connected to the sewerage system is 2,253, 247 of the connections having been made since the last annual report.

An ordinance providing for sewers in several streets, mostly at the east end of the city, was adopted in November, and it is proposed, when advertising for bids, to include several other sewers called for in previous ordinances.

An ordinance has been introduced for a sewer main and three pumping stations to serve the southerly part of the city, which cannot be drained into the present sanitary sewers, and the incoming Council will no doubt take the matter up for further consideration early in 1906.

There has been much complaint from residents and property owners in this district, that they are deprived of drainage facilities although they pay as large taxes as those in other sections which are provided with sewers. They claim, not only that they are greatly inconvenienced, but that the development of property is seriously retarded by the lack of sewers. They are also put to large expense for the maintenance and cleaning of cesspools.

The problem was first considered in 1895, when most of the present sewers were constructed, and a plan was drawn, for future use, with sewers draining to a pumping station at the southerly end of Plainfield avenue. A few years ago the subject was again brought before the public in connection with the proposed development of the Leonard tract and adjoining properties on Plainfield avenue opposite Randolph road. The scheme was then increased to include the whole area which could not be served by the gravity sewers. This plan developed considerable opposition, on account of the cost and because much of the work would have been done through streets on which there were very few houses. It would have been necessary by this plan, to have had cast iron sewers about twenty feet deep for much of the distance, and in quicksand, and also to have other sewers in the same streets to receive the house connections.

The present plans call for sewers of moderate depth, suitable for direct connection with buildings, these sewers to drain to several pumps or lifts, which would raise the sewage to the nearest gravity sewers. The lifts or pumps would be in concrete chambers under the streets, similar to the one at West Orange. It is estimated that the cost of the work proposed in the last ordinance would be about $57,000, this sum including the city's proportion (about $11,000) of the cost of the 4½ miles of sewers proposed.

The need of Muhlenberg Hospital for a sewer outlet, the fact that many houses are now being built in these sections of the city, and that a large number of buildings have been erected since the first sewers were constructed in the city, indicate the desirability of providing sewers and lifts for these sections as soon as possible.

It has been suggested that the ordinance be amended so as to include a section which would drain to Plainfield avenue near the city line, as the ordinance would then provide for practically all the area outside the gravity district as far west as Rushmore avenue.

While the present ordinance calls for only 4½ miles of sewers, being those thought necessary at the present time, many other sewers may be drained to those now under consideration. As the future sewers will be mainly 8 inch laterals, of moderate depth, their cost will be largely paid for by abutting property, and it has not been thought necessary to include them in the estimate.

Mr. Joseph O. Osgood is consulting engineer on this proposed south side sewerage system.

GIRL CLAUDE DUVAL

PUZZLES POLICE.

Held Up Woman, Stole Her Purse and Then Made Escape from Pursuers.

"Look out for a girl, not more than sixteen years old, medium height, slim but well shaped, dark eyes and hair, and dressed in brown coat and skirt that just reaches her shoe-tops."

This was the order issued yesterday by Chief of Police Adams, of Newark, to each of his precinct captains, and in turn transmitting them to their respective squads.

Chief Adams is desirous of making the personal acquaintance of this girl, who bears the distinction of being the first juvenile highway robber of her sex with whom the Newark police department has ever had experience.

At various times recently stories have reached the ears of the police of a girl Claude Duval operating in the dark streets at night. The first tangible information came to Capt. Vogel, of the Fourth precinct, Tuesday night.

Miss Elizabeth Schwartz, of 380 Littleton avenue, was awlking leisurely along William street, when suddenly there loomed up before her, obstructing her way, the figure of a girl. Miss Schwartz was puzzled, but not alarmed. The thought of a robber did not enter her mind.

"I want that," the girl said, and with a quick movement she reached out and seized Mrs. Schwartz's purse. Then the girl was running like the wind in the direction of High street.

"Stop, thief!" cried Mrs. Schwartz as she started in pursuit. In her haste and excitement Mrs. Schwartz tripped and fell to the pavement. She tried to arise, but a terrible pain in her right arm caused her to faint. She had sustained a broken wrist.

Charles Botterwich, of 173 William street, saw the holdup from his window. When he recovered from his amazement at the boldness of the robbery, he started in pursuit. He called out to two men to stop the robber, but only seeing a fleeing girl, the men failed to understand him. When Botterwich reached High street the girl had disappeared.

In her flight the highway girl dropped Mrs. Schwartz's purse and its contents. She also dropped another purse, probably secured in a similar exploit.

Police Chief is Retired.

After a long session, at which objections were made to the proposition by Alderman Balgrie, the East Orange, N. J., Aldermen decided Tuesday night to retire Chief of Police Henry Blaurock on a salary of $750. The Chief will retire on Jan. 1.

Plainfield, N. J., December 30, 1905.

Happy New Year!

Learn to write 1906.

As Monday will be a legal holiday, The Daily Press will not be issued on that day.

1905 has been a strenuous year in civic affairs; what will the coming year be?

Don't forget the newsboy on Monday. He will ring your door bell bright and early to extend his New Year's greeting.

We never knew how much Plainfield needed until we read the reports presented at the Common Council meeting last night.

The big and little politicians will eat his salad and drink his wine on New Year's Day, and "The Sage of Ursino" will cant his head in that peculiar way and whisper to brother "Ham:" "How easy."

Following the annual custom collections will be taken in the churches tomorrow morning for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital. At present this method of raising money for that worthy institution is confined to Plainfield and North Plainfield, but there is no reason why this should be so. The churches in Dunellen, Scotch Plains, South Plainfield, Westfield and other surrounding places would no doubt be only too glad to assist in contributing to a charitable institution where their people are given medical and surgical treatment. Every citizen should help swell the collections tomorrow whether he is a church-goer or not. There is no nobler work than that of healing the sick.

Borough Council Re-organization.

The borough Council will hold a special meeting Monday afternoon for the purpose of re-organizing. The terms of James K. Arnold and J. P. Humble expire at noon and they will be succeeded by Clifford McGee and Edward P. T. Smith. In assuming office, Smith will resign the captaincy of the fire department and his successor will be appointed from among numerous candidates by Mayor Smalley. The term of Recorder Doud terminates by resignation and it is possible Mayor Smalley will fill the place himself.

Sewer Ordinance Adopted.

At the Common Council meeting last night Mr. Wilson called up on third reading the south-side sewer ordinance for third reading, and it was adopted. Councilmen Gloak, Frank Randolph, Tolles and Daniel voted against it, while Councilmen Wilson, Higham, Hibbard, Charles C. Randolph, Tyler and Bullock voted in the affirmative. There was no debate on the subject, and immediately after the adoption of the ordinance the Common Council took a recess on a motion offered by Mr. Gloak.

Audited B. & L. Books.

The books and accounts of the Central Building & Loan Association kept by Expert Accountant George E. Collins were submitted last night for audit by a committee comprising Thomas E. Currin and A. L. Force. The books were found to be accurate and correct in every particular and much praise was given Mr. Collins for the excellent system employed by him, making the work of audit an easy simple matter.

Church Trustees Re-elected.

At a meeting of the members of Monroe Avenue M. E. church last evening Walter Manning, E. H. Beekman and Nicholas Brouard were re-elected trustees of the church. They will serve for a period of three years.

Miss Laura Lee, of New York, and the Misses Easton, of Morristown, are spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Leek, of East Fifth street.

URGES EAST END FIRE HOUSE

done to give us good service. Several miles of pipe have been laid where new hydrants were needed, some of which will be of very little profit to the company for several years to come, especially in the case of about 2,000 feet of 8-inch pipe laid in South Second street from Clinton to Rock avenues, to cover a large section of the city which was almost totally unprotected in case of fire. If we are to depend on hydrant pressure in the future, we must either have more pressure or buy at least one more steamer. I would suggest that a committee from your honorable body meet with the Water Company officials to take this matter up, as I have always found the Water Company willing to make any improvements in their power.

There have been 106 alarms during the year, an increase of five over last year. Box alarms, 41; telephone, 48; verbal, 17.

Loss and Insurance to December 27, 1905, 8 a. m.—Loss on buildings, $18,487.50; insurance on buildings, $177,325; loss on contents, $21,391.72; insurance on contents, $144,570; total amount of insurance, $321,895; total amount collected, $39,024.22; loss not insured—personal, $837; real estate, $18; property value—real estate, $212,300; personal, $217,650.

Causes of Fires—Chimneys and defective flues, 26; unknown, 20; grass, wood and trees, 18; gasolene, 5; locomotive sparks, 5; debris, 4; gas and gas stoves, 4; stoves and defective stove pipes, 4; ashes, 3; matches, 3; lightning, 3; children and matches, 2; spontaneous combustion, 2; smoking in bed, 1; lamp, 1; smoke, 1; steam, 1 ; electric light wires, 1; out of city, 1; false alarm, 1. Total, 106.

Recommendations — For several years I have asked that more hydrants be placed in the business section of the city, and have given my reasons why they are needed. I again renew that request, and hope your honorable body will give the matter the attention it, in my opinion, deserves. There should be an engine house built in the east end of the city and equipped with a combination hose wagon and chemical engine, with room for a steamer, if it is needed. Netherwood, as the eastern end of this city, is rapidly filling with very costly buildings and should have better fire protection. A steam heater for our steamer should be placed in No. 1 engine house, and a small pressure of steam be kept on the engine night and day, so that the engine could be used at any time at a moment's notice. We need about five more permanent men, as we receive so many telephone alarms that we work very often at a great disadvantage, especially if an alarm comes (as they very often do) during the meal hours. The electric light wiring in the headquarters building is in a bad condition, and I understand that it has been condemned by the Underwriter's inspector. This matter should be given immediate attention.

I thank his Honor the Mayor and your honorable body for the interest you have taken in the department during the year, and hope for a continuance of the same.

To Chief of Police P. S. Kiely and the men under his control I tender the thanks of this department for the prompt help they have given during the year.

To my assistants, J. W. Murray and A. D. Jennings, and all other officers and men I tender my sincere thanks for the prompt and efficient manner in which they have answered all alarms, and worked shoulder to shoulder for the best interests of the city.

Respectfully,
T. O. DOANE,
Chief Engineer.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Howard Kyle, the popular young actor who created the title role in "Nathan Hale," will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight in "Mozart," a drama built about the life of the great composer. It is by Ivy Ashton Root, niece of the secretary of War, Elihu Root, and bids fair to occupy a prominent place among the best known stage successes.

Lovers of melodrama will find one very much to their liking at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, when Rowland and Clifford will present Jos. Le Brandt's latest effort, "Over Niagara Falls." Much that is new to the melodramatic field is included in this play. Novel character-drawing—a unique plot that is away from the old hackneyed ideas so much in vogue—scenic and mechanical effects that are meritorious and electrical appliances, the invention of which has been necessitated by some of these effects, are shown. Rowland and Clifford have taken much care in making this production one of the season's greatest successes. A fine cast fill the various parts of which there are some twenty.

There is said to be some delightful comedy scenes in "At the World's Mercy," Owen Davis' latest and most successful play which Manager A. J. Spencer has given one of the most elaborate and massive production scenically, mechanically and electrically that the stage has seen in recent years. Mr. Davis has told a powerful story, it is stated, of love and intrigue replete in heart interest and human to a degree, and Manager Spencer has not only supplied the massive production, but a company which is said to be exceedingly well balanced. "At the World's Mercy" is to be given at the New Plainfield theatre Monday afternoon and night.

Dance for Younger Society.

One of the delightful holiday events of last evening was the dance given at the Seminary by Mrs. DeWitt C. Ivins and Mrs. E. H. Booth for the younger society set of Plainfield. There were about ninety young people present and all thoroughly enjoyed the attractive programme of music rendered by an orchestra of three pieces. The dance was held in the school rooms, which were profusely decorated with palms, potted plants and Christmas greens. During the evening refreshments were served.

Emery; recording secretary, Arthur Templin; inside sentinel, C. F. Hewlitt; outside sentinel, E. G. Ganun; trustee, E. G. Ganun; representative to State Council, F. R. Soper; alternates, William Walker and P. H. Bennett. The installation will be conducted next Friday night.

that my only and constant endeavor shall be to fulfil the duties of my position without fear or favor, and in a manner to merit the trust and confidence of the entire community.

The officers and patrolmen under my charge, with very few exceptions, have performed the work assigned to them with absolute fidelity and zeal, and I desire to make public mention of my appreciation. As an instance of the faithful work done, I would cite the case of Patrolman Andrew Saffron, who, at the imminent risk of his life, endeavored to capture a burglar, and only desisted in his efforts after he had been shot twice. I am glad to say that my belief is that almost every man on the force, under like circumstances, would have proven himself of equal mettle and calibre.

There is, nevertheless, great need of an increase in the force, and I am convinced that four new men at least should be appointed. The size of the beats as now constituted, with the limited number of men at my disposal, makes it impossible for the patrolmen to do justice, either to themselves or the community, and in no way except by augmenting the force, can this evil be remedied.

So far as equipment goes, the police department is in satisfactory shape and the wisdom of expending considerable sums of money in the past for such acquirements, has been fully justified.

With kindest New Year's wishes to every one of your honorable body, I remain, Yours respectfully,
P. S. KIELY, Chief of Police.

MRS. COREY WON'T MAKE OVERTURES.

If Her Husband Has Anything to Propose He Must Come to Her at Braddock.

Braddock, Pa., Dec. 30.—Mrs. Laura Cook Corey did not leave secretly for New York last night, although it was reported today that she had done so. She entertained a party of friends last night at the home of her husband's father, Alfred Corey, and there The World correspondent found her.

Her father-in-law, speaking for her, said she will remain for some time, and if she goes to New York it will not be secretly.

Ellis Corey has not been here this week. He will attend the meeting of the executive committee of the Steel Combine, and his friends believe that he will be vindicated by re-election as president. He will stop over in Braddock and will then see his wife. His father says that Ellis never comes West without stopping to see them.

Mrs. Corey, it is stated by those who know her, will not be the first to make overtures and that she certainly would not go to New York to make them. It can be said that no overtures have yet been made by either side.

"THE FIGHTING PARSON" IS NOW A POLICEMAN.

Rev. J. L. Scudder Gets Badge No. 238 and a Detail of Duty.

Rev. John L. Scudder, pastor of the First Congregational church and director of the People's Palace, Jersey City, famous as the "boxing and wrestling parson," is now a member of the Jersey City Police Department. He was enrolled shortly after midnight today, when the Board of Police Commissioners granted his request for police powers and instructed Chief Murphy to give him badge No. 238.

"I want police power to preserve order in the People's Palace if it becomes necessary to handle disturbers. The immediate demand for the badge and the authority of a policeman is in my hunt for a thief, or thieves who have been stealing from lockers of the gymnasium," said Dr. Scudder to a reporter. "I am on the trial and, while I do not profess to be a Sherlock Holmes, I think I will soon have the guilty ones in hand. When I do I want to be in a position to place him or them under arrest."

WOULD PROVIDE FREE BUSINESS SCHOOLING.

Authorities Think That Students Should Not Have to Go to Private Institutions.

The report of the High School Inspection Department of the New Jersey State Board of Education, now in the hands of Governor Stokes, favors a four-year public school course in business system to students electing to take it.

Inspector Louis Bevier recommends adopting, as soon as possible, this four-year course, saying that the public demands it. He calls attention to the thriving business colleges all over New Jersey and says that this education should be offered free instead of forcing high school pupils to take up other studies, and then spend a few years or a few months in business schools.

The report says that reciprocity has been established with the New York State high schools so that a certificate from a New Jersey high school will be accepted in that State for those who are to enter on professional studies.

A DAVID AND GOLIATH FIGHT.

Boy Slays a Seven-Foot Giant With a Small Stone.

Columbia, Mo., Dec. 30.—Mitchell Shadrick, seven feet in height, was killed Monday four miles west of Columbia by an eighteen-year-old boy, Henry Jonas, who brought Shadrick down with a stone no larger than a walnut, thrown from a distance of forty feet. Shadrick had struck at a younger brother of Jonas, and, it is asserted, picking up a club with the intention of assaulting the latter.

The stone thrown at the giant struck him behind the left ear, and after running about in a circle for several minutes he suddenly fell down dead.

The friends of Jonas refer to the encounter as the fight between David and Goliath.

MURDERER TO GOVERNOR.

Rosa Writes to Executive Denying Crime.

Hackensack, Dec. 30.—Jerry Rosa, the young Sicilian prisoner in the county jail here, who, with Mrs. Antoinette Tolla, has been sentenced to be hanged on January 12, received a visit from his counsel, former Prosecutor Peter W. Stagg, Monday. The two held a whispered interview in the corridor of the men's ward. When the lawyer left he carried a letter written by Rosa to Governor Stokes, denying the crime with which he is charged and giving reasons why he thought his conviction was unjust.

Trenton, Dec. 30.—Governor Stokes has not received any letter from Jerry Rosa as yet.

John Lyness, of West Second street, has been visiting his mother at Glen Gardner.

CLEANLY WOMAN.

Erroneously Thinks by Scouring Her Scalp That She Cures Dandruff.

Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring the scalp, which removes the dandruff scales, she is curing the dandruff. She may wash her scalp every day, and yet have dandruff her life long, accompanied by falling hair, too. The only way in the world to cure dandruff is to kill the dandruff germ, and there is no hair preparation that will do that but Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide by killing the dandruff germ, leaves the hair free to grow as healthy Nature intended. Destroy the cause you remove the effect. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

Next Monday evening Fay Templeton will make her first appearance in New York as "Plain Mary" at the New Amsterdam theatre in Klaw & Erlanger's production of George M. Cohan's extraordinarily successful music play, "45 Minutes from Broadway." This piece was first presented at the Colonial theatre in Chicago several months ago and since then has held the stage at that house, playing to the largest attendance on record for any entertainment of its kind in the history of the American stage. In the first eight weeks its receipts exceeded $100,000. Such attendance is most convincing proof of a genuine hit. This play is by the author of "Little Johnny Jones" and possesses in its book, lyrics and music the same magnetic genius that characterized that great hit. The locale of the scenes is New Rochelle. The story is told in three acts and concerns an ideal servant girl, played by Miss Templeton, a villainous stock broker, a young millionaire, a soubrette, a mercenary mother and a retired prize fighter. It is dramatically very strong. There are but four musical numbers in it. The opposite role to that acted by Miss Templeton, "Kid Burns," a retired prize fighter, is played by Vincent Moore, and is drawn on somewhat similar lines to "The Unknown" in "Little Johnny Jones." Everyone who saw that piece will readily recall that the part was only second in importance to that played by Mr. Cohan himself. Klaw & Erlanger have given the piece a very creditable production and have surrounded Miss Templeton with a talented company which includes Louis Ewell, Julia Ralph, Marion, Singer, Donald Brian, Chas. Prince, James H. Manning, Maurice Elliott, Nat Royster and Mabel Ellis.

Richard Carle begins the fifth week of his engagement in "The Mayor of Tokio" at the New York theatre next Monday. The talented young player-playwright has firmly established himself as a Broadway star, and, in future, will play annual engagements in New York. On Christmas night the largest audience in the history of the New York theatre crowded into the house and when the receipts were counted, it was found they reached $1,981.00, which establishes a new record at the New York theatre under the prevailing prices. "The Mayor of Tokio" will continue at the New York for another fortnight and will then go en tour, beginning with a return date in Philadelphia, where Mr. Carle and his company have already scored a hit. Mr. Carle will be followed by Lew Dockstader and his great company of minstrels.

"The Gingerbread Man" begins its second week at the Liberty theatre next Monday evening, where it has made a marked success through its magnificent production, novelty of book, brilliancy of music, talent of company and general merit as an entertainment. This bright attraction will be followed on Monday evening, January 8, by the Rev. Thomas Dixons new play, "The Clansman." This piece has attracted more attention than any play produced in the past five years and has provoked more controversy than any but "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It deals with the racial question in the South, where a company now touring in this drama has created a sensation. The production at the Liberty is a special one and will present a notable company, formed expressly to play this piece in New York. Holbrook Blinn, who made a great hit in London and New York as Napoleon in "The Duchess of Dantzic," will play the role of Austin Stoneman, the stage prototype of Thaddeus Stevens.

SOMEWHAT PERSONAL.

Mr. "Bob" Davis, of Hudson county, is another one of those bosses who refuse to stay dead.

Admiral Rojestvensky has reached home in time to wish he hadn't.

Before District Attorney Moran, of Boston, started in to imitate Jerome he should have borrowed a little common sense somewhere.

It seems that Odell hasn't yet received permission to know that he's licked.

Perhaps they arrested that New York bank teller for stealing two $5 gold pieces in order to examine into his mental condition.

Those anti-foreign rioters are liable to be Shanhaied if the American and British marines get at 'em.

So the rumor that a wealthy candy manufacturer was to be appointed Police Commissioner of New York was only "taffy" after all.

The United States weather forecaster at Baker City, Ore., has been declared insane because he made some "queer predictions." If this were taken as precedent what a clearing out of prophets there would be!

The Lackawanna might not have such an affinity for fire if it could profit by experience and build its structures of steel and concrete and such.

Why not make the maximum penalty for deliberate murder "imprisonment until released?"

Ex-Governor Odell attacking Ex-Governor Roosevelt must be construed as another joke.

Miss Bertha Mitchell, of Grant avenue, has been removed to the hospital, where she will be operated upon for appendicitis.

NEW YEAR MAY BRING AN ADVANCE OF $2 TO $3 A TON FOR FINISHED STEEL

New York, Dec. 30.—It is now taken for granted that steel prices will be advanced with the coming of the new year. This statement applies to the manufactured articles, such as tin plate, sheet steel, wire goods and plates. Probably the first of the list to be advanced will be sheet steel and tin plates. The advance in the price of pig tin, which is now selling at high record prices, it is stated, will necessitate an advance in tin plate and sheet bars. The advance will be $2 to $3 a ton.

As to wire goods best authorities in the steel trade state that it will be exceedingly difficult to maintain prices at the present level. The demand is abnormally large and it is expected that a slight advance in prices will occur early in January. The same condition applies to the plate and structural lines.

The policy of the Steel Corporation in regard to advancing prices may be summarized in the statement that the management will oppose advances to figures which hay restrict or tend to create cautionary measures on the part of the consumers. So far the Steel Trust has been successful in promoting an even schedule of prices, thus making consumers confident. When prices are abnormally high the conservative manufacturer usually cuts down his commitments.

100,000 SKILLED MEN IN NEW YORK CITY SIGN TRADE AGREEMENTS FROM JAN. 1

New York, Dec. 30.—No workers were happier Christmas than the 100,000 skilled men in the building trades, when it was announced that every union, with the exception of the Housesmiths and Bridgemen's, had signed a trade agreement of from one to three years, to go into effect on January 1 next.

By this action the unions have officially repudiated the strike of the structural iron workers.

In many of the trades the prevailing wage will continue for the coming year. The wages of the house carpenters, however, will be increased thirty cents a day, and the cabinet makers will receive an increase of twenty-one cents a day, beginning next July.

The trade agreements now date from January 1 instead of May, as heretofore. This step was taken because the employers do not want strikes on their hands on May 1, when the busy building season begins.

WAS NO JOKE, BUT A REAL BURGLAR.

Woman Nurse Discovered Her Mistake When Robber Put Pistol to Her Face.

Miss May Flint, a trained nurse from New York, who is caring for a sick child of Mrs. Margaret E. Callaghan at Grantwood-on-the-Palisades, engaged in conversation Monday night with a masked burglar. She thought the man was Mrs. Callaghan's brother, Peter H. McArdle, a cowboy and pistol shot, who is on a visit from the West.

After flashing a dark lantern in the face of the nurse, who was sleeping with the sick child, the masked intruder demanded her money.

"You can't frighten me, Peter," she said; "so you may as well go to your bed."

"My young lady I'm not trying to frighten you," the man said. "I want your money, and that quick."

"Oh, go way, Peter," the nurse replied; "that joke don't go with me. I don't frighten just a little bit."

"If you don't give up your money pretty quick," the masked man said, with an oath, "you will find it no joke."

Then he pushed a revolver in Miss Flint's face. The nurse then realized that it was no joke and told the burglar what her occupation was and that she had no money.

The burglar then went into Mrs. Callaghan's room. She at once felt for her revolver, which it was her custom to keep under her pillow. For the first time in years it was not there. Mrs. Callaghan is the widow of a New York policeman and spent several years in Cripple Creek. She is an expert with a revolver.

She couldn't shoot, so she screamed. This aroused her brother and he son arrived with his magazine revolver, but the burglar was gone. All he secured was a purse with 10 pennies in it.

LAW FAVORS RAILROADS.

Passengers Cannot Buy Excursion Tickets When in the Cars.

A railroad need not accommodate a passenger by selling him an excursion ticket on a train when the starting point office is closed. There seems to be no law in New Jersey to compel railroads to sell such tickets at all, as they are bargains sold at a reduced rate.

This was the ruling yesterday of Justice Fort, at New Brunswick, in a suit brought by John Doyle, of No. 57 John street, that city, who was ejected from a Pennsylvania Railroad train and arrested at Rahway last October after refusing to pay a one-way fare from New Brunswick to New York.

He claimed the local office had been closed before the owl train, on which he wanted to ride, arrived. He demanded that the conductor sell him a round-trip ticket. When ejected, arrested and fined at Rahway, he began suit against the railroad for $1,950 damages.

INTERESTED IN MURDERESS.

Transcript of Mrs. Tolla's Case Sent to Governor.

Trenton, Dec. 30.—Governor Stokes recently asked Ernest Koester, prosecutor of Bergen county, to send him an outline of the case of Mrs. Antoinette Tolla, who was sentenced to be hanged on January 12, and yesterday received a bulky package containing a transcript of the proceedings in the case.

The Governor has received many letters pleading that the sentence of death be commuted to life imprisonment.

WATCH FIGURES IN ALIENATION SUIT.

Defendant's Timepiece, 'Tis Said, Was Twice Left in Woman's Room.

The suit of David Sessler, of No. 471 Clinton street, West Hoboken, against Dr. David Menger, Town Physician of Union Hill, for $15,000 damages for the alleged alienation of the affections of Sessler's wife, was tried yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Jonathan M. Dixon and a jury in Jersey City.

Sessler and his daughter, Telka, fifteen years old, testified that Dr. Menger's watch was twice found in Mrs. Sessler's room. Once they returned the watch to Dr. Menger's wife, and the second time to him.

Then Sessler found Dr. Menger's surgical outfit in Mrs. Sessler's room. After Sessler had gone home and found his wife and Dr. Menger together he separated from his wife and decided to bring the suit.

The defense was that Dr. Menger had visited Mrs. Sessler in a professional way only to treat her children for tonsilitis. Dr. Menger said he did not recall having left his watch in the Sessler house, but if he had done so it was after using the watch in the treatment of a patient, as in counting the pulse.

Rev. Isaac W. Gowan, of the Grove Reformed church, of North Bergen, and others testified to the good reputation of Dr. Menger.

The trial was not ended.

CARTS OFF THE DEVIL.

Stone Image of Satan Seized to Satisfy a Writ of Replevin.

Detroit, Dec. 30.—The stone devil which caused such a furore when Herman Menz erected it in front of his home two months ago, met an inglorious fate yesterday. Two constables lugged it off to satisfy a writ of replevin sworn to by Warren West, of Yosilanti, for wages claimed to be due him for work including sculpturing the hapless Old Harry.

All the members of the Menz family resisted the officers of the law with many threats and imprecations, Menz himself wishing them more than once in the abode of the original of the statue, but the constables only grinned, dumped the statue into a brick cart and carried it away.

Several times Menz attempted to smash the image to pieces with a mallet, but was prevented by the constables and a couple of policement. The statue will be held in storage until the claim is settled.

Suicide in State Prison.

Trenton, Dec. 30.—Leon Breton, thirty-six years old, a Passaic county prisoner sentenced to twelve years for atrocious assult, committed suicide in the State prison here last night by hanging himself to a rope tied to the grating of his cell. So determined was the man to die that he doubled up his legs when he found that the rope allowed him to stand on the floor and strangulation occurred in less than ten minutes from the time a guard last saw him.

PRESIDENT OFF FOR "A GENUINE REST."

With Mrs. Roosevelt and the Children He Goes to Her Virginia Country Place.

Washington, Dec. 30.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt and the children Ethel, Kermit and Archie left at 11:30 yesterday morning for Pine Knob, the country home of Mrs. Roosevelt in Albermarle county, Va., and arrived at North Garden, eleven miles from the place, at 2:40 p. m. They will return to Washington late Sunday night. They traveled over the Southern Railroad in the special car Rover, attached to the regular train, accompanied by M. C. Latt, the President's personal stenographer, and James Sloan, his Secret Service guard.

The President announced that he was going to Pine Knob for a "genuine rest;" that while he and Mrs. Roosevelt will do considerable horseback riding over the fine roads in the vicinity of the estate, he does not expect to do any hunting. Archie and Kermit took guns with them and will go after small game. Archie took with him the President's dog Skip, which attended him on his bear-hunting trip in Colorado.

William Wilmer, whose estate adjoins Mrs. Roosevelt's, was at the station to see the party off. He requested the President and Mrs. Roosevelt to use his horses, as the Roosevelt horses are in Washington.

Miss Alice Roosevelt and Theodore, Jr., are in charge at the White House. Miss Roosevelt has a number of young friends visiting her, and this afternoon she went automobile riding with them. Theodore also has several of his college chums as his guests. They went to the theatre this afternoon.

Theodore will join his father and mother at Pine Knob tomorrow and remain with them until they return.

NOT OBLIGED TO SELL ROUND-TRIP TICKETS.

Justice Fort So Decides in Suit Against Pennsylvania Railroad, Which Wins Its Case.

New Brunswick, Dec. 30.—According to the ruling of Justice Fort in his charge to the jury in the case of John Boyle against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, a railroad company is under no moral or legal obligation to sell a round-trip or excursion ticket, either on its trains or at a station ticket office. Upon this ground Justice Fort directed the jury to return a verdict in favor of the defendant company Wednesday afternoon. Boyle is a local business man who was ejected from a train of the defendant company because he refused to pay a single fare at the first class rate when the conductor refused to issue an excursion ticket to him.

Boyle declared the station ticket office was closed and on this ground demanded an excursion ticket, Pennsylvania Railroad conductors issuing such tickets under certain conditions. The ticket was refused him and he was ejected from the train at Rahway, arrested, kept over night in jail and fined $8. The railroad company's defense was a denial of his right to demand the ticket and also a claim that the ticket wos open just prior to the departure of the train on which he was a passenger. Justice Fort charged the jury that the law made it obligatory upon the railroad company to sell a person a ticket between two points, but did not impose the obligation to sell an excursion or any other kind of ticket at a reduced price. Upon this ground he directed a verdict for the defense. The case will be appealed.

CONGRESS OF CITIES.

Sir Edwin Cornwall Has Scheme for Municipal Improvement.

London, Dec. 30.—Sir Edwin Cornwall, chairman of the London County Council, announces that it is his desire to promote a periodical congress of the municipalities of the world's largest cities. He explains in a long letter to a Vienna newspaper that the idea was inspired by the success of the recent visit to London of the Paris municipal ocers.

He believes much mutual benefit would result from meetings of representatives of capitals exceeding half a million in population. On this basis the first congress would include London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Budapest, Rome, St. Petersburg, Madrid and Constantinople, and, Sir Edwin adds, "if our American friends do us the honor to join," New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

The primary object will be to discuss and study problems common to all large centres of population. If the proposition is favorably received Sir Edwin hopes to invite a congress to meet in London next year.

Railroads Pay Up Taxes.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 30.—Under a new law, passed at the special session, requiring railroad companies to pay up back taxes before contesting assessments in courts, the Northwestern yesterday paid $225,834 taxes for 1905, and the St. Paul paid $464,258 taxes and interest for 1904 and 1905. It is said that all the smaller roads will follow. The tax of 1904 for the Northwestern is in litigation as a test case by agreement of the State and railroads. If the State loses, the difference between the present assessed tax and the old license figures will be refunded.

NEW YEAR'S DAY WILL BE QUIET LOCALLY

CELEBRATION TO BE CONFINED TO RECEPTION AND DANCES.

New Year's day will be passed quietly in the city and borough. Though there are numerous celebrations of a private nature on the calendar there are no public affairs scheduled.

The Park Club will have "open house" in the afternoon from 3 until 6 and at night the usual juniors' dance will be held. Another society dance will be conducted by the Country Club at the Casino, continuing its series of "dinner" affairs.

The reception planned to mark the opening of the new High School has been postponed because of other arrangements made by the Board of Education. It will instead be held on Washington's birthday.

The usual New Year's reception will be given at Saengerbund Hall by the Gesang and Turn Verein and the members will entertain friends from out of town. "Open house" will be observed at the Y. M. C. A. and at night one of the Star Course entertainments will be given in the large hall. The features are to be Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith and the Lotus Glee Club.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel will conduct a New Year's reception at night when an informal programme will be given.

Matinee and night performances will be given at the New Plainfield theatre, the attraction being a strong melodrama, "At the World's Mercy."

The city and borough Councils will meet for re-organization, the former at night and the latter in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Watch night services will be held tomorrow night by several of the local churches, the most elaborate programme having been arranged by the Monroe Avenue congregation.

PARK AVE. WIDENING WILL COST $2,483

WIDENING SYCAMORE AVENUE $748; OPENING STEBBINS PLACE $378.

Elliott T. Barrows, Evarts Tracy and L. G. Timpson, commissioners appointed by the Common Council to treat with the property-owners in the matter of widening Park avenue, between Second street and the railroad; Sycamore avenue, between Fourth and Fifth streets, and the opening of Stebbins place, submitted their report at the special meeting of the Common Council, last night.

In each case the commissioners reported their inability to agree with the property-owners affected and were obliged to make assessments for benefits and damages on as equitable basis as possible.

The commissioners reported that the cost of the Park avenue widening would be $2,483, that of widening Sycamore street, $748, and for the opening of Stebbins place, $348. Resolutions were offered by Mr. Wilson, chairman of the street committee, confirming the work of the commissioners and the same were adopted.

Not one of the affected property-owners appeared to speak for or against the proposed improvements.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Men's Club of the First Baptist church will hold its next meeting on Monday night, January 8.

The Young People's Society of the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church held a successful Christmas entertainment Thursday night. There were selections by a stringed orchestra, a duette by Miss Hulda Peterson and Miss Gerda Carlson. Joseph Tinglof recited a Christmas story and Miss Hanna Brandt gave piano solos.

Rev. Theodore Englund, the pastor, made a short address telling of the "Wise Men from the East," who followed the Star of Bethlehem until they found the King of Judah and worshipping Him laid their gifts at His feet. He urged the young people to follow their example. After the address an offering was received for a missionary in Mangolia.

The church was decorated with Christmas greens and during the evening a tree was lighted. The affair was in charge of a committee from the Young Poeple's Society.

The pupils of Hope chapel Sunday-school held their annual Christmas entertainment, last night. The Sunday-school room was filled and the large gathering greatly enjoyed the programme.

It was given under the direction of Superintendent Squires and the feature was the appearance of J. Wotley Gangloff, of New York. He kept everyone laughing with dialect stories, character impersonations and selections from Bill Nye, Eugene Field and other well known authors. In addition an address of welcome was given by Hazel Todd; Miss Mary Hubbell and Mrs. L. R. Howard contributed vocal solos and Rev. L. R. Howard made an address.

The members of the primary department were presented with dolls and chatterboxes, while the main school received candy and oranges.

The committee which had the affair in charge consisted of I. W. Travell, chairman; Dr. and Mrs. P. B. Cregar, Miss Edna Burr, Miss Emily Williams, Thomas M. Muir, Benjamin Evans and James Penney.

Service at Swedish Church.

The Young People's Society of the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church will hold a meeting in the church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. A watch night service will be held at night, beginning at 9:30, continuing until after midnight. The week of prayer will be observed the following week with meetings in the church every evening at 8 o'clock.

OFFERINGS FOR HOSPITAL

Collections Fcr Muhlenberg in Churches of Both City and Borough Tomorrow Morning.

INSTITUTION'S WORK

What the Hospital Has Done—Supported Solely by Contributions—Its Claim on the Community.

Muhlenberg Hospital makes its annual appeal to the people of Plainfield through collections taken up at the different churches tomorrow morning. It is hoped by the management that the response this year will be even more liberal than it has been in the past, because of the increased expense involved in maintaining the hospital. This increased expense has been made necessary by the increased business done at the hospital, as the following figures will show:

Hospital patients treated, 1904, 266; 1905, 364; increase, 98; hospital days, 1904, 4,255; 1905, 5,596; increase, 1.341; hospital operations, 1904, 189; 1905, 265; increase, 76; dispensary patients, 1904, 250; 1905, 284; increase 34; dispensary patients' visits, 1904, 689; 1905, 850; increase, 161; dispensary patients' operations, 1904, 40; 1905, 50; increase, 10; ambulance calls, 1904, 63; 1905, 103; increase, 40.

The figures show that nearly 100 more patients were treated during the past year than the year previous and that there were seventy-six more operations performed and 161 additional dispensary patients' visits.

The great work done by this hospital in the cause of humanity is apparent to every one in this vicinity who has taken the trouble to look into the matter. It is a source of pride that Plainfield should be equipped with so representative and beneficent an institution as Muhlenberg Hospital. It is entirely a charitable institution, paid for and supported through voluntary contributions. No one who is ill or injured and cannot afford to pay for service is rejected from this institution, and yet an effort is always made, and very successfully, to collect from patients who are able to pay for treatment.

A large number of persons who can afford to do so, make regular contributions for the support of the hospital, but the aggregate of these contributions does not suffice to pay for the expense incurred. No amount, however small, will be rejected and everything contributed will be received with gratitude, and the giver may be assured that his mite, whatever it may be, goes to a good, humanitarian purpose. These annual collections taken up in the churches afford a means by which the public generally have an opportunity to give something to this institution. The members of the finance committee earnestly solicit the co-operation of the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield, and they wish to express their gratitude for the very generous response that has always followed this annual appeal.

James M. Keenan, for many years a well known resident of the city, died at his home on East Fifth street at 7 o'clock this morning. He had been ailing for many months and the past three or four was confined to his bed. Stomach trouble was the immediate cause of death.

BEQUESTS ARE VOID BUT HEIRS WILL PAY

MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL AND CHILDREN'S HOME GET $25,000.

Notwithstanding that the Court of Chancery has rendered a decision declaring the late Mrs. Catherine Hegeman's bequest of $25,000 to Muhlenberg Hospital and the Children's Home Association to be void, the heirs will pay over the money to the institutions. The court ruled that the clause in the will should be annulled and that the relatives should receive the property.

Mrs. Hegemen died several years ago and a provision in her will left the interest on the remainder of her estate, $25,000, to her husband on condition that at his death, he should distribute it to such charitable, benevolent or religious objects as he might select. When he died he provided that any portion of his wife's estate that came to him by virtue of the clause in her will should be divided equally between Muhlenberg Hospital and the Chidren's Home.

It was contended that this provision was probably void, and the Court of Chancery was appealed to to construe the will in that respect. The court has decreed that the provision is void, because of the incompleteness of the clause, it not being possible for Mrs. Hegeman to delegate by will the power to make the selections of the objects.
